SCHOOL PONDERS BUILDER PROMISE

Donations To Wilson May Stop

What is a builder's responsibility to the community in which he builds his homes?

This is the question being pondered this week by board of education members of Wilson school district 24.

The builder in question is Albert E. Riley, builder of Hasbrook subdivision in north Arlington Heights.

The responsibility arises from a sudden influx of students into district 24's single school—many of whom come from the 300 home Hasbrook area. New students mean new classrooms, new teachers, new custodial help, and larger playgrounds—but who's to pay for the expansion?

UP UNTIL June of this year it appeared that Riley would bear a substantial share of the cost—$175.00 donated to the school district for each house sold in the subdivision.

This was agreed to by Riley in a letter written to the school board in August, 1957 in which he expressed an appreciation of the problems caused by rapid growth. He also agreed to donate four acres of land to the district.

By 1960 Riley had donated over $20,000 to the district. Then he began getting behind in his payments. This spring he had fallen over $20,000 behind.

In April Riley met with the school board, presented them with a check for $5,250 and a schedule of payments for the $17,500 balance he owed.

He made a May payment of $4,375 bringing the total Hasbrook contribution to $33,950.

THEN payments stopped. An Illinois Supreme court decision handed down in March held that school districts could not coerce or pressure a builder into donating money to a school district. Riley claimed he had been pressured into entering into an agreement with district 24.

The planned 500 home subdivision would have given the district $87,500—$53,550 more than it has gotten from Riley.

Supt. Robert Parsons says the district has planned on the payments and now faces many financial headaches. The money would have gone for a full time speech correctionist, lockers, perhaps toward a kindergarten.

"We just don't know where we stand now. We may have to issue tax anticipation warrants, something we've never done before," notes Parsons.

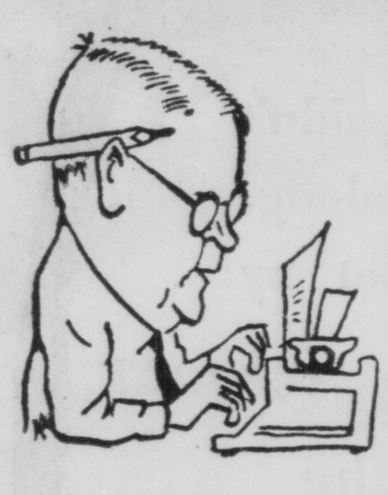
Editor's Column



STUART R. PADDOCK

Our 13th Congressional district has swelled to new population peaks, as evidenced by the 1960 census figures. A contributor to this week's Fence Post column suggests that the district, with a population of nearly 1 million, should be divided into two Congressional districts.

He suggests one district for Evanston and New Trier townships and all Lake county — the territory which is strongly Republican. The remaining northwest Cook county townships would comprise the second district. This is an area which has shown increasing strength for the Democratic party.

Such a change would require action by the state legislature. If enacted, it would give Democrats a fighting chance to increase their strength in the House of Representatives.

Partisan considerations notwithstanding, it's obvious that one million suburbanites deserve increased representation in Washington. It will be interesting to observe the reaction of the two parties if the issue comes before the Illinois legislature.

Every year about this time we urge property owners to pay their taxes to the township collector. The excess commission goes to the township, which in turn lowers or eliminates its township tax. Need we say more?

We have never heard a Presidential acceptance speech that displayed as much humility and insight as the one delivered Thursday night by Richard Nixon. Devoid of the customary partisan promises never meant to be kept, it demonstrated to us the full measure of Nixon's greatness and maturity.

In our estimation, the GOP could make effective use of tape recordings of that speech.

It will be a tough and tight election battle, one which will be exciting to follow. Republican workers in suburbs have a stiff challenge awaiting them in the fall campaign. Is the GOP ready and willing to wage a vigorous, well-organized campaign in northwest townships? This is one election when Republicans can't afford to take suburban strength for granted.

A pastor told us Sunday that we should "love people and use things, not love things and use people."

Too many of us are guilty of the latter.

Here's a tip to motorists. When you are given a traffic or violation ticket, just say "thank you." The chief in one of the northwest municipalities has let it be known that if a police officer does not see at least one violation a day he is really not taking a proper interest in his job.

Of course, we all want them to be good policemen.

POLICE CARRY body of 5-year-old Betsy Benham from weed-grown vacant lot Saturday morning. The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Benham, of Sixth and Strong sts., Wheeling, was reported missing from her home Friday night. Searchers found her body at 8 a.m. Saturday.

Confesses to Murder

Boy's Age and Size Puzzled Policemen

"We were looking for an older, tougher person, and then we find this comparatively small boy did it," Capt. George Howlett told Paddock Publications Wednesday in referring to the 13-year-old boy charged with the slaying of Betsy Benham, 5, of Wheeling township.

Harold Dalibozak of Chicago, reportedly confessed Tuesday afternoon that he killed Betsy shortly after he escaped from the Wheeling police department. He was being questioned by the suburb's police in connection with the theft of $82.

Betsy was strangled Friday night in a vacant lot near her home at Sixth and Strong sts., some 300 feet outside Wheeling village limits.

DALIBOZAK, of 4258 N. Winchester, Chicago, signed an 8-page statement describing the crime. A brother and sister of the murdered girl identified Dalibozak as the boy they saw loitering near their home about the time Betsy was discovered missing Friday night.

Wheeling police received a complaint from Walter Such, of 37 Birch st., Carpentersville, last Thursday afternoon. Such said a boy "who talked funny" had stolen $82 from his wallet while he worked on a construction job at Wheeling's Mark Twain school.

Police picked up Dalibozak Friday at 3:30 p.m. on Rt. 83 near Wheeling rd. in the village. It was learned he was a runaway and that the bicycle he was riding was stolen.

HE WAS TAKEN to the police station, and while officers questioned the complainant, the teenager slipped out a rear window. He was recaptured at 7:35 p.m. at McHenry rd. and Rt. 83 by reserve policemen Fred J. Kasperi and Harold G. Quiram.

A complaint charging the slim, brown-haired boy with murder was signed Tuesday by Police Magistrate Robert Buckley of Arlington Heights. He was then taken to the hospital section of the county jail to await an inquest called for Wednesday.

Dalibozak told Sheriff Sain he killed Betsy during his hour and a half of freedom from Wheeling police "because she threw apples at me and called me names."

He said he walked west to Strong st. after leaving the police station, and came upon Betsy and her playmates. They asked him to climb a tree in the yard of Sgt. Ray Widing, of the Wheeling police, to get them apples.

WHEN HE tossed apples down to the younger children, they began throwing them at him, he said. He left the yard, but was followed by Betsy. The slaying followed.

Dalibozak came to Chicago from West Berlin five years ago with his father, Heinz Dalibozak, 45, a tool and die maker, and his stepmother, Elna, 44. He had run away from home several times before.

He fled most recently on July 24 and headed for the northwest suburbs. He slept in parked cars in forest preserve areas, and attracted the attention of police July 28 when he committed the theft.

Betsy, the daughter of Dallas and Alberta Benham, of Sixth and Strong sts., was buried Monday afternoon in Ridgewood cemetery. She is also survived by a brother, Ben, 9, and two sisters, Jessica, 7, and Dale, 3.

Pedestrian Is Killed By Train

A man identified as H. R. Jaworski was killed by a Chicago and North Western railway deisel at the Arlington Park railroad station Monday, August 1, at 9:35 p.m.

Jaworski was walking across the tracks heading south when the train, traveling west at 40 miles per hour, hit him and threw him into a ditch.

He was pronounced dead upon arrival at Northwest Community hospital at 10 p.m. Jaworski, whose address is unknown, worked at the race track.

Not Much Happens . . .

Lifeguards Seldom Have to Save Lives

If you want to be a lifeguard, take a second look before applying at Recreation or Pioneer park in Arlington Heights.

Chances are you will never save a life.

With the summer two thirds over, 15 of the park district's 16 guards have yet to get wet during working hours.

"Not much has happened this year," explained Warren Phillips, a guard at Recreation park.

Phillips, who lives at 3 Robb rd., Mt. Prospect, recalled that last year he rescued a little girl who went off the diving board without knowing how to swim.

"THE GIRL followed her mother off the diving board," he said, "and was doing fine until the mother asked her if she could swim."

Bill Appleby, recreation director for the Arlington Heights park district, remarked that there had been only one close call in Arlington Heights this year.

A child wandered into water over his head at Pioneer park, but was brought to the deck and did not require artificial respiration.

At other pools, he noted, there are often two or three close calls a day.

"Maybe it's because of the layout, or because the pool is so heavily guarded," Appleby thought.

He explained that the pool is well-marked, and eight guards are on duty. Toddlers have a separate wading pool.

APPLEBY NOTED that the guards go through a rigorous training period, including 18 sessions in a senior lifesaving course.

"And," he said, pulling out a folder full of rejected job applicants, "only the top candidates are selected."

BOB MORS, head lifeguard at Recreation park, gives a warning blast to a mischievous swimmer. Mors described horseplay as the number one problem of the Arlington Heights park district's 16 lifeguards.

Bob Mors, head lifeguard at Recreation park, described the summer as uneventful except for the usual problem of horseplay. He has made seven "pull-outs" in his five years as a lifeguard, but none this year.

Youngsters running on the deck, trying to dunk someone, or splashing excessively keep him and the other guards fairly busy, he said.

MOST OF the trouble, Mors noted, comes from the 12-15 age group.

He described the whistle as the guard's best friend. "It's not blown just to be blown," Mors explained. "We are trying to prevent an accident before it happens."

Mors and Phillips agreed that boredom is the lifeguard's bane.

"Sitting in the sun on a hot, sweaty day without being able to go into the water is frustrating," Phillips said.

Church Bell Issue Is Revived by Petitions

Our Lady of the Wayside church's two tons of bells boomed their way into the village hall again this week in the form of a petition signed by 65 Arlington Heights residents requesting that the bells not be rung before 9 a.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

Accompanying the petition was a handful of homeowners from the village's southwest side who heard their spokesman, L. S. Larson, 425 S. Highland, term the bells a "public nuisance" and "an invasion of privacy."

Larson told village trustees at Monday night's board meeting that the bells are "like a big alarm clock right outside my window."

THE THREE bells (costing $10,000) began ringing last Easter. They are rung daily starting at 7 a.m.

Homeowners in the vicinity of the church met with Father O'Hara, parish priest, hoping to have the bells rung at a later hour on the weekends. No luck. The priest maintained it would be too complicated to change the timing mechanism back and forth.

Trustee Wendell Prunty next wrote to Father O'Hara and asked what could be done. No luck. Father O'Hara didn't acknowledge the letter. The priest told Paddock Publications he had checked with some Protestants in the neighborhood and found they enjoyed the bells. He further noted the ringing time would not be changed.

Prunty then asked Village Manager L. A. Hanson to see what he could do about getting the bells rung at a later hour. Hanson reported last month. No luck.

ANOTHER SMALL group was on hand Monday night to support the bells. A parish member, Kay Munro, 542 S. Mitchell, noted that the bells "ought to remind us of the Liberty Bell and the freedom to ring bells in this country."

To which Trustee Prunty replied, "I don't need liberty at that hour. I need peace and quiet. I was here before the bells, and I don't think they should be allowed to change our way of life."

To which Mrs. Munro's husband, Raymond, replied, "I'd like to point out we, too, lived here before the bells, and they don't bother us. I've lived in other communities where bells ring regularly."

PRUNTY'S motion that a committee be appointed to look into the matter died for lack of a second.

Both trustees and petitioners agreed that they didn't want to see the question turned into a religious issue.

Approval was finally given Trustee William Sauer's motion that the village manager give it another try. A report on his success or lack of it will likely be given the first Monday in September.

Meanwhile, Trustee Prunty noted: "If anyone doubts the impact (of the bells), I'll invite them over and furnish the coffee and rolls."

Jr. College Need Not Pressing Yet

District 214 school board decided Monday that the area needs high schools more than a junior college.

George Wilkins, state superintendent of public instruction, recently set up a board to study the needs for junior colleges in Illinois communities.

"The district doesn't have time to deal with a junior college; there are still high schools to be built," said H. L. Slichenmyer, district 214 superintendent, in expressing the board's decision. "Our first goal is to put up four more high schools."

"We're all for a junior college in the area when the time is right," he added.

SLICHENMYER stated that students in this area have yet to encounter difficulties in getting into college, although they do not always gain admittance to their first choice.

He noted that district 214, largest in Cook county, will have enough students to support a junior college if one should be built in the future.

Establishment of a junior college for a given area would come only after a referendum supporting it. State law requires that a study of the area's needs be conducted prior to holding a referendum.

There are 18 publicly-supported junior colleges in operation in Illinois.

Three Wheels Puzzle Police

Arlington Heights police were startled this week by sparks shooting from beneath a car until they noted the auto was driving down the Northwest hwy. on only three wheels.

The driver, halted at State rd., explained he threw his fourth wheel at Miner st. and was looking for a garage.

Republicans to Woo Suburbs

Representing more than 50 million citizens, America's new suburbs make a major change in politics inevitable. Traditionally Republican suburbs have been severely challenged in recent years by a revitalized Democratic party.

How is the GOP meeting that challenge? What impact is the suburban population "explosion" having on partisan politics? What is the GOP's future in suburbs? Are Republicans losing ground to suburban Democrats? Is suburbia influencing or reshaping GOP programs and policies? How are Republican leaders meeting the challenge of this new decade? What role will suburbs play in the November elections?

To find answers to these questions, Paddock Publications last week assigned Tom McShane, staff writer, to the 1960 Republican National Convention. Accompanied by Larry Cameron, staff photographer, McShane spent two days interviewing and discussing suburban politics with top national Republican officials as well as GOP leaders and workers from suburban areas in New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, California, and Maryland.

Republicans to Woo Suburbs

Representing more than 50 million citizens, America's new suburbs make a major change in politics inevitable. Traditionally Republican suburbs have been severely challenged in recent years by a revitalized Democratic party.

Police Chiefs Warn Parents: Watch Tots

In the wake of the slaying of 5-year-old Betsy Benham in Wheeling, Paddock Publications reporters contacted northwest suburban police chiefs to get their advice in regard to prevention of such crimes.

Comments of area chiefs are as follows:

L. W. Calderwood, chief of Arlington Heights police, pointed to a poster hanging on the wall in his office. The poster listed "don'ts" in rhyme.

It read, "I must not take gifts if strangers offer some. I must not take candy, rides, or gum. To strangers I must never talk. With strangers I must never walk. From the playground I must not roam. And when school is over I must go straight home."

Chief Calderwood said he is attempting to get the poster displayed in both public and private schools in the northwest suburbs. "If you have children," he added, "you've got to know where they are."

LT. ARNOLD Krause, acting chief of the Wheeling police force, said it's amazing "the way kids have disappeared from the streets in Wheeling. Parents are keeping track of their children now, at least temporarily."

He advised parents to keep closer supervision on their kids, know what they're doing.

Chief George Whittenberg, of Mt. Prospect, suggests parents instruct their youngsters to "never stay out after dark, never talk to strangers, and never hesitate to scream if someone tries to molest them."

Donald Foxworthy, police chief in Palatine, has expressed the belief that parents could keep a better watch on their children.

His department reports that police often pick up lost youngsters who can't give their names and who are not reported missing or inquired about by parents for many hours.

CY CAMPBELL, Rolling Meadows police chief, said "Children should be cautioned by their parents, but not scared to death. Frequent and periodic checks should be made on youngsters' whereabouts."

Martin Conroy, chief of police in the village of Schaumburg, accentuated the need for mothers to know where their children are at all times. "I know some parents who don't know where their children are for hours at a time," he said.

Mark Orlick, Hoffman Estates police chief, was unavailable for comment because of illness.

CHIEF EDWARD Clifford, of the Elk Grove Village force, opined that "police should be notified immediately when suspicious persons are seen loitering in a neighborhood.

Disneyland Is Theme Of Giant Water Show

The Arlington Heights park district water show, featuring 150 swimmers, will take place Saturday, August 13, and Sunday, August 14, at 8:15 p.m. at Pioneer park.

Theme of the show, the 15th put on by the park district, is Disneyland H20.

Five facets of Disneyland—Main Street, U.S.A.; and adventure, frontier, tomorrow, and fantasy lands will be portrayed.

A production number, featuring the Main Street theme, will open the show.

Adventure land acts will include six girls dressed as monkeys, four on a surf board, and 24 dressed as natives.

A COWBOY number, a "Slewfoot Sue" dance, and a solo by Jane Schaefer, 25 S. Salem, Arlington Heights, will mark the frontier section of the show.

Incuded in tomorrow land section of the production is a Martian number and a trampoline act by Gary Erwin.

Erwin, a junior at Arlington high school, was the state trampoline champion this year.

Fantasy land will include a number in which 75 beginners in the park district swimming classes will take part. An act featuring Donald Duck and his three nephews and another, entitled "Cinderella's Ball," will also be presented.

A comedy diving act will be put on by four area boys, Dale Hedberg, Doug Vaughan, Bruce Andres, and Jim Anderson.

JERRY ROSS, as announced at the FM station in Arlington Heights, will play the part of Walt Disney and act as master of ceremonies. Jiminy Cricket will be enacted by Hedberg, a June graduate of Arlington high school, who lives at 505 Hillcrest, Prospect Heights.

The swimmers range in age from eight to 18.

Marilyn Schaus, 22 W574 Sycamore, Glen Ellyn, is director of the show. Miss Schaefer is her assistant. Ronna Panek, 825 S. Evergreen, Arlington Heights, directs the modern dance numbers.

No admission will be charged. The more advanced swimmers in the group will appear at the Edgewater Beach hotel August 19.

Police Chiefs Warn Parents: Watch Tots

In the wake of the slaying of 5-year-old Betsy Benham in Wheeling, Paddock Publications reporters contacted northwest suburban police chiefs to get their advice in regard to prevention of such crimes.

Comments of area chiefs are as follows:

L. W. Calderwood, chief of Arlington Heights police, pointed to a poster hanging on the wall in his office. The poster listed "don'ts" in rhyme.

It read, "I must not take gifts if strangers offer some. I must not take candy, rides, or gum. To strangers I must never talk. With strangers I must never walk. From the playground I must not roam. And when school is over I must go straight home."

Chief Calderwood said he is attempting to get the poster displayed in both public and private schools in the northwest suburbs. "If you have children," he added, "you've got to know where they are."

CHIEF L. W. CALDERWOOD points to poster on Arlington Heights police department wall outlining a list of "don'ts" children should observe. The poster was devised by a member of the Highland Park juvenile bureau in 1958, Chief Calderwood said.

LT. ARNOLD Krause, acting chief of the Wheeling police force, said it's amazing "the way kids have disappeared from the streets in Wheeling. Parents are keeping track of their children now, at least temporarily."

He advised parents to keep closer supervision on their kids, know what they're doing.

Chief George Whittenberg, of Mt. Prospect, suggests parents instruct their youngsters to "never stay out after dark, never talk to strangers, and never hesitate to scream if someone tries to molest them."

Donald Foxworthy, police chief in Palatine, has expressed the belief that parents could keep a better watch on their children.

His department reports that police often pick up lost youngsters who can't give their names and who are not reported missing or inquired about by parents for many hours.

CY CAMPBELL, Rolling Meadows police chief, said "Children should be cautioned by their parents, but not scared to death. Frequent and periodic checks should be made on youngsters' whereabouts."

HOW TO PREVENT POISONING

1. Keep all drugs, poisonous articles and household products away from reach of children.
2. Do not store any non-edible products on shelves used for storing food.
3. Keep all poisonous substances in their original containers. Do not transfer them to unlabeled containers.
4. When medicines are discarded destroy them. Do not throw them away where they might be reached by children or pets.
5. When giving flavored or brightly colored medicine to children, always refer to it as medicine — never as candy.
6. Do not take or give any medicine in the dark.
7. Always read the labels before taking any medicines or using any household products. Before we dispense any prescription we check each ingredient at least three times. First, as we take it off the shelf, Second, when we take the medicine out of the container and Third, before we set the bottle down to use the contents. Traveling Teenager Finds London Folk Casual, Genial

by NATALIE McKENZIE

(Last of a Series)

Onward from the city of lights to the city of the Englishman, bulwark of royalty, wellspring of the early American heritage. This is where Marie Martin's travels took her this spring as the last foreign spot on her world voyage.

London, to Marie, was a city of people that are not dried old prunes as often depicted in cartoon sketches and stilted movies. Rather Marie found Londoners casual, almost to the point of seeming blase, but warm, congenial, stimulating.

WITHOUT TWITCHING an eyebrow or grimacing in remembrance, members of the family she lived with for three weeks recalled the war years.

"Say, wasn't there a home across the street last night?" one member asked on a wartime morning. Members of the family trooped to the window to look.

"Sure there was," they all recalled. The house that had been was gone; victim of Nazi bombers.

For a time there was a big Norwegian-manned anti-aircraft gun in her "family's" back yard. They nicknamed the instrument of death, then calmly resumed the routine of living. When the gun sparked destruction to the enemy above, the family would comment that their friend was at it again. Sometimes they couldn't make up their minds whether to go to the basement or not.

"This doesn't mean that the war didn't touch these people," Marie emphasized. The woman lost her husband when he was killed walking home from work one night. Her son was killed in service; highly decorated, very young.

HER "FAMILY" also told of the miles and miles of homes erased during the last year of the war alone. As the Germans launched their attack with a new kind of bomb that spread its destruction horizontally, 200 persons were left homeless at a blow. During the last year the Germans dropped more than 2,000 of these bombs.

Hearing these stories made Marie view this last city of her journey with special awe. She spent even more time alone wandering its streets, window shopping, marveling at the new, yet old city Britishers have made from rubble.

Maire became keenly aware of the difficult -- even impossible -- task of making Americans, who have never lived through it, comprehend war.

Maire tried to get an idea of Londoners' feelings for Americans. This is difficult to do in a short visit. But the best way to talk to people casually in London is to go "pubbing." Pubs are an institution alien to Americans. Darkly lit bars, they are the locale for the evening for anyone who wishes a glass of ale -- served warm, of course -- and local gossip or conversation of philosophy and the world situation.

HERE MARIE learned of the plight Americans and Britons find themselves in. Both are great world powers that find themselves today being challenged for their positions by losers in the war. Both are finding their trade positions precarious because they are willing to sell abundantly to these lands, but unwilling to lower tariff restructions to admit the challengers' products. Naturally the eyes of Germany and Japan wander to other markets -- Red dominated countries. At the same time, both England and America are firmly committed to fighting the giant monolith Communism.

These and many other things Marie learned on her nine-month trip. She admitted she reads the newspapers now — she didn't before. She admitted her small Northwest suburban world is broadened. She has learned by living with people of all viewpoints from many sections of this country. She has learned by living with people of different faiths and different colors in countries abroad.

She has formed contacts across the globe that are enlightening even though she has returned home.

FOR EXAMPLE, a friend of hers from the trip received a letter from a Japanese girl she met. The Japanese girl is a university student, a member of the youth group whose riots caused the cancellation of Eisenhower's trip.

It wasn't that the Japanese youth were demonstrating against America. They were demonstrating against being treated as a subservient nation. They resented having a distasteful military treaty jammed down their throats, the young Japanese girl explained.

Marie is home now in Mt. Prospect. She has sampled a bit of many countries. She goes to Grinnell college this fall to study political science and education. Her dream, of course, is to return ot Europe -- France especially.

Witnesses Return From Convention

Jehovah's Witnesses of this area have returned home from their recent "Peace-Pursuing Assembly," held in Briggs stadium, Detroit. "Most of our neighbors here," said David Conrad, representing the Witnesses in this locality, "are just as interested in the prospects for lasting peace as we are."

"For four days," he explained, "we received Bible instruction designed to keep us awake to the fulfillment of Bible prophecy and to assure us that Almighty God proposes peace for our generation."

THE LOCAL delegates were among 44,000 persons who filled the stadium to near capacity Sunday to hear Fred F. Franz, vice president of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York.

Mr. Conrad said the Witnesses, as a result of attending the Christian assembly, one of 11 scheduled this summer in the United States, will be of greater assistance to their neighbors in their house-to-house ministry and home Bible teaching.

(Last of a Series)

Onward from the city of lights to the city of the Englishman, bulwark of royalty, wellspring of the early American heritage. This is where Marie Martin's travels took her this spring as the last foreign spot on her world voyage.

London, to Marie, was a city of people that are not dried old prunes as often depicted in cartoon sketches and stilted movies. Rather Marie found Londoners casual, almost to the point of seeming blase, but warm, congenial, stimulating.

WITHOUT TWITCHING an eyebrow or grimacing in remembrance, members of the family she lived with for three weeks recalled the war years.

"Say, wasn't there a home across the street last night?" one member asked on a wartime morning. Members of the family trooped to the window to look.

"Sure there was," they all recalled. The house that had been was gone; victim of Nazi bombers.

For a time there was a big Norwegian-manned anti-aircraft gun in her "family's" back yard. They nicknamed the instrument of death, then calmly resumed the routine of living. When the gun sparked destruction to the enemy above, the family would comment that their friend was at it again. Sometimes they couldn't make up their minds whether to go to the basement or not.

"This doesn't mean that the war didn't touch these people," Marie emphasized. The woman lost her husband when he was killed walking home from work one night. Her son was killed in service; highly decorated, very young.

HER "FAMILY" also told of the miles and miles of homes erased during the last year of the war alone. As the Germans launched their attack with a new kind of bomb that spread its destruction horizontally, 200 persons were left homeless at a blow. During the last year the Germans dropped more than 2,000 of these bombs.

Hearing these stories made Marie view this last city of her journey with special awe. She spent even more time alone wandering its streets, window shopping, marveling at the new, yet old city Britishers have made from rubble.

Maire became keenly aware of the difficult -- even impossible -- task of making Americans, who have never lived through it, comprehend war.

Maire tried to get an idea of Londoners' feelings for Americans. This is difficult to do in a short visit. But the best way to talk to people casually in London is to go "pubbing." Pubs are an institution alien to Americans. Darkly lit bars, they are the locale for the evening for anyone who wishes a glass of ale -- served warm, of course -- and local gossip or conversation of philosophy and the world situation.

HERE MARIE learned of the plight Americans and Britons find themselves in. Both are great world powers that find themselves today being challenged for their positions by losers in the war. Both are finding their trade positions precarious because they are willing to sell abundantly to these lands, but unwilling to lower tariff restructions to admit the challengers' products. Naturally the eyes of Germany and Japan wander to other markets -- Red dominated countries. At the same time, both England and America are firmly committed to fighting the giant monolith Communism.

These and many other things Marie learned on her nine-month trip. She admitted she reads the newspapers now — she didn't before. She admitted her small Northwest suburban world is broadened. She has learned by living with people of all viewpoints from many sections of this country. She has learned by living with people of different faiths and different colors in countries abroad.

She has formed contacts across the globe that are enlightening even though she has returned home.

FOR EXAMPLE, a friend of hers from the trip received a letter from a Japanese girl she met. The Japanese girl is a university student, a member of the youth group whose riots caused the cancellation of Eisenhower's trip.

It wasn't that the Japanese youth were demonstrating against America. They were demonstrating against being treated as a subservient nation. They resented having a distasteful military treaty jammed down their throats, the young Japanese girl explained.

Marie is home now in Mt. Prospect. She has sampled a bit of many countries. She goes to Grinnell college this fall to study political science and education. Her dream, of course, is to return ot Europe -- France especially.

Witnesses Return From Convention

Jehovah's Witnesses of this area have returned home from their recent "Peace-Pursuing Assembly," held in Briggs stadium, Detroit. "Most of our neighbors here," said David Conrad, representing the Witnesses in this locality, "are just as interested in the prospects for lasting peace as we are."

"For four days," he explained, "we received Bible instruction designed to keep us awake to the fulfillment of Bible prophecy and to assure us that Almighty God proposes peace for our generation."

THE LOCAL delegates were among 44,000 persons who filled the stadium to near capacity Sunday to hear Fred F. Franz, vice president of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York.

Mr. Conrad said the Witnesses, as a result of attending the Christian assembly, one of 11 scheduled this summer in the United States, will be of greater assistance to their neighbors in their house-to-house ministry and home Bible teaching.

Stratton Scandals Lashed by Kerner

300 Attend Suburb Dinner

by CHARLES HAYES

Otto J. Kerner, Democratic candidate for governor, fired the opening salvo Monday night in his campaign for northwest suburban support.

Addressing more than 300 enthusiastic citizens at a Democratic dinner meeting in Palatine township, Kerner declared: "I am sorry to see the state of Illinois in the condition it is in today. I hang my head in shame over our state's reputation and the lack of integrity in our state government."

Lashing out at Governor Stratton's two-term administration, Kerner announced: "I will not talk politics in this campaign, but facts — facts which can be documented."

KERNER received a standing ovation from the dinner guests after a laudatory introduction by David Bradshaw of Palatine, charman of the Cook County Young Democrats. The gubernatorial candidate also won high praise from other speakers, including U. S. Senator Paul H. Douglas and Oliver C. Dilks, Palatine committeeman.

"There is cause for the citizens of Illinois to wonder about the series of scandals that have shaken the governor's immediate family," said Kerner. "There's Howell and the toll road, the toll road situation in Kane county, Brown and the state police, Gerber and the state insurance department, Hodge the state auditor, and now finally, his own administrative assistant pleading guilty to an income tax evasion charge."

The former Cook County judge spoke at length on the latter "scandal," which concerns William W. Downey, the governor's top assistant during the first four years of Stratton's administration. It was then Downey is accused of failing to report $77,607 in income. Although his state salary was only $10,000 a year, Downey's total income was $144,074 for the period under question. Last week Downey pleaded guilty on one count (for 1956) and "nolo contendre" on the other three. ("Nolo contendre" means "no contest" and is often regarded as a tacit admission of guilt.)

KERNER said there was a "peculiar similarity" between both the Hodge and Downey pleas of guilty. "They pleaded guilty without a trial and without the judge apparently reviewing in open court any evidence, in spite of an age-old policy of the Department of Justice reviewing factual evidence which is publicly disclosed in open court," he said.

Such information permits a judge to intelligently pass sentence, explained Kerner, who charged: "This peculiarity was intentional!"

Declared the candidate "We as citizens should know what the facts are. The governor owes an explanation to the people of this state; it is his duty to all citizens to do so."

IN ADDITION to the Downey case, Kerner cited other instances which he said reflect "the lack of honesty and integrity" in the Stratton administration:

—"The toll road situation is still far from being exposed. For example, the state lost out on some $332 million in federal money for freeways because of the tollway program. Strangely enough, the day before Congress signed the highway bill the toll road bonds were suddenly sold."

—"The state insurance department is in miserable shape."

—"The state police . . . merit board stinks. Its head is Stratton's ex-patronage chief and that speaks for the kind of merit board we have."

—"There are depressed areas in this state where one out of every six persons gets a relief check."

—"There is no planning at the state level, and no coordination between state and local governments." He referred to the delay in developing Rolling Meadows industrial district because the state highway department cannot decide whether or not it will route a new highway through the district.

—"State finances are in such bad condition that, unless business improves, we may see payless pay days at the state level."

—"Labor and civil rights legislation has been beaten by Stratton. At the crucial time for state FEPC regislation. Stratton was touring Russia. He ran out on his promise to labor leaders that he would push it through the GOP state senate. FEPC lost by five votes because he was silent."

Kerner concluded his off-the-cuff address by pledging "to restore honesty, integrity, and leadership to the state government" if elected in November.

THE DINNER meeting, held in honor of Kerner and other Democratic candidates, was organized by the Palatine Township Regular Democratic organization under the leadership of Committeeman Dilks.

Dilks was praised by several speakers, including State Rep. Bernard M. Peskin of the sixth district, who credited him with Palatine's new position as "fastest growing Democratic township in Cook county."

Tyler Thompson, candidate for Congress in the 13th district, stressed that "This is a promising year for Democrats, and this is fortunate because this is a time of very large and very grave issues. Our ticket understands the needs, not only of people at home but of people everywhere, and it will provide the direction and leadership that has been so desperately lacking."

SEN. DOUGLAS arrived late to the meeting and was greeted by a standing, cheering crowd when he entered the banquet room. His remarks were devoted chiefly to the qualifications of Sen. John Kennedy, candidate for President.

"I have known Jack Kennedy closely for 10 years," said Douglas. "He is one of the most promising and able men who has ever appeared in this nation and he brings considerable exerience to this high office. He has shown legislative skill, courage, and intellectual capacity. We've got a candidate we can be proud of!"

The overflow crowd filled the main banquet room at Radio Club Farm restaurant, Northwest hwy. and Quentin rd., Palatine, as well as an adjoining room. The speeches were piped into the second room through a public address system.

Other speakers at the meeting included Dr. Andrew J. Toman, candidate for county coroner; Joseph B. Sandro, state representative of fifth district; Daniel P. Ward, candidate for state's attorney; Roy L. LaLonde, former Palatine committeeman who served as Master of Ceremonies; Stuart R. Paddock of Inverness, president of Paddock Publications, Inc.; Joseph P. McMahon, candidate for clerk of the Circuit court; Paul Moharic, president of Palatine Regular Democratic organization; and William Ullock, secretary.

PALATINE clergyman present were Rev. Glenn G. Gumm, pastor of St. Paul United Church of Christ, and Rev. Raymond H. Sloane of St. Theresa Catholic parish.

Otto Maleske, Elk Grove committeeman, won a TV set which was awarded as a door prize.

Young Democrats of Palatine will honor Dilks at a picnic Sunday, Aug. 7 at Deer Grove shelter.

PALATINE WAS lauded as "fastest growing Democratic township in Cook county" Monday night at a standing-room-only dinner meeting at Radio Club Farm restaurant. More than 300 persons cheered and applauded a distinguished roster of speakers, including Otto J. Kerner, candidate for governor, and U. S. Senator Paul H. Douglas. A portion of the crowd is pictured here. The dinner was the largest Democratic function held in northwest suburbs in recent years.

A TIRELESS campaigner, U.S. Senator Paul H. Douglas, urged suburban Democrats to work hard for victory in November. He was one of a score of speakers who addressed more than 300 persons Monday night at a dinner sponsored by Palatine Township Regular Democratic organization.

SMILING BROADLY, Otto Kerner, Democratic candidate for governor, acknowledges a standing ovation at a dinner held in his honor Monday night in Palatine. He pledged "to restore honesty, integrity, and progressive leadership" to the state if elected.

Candidates Meet, Talk With Voters

Three leading Democratic candidates for county and national office were feted Sunday afternoon at a garden party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kinser, 658 Arlington ave., Des Plaines.

Suburban Democrats, civic leaders, and other citizens were invited to meet and talk with U. S. Senator Paul H. Douglas, candidate for reelection; Joseph P. McMahon, candidate for clerk of the Circuit court; and Tyler Thompson, candidate for Congress from the 13th district.

Nearly 100 persons representing Des Plaines, Mt. Prospect, Wheeling, Arlington Heights, Hoffman Estates, Rolling Meadows, and Palatine attended the affair. (B8

Suburb Auto Deaths Soar

The traffic death toll in suburban Cook county is soaring so fast that safety officials again warn that this year may end as the worst on record.

With 20 killed in June, the total for the first half of the year stands at 92, compared with 67 deaths in the first six months of 1959.

The final count in 1959 was 170 killed. The worst year since the Cook County Traffic Safety Commission began keeping records was 1953, when 223 persons were slaughtered.

The total for the first half of this year includes 55 deaths in the suburbs and 37 on roads in unincorporated areas.

The only encouraging sign in the traffic safety picture so far is the record in Chicago, where traffic fatalities are down sharply from last year. In Chicago, 105 persons lost their lives in traffic accidents in the first half of the year, compared with 138 in the same period last year.

Here's the death toll in the suburbs at the midway point of 1960: Harvey 5, Chicago Heights 5, Cicero 4, Des Plaines 3, Evanston 2, Oak Park 2, Berwyn 2, Lansing 2, Niles 2, Norridge 2, Lincolnwood 2, Rosemont 2, and the following 1 each:

Maywood, Forest Park, Skokie, Melrose Park, LaGrange, River Forest, Riverside, Summit, Oak Lawn, Bellwood, Broadview, River Grove, Mt. Prospect, Hillside, Northfield, Willow Springs, Matteson, Wheeling, McCook, Hickory Hills, and Country Club Hills.

The following are other traffic statistics for the first half of the year:

More Acts Are Announced For Bob Hope Laugh Show

Two of Chicago's top entertainers have been added to the cast of the Bob Hope show to raise funds for the Northwest Suburban YMCA.

Norm Krone and his Orchestra will provide the music for the giant production, and popular comedian "Nip" Nelson will act as master of ceremonies.

THE SHOW will be held at 8 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 21 in Maine East high school, Dempster st. and Potter rd., Des Plaines. Donations for tickets are scaled at $5, $10 and $25, and are tax deductible, according to Charles Kimball, 600 GoWanda, Mount Prospect, ticket, chairman.

Krone provides the music in the Conrad Hilton's Boulevard Room two nights a week as well as directing orchestrations for the spectacular ice revue which is featured in the elegant theater restaurant.

NORM KRONE

Comedian "Nip" Nelson, a popular Chicago night club personality, has appeared on the Ed Sullivan and Jackie Gleason TV shows, at Radio City Music Hall in New York, and the Palmer House in Chicago.

IN ADDITION to its star, Bob Hope, the Laugh-O-Rama cast includes singing star Anita Bryant, TV comic Bobby Winters and other acts.

Proceeds of the show, largest ever staged in northwest suburbs, will go toward the $100,000 that still must be raised to complete the $1 million YMCA building now under construction at Cambridge rd. and Northwest hwy., between Mount Prospect and Des Plaines. The building is scheduled to open in November.

STACK IT AWAY CLUB
—add 39c to every dollar you save!

Here is a smart new plan that makes you do what you have intended to do for years — to save regularly, systematically. This is money you stack away — not money you let slip through your fingers.

HERE IS HOW THE STACK IT AWAY CLUB WORKS:

1. The amount you save each month is up to you. Whatever you choose, this amount will be placed each month in your STACK IT AWAY CLUB account.

2. You can pay as much as 12 months in advance or 60 days late without losing your STACK IT AWAY CLUB advantages.

3. By leaving this money intact in your STACK IT AWAY CLUB account, you earn our bonus of 1% per year (above the prevailing dividend) when the account reaches its maturity. On the basis of our current 4% dividend, the 1% bonus is actually paid in amounts of ¼% at the end of 48, 90, 126, and 156 months.

4. If you withdraw these savings prior to the full term of the STACK IT AWAY CLUB, your account is credited with our regular semi-annual dividends and also with the bonuses you have earned up to the time you stop the plan.

YOU SAVE	$5 Monthly	$15 Monthly	$25 Monthly
In 156 months you save	$780.00	$2,340.00	$3,900.00
We add these dividends*	$302.39	$ 907.17	$1,511.95
Your total savings	$1,082.39	$3,247.17	$5,411.95

Teachers are Learners, Too At Vacation Church School

Teachers must be learners too. This is always true but it was especially true at the vacation church school of the Arlington Heights Presbyterian church. Senior high school helpers worked with adult teachers and assisted in teaching through stories, discussions, playground activities, craft work and conversations with the children of the vacation church school.

In addition, the senior high helpers served refreshments in each department and cared for the teachers' young children in the nursery.

But the senior highs were also learning while they were teaching. They met with Rev. Eldon McKie, minister of Christian education, for a brief period each morning during which they discussed the purpose of the vacation church school, characteristics of children at different age levels and the most effective ways of relating to the children in their classes.

THIS SPECIAL vacation church school program for senior highs is a first step in their preparation for becoming adult teachers in the church.

The following are the junior high and senior high people who assisted in the Presbyterian vacation church school: Marilyn Rose, Ellen Everhart, Barbara Blair, Karen Olsen, Laurel Grey, Scott Quackenbush, Barbara Baughman, Jim Tindall, Marcia Martin, Carolyn Smith, Janice Mayer, Mary Clough, Daryl Down, Marcy Cushing, Carol Baughman Jill Anderson, Nancy Daube, Leslie O'Dor, Lynn Anderson, Lynn Franck, Merrilee Bukowski, Blair Ann Hull, Bonnie Salzman, Sunny Gregg and Ellen Loughlin. The Library Corner

Espionage Is Reading Fare

Recent newspaper headlines and radio and TV broadcasts have focussed public attention on the subject of spies and espionage. Tales of espionage, both true and fictional, are among the most exciting subjects of literature, and books with this theme at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library circulate briskly, according to Mrs. Evelyn Stadelman, librarian.

One of the classics on the subject of espionage is Herbert Philbrick's "I Led 3 Lives." The widely read book is the exciting story of a man who spent nine years within the U.S. Communist party as a government counterspy.

A RECENTLY published book with a similar theme is "My 10 Years As a Counterspy," by Boris Morros, which describes the adventures of an American Agent who posed as a Russian spy from 1947 to 1957, when the U.S. Justice department revealed his work.

Morros tells how he managed to hoodwink professional Communist agents on two continents and provide evidence which led to the exposure of the spy ring.

Other non-fiction books with a spy or espionage theme include: "Spy-Catcher" by Oreste Pinto; "In the Name of Conscience," by Nikolai Khokhlov; "Empire of Fear," by Vladimir Petrov; "The FBI Story," by Donald Whitehead.

SPIES AND international intrigue have also provided the background for numerous novels. Some of the available titles are Berkely Mather's "The Achilles Affair," Alistair MacLean's "Secret Ways," Richard Condon's "Manchurian Candidate," Graham Greene's "Our Man in Havana," and Warren Tute's "The Rock."

In addition, the library has a well-stocked collection of mystery and detective stories, many of which have spies, international intrigue, and espionage as background. (A

Tag Day Is Successful; Net $472.94

Mrs. Carl Mees, chairman for the Doughnut Tag Day, reports that $472.94 was collected for the Arlington Heights area on June 10.

This was Salvation Army's twenty-second annual tag day and represents 75 years of service to the Chicago area.

TWENTY PER cent of the funds raised in the local drive remain in this community. The other 80 per cent will be used to help support the social welfare services maintained by The Salvation Army for the unfortunate in the Chicago area.

The drive was sponsored by the Arlington Heights Woman's club with Mrs. Earl Snodgrass as co-chairman.

On pharmacies and fiction
■ Seems the neighborhood pharmacist has become quite a literary character, popping up in books, short stories, movies—even as narrator in a classic American play. Perhaps it's because we're characteristic of neighborhood businessmen. Since you stop in often, our store is a friendly meeting place. Matter of fact, many of you are old friends with whom we talk "family" as often as "shop." We're proud of this part we play in community life.

Church Dedicates Parsonage Sunday

The new parsonage of St. Peter Lutheran church will be dedicated next Sunday afternoon in a ceremony conducted by the Rev. R. O. Bartz, with the congregation participating.

Following the dedication at 2 p.m., an Open House will enable all members of the congregation and the community to tour the home, located at 114 W. Olive, directly across from the congregation's new building site.

The new parsonage, to be the residence of Pastor Bartz and his family, is a tri-level dwelling of brick and wood. Located on the corner of N. Highland and W. Olive, it has 4 bedrooms, a combination living and dining room, kitchen, a bath and a half, utility room, a large family room and a small private study plus a double garage.

PASTOR BARTZ and family will occupy the parsonage by the end of next week. The old parsonage, built in 1899 and located at 315 N. Highland, will be used as school offices and as the kindergarten until the congregation's new plant is completed at the end of this year. The new parsonage was constructed by the Carroll-McHugh Builders of Arlington Heights.

WORD STUDY

"Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Words for this lesson:

Acerbity; bitterness; sourness; acrimony; harshness. (Pronounce ah-sur-bi-ti, accent second syllable). "He admonished the pranksters with biting acerbity."

Complement; that which fills up or completes. "The complement of our autumn stock has arrived."

Arlington Greens

House guests of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Recht, 683 E. Clarendon, for three days last week were cousins, John and Dorothy Abrams, and their children, Jim and Susan. They had been vacationing in Washington, D. C., and stopped to visit before returning home to Canoga Park, Cal.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Freund, 1164 N. Beverly lane, announce the birth of a daughter, Lisa Ann, weighing 5 pounds 3 ounces when born July 24 in West Suburban hospital, Oak Park. The Freunds have three sons, Mark 7½, Eric, 5, and Kurt, 3½. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. G. Schiera and Mrs. Jewl Freund, all of Chicago.

Mrs. Ken Jennings, 1137 N. Beverly, returned home last Wednesday after a week's visit with a sister and her family, the Len Smedbergs of Johnson City, Tenn. The Smedbergs, former residents of the Greens, met Mrs. Jennings at Knoxville from where the group drove to Gatlinburg in the Smokies for four days of sightseeing and vacationing in the area.

Grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Burge of Clearwater, Fla. have been house guests in the Mark Jenkins home, 1111 N. Haddow ct., since their arrival July 18. They plan to visit for another week before returning home.

THE DAN GOREY family, 658 E. Clarendon ave., enjoyed a week's motor trip to Canada. Sightseeing along the way included a stop at Niagara Falls before arriving at their destination, Ottawa, where they visited Capt. and Mrs. C. Gilfillan for a couple of days. Mrs. Gilfillan and Mrs. Gorey are sisters.

Five-year-old Doug Harrison celebrated his birthday last Wednesday with a luncheon party in his home at 1129 N. Beverly lane. A train-decorated cake graced the birthday table at which his guests, Luke Week, Tommy Testa, Susie Morrisett and Doug's sister, Sheryl, were seated.

Also celebrating a birthday last week was 4-year-old Warren Gran Jr., 1146 N. Hickory. Joining him for an afternoon party Friday were Kevin and Colleen Gerrard and Titus Josetti.

The Bill Lashers of 1104 N. Douglas ave., entertained a number of relatives at a cook-out party Saturday. Guests included the Thomas Cliffords of Chicago with their seven children, the Thomas McAuliffs of Park Ridge and their seven children, besides grandmother, Mrs. H. T. Gray of Chicago. Occasion for the gathering was to celebrate Margo's fourth birthday.

Saturday ended a week's vacation trip for the Erwin Dettloffs, 1160 N. Hickory ave., and their guest, Melody Uselding. A cottage at Big Horn lake in Wisconsin is where they enjoyed swimming, fishing and just having a good time. Earlier in the month the Dettloffs motored to Sioux City, Iowa, for a week's visit with grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hoffman.

THE JACK Summers family of 308 E. Oakton st., returned Sunday from a 10-day vacation at a resort near Brainerd, Minn. Joining them were the Jerry Dahl family of N. Belmont and the Bud Enszer family of Mt. Prospect. Swimming, water skiing and golf made the busy days speed by.

The Tony Tomasos of 635 E. Clarendon spent their 2-week vacation at a summer cottage at Detroit Lakes, Minn. Cottaging nearby were an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Skillstad of St. Louis, who also enjoyed the good fishing, nice weather and just relaxing. The Tomasos returned home late last week.

Kathleen Marie, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al Philipp of 639 E. Clarendon ave., was christened July 31 during an afternoon ceremony at St. James Catholic church. Officiating was Rev. Richard Feller of St. Colette's parish in Rolling Meadows, uncle of the baby. Godparents were an uncle and aunt, Henry Philipp, and Miss Margaret Feller, both of Chicago. Among the 25 guests who attended the buffet supper later in the day were grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Feller and Mrs. Henry Philipp of Chicago. (A

Teachers must be learners too. This is always true but it was especially true at the vacation church school of the Arlington Heights Presbyterian church. Senior high school helpers worked with adult teachers and assisted in teaching through stories, discussions, playground activities, craft work and conversations with the children of the vacation church school.

In addition, the senior high helpers served refreshments in each department and cared for the teachers' young children in the nursery.

But the senior highs were also learning while they were teaching. They met with Rev. Eldon McKie, minister of Christian education, for a brief period each morning during which they discussed the purpose of the vacation church school, characteristics of children at different age levels and the most effective ways of relating to the children in their classes.

THIS SPECIAL vacation church school program for senior highs is a first step in their preparation for becoming adult teachers in the church.

The following are the junior high and senior high people who assisted in the Presbyterian vacation church school: Marilyn Rose, Ellen Everhart, Barbara Blair, Karen Olsen, Laurel Grey, Scott Quackenbush, Barbara Baughman, Jim Tindall, Marcia Martin, Carolyn Smith, Janice Mayer, Mary Clough, Daryl Down, Marcy Cushing, Carol Baughman Jill Anderson, Nancy Daube, Leslie O'Dor, Lynn Anderson, Lynn Franck, Merrilee Bukowski, Blair Ann Hull, Bonnie Salzman, Sunny Gregg and Ellen Loughlin. The Library Corner

Espionage Is Reading Fare

Recent newspaper headlines and radio and TV broadcasts have focussed public attention on the subject of spies and espionage. Tales of espionage, both true and fictional, are among the most exciting subjects of literature, and books with this theme at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library circulate briskly, according to Mrs. Evelyn Stadelman, librarian.

One of the classics on the subject of espionage is Herbert Philbrick's "I Led 3 Lives." The widely read book is the exciting story of a man who spent nine years within the U.S. Communist party as a government counterspy.

A RECENTLY published book with a similar theme is "My 10 Years As a Counterspy," by Boris Morros, which describes the adventures of an American Agent who posed as a Russian spy from 1947 to 1957, when the U.S. Justice department revealed his work.

Morros tells how he managed to hoodwink professional Communist agents on two continents and provide evidence which led to the exposure of the spy ring.

Other non-fiction books with a spy or espionage theme include: "Spy-Catcher" by Oreste Pinto; "In the Name of Conscience," by Nikolai Khokhlov; "Empire of Fear," by Vladimir Petrov; "The FBI Story," by Donald Whitehead.

SPIES AND international intrigue have also provided the background for numerous novels. Some of the available titles are Berkely Mather's "The Achilles Affair," Alistair MacLean's "Secret Ways," Richard Condon's "Manchurian Candidate," Graham Greene's "Our Man in Havana," and Warren Tute's "The Rock."

In addition, the library has a well-stocked collection of mystery and detective stories, many of which have spies, international intrigue, and espionage as background.

Church Dedicates Parsonage Sunday

The new parsonage of St. Peter Lutheran church will be dedicated next Sunday afternoon in a ceremony conducted by the Rev. R. O. Bartz, with the congregation participating.

Following the dedication at 2 p.m., an Open House will enable all members of the congregation and the community to tour the home, located at 114 W. Olive, directly across from the congregation's new building site.

The new parsonage, to be the residence of Pastor Bartz and his family, is a tri-level dwelling of brick and wood. Located on the corner of N. Highland and W. Olive, it has 4 bedrooms, a combination living and dining room, kitchen, a bath and a half, utility room, a large family room and a small private study plus a double garage.

PASTOR BARTZ and family will occupy the parsonage by the end of next week. The old parsonage, built in 1899 and located at 315 N. Highland, will be used as school offices and as the kindergarten until the congregation's new plant is completed at the end of this year. The new parsonage was constructed by the Carroll-McHugh Builders of Arlington Heights.

WORD STUDY

"Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Words for this lesson:

Acerbity; bitterness; sourness; acrimony; harshness. (Pronounce ah-sur-bi-ti, accent second syllable). "He admonished the pranksters with biting acerbity."

Complement; that which fills up or completes. "The complement of our autumn stock has arrived."

Tag Day Is Successful; Net $472.94

Mrs. Carl Mees, chairman for the Doughnut Tag Day, reports that $472.94 was collected for the Arlington Heights area on June 10.

This was Salvation Army's twenty-second annual tag day and represents 75 years of service to the Chicago area.

TWENTY PER cent of the funds raised in the local drive remain in this community. The other 80 per cent will be used to help support the social welfare services maintained by The Salvation Army for the unfortunate in the Chicago area.

The drive was sponsored by the Arlington Heights Woman's club with Mrs. Earl Snodgrass as co-chairman.

House guests of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Recht, 683 E. Clarendon, for three days last week were cousins, John and Dorothy Abrams, and their children, Jim and Susan. They had been vacationing in Washington, D. C., and stopped to visit before returning home to Canoga Park, Cal.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Freund, 1164 N. Beverly lane, announce the birth of a daughter, Lisa Ann, weighing 5 pounds 3 ounces when born July 24 in West Suburban hospital, Oak Park. The Freunds have three sons, Mark 7½, Eric, 5, and Kurt, 3½. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. G. Schiera and Mrs. Jewl Freund, all of Chicago.

Mrs. Ken Jennings, 1137 N. Beverly, returned home last Wednesday after a week's visit with a sister and her family, the Len Smedbergs of Johnson City, Tenn. The Smedbergs, former residents of the Greens, met Mrs. Jennings at Knoxville from where the group drove to Gatlinburg in the Smokies for four days of sightseeing and vacationing in the area.

Grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Burge of Clearwater, Fla. have been house guests in the Mark Jenkins home, 1111 N. Haddow ct., since their arrival July 18. They plan to visit for another week before returning home.

THE DAN GOREY family, 658 E. Clarendon ave., enjoyed a week's motor trip to Canada. Sightseeing along the way included a stop at Niagara Falls before arriving at their destination, Ottawa, where they visited Capt. and Mrs. C. Gilfillan for a couple of days. Mrs. Gilfillan and Mrs. Gorey are sisters.

Five-year-old Doug Harrison celebrated his birthday last Wednesday with a luncheon party in his home at 1129 N. Beverly lane. A train-decorated cake graced the birthday table at which his guests, Luke Week, Tommy Testa, Susie Morrisett and Doug's sister, Sheryl, were seated.

Also celebrating a birthday last week was 4-year-old Warren Gran Jr., 1146 N. Hickory. Joining him for an afternoon party Friday were Kevin and Colleen Gerrard and Titus Josetti.

The Bill Lashers of 1104 N. Douglas ave., entertained a number of relatives at a cook-out party Saturday. Guests included the Thomas Cliffords of Chicago with their seven children, the Thomas McAuliffs of Park Ridge and their seven children, besides grandmother, Mrs. H. T. Gray of Chicago. Occasion for the gathering was to celebrate Margo's fourth birthday.

Saturday ended a week's vacation trip for the Erwin Dettloffs, 1160 N. Hickory ave., and their guest, Melody Uselding. A cottage at Big Horn lake in Wisconsin is where they enjoyed swimming, fishing and just having a good time. Earlier in the month the Dettloffs motored to Sioux City, Iowa, for a week's visit with grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hoffman.

THE JACK Summers family of 308 E. Oakton st., returned Sunday from a 10-day vacation at a resort near Brainerd, Minn. Joining them were the Jerry Dahl family of N. Belmont and the Bud Enszer family of Mt. Prospect. Swimming, water skiing and golf made the busy days speed by.

The Tony Tomasos of 635 E. Clarendon spent their 2-week vacation at a summer cottage at Detroit Lakes, Minn. Cottaging nearby were an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Skillstad of St. Louis, who also enjoyed the good fishing, nice weather and just relaxing. The Tomasos returned home late last week.

Kathleen Marie, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al Philipp of 639 E. Clarendon ave., was christened July 31 during an afternoon ceremony at St. James Catholic church. Officiating was Rev. Two Men Are Injured In Rand Rd. Accident

On July 29 Richard Dunbar, 27, of 2927 S. Cicero, Cicero, was treated for a bruised back and William Mays, 29, of McHenry, was treated for lacerations suffered in an accident on Rand rd two miles south of Illinois 68

Mays, who was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, smashed into the rear of Dunbar's car.

On July 26 Joseph Adler, 34, of Killarny dr., Cary, was charged with improper passing when he rammed into a car driven by Laddie T. Wasahlik. 54, of 41 S. Summit, Villa Park, at highways 62 and 53.

Adler attempted to pass a truck, narrowly averting a head-on collision with Wasahlik. Total damage to the vehicles was estimated at $1300.

ON JULY 24 Carl H. Lamberti, 23, of Williams st., Roselle, completely demolished his car when he blew a tire, went through a fance, and tipped over at Bartlett and Bode rds. in Hanover township.

Angelito Castillo, 19, of 1268 S. River rd., Wheeling, was charged with driving without a license and making an improper left turn when he turned into the path of an auto driven by James Wilds, 19 of Route 1, Box 267A, Roselle.

The accident, in which damage totaled $1,575, took place at Illinois 53 and Nerge rd. in Schaumburg township.

Both drivers and two of Castillo's passengers, Elmo Trevino and Rodolfo Sanchez, both of 25 W011 Mensching rd., Roselle, were treated at Northwest Community hospital for cuts and bruises.

A $1,800 accident took place at River and Central rds. when Keith Peterson, 1439 Foster, Chicago. rammed into a car driven by Max Schumacher, 40, of 107 S. Waterman, Arlington Heights.

SCHUMACHER was signaling for a left turn onto Central when Peterson hit him from the rear, pushing his automobile into a traffic signal on the opposite side of the road.

Peterson was arrested for driving too fast for conditions. Schumacher, his wife, a passenger, Rose Andrews, of Carroll, Iowa; and Peterson were taken to Resurrection hospital.

On July 23 $700 damage was caused when Frederick Bromfeld, Seattle, Wash., smashed into the rear of a car operated by Natalie Kaczkowski, 5404 S. Honore, Chicago, on Rand rd. three fourths of a mile northwest of Illinois 83.

Mrs. Kaczkowski had slowed to a stop because of stalled traffic when Bromfeld hit her. Bromfeld was charged with following too closely.

JAMES Michgelson, 404 See Gwun, Mt. Prospect, was charged with driving too fast for conditions and Gene Fisher, 6911 Cleveland, Niles, was arrested for failure to yield the right of way in an accident at Elmhurst and Devon rds.

Fisher, who was going east on Devon, stopped for a stop sign at Elmhurst. Thinking the road was clear, he made a turn onto Elmhurst and was hit in the rear by Michgelson. who was traveling northbound on Elmhurst.

Damage was estimated at $600. Fisher and his wife, Gertrude, were taken to Resurrection hospital and were treated for minor injuries.

A man and his wife were killed in an automobile accident July 23 at the intersection of Dundee rd. and Illinois hwy. 83.

Leo J. Rech, 63, of 1716 Touhy ave., Park Ridge, and his wife, Elsye, pulled off Illinois 83 onto the right shoulder, allowing westbound traffic to pass.

As Rech attempted to turn left across both lines, a car driven by Alfred Farris, 29, stationed at the artillery brigade in Arlington Heights, plowed into Rech's car.

The couple was dead upon arrival at Northwest Community hospital at 1 p.m.

In other accidents reported by district 3 state police:

ON JULY 30 two cars each suffered $1000 damage and four people were taken to Northwest Community hospital in a collision on Rand rd. two miles south of Illinois 68.

Mary C. Reynolds, 44, of 1045 Washington blvd., Oak Park, had signaled to slow down and pull off onto the right shoulder when a car operated by John A. Werderitch, 209 S. William, Mt. Prospect, smashed into the rear.

Werderitch, his son, Gerald, 11, Mrs. Reynolds, and her passenger June Burns, 218 Wisner, Park Ridge, were taken to Northwest Community hospital and treated for bruises.

Werderitch was arrested for following too closely.

IN AN ACCIDENT at York and Touhy rds. Robert Bernstein, 5954 N Richmond, Chicago, was charged with failure to yield the right of way after his auto was struck by Phillip Wright, 24, of RR2 Box 554, Bensenville.

Bernstein had pulled from a stop sign into the path of Wright's automobile. Damage was estimated at $650.

Universalist Talks Slated

The first in a series of Sunday evening discussions for the Countryside Universalist Fellowship will be held August 7, 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dayton T. Yoder, 238 S. Evergreen ave., Arlington Heights, it was announced by John A. Fitzwater, chairman of the group.

Topic is "Are Religious Liberals Necessarily Social and Political Liberals?" Yoder, formerly a Universalist minister, now associated with the Wells organization of Chicago, will give a five-minute talk supporting the affirmative. Francis Bobkowski, Carpentersville, will present the rebuttal. A group discussion will follow.

This series is planned to be social as well as informative and anyone in the Northwest suburban area interested in liberal religion is invited to attend. Discussions will center on subjects announced in advance presented by members in turn. Further information may be obtained from Yoder at CLearbrook 3-8338.

She Worked for Rocky

Suburb Homemaker Is Thrust into Politics

A New Yorker with "tremendous magnetism" pulled an Arlington Heights housewife into the political wars recently.

Never interested in politics before, Mrs. Francis E. McDonald, 215 W. Orchard, answered an advertisement in the newspaper asking for "Volunteers for Rockefeller."

Thus began five days of work at the Draft Rockefeller Committee headquarters in Chicago, cluminating in her meeting the New York governor Sunday, July 24.

But it was more than the Rockefeller charm that convinced her to spend five days working for a man who never was an avowed candidate.

"I FEEL HE definitely has something to offer to this country," she said, "and I do not believe a conservative policy is the answer to the United States' future."

A mother of two children, Doug, 12, and Sue, 18, Mrs. McDonald still felt this way upon learning that Rockefeller had decided to release the New York delegation, giving up all pretentions of candidacy.

Although she had always voted Republican before, Mrs. McDonald now believes she might support the Democrats in November.

"Nixon doesn't appeal to the liberals, and I don't think he can win," she remarked.

Rockefeller, she is convinced, could get the votes of liberals, independents, and dissatisfied Democrats.

WHILE PASSING Rockefeller petitions around Chicago, Mrs. McDonald found some Democrats who were disappointed because of Stevenson's failure to gain the nomination. They told her they would vote Republican next fall, but only if Rockefeller were nominated.

"Most people smiled, said Rockefeller was a wonderful man, but would vote for Kennedy in the fall," she commented. "The only trouble came from the dyed-in-wool conservatives."

She believes that Barry Goldwater, arch-conservative Republican senator from Arizona and a foe of Rockefeller, is "unrealistic" to insist that the government stay out of everything.

"The government has to play a bigger role if the country is going to advance," she said.

MRS. McDONALD felt Rockefeller's proposals in two fields, defense and education, were of great merit.

(Rockefeller has said that defense spending should be increased greatly, and that the government should make loans to schools and worthy students.)

"When it's a matter of survival, people should not complain about paying higher taxes for defense spending," she said. "And the government should stimulate education. We tend to rest on our laurels."

Asked whether she thought Rockefeller hurt his chances by not announcing his candidacy early, Mrs. McDonald replied: "If he had no assurance that the platform would be to his liking, he should not run. For the same the vice presidential nomination."

reason he should not accept ation."

A MEMBER OF the Northwest Art Center, Mrs. McDonald commented that the governor once saw one of her paintings in a friend's apartment in New York.

"I was flattered to learn that he had said that I was very talented," she said.

The highlight of the week came Sunday, when Mrs. McDonald met Rockefeller at a reception at the Sheraton-Blackstone hotel.

She described the experience as "absolutely fantastic." Rockefeller's daughter, Mrs. Robert Pierson of Evanston, who goes to the same church as Mrs. McDonald, introduced them.

Her support of Rockefeller has started a friendly family squabble, she noted.

"My father likes Kennedy, my husband likes Nixon, and my children don't know what to think," she said.

"My husband wouldn't even let me put a Rockefeller sign on the bumper."

Area Citizens Are Promoting Y Show

Eleven leading citizens of northwest suburbs are responsible for planning and promotion of the Bob Hope Laugh-O-Rama benefit show to be presented Sunday, Aug. 21.

The spectacular stage show will feature comedian Bob Hope, TV comic Bobby Winters, singing star Anita Bryant, night club wit "Nip" Nelson, Norm Krone and his Orchestra and other acts.

GENERAL chairman of the show, which will benefit the Northwest Suburban YMCA building now under construction, is Stanley C. Amren of Mount Prospect.

Byron Sayre of Arlington Heights is directing production, and general ticket chairman is Charles Kimball of Mount Prospect. Serving as ticket chairmen in the various communities are Earl Ogier for Arlington Heights, Gil Liebenow for Mount Prospect, Maxwell Sawyer for Des Plaines, and Fred Rogers for Palatine.

Other committee chairmen are: Ralph Martin of Des Plaines, arrangements; Charles Hayes of Arlington Heights, publicity; Genter Dahl of Des Plaines, promotion; and Pat Greco of Des Plaines, parking and police.

TICKETS FOR the Laugh-O-Rama will be sold at the YMCA Women's Auxiliary at the following locations from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 6, Aug. 13, and Aug. 20:

Two Men Are Injured In Rand Rd. Accident

On July 29 Richard Dunbar, 27, of 2927 S. Cicero, Cicero, was treated for a bruised back and William Mays, 29, of McHenry, was treated for lacerations suffered in an accident on Rand rd two miles south of Illinois 68

Mays, who was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, smashed into the rear of Dunbar's car.

On July 26 Joseph Adler, 34, of Killarny dr., Cary, was charged with improper passing when he rammed into a car driven by Laddie T. Wasahlik. 54, of 41 S. Summit, Villa Park, at highways 62 and 53.

Adler attempted to pass a truck, narrowly averting a head-on collision with Wasahlik. Total damage to the vehicles was estimated at $1300.

ON JULY 24 Carl H. Lamberti, 23, of Williams st., Roselle, completely demolished his car when he blew a tire, went through a fance, and tipped over at Bartlett and Bode rds. in Hanover township.

Angelito Castillo, 19, of 1268 S. River rd., Wheeling, was charged with driving without a license and making an improper left turn when he turned into the path of an auto driven by James Wilds, 19 of Route 1, Box 267A, Roselle.

The accident, in which damage totaled $1,575, took place at Illinois 53 and Nerge rd. in Schaumburg township.

Both drivers and two of Castillo's passengers, Elmo Trevino and Rodolfo Sanchez, both of 25 W011 Mensching rd., Roselle, were treated at Northwest Community hospital for cuts and bruises.

A $1,800 accident took place at River and Central rds. when Keith Peterson, 1439 Foster, Chicago. rammed into a car driven by Max Schumacher, 40, of 107 S. Waterman, Arlington Heights.

SCHUMACHER was signaling for a left turn onto Central when Peterson hit him from the rear, pushing his automobile into a traffic signal on the opposite side of the road.

Peterson was arrested for driving too fast for conditions. Schumacher, his wife, a passenger, Rose Andrews, of Carroll, Iowa; and Peterson were taken to Resurrection hospital.

On July 23 $700 damage was caused when Frederick Bromfeld, Seattle, Wash., smashed into the rear of a car operated by Natalie Kaczkowski, 5404 S. Honore, Chicago, on Rand rd. three fourths of a mile northwest of Illinois 83.

Mrs. Kaczkowski had slowed to a stop because of stalled traffic when Bromfeld hit her. Bromfeld was charged with following too closely.

JAMES Michgelson, 404 See Gwun, Mt. Prospect, was charged with driving too fast for conditions and Gene Fisher, 6911 Cleveland, Niles, was arrested for failure to yield the right of way in an accident at Elmhurst and Devon rds.

Fisher, who was going east on Devon, stopped for a stop sign at Elmhurst. Thinking the road was clear, he made a turn onto Elmhurst and was hit in the rear by Michgelson. who was traveling northbound on Elmhurst.

Damage was estimated at $600. Fisher and his wife, Gertrude, were taken to Resurrection hospital and were treated for minor injuries.

A man and his wife were killed in an automobile accident July 23 at the intersection of Dundee rd. and Illinois hwy. 83.

Lec J. Rech, 63, of 1716 Touhy ave., Park Ridge, and his wife, Elsye, pulled off Illinois 83 onto the right shoulder, allowing westbound traffic to pass.

As Rech attempted to turn left across both lines, a car driven by Alfred Farris, 29, stationed at the artillery brigade in Arlington Heights, plowed into Rech's car.

The couple was dead upon arrival at Northwest Community hospital at 1 p.m.

In other accidents reported by district 3 state police:

ON JULY 30 two cars each suffered $1000 damage and four people were taken to Northwest Community hospital in a collision on Rand rd. two miles south of Illinois 68.

Mary C. Reynolds, 44, of 1045 Washington blvd., Oak Park, had signaled to slow down and pull off onto the right shoulder when a car operated by John A. Werderitch, 209 S. William, Mt. Prospect, smashed into the rear.

Werderitch, his son, Gerald, 11, Mrs. Reynolds, and her passenger June Burns, 218 Wisner, Park Ridge, were taken to Northwest Community hospital and treated for bruises.

Werderitch was arrested for following too closely.

IN AN ACCIDENT at York and Touhy rds. Robert Bernstein, 5954 N Richmond, Chicago, was charged with failure to yield the right of way after his auto was struck by Phillip Wright, 24, of RR2 Box 554, Bensenville.

Bernstein had pulled from a stop sign into the path of Wright's automobile. Damage was estimated at $650.

Universalist Talks Slated

The first in a series of Sunday evening discussions for the Countryside Universalist Fellowship will be held August 7, 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dayton T. Yoder, 238 S. Evergreen ave., Arlington Heights, it was announced by John A. Fitzwaer, chairman of the group.

Topic is "Are Religious Liberals Necessarily Social and Political Liberals?" Yoder, formerly a Universalist minister, now, associated with the Wells organization of Chicago, will give a five-minute talk supporting the affirmative. Francis Bobkowski, Carpentersville, will present the rebuttal. A group discussion will follow.

This series is planned to be social as well as informative and anyone in the Northwest suburban area interested in liberal religion is invited to attend. Discussions will center on subjects announced in advance presented by members in turn. Further information may be obtained from Yoder at CLearbrook 3-8338.

She Worked for Rocky

Suburb Homemaker Is Thrust into Politics

A New Yorker with "tremendous magnetism" pulled an Arlington Heights housewife into the political wars recently.

Never interested in politics before, Mrs. Francis E. McDonald, 215 W. Orchard, answered an advertisement in the newspaper asking for "Volunteers for Rockefeller."

Thus began five days of work at the Draft Rockefeller Committee headquarters in Chicago, cluminating in her meeting the New York governor Sunday, July 24.

But it was more than the Rockefeller charm that convinced her to spend five days working for a man who never was an avowed candidate.

"I FEEL HE definitely has something to offer to this country," she said, "and I do not believe a conservative policy is the answer to the United States' future."

A mother of two children, Doug, 12, and Sue, 18, Mrs. McDonald still felt this way upon learning that Rockefeller had decided to release the New York delegation, giving up all pretentions of candidacy.

Although she had always voted Republican before, Mrs. McDonald now believes she might support the Democrats in November.

"Nixon doesn't appeal to the liberals, and I don't think he can win," she remarked.

Rockefeller, she is convinced, could get the votes of liberals, independents, and dissatisfied Democrats.

WHILE PASSING Rockefeller petitions around Chicago, Mrs. McDonald found some Democrats who were disappointed because of Stevenson's failure to gain the nomination. They told her they would vote Republican next fall, but only if Rockefeller were nominated.

"Most people smiled, said Rockefeller was a wonderful man, but would vote for Kennedy in the fall," she commented. "The only trouble came from the dyed-in-wool conservatives."

She believes that Barry Goldwater, arch-conservative Republican senator from Arizona and a foe of Rockefeller, is "unrealistic" to insist that the government stay out of everything.

"The government has to play a bigger role if the country is going to advance," she said.

MRS. McDONALD felt Rockefeller's proposals in two fields, defense and education, were of great merit.

(Rockefeller has said that defense spending should be increased greatly, and that the government should make loans to schools and worthy students.)

"When it's a matter of survival, people should not complain about paying higher taxes for defense spending," she said. "And the government should stimulate education. We tend to rest on our laurels."

Asked whether she thought Rockefeller hurt his chances by not announcing his candidacy early, Mrs. McDonald replied: "If he had no assurance that the platform would be to his liking, he should not run. For the same the vice presidential nomination."

A MEMBER OF the Northwest Art Center, Mrs. McDonald commented that the governor once saw one of her paintings in a friend's apartment in New York.

"I was flattered to learn that he had said that I was very talented," she said.

The highlight of the week came Sunday, when Mrs. McDonald met Rockefeller at a reception at the Sheraton-Blackstone hotel.

She described the experience as "absolutely fantastic." Rockefeller's daughter, Mrs. Robert Pierson of Evanston, who goes to the same church as Mrs. McDonald, introduced them.

Her support of Rockefeller has started a friendly family squabble, she noted.

"My father likes Kennedy, my husband likes Nixon, and my children don't know what to think," she said.

"My husband wouldn't even let me put a Rockefeller sign on the bumper."

Area Citizens Are Promoting Y Show

Eleven leading citizens of northwest suburbs are responsible for planning and promotion of the Bob Hope Laugh-O-Rama benefit show to be presented Sunday, Aug. 21.

The spectacular stage show will feature comedian Bob Hope, TV comic Bobby Winters, singing star Anita Bryant, night club wit "Nip" Nelson, Norm Krone and his Orchestra and other acts.

GENERAL chairman of the show, which will benefit the Northwest Suburban YMCA building now under construction, is Stanley C. Amren of Mount Prospect.

Byron Sayre of Arlington Heights is directing production, and general ticket chairman is Charles Kimball of Mount Prospect. Serving as ticket chairmen in the various communities are Earl Ogier for Arlington Heights, Gil Liebenow for Mount Prospect, Maxwell Sawyer for Des Plaines, and Fred Rogers for Palatine.

Other committee chairmen are: Ralph Martin of Des Plaines, arrangements; Charles Hayes of Arlington Heights, publicity; Genter Dahl of Des Plaines, promotion; and Pat Greco of Des Plaines, parking and police.

Lions Club Is First In Community Service

(This is the second in a series of articles on Arlington Heights organizations. The articles will discuss who belongs, services performed, history, and future plans).

Like it namesake, the Arlington Heights Lions Club is king of the organizations, particularly when it comes to community service.

For the past 35 years the local group's roar has been the driving force behind hundreds of successful civic projects ranging from the installation of a needed traffic light to a $10,000 pledge to the Northwest Community hospital.

The Lions national program is primarily concerned with the blind, and the local group has furnished rooms with recorders and Braille apparatus for blind students at both Prospect and Arlington high schools. The group helps support the Hadley and Wheeling schools for the blind, and contributes to the Leader Dog school. Eye glasses are distributed to those who need but can't afford them.

THE EXTENT OF the club's activities in the past decade add up to an amazing record of achievement:

—Thousands of dollars donated to various charities and local groups such as girl and boy scouts, little league, patrol boys outing, Northwest Suburban YMCA, and the hospital.

—Purchase of equipment for the library and village nurse.

—Construction of the bus shelter on the Northwest hwy. at Evergreen st.

—An all out drive to get a 50-star flag flown before all businesses and homes on appropriate days. The club sold hundreds of these flags.

THE LIONS are partciularly concerned with youth activities, and this month will sponsor the Lions Junior Olympics for the tenth year. The event, held at Recreation park, is attended by over a thousand youngsters annually.

A badly-needed teenage youth center is sponsored by the club in the Recreation park fieldhouse. A director's salary is paid by the Lions.

The club has established a scholarship memorial fund in honor of Dr. Edward Elfred, a long time Arlington Heights doctor. The scholarship will be awarded to a deserving student for medical study.

IN ADDITION to its better known activities, the club has performed many services that have never been publicized. A look through old minutes reveals such items as:

—"Contributed $73.44 for tents for Explorer Post."

—"Took 82 students in band to Peoria convention."

—"1300 children attended Christmas party."

—"Authorized food and milk for needy family until township can take over."

—"Held first Citizenship Awards dinner at Chevy Chase and presented awards to four recipients."

—"Presented a worthy club member $491 for doctor and medical expenses."

WHAT'S BEHIND all of these accomplishments?

"Work, hard work. We're strictly a service organization, not a fun club," notes one member.

He notes that each of the club's 140 members is on one of the organization's 14 working committees.

The Lions' fund raising projects are numerous. They include ham dinners, broom sales, candy auctions, white cane sales, car drawings, wrestling matches, and Santa Claus solicitations.

All work and no play, however, has not made the Lions a dull group. At the two monthly dinner meetings, one for business and the other for entertainment, a Tail-Twister roams the room, fining brother Lions who forget to wear their Lion buttons, or levying those who don't sing loud enough. Members are also fined for eating their dessert before permission is given.

ATTENDANCE averages between 75 and 100. One of the attractions is no doubt the family style meal served by the ladies in the Dorcas Aid society of St. Peter Lutheran church. The meetings are held in the basement of the church's activity building.

The two social events of the year are Ladies Night and a Father, Son, and Daughter banquet.

Membership requirements are residency in the village and sponsorship by a member. The big requirement, however, all Lions agree, is a willingness to work. (AF

'Story Hour' For Children

A story hour is conducted each day at the Pioneer Park branch library from 10 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. in the north room of the Pioneer Park building.

On Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings from 10 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., a story hour is conducted through the sponsorship of the literature and drama study group of the Arlington Heights Woman's club. This group meets in the west room of Recreation Park building.

All children between the ages of 4 and 8 years old are invited to join the story hour at both parks. (AF

Gas Station-Car Wash Ban Upheld

Arlington Heights trustees this week upheld a plan commission denial of rezoning that would have allowed construction of a gasoline station-car wash near the southwest corner of Miner and Dryden Streets.

The project was opposed by over 100 residents of the Eastwood area, many of whom protested to the plan commission.

THE STATION would have been located on Dryden, north of the Arlington Market shopping center and south of the apartment building on the corner.

The land is presently zoned R-5 (multiple-family). It would require an M-1 (industrial) classification for the car wash.

Objectors to the rezoning argued that in addition to devaluating their property, a service station-car wash would represent a hazard to the children attending Miner and Windsor schools.

THE SCHOOLS, located across from the site in question, have a combined capacity of 1600 students.

The petitioner for the rezoning, Paul Peterson, was not present at the plan commission hearing because of family illness. (AF

Gala Canine Show Slated

"Every dog has his day" is a well-known phrase and one that will hold true August 27, when the canines of the Arlington Heights area will get a chance to strut their stuff.

The Arlington Market Merchants association in conjunction with the Quaker Oats company is sponsoring a Kids Amateur Dog Show to be held on the Arlington Market parking lot on August 27. Dogs of all types and descriptions will be included in the show.

ANY CHILD can enter any kind of dog in the event. It is an amateur show in the truest sense of the word. Categories to be judged include best costumed dog, largest dog, smallest dog, best trick dog. No pedigrees or formal training are necessary.

All contestants will receive prizes as well as special awards to the various winners. Applications are available in the stores of the Arlington Market. (AF

Eastwood Events

Welcome to the Eastwood Community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Murphy and their 9-year-old daughter, Sheila, who moved into 201 N. Dryden last Friday. The Murphys previously lived on N. Hickory st. and were attracted to their new location through the George Moores, across-the-street neighbors. But not neighbors for long, as the Moores are leaving Arlington next week for their new home in Cedar Grove, N. J.

Last Thursday evening Miss Nancy Ford, N. Dryden, gave a farewell cocktail party for the Moores. Immediate neighbors who were there to say goodbye were the Robert Houses, Ken Behms, Herman Mells, Stewart Schultzes, Herman Raasches, and new neighbors, the Ed Murphys.

Other long-time Arlington Heights residents leaving the village this week are the Wilbert Hartmanns, who moved from their home at 603 N. Beverley Wednesday. Mr. Hartmann, who for many years was associated with Hartmanns shoe store on N. Dunton ave., and then with the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce, has purchased a drug store in Indianapolis, which is Mrs. Hartmann's home town.

Former neighbor, Mrs. Robert Wallace, and Mrs. Esther Ellertson said goodbye to Mrs. Hartmann at a luncheon Tuesday.

MRS. ELTON Glover of 713 N. Hickory, reports that her daughter, Natalie, had a very exciting and entertaining trip to Allahabad, India, where she will study under a Rotary Foundation scholarship at the University there. Natalie is taking three different history courses and is learning leather tooling. She is living with the family of a boys' high school principal, whose son is attending the University of Ohio.

On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mutti attended a cocktail party given by Mr. and Mrs. Andy Adams in their Mt. Prospect home. Guests of honor were Commander and Mrs. Paul Adams of the Naval Security Intelligence, attached to the American Embassy in Moscow for the past three years. The Adamses and their three children will be in America for nine months while Commander Adams learns the Japanese language prior to duty in Japan. He now speaks six languages. (A

(This is the second in a series of articles on Arlington Heights organizations. The articles will discuss who belongs, services performed, history, and future plans).

Like it namesake, the Arlington Heights Lions Club is king of the organizations, particularly when it comes to community service.

For the past 35 years the local group's roar has been the driving force behind hundreds of successful civic projects ranging from the installation of a needed traffic light to a $10,000 pledge to the Northwest Community hospital.

The Lions national program is primarily concerned with the blind, and the local group has furnished rooms with recorders and Braille apparatus for blind students at both Prospect and Arlington high schools. The group helps support the Hadley and Wheeling schools for the blind, and contributes to the Leader Dog school. Eye glasses are distributed to those who need but can't afford them.

THE EXTENT OF the club's activities in the past decade add up to an amazing record of achievement:

—Thousands of dollars donated to various charities and local groups such as girl and boy scouts, little league, patrol boys outing, Northwest Suburban YMCA, and the hospital.

—Purchase of equipment for the library and village nurse.

—Construction of the bus shelter on the Northwest hwy. at Evergreen st.

—An all out drive to get a 50-star flag flown before all businesses and homes on appropriate days. The club sold hundreds of these flags.

THE LIONS are partciularly concerned with youth activities, and this month will sponsor the Lions Junior Olympics for the tenth year. The event, held at Recreation park, is attended by over a thousand youngsters annually.

A badly-needed teenage youth center is sponsored by the club in the Recreation park fieldhouse. A director's salary is paid by the Lions.

The club has established a scholarship memorial fund in honor of Dr. Edward Elfred, a long time Arlington Heights doctor. The scholarship will be awarded to a deserving student for medical study.

IN ADDITION to its better known activities, the club has performed many services that have never been publicized. A look through old minutes reveals such items as:

—"Contributed $73.44 for tents for Explorer Post."

—"1300 children attended Christmas party."

—"Authorized food and milk for needy family until township can take over."

—"Held first Citizenship Awards dinner at Chevy Chase and presented awards to four recipients."

—"Presented a worthy club member $491 for doctor and medical expenses."

WHAT'S BEHIND all of these accomplishments?

"Work, hard work. We're strictly a service organization, not a fun club," notes one member.

He notes that each of the club's 140 members is on one of the organization's 14 working committees.

The Lions' fund raising projects are numerous. They include ham dinners, broom sales, candy auctions, white cane sales, car drawings, wrestling matches, and Santa Claus solicitations.

All work and no play, however, has not made the Lions a dull group. At the two monthly dinner meetings, one for business and the other for entertainment, a Tail-Twister roams the room, fining brother Lions who forget to wear their Lion buttons, or levying those who don't sing loud enough. Members are also fined for eating their dessert before permission is given.

ATTENDANCE averages between 75 and 100. One of the attractions is no doubt the family style meal served by the ladies in the Dorcas Aid society of St. Peter Lutheran church. The meetings are held in the basement of the church's activity building.

The two social events of the year are Ladies Night and a Father, Son, and Daughter banquet.

Membership requirements are residency in the village and sponsorship by a member. The big requirement, however, all Lions agree, is a willingness to work. (AF

'Story Hour' For Children

A story hour is conducted each day at the Pioneer Park branch library from 10 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. in the north room of the Pioneer Park building.

On Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings from 10 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., a story hour is conducted through the sponsorship of the literature and drama study group of the Arlington Heights Woman's club. This group meets in the west room of Recreation Park building.

All children between the ages of 4 and 8 years old are invited to join the story hour at both parks. (AF

Gas Station-Car Wash Ban Upheld

Arlington Heights trustees this week upheld a plan commission denial of rezoning that would have allowed construction of a gasoline station-car wash near the southwest corner of Miner and Dryden Streets.

The project was opposed by over 100 residents of the Eastwood area, many of whom protested to the plan commission.

THE STATION would have been located on Dryden, north of the Arlington Market shopping center and south of the apartment building on the corner.

The land is presently zoned R-5 (multiple-family). It would require an M-1 (industrial) classification for the car wash.

Objectors to the rezoning argued that in addition to devaluating their property, a service station-car wash would represent a hazard to the children attending Miner and Windsor schools.

THE SCHOOLS, located across from the site in question, have a combined capacity of 1600 students.

The petitioner for the rezoning, Paul Peterson, was not present at the plan commission hearing because of family illness. (AF

Gala Canine Show Slated

"Every dog has his day" is a well-known phrase and one that will hold true August 27, when the canines of the Arlington Heights area will get a chance to strut their stuff.

The Arlington Market Merchants association in conjunction with the Quaker Oats company is sponsoring a Kids Amateur Dog Show to be held on the Arlington Market parking lot on August 27. Dogs of all types and descriptions will be included in the show.

ANY CHILD can enter any kind of dog in the event. It is an amateur show in the truest sense of the word. Categories to be judged include best costumed dog, largest dog, smallest dog, best trick dog. No pedigrees or formal training are necessary.

All contestants will receive prizes as well as special awards to the various winners. Applications are available in the stores of the Arlington Market. (AF

New Store For Lohr's Pharmacy

Lohr's pharmacy, located for 20 years at 24 W. Northwest hwy. in Arlington Heights, will move to a new location September 1.

The new store will be situated at 210 W. Northwest hwy., next to the Red Owl food store.

"Changing times have necessitated the need for a larger store and better facilities," said owner Joseph Lohr, 33 S. Kaspar.

AMONG NEW features in the store are:

—Complete truss and belt department with fitting room.

—Rental service for wheel chairs, crutches, and other equipment for the handicapped.

—Enlarged cosmetic and prescription departments.

The new pharmacy will contain 4,000 sq. ft., making it over twice as large as the old one.

It Was 40 Years Ago That Women First Cast a Vote

Forty years ago the U. S. was groaning under the same thundering oratory and rolling bandwagons that comprise a presidential election campaign, with one hair-raising difference — women were about to cast their vote for the first time on a nationwide scale.

Harassed men of politics had let down their guard and regardless of whether women might become desexed and turn politics into a morality play, as opponents of feminism charged, they were going to have their say.

It wasn't the first time women had voted, however.

CONGRESS HAD left the decision to the states and New Jersey at first permitted its women to vote. But the men had second thoughts and the state took back the privilege in 1807.

As women joined the labor force in the new factories, and began to help men fight for temperance and the abolition of slavery, they gained a forum to air their pet peeve.

A meeting at Seneca Falls, N. Y., which has been called the first woman suffrage convention in the U. S., stirred public discussion in 1848.

Two years later reformers, male and female, from the entire country assembled at Worcester, Mass., as the Woman's Rights Convention.

The crusade was in full swing when the adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment divided the forces of reform.

The radicals, led by Susan B. Anthony and Elizabeth Cady Syanton, opposed the amendment because it gave the vote to Negro men but not to women. They organized the National Woman Suffrage Association.

A MORE moderate group founded the American Woman Suffrage Association and concentrated on persuading the states rather than the federal government to grant voting rights to women.

In 1872 the determined Miss Anthony was arrested for voting and her trial focused wide attention on the feminist fight.

Several states granted woman suffrage in the 1890's and others began to take the idea more seriously. At the same time, the suffragists reunited in the National American Woman Suffrage Association and prepared for the big push.

Their chance came with World War I and the expanding role of women.

Militant womanhood descended on Washington, D.C. They paraded through the capital, picketed the White House and carried on hunger strikes in jail.

IN 1917 A woman suffrage amendment to the Constitution was submitted to the House of Representatives. The pressure was stepped up and in 1918 Woodrow Wilson personally went before a joint session of Congress to urge passage.

Congress took action and the last of the necessary three-fourths of the states approved the Nineteenth Amendment in August, 1920, just in time for the presidential election.

Medical Training Again Stresses Family Doctor

Medical students at the University of Vermont are being given the responsibility of caring for entire families as a part of their training in preventive medicine. This is a two-year assignment which permits the student to study not only sporadic outbreaks of illness such as flu and measles, but also the natural history of disease and the influence of environment on the health and well-being of the whole family.

In this family care unit, prevention of illness goes right along with treatment of disease, recovery and return of the patient to normal activity.

THIS departure in medical training recognizes the great value of the family doctor who, within the limits of his time and training, undertook to look after the whole family and often became involved with mental attitudes and family problems because he realized these were as important to the recovery of the sick person as medicine or surgery.

However, as medicine became more specialized and new types of lifesaving surgery were perfected, it became impossible for one man to accumulate the knowledge and develop all the skills that might be needed to give adequate medical care to the family. Specialization brought advances in medicine that would have been impossible under the older systems, but it also tended to overlook the needs of the total person in his family setting.

Lutheran General hospital has dedicated its new institution in Park Ridge to what is called the "ecological approach" to medicine and health care. The "whole person" is recognized as having not only a physical body that can get out of order, but also feelings, mental attitudes, religious beliefs and responsibilities within his family and community. All of these not only have a bearing on his health but one may affect the other in such a way as to block recovery from illness.

WHILE Lutheran General trustees and medical staff encourage specialization in the use of advanced techniques in surgery, internal medicine and other aspects of medical care, they are setting up hospital procedures to encourage closer cooperation between departments. A department of pastoral care has been added to insure that religious faith, of whatever creed or denomination espoused by the patient, has its proper place in the healing process. Neuro-psychiatry occupies a whole floor of the hospital and makes its findings available through consulation to all physicians.

It is hoped that the ecological approach will grow in usage and effectiveness and that close cooperation between general practictioners and specialists will usher in a new era of medical care.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS
SPECIAL ASSESSMENT
NO. 142

NOTICE is hereby given to all persons interested that the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Arlington Heights, Illinois, having ordered that a local improvement be made, (including the cost of making, levying and collecting the assessment) which is described as:

the East half of Yale Avenue from Oakton Street to Thomas Street and be improved by grading and by constructing combination curb and gutter, sidewalks, pavement base course and surface course, resurfacing of existing pavement within the limits of the improvement, and all necessary catch basins, manholes, storm water inlets and connecting pipes to existing sewers, together with all necessary ajdustments and appurtenances. The pavement shall consist of a water-bound macadam base course having a compacted thickness of eight (8) inches, constructed on a cushion of stone screenings or sand having a compacted thickness of one (1) inch, and bituminous concrete binder and surface courses having a total compacted thickness of two (2) inches. The width of the roadway to be constructed between Oakton Street and Thomas Street shall be fifteen and one-half (15½) feet from the east edge of the existing pavement to the west thereof of fifteen and one-half feet (15½) to make a roadway of thirty-one (31) feet from the back to the curb to the back of the curb, the ordinance for the improvement being on file in the office of the Village Clerk, having applied to the County Court of Cook County for an assessment of the costs of the improvement, according to benefits, and an assessment therefor having been made and returned to that court, the final hearing thereon will be had on the 23rd day of August, A.D., 1960, at 10:00 o'clock A.M., or as soon thereafter as the business of the Court will permit. All persons desiring may file objections in that court before that day, and may appear on the hearing and make their defense.

Said assessment is divided into ten (10) annual installments and bears interest at the rate of six per cent per annum.

ROY E. ANDERSON
Commissioner appointed by the President of the Board of Local Improvements of the Village of Arlington Heights, Illinois, to make the assessment.

New Hospital Is Air Conditioned

Patients at Lutheran General hospital are now enjoying the comfort of room air conditioning. The new hospital on Dempster street is one of the few in the United States providing this added service for its patients. However, there is no charge for this "extra."

"Our patients have been most enthusiastic in their comments on the air conditioning," Robert J. Nast, acting executive director, stated. "The care and comfort of our patients is our prime consideration, and we are pleased with the many compliments that have been received from them on the air conditioning. Controls within each room make it possible to vary the amount of cooling including turning it off completely," Nast said.

IN ADDITION to the patient rooms, other areas of Lutheran General that are air conditioned include the emergency department, seven operating rooms, surgical recovery room, fracture and cast room, labor and delivery rooms, obstetrical recovery room, the laboratories and the blood bank. Although necessary ducts and piping to completely air condition the building were put in at the time the hospital was constructed, funds are not available to purchase the additional compressors to complete the system.

The new hospital has only been open since January of this year and already five of the six patient floors are in service. One of the floors in use is specially designed and equipped for the treatment of emotionally disturbed patients. This service is available in just a few general hospitals in the entire Chicagoland area.

Wheeling Township Collector William Annen announced this week that collection of 1959 real estate and personal property taxes will be made ONLY at the following banks during regular banking hours:

August 8 through August 31 at Arlington Heights National bank, 14 E. Campbell, Arlington Heights, EXCEPT for the following days—

August 15 and August 29, at Wheeling State bank, 4 S. Milwaukee ave., Wheeling;

August 22 at Mount Prospect State bank, Mount Prospect; and August 10, 27, 24, and 31 at Bank of Arlington Heights, 900 E. Kensington rd., Arlington Heights.

A temporary tax office for obtaining tax bills and other tax information ONLY will be maintained at 919 N. Chestnut ave., Arlington Heights, from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. during the month of August.

Payment of taxes may be made by mail anytime during the month of August. Your receipt will be returned promptly, said Annen. He added that penalty date for both installments is September 1. (ACM

heats water faster
...costs less too!

FASTER? Sure! There'll be plenty for the whole family! New, fast-recovery Gas water heaters replace hot water almost as fast as it's used. This means that clothes can be laundered, baths or showers taken, dishes washed—all at the same time, if that's necessary. There'll be no more skimping, no more waiting to satisfy all those household needs—when a Gas water heater is on the job.

COSTS LESS? Much less!—only about 10c a day to operate—and that's far less than any other automatic water heating method!

YES, have all the hot water you want, fast, at lowest cost—with a modern, compact, Gas water heater!

Special trade-in allowance

For a limited time, to help you learn how wonderful a new GAS Water Heater can be, we'll give you an attractive trade-in allowance on your old water heater.

And the easiest terms, ever . . .
only $5.00 down—36 months to pay

High School Growth

Enrollment Swell Is Engulfing 2 Schools

Arlington and Prospect high schools, planned for maximum enrollments of 2500, will become cramped in two years, according to H. L. Slichenmyer, district 214 superintendent.

Projected enrollment figures show that both high schools will have 2600 students by the 1961-62 school year.

Next year's enrollment will be "ideal," Slichenmyer said. Arlington's enrollment will be approximately 2100, and Prospect's 2300.

THE crowded conditions will last for only one year. Forest View high, to be located in Elk Grove township on Goebert rd. a quarter mile south of Golf rd., is slated for completion by 1962.

Slichenmyer said neither school will go on double shifts in September, 1961. Prospect, the newer school, will have little trouble carrying the heavier load.

Arlington's cafeteria will be more extensively used as a study hall. A present study hall will be converted into two class rooms.

"In some courses, mainly English, science, mathematics, and foreign languages, the increased enrollment will hurt educational standards in 1961," Slichenmyer remarked. "The larger a class becomes, the less ideal it becomes for educational purposes."

TO HANDLE the increased enrollment, district 214 plans to hire 20 additional teachers in 1961.

A total of 20,967 students attended public and parochial schools in district 214 last year an increase of 4,039 over last year.

Biggest increases in the public school enrollments were in district 57, Mt. Prospect, from 3062 to 3783; district 59, Elk Grove Village, 1062, to 1681; district 21, Wheeling, 1109 to 1665; district 25, Arlington Heights, 3754 to 4156; and district 15, Rolling Meadows, 2056 to 2397.

Parochial schools showed smaller increases, and many of the students will attend Catholic high schools.

Slichenmyer said that the high schools would be even more crowded in 1961 if it were not for the opening of a Catholic boys school in Arlington Heights that year.

St. Viator high, to be located between Euclid and Oakton sts. and east of Dryden st., will accomodate 1600 to 1800 students.

A saturation study prepared by Dr. Jack Childress of Northwestern university's department of education in 1959 indicated that 6197 students would be needing classrooms by September, 1962.

District 214 voters approved a $3.9 million bond issue in November, 1959, for the construction of Forest View high school.

By 1964, when the number of high school students approaches 7500, a fourth school will be needed. (ACM

3 Victims Are Still In Hospital

Three of the 11 victims of the July 9 automobile accident in Rolling Meadows are still at Northwest community hospital. Two have been there the entire time since the three-car collision. One was discharged and has returned for more treatment.

Daniel Salberg, 49, of Arlington Heights, most seriously injured, is now able to talk, though tracheotomy equipment is still in his neck. His wife Hazel, 39, is out of traction and doing very well.

The patient who has returned is Francine Culpepper, 49, of Arlington Heights. She was originally reported in fine condition with facial and leg bruises. She was discharged, but has returned because of difficulty with a leg wound. (B8

'How to Win' Is Demo Gals Topic

"How to win an election" will be the main topic for discussion at the next meeting of the Wheeling Township Democratic Woman's organization to be held on Tuesday evening, Aug. 23.

The meetings are held regularly on the fourth Tuesday of each month at the Union hotel in Wheeling. A door prize is called and refreshments are served.

SPEAKER at the last meeting, held Tuesday, July 26, was Mrs. Alice Mackin of Des Plaines. A visiting guest was Mrs. Delores Hoste of Wheeling who joined the organization that evening.

The Wheeling Township Democratic Woman's organization is open to all voters of Wheeling township.

President is Mrs. K. Schuster, Mt. Prospect; vice president, Mrs. Marie Wisersky, Arlington Heights; recording secretary, Mrs. Marilyn Orlowski, Mt. Prospect; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Maribell Peterson, Wheeling; committee woman, Mrs. Magdalene Remzing, Mt. Prospect; area vice president of the 13th Congressional Democratic Woman's organizations, Mrs. Beverly Homan, Wheeling; and publicity chairman, Mrs. Helen Thiele, Prospect Heights.

Interested parties wishing further information on membership or meetings of the organizations are asked to call Mrs. Thiele, LE 7-2099. (ACM

A hearing will be held by the county board of school trustees in the office of the county superintendent of schools August 15 at 2:15 p.m., regarding the annexation of the entire school district 56 to Community Consolidated district 59.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gorr and their son, Dick, attended a family reunion at Druce lake Sunday.

Twenty-two relatives attended the annual reunion picnic for Mrs. Luczak's family Sunday on the Luczak lawn. Marcy Beigel was Sharon's guest.

The Robert Palmers camped for one week at Brown County State park in Indiana accompanied by Mrs. Palmer's parents, G. A. Bruening, St. Louis, Mo. The Bruenings celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary while there.

Mr. and Mrs. William Piske, Mrs. Ann Pryor of Wood Dale, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Piske of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bielfuss and Ralph of Prospect Heights were Sunday guests at the Alan Piske home.

The William Sundblads took the car ferry from Milwaukee to Ludington, then motored to St. Ignace and took the ferry to Mackinac island where they spent the day before motoring back through Wisconsin. They were gone for a week. (AM

Growth of New Suburbs Poses District Dilemma

(What is a fire protection district? What are its functions, its problems? How is it financed, governed? This is the first of two articles which will attempt to answer these heretofore unanswered questions, shedding light on an area of government given little attention by the public.)

by BRUCE LADD

Since the days of the Stone Age, fire has been man's salvation.

The discovery of fire enabled man to protect himself from winter's fury, allowed him to cook food for the first time. The God of Fire was deified above all others.

But as time crept on, fire escaped man's control and became his enemy. Even in this modern age, fires annually destroy millions of acres of valuable forest timber, take lives every day.

Early American settlers formed bucket brigade societies to fight fires. Though ineffectual, bucket brigades served as the chief means of fire protection for more than 100 years.

THE FIRST fire fighting apparatus with locomotion consisted of crude, horse-drawn carts. They were virtually useless, however, in controlling the great Chicago fire of 1871.

As fire fighting devices improved, man realized the need for organization and proper implementation of equipment. City fire departments were accorded serious attention.

Illinois farmers, in 1927, banded together to form rural fire protection districts. The first districts spanned vast areas, but as populations grew and buildings multiplied, districts were halved and quartered.

Like the fire departments of towns and villages, rural fire protection districts were manned by volunteers. The man at the plow leaped to the call when the fire bell sounded.

THEN MECHANISM and demands for increased productivity required the farmer give up his fire fighting duties. Volunteer firemen were solicited, organized to give the laboring farmer protection. He was taxed for this service.

Today, the word "rural" is misleading in fire district titles. Towns have sprung up in the originally agricultural areas, and have been included under the district's protection. Simply, the term "rural" has never been dropped, though the districts are no longer limited to rural service.

Fire protection districts have been minimized in importance, but by no means eliminated of necessity, in rapidly growing suburbia. New suburbs understandably arrange for their own fire protection, disconnecting themselves from the encompassing "rural" districts.

Modern fire districts are categorized under four headings: contract, semi-operative, fully operative, and coterminus with city government.

THE WHEELING township rural district exemplifies the contract form. Here the rural district enters into a contract annually with a centrally located municipality (in this case with the Village of Wheeling), whose fire department provides the needed protection.

The semi-operative form is embraced by the Palatine rural district. The district owns its own fire fighting equipment, but allows the Village of Palatine fire department to house and service it.

The Prospect Heights district is an example of the fully operative form. The district built and maintains its own fire station, owns and operates its own equipment.

And finally, in recently developed suburbs such as Hoffman Estates and Rolling Meadows, the fire district is an arm of the municipal government. The district is formed for its taxing potential and is co-terminus with the operation of other municipal departments.

There are some 25 fire districts in the northwest suburban area. Some carry the "rural" label, some do not. Most are governed by boards of three trustees appointed by the county court.

THE COUNTY judge conducts hearings each year to accept the credentials of trustee candidates. Trustees cannot be removed from office unless it can be proved they are guilty of malfeasance. Trustee salaries generally run about $250 a year.

Fire districts are necessary. They were established to provide fire protection for predominately rural areas without municipal government. Taxes are necessary. They were originated to insure equal protection for all.

The need for the fire tax is illustrated by the ineffectiveness of other means of obtaining revenue. One popular fund raising scheme, long extinct, was operated by residents subscribing to fire protection services for a prescribed annual sum.

IN ONE Cook county locale where this fee-type system was used, firemen were called to a house fire late at night. Instead of training water on the burning home, firemen saturated the houses on either side of it.

The house burned to the ground. The infuriated owner was summarily told that he had neglected to pay his "fee" for fire protection. His neighbors' homes were doused to eliminate their catching fire too. Their fees were paid.

(In the second article on Fire Protection districts, finances, services, problems and future outlook will be discussed.)

Growth of New Suburbs Poses District Dilemma

(What is a fire protection district? What are its functions, its problems? How is it financed, governed? This is the first of two articles which will attempt to answer these heretofore unanswered questions, shedding light on an area of government given little attention by the public.)

Residents Urged: Pay Taxes at Local Level

Residents of northwest suburbs can materially assist their local governments if they will pay their real estate tax bill to township collectors, or request that their mortgage company make payment to him rather than the county collector.

This plea was issued this week by collectors in Palatine, Elk Grove, Wheeling, and Schaumburg townships.

Payments to local collectors permit them to make early distribution of tax monies to local taxing bodies. For school boards especially, this means the savings of several months interest on tax anticipation warrants already issued by these boards.

WHEN TAX collections exceed $200,000, the excess commission is paid into the township treasury. This helps defray the cost of township government and can enable the township to operate without spreading a tax levy for the town fund or the general assistance fund.

If this tax bill is paid to the county treasurer, he will deduct the same two per cent commission, but none of this commission will be available to township government.

FOLLOWING are the township collectors, their offices and hours:

Palatine township: George W. Howes, 12 W. Chicago ave., Palatine. Hours 9 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m.. to 4 p.m. except Wednesday afternoon.

Elk Grove township: Arnold Scharringhausen, 2 E. Busse ave., Mt. Prospect. Hours 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. except Wednesday, 8:30 a.m. to noon. Friday nights 6 to 8.

Wheeling township: William Annen. From August 8 to 31, hours during banking hours at Arlington Heights National bank except for August 15 and 29 at Wheeling State bank and August 10, 17, 24, and 31 at Bank of Arlington Heights.

Schaumburg township: Albert F. Hartmann, residence on Rodenberg rd. south of Wise rd. Hours 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Office in Hoffman Estates at Blackhawk school, Schaumburg rd and Illinois blvd. east of Roselle rd., August 23 to 27 from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. (B8

Hospital Tops Its April Baby Record

Northwest Community hospital broke its April baby record of 120 in July, when 138 newcomers were welcomed there.

Aside from the baby business, however, administrator Alan B. Campbell said overall occupancy was down. This is true of other hospitals he has been in contact with during the week. Administrators at Lake Forest, Highland Park, and Lutheran General report occupancy figures fell in July, picking up slightly at the end of the month. Campbell attributes this to hot weather and vacation schedules.

THE EMERGENCY room was kept busy with household accidents, including the usual eaters - of - the - wrong - kind of substance, dog bite and cut victims.

Thomas Lukas, 2, of Elk Grove, drank some charcoal lighter fluid and had his stomach pumped Sunday. The day before Robert Priest, 2, of Prospect Heights, had the same treatment because he ate ant poison.

Diane Rucinski, 2, of Elk Grove, was admitted to the hospital for two days earlier last week, because she drank an unknown quantity of Draino. Joan Hurless, 2, of Mt. Prospect, was brought for emergency care, because she swallowed a nickel. She was given an X-ray and sent home.

Frank Holub, 20, Chicago, was a dog bite victim. Emergency room staff members stitched a two-inch cut on his lip Thursday.

ROBERT RUSSOW, 17, of Palatine, fell off a tractor and a trailer wheel ran over him. He suffered bruises on his back, shoulder and arm. A cut on his back was sutured. Another victim Tuesday, July 26, is Lawrence Freck, 2, of Mt. Prospect. He had stitches on a cut hand suffered from a broken coffee cup.

Clarence Schultz, 44, of Arlington Heights, received a large cut on his right arm from a fish aquarium. Wednesday Mark Mueller, 6, of Palatine, stepped on a needle that broke off in the heel of his right foot. The needle was removed by surgery.

The same day Frank Gumma, 5, of Rolling Meadows, slipped and fell on concrete at his home. A cut on his chin was stitched. Mary Lou Fuoco, 4, of Mt. Prospect, hit her head on a bed headboard and suffered a cut head.

William Pulak, 2, of Palatine, was also a headboard victim. He had a one-inch cut stitched. Mary Murphy, 4, of Mt. Prospect, had a 1½-inch cut stitched. She was hit with a shovel by her brother. (B8

Too Busy

Only 58 per cent of the women listed in Who's Who of American Women are married. Of the 12,000 in this category, 32.4 per cent are childless.

The Mailman's Corner

Habit Is Major Factor in Life

LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

Although people change in appearance, in their knowledge of things, resulting from new knowledge and experience, and may learn new skills, or pick up new interests in life, they seldom change their personality, and most of their habits. If they are forgetful, they tend to remain forgetful; if they smoke, by far the greatest majority continue to smoke; they have a sense of humor or are serious minded. They are timid, or they are brave. They are selfish, or generous; morose, or talkative These personality traits and habits they generally get buried with.

At least 90 per cent of our lives are controlled by a giant called habit, and to that extent, we resemble puppets on a string. By simply manipulating the string, the habitual reaction is carried out.

AND TO a very great extent, this is good; for if we had to stop and think out every action that we make in walking, talking, dressing, undressing, eating, driving a car, and so on, we would most certainly end up getting nowhere, and doing little of anything. It is only because we can turn all of these physical reactions over to our subconscious mind that we accomplish the things we do.

But unfortunately, we have another habit that is bad. That is the habit of not breaking our bad habits. So mechanical is our reaction to the daily things that come up, that we do them subconsciously. We forget to put things back in their place, and spend hours hunting for them. We eat too many starches, and get too fat, even though we know we are injuring our health. We develop habits on untidyness, or carelessness. These things hamper our accomplishments, add to our tensions, and ruin our tempers.

NEITHER DO we try as we should to overcome our innate selfishness — that habit of always thinking of me-first. Our habit of expecting others to give in to us; of seeing the "mote" in our brother's eyes, but being blind to the "beam" in our own.

It is in this field that we need the help of powers greater than ourselves. We may never entirely overcome the "me-first" complex, nor our desires to do and think evil things; but through prayer, and with God's help, we can keep from doing or thinking them, and through Christ, we can find foregiveness and peace of mind. Free Church Has Vacation School

The Arlington Heights Evangelical Free church will conduct its annual daily Vacation Bible school from August 8 through 19, from 9 to 11:45 a.m., Monday through Friday.

The Vacation Bible school is intended to augment the work of the Sunday School through the greater concentration which is possible in the continuous two week session.

The director of the school, Mrs. Mary Jane Brady, announced there are four departments which cover the span from age 4 through children in the eighth grade. Mrs. Betty McAlister will have charge of the beginners' department and will emphasize the theme "God's Helpers." Mrs. Ethel Rail will have charge of the primary department, which will study the lives of Bible and modern missionaries. The junior department boys and girls will be learning how to make the Bible meaningful. The older pupils will study the teachings of the Apostle Paul.

Registration will begin Monday, August 8, at 9 a.m. at the church, Dunton and St. James sts. A transportation committee, under the direction of Mrs. Irene Mosby, will help those with a transportation problem.

The school is open to all children in the vicinity who are in the age group mentioned. (A

Building Boom

Construction in Hawaii totaled $210 million in 1959, compared to $97 million as recently as 1947. Predictions forecast $282 million in building on the islands for 1960.

NORMA GALASSI, of Lake Geneva, Wis., Tuesday was awarded a 15-foot Century boat, a 40-horsepower Evinrude motor, and a trailer by the Texaco company in a summer sales promotion contest. Roy Zylstra, 631 S. Mitchell st., Arlington Heights, the company's district sales representative, and Harry Christiansen, the dealer at the corner of Rand and Foundry rds., Mt. Prospect, made the presentation to Miss Galassi. Eight of the boat sets and eight compact cars are being given away in the contest which runs through September 6.

Hospital Tops Its April Baby Record

Northwest Community hospital broke its April baby record of 120 in July, when 138 newcomers were welcomed there.

Aside from the baby business, however, administrator Alan B. Campbell said overall occupancy was down. This is true of other hospitals he has been in contact with during the week. Administrators at Lake Forest, Highland Park, and Lutheran General report occupancy figures fell in July, picking up slightly at the end of the month. Campbell attributes this to hot weather and vacation schedules.

THE EMERGENCY room was kept busy with household accidents, including the usual eaters - of - the - wrong - kind of substance, dog bite and cut victims.

Thomas Lukas, 2, of Elk Grove, drank some charcoal lighter fluid and had his stomach pumped Sunday. The day before Robert Priest, 2, of Prospect Heights, had the same treatment because he ate ant poison.

Diane Rucinski, 2, of Elk Grove, was admitted to the hospital for two days earlier last week, because she drank an unknown quantity of Draino. Joan Hurless, 2, of Mt. Prospect, was brought for emergency care, because she swallowed a nickel. She was given an X-ray and sent home.

Frank Holub, 20, Chicago, was a dog bite victim. Emergency room staff members stitched a two-inch cut on his lip Thursday.

ROBERT RUSSOW, 17, of Palatine, fell off a tractor and a trailer wheel ran over him. He suffered bruises on his back, shoulder and arm. A cut on his back was sutured. Another victim Tuesday, July 26, is Lawrence Freck, 2, of Mt. Prospect. He had stitches on a cut hand suffered from a broken coffee cup.

Clarence Schultz, 44, of Arlington Heights, received a large cut on his right arm from a fish aquarium. Wednesday Mark Mueller, 6, of Palatine, stepped on a needle that broke off in the heel of his right foot. The needle was removed by surgery.

The same day Frank Gumma, 5, of Rolling Meadows, slipped and fell on concrete at his home. A cut on his chin was stitched. Mary Lou Fuoco, 4, of Mt. Prospect, hit her head on a bed headboard and suffered a cut head.

William Pulak, 2, of Palatine, was also a headboard victim. He had a one-inch cut stitched. Mary Murphy, 4, of Mt. Prospect, had a 1½-inch cut stitched. She was hit with a shovel by her brother. (B8

Habit Is Major Factor in Life

LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

Although people change in appearance, in their knowledge of things, resulting from new knowledge and experience, and may learn new skills, or pick up new interests in life, they seldom change their personality, and most of their habits. If they are forgetful, they tend to remain forgetful; if they smoke, by far the greatest majority continue to smoke; they have a sense of humor or are serious minded. They are timid, or they are brave. They are selfish, or generous; morose, or talkative These personality traits and habits they generally get buried with.

At least 90 per cent of our lives are controlled by a giant called habit, and to that extent, we resemble puppets on a string. By simply manipulating the string, the habitual reaction is carried out.

AND TO a very great extent, this is good; for if we had to stop and think out every action that we make in walking, talking, dressing, undressing, eating, driving a car, and so on, we would most certainly end up getting nowhere, and doing little of anything. It is only because we can turn all of these physical reactions over to our subconscious mind that we accomplish the things we do.

But unfortunately, we have another habit that is bad. That is the habit of not breaking our bad habits. So mechanical is our reaction to the daily things that come up, that we do them subconsciously. We forget to put things back in their place, and spend hours hunting for them. We eat too many starches, and get too fat, even though we know we are injuring our health. OBITUARIES

Louis F. Bornkamp

Tuesday, Aug. 2, funeral services were held for Louis F. Bornkamp, 211 S. Evergreen, Arlington Heights, in the Lauterburg and Oehler chapel, with Rev. Robert O. Bartz officiating. Interment was in St. Peter Lutheran cemetery.

He was born in Arlington Heights March 27, 1893 and died July 30 at 121 S. Chestnut st., Arlington Heights.

He leaves his wife, Martha, nee Elendt; two daughters, Mrs. Gertrude Markstrom and Mrs. Bernice Hurley, both of Arlington Heights; four sisters: Mrs. Helen Albrecht and Mrs. Minnie Heimsoth, both of Arlington Heights, Mrs. Emma Linneman of Elk Grove and Mrs. Anna Kirchhoff of Elkhorn, Wis.; four grandchildren, Karin and Christine Markstrom and Keith and Kathleen Hurley.

John F. Jerome

Funeral services for John F. Jerome, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Jerome, 173 Thacker, Hoffman Estates, Roselle, were held Saturday, July 30 in St. John U. of C. church, Roselle and Algonquin rds. Rev. Peter Beecken officiated and interment was in Mt. Hope cemetery, adjoining the church.

He was born November 22, 1953 in Evanston and died July 28 in Children's Memorial hospital, Chicago, following heart surgery performed July 27.

Besides his parents, he leaves two sisters, Mary and Donna; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jettmann of Morton Grove and his paternal grandparent, Mrs. Ann Jerome of Wilmette. (A-13

Alvia V. Morgan

Monday, Aug. 1, services for Alvia Vern Morgan, Elm ln., Palatine, were held in Black's Memorial home, with Rev. Glenn Gumm officiating. Interment was in Lake Street Memorial Park cemetery.

He was born in Mattoon April 27, 1886, and died July 29 in Plum Grove Nursing home, Palatine, at the age of 74.

THERE ARE ALL KINDS OF SMILES

There's the satisfied smile. And the triumphant smile. And there is the "just plain happy" smile. And then there's the kind of smile any woman gets when she thinks about spending money. All those smiles can come from using the Want Ads. You'll be satisfied and triumphant and happy, too, when you sell your "don't needs" for quick cash with a Paddock Publications Want Ad. And then you can smile as you think about spending that money. So come on . . . get happy . . . place your Want Ad right now!

Hot Weather and Man's Best Friend

Suburban Dog Observes Pool Project with Calm Disdain

by PHILIP NELSON

Joe is extremely nationalistic. Not that he is conscious of any particular country of origin, of which are somewhat confused in Joe; simply, he is overly aware of being a dog — and will defend to the death his canine prerogatives.

"I'm a dog, g-rrr-rr," his manner indicates. "Push me too far and you get my Irish up."

Which brings me to hot weather. All my tired suburban neighbors can be seen arriving from work, beat, soaked in perspiration and lugging from their cars the latest wrinkles in swimming pools.

Tongue handing out, I visualize myself, afloat in the cool liquid, the odor of ribs sizzling on the barbecue grill, the sound of Chopin's nocturnes tinkling on a piano some where in the little suburban paradise.

So - it wasn't long before I untangled myself from the car, struggling, lugging an awkward package. "Carrie," I screamed, bathed in sweat, "looka what I got, honey."

THE FRONT door burst open and three-year-old David thrust his precocious head out: "Whatcha got for me, da—ddy?" he asked. Towering over him, Carrie's inquisitive eyes took in my package. "What dje buy now?" she asked menacingly.

Immediately on the defensive, I protested that it was true the do-it-yourself barbering set had almost butchered little David and set up a clamor that roused half the population in DuPage county. Maybe the cow-branding tools had been a trifle useless, although a genuine bargain. But this, I declared, was an emergency relief measure and would bring us the rare delights of Suburbia and Hollywood.

The smile on Carrie's face was beautiful to behold. Even David's frustrated screams that the new purchase was not another fire engine and the angry slamming of a neighbor's door couldn't erase it. We had arrived. Deluxe living, with all the trimmings.

Lolling in your own pool — this was luxury with a capital "luh." I licked my lips in anticipation, even enjoying the salty taste of the perspiration soaking my face.

No more driving about for three hours looking for a parking place at the public beach, no more seeking several vacant square inches of sand to plump oneself upon; no more bumping into floating human logs or getting stepped upon by hairy Johnny Weissmullers on the first lap of their cross-lake swims.

QUICKLY, I stripped the precious item of its outer layers of wrapping, and with the help of two neighbors and a hardly - legible and confused diagram, I assembled the huge monstrosity, despite David's thwarted attempts to climb into it before it was ready.

"Look, daddy," he yelled, "I'm a rocket, zzzz, BOOM," and he'd dive into the yards of inflated rubber, knocking it out of my hands.

It was assembled. I tried to look nonchalant about it all, as half the neighborhood gathered around to admire and envy.

"Pretty big," reluctantly admitted Marvin. "Yeah." said Tom, "kinda," shaking his head in disgust.

It was the biggest thing I could find, the biggest in the neighborhood. In fact, it was bigger than my living room. In all honesty, now, I had to concede, there was no room for it. It enveloped my magnolia tree and almost completely eclipsed my rose bushes. I hunched down, dismayed, fearful, reluctant to look at Carrie.

"H'mph," I heard her say, "H'mph."

"Well, maybe I can - kinda scrunch it together a little bit," I timidly ventured.

"That man—" angrily began Carrie.

"Honey," I put in quickly, "look, maybe sideways, I can stand it up sideways. Say, that's a terrific idea."

MEETING THE incredulous stares of half my neighbors, I discarded my brilliant idea. "Eureka!" I shouted, "I've got it."

I let out the air for a bit, and it began to shrink. Before long, I drew the begrudging admission from Carrie that it would now fit, albeit, it gave the appearance of either ectoplasm or an afterbirth, with the useless, deflated portion hanging to it like an appendage.

"It's not too bad," delightfully assisted my neighbor Tom. "Just looks like you're growin' a lot of toadstools."

I seized my hose, filled the pool with water, then scrambled into my trunks, emerging with a Comanche warwhoop, ready to plunge in, up to my ears.

BUT THERE was Joe.

He loved water. Paddling around in the pool, he exuded the unmistakable assurance of possession, "to the manor born."

As I approached, his lips curled back and he snarled—in hate and defiance.

"Nice doggy," I commented in trepidation. "Good doggy nice old Joe. There's a good pooch. Come on, take your pawsies out of the water and ——"

"Gr-rrr-rrr," he growled, with that baleful gleam, all whites. He wasn't being very helpful, I reflected.

"It's my pool," I said. "Gee whiz, come on, there's a nice doggy."

I WHEEDLED and coaxed, appealed to his master, who almost lost three inches of forearm, trying to drag him out. It was useless. Joe dominated the pool, while I sweltered. Once, I really lost my temper.

"You're a cowardly cur," I screamed, "and if I wasn't afraid of rabies, I'd give you a crack on the head. An you, Marvin, you'd better get your mangy pooch out of my pool or I'll call the Humane society."

"It's your pool," Marvin said blandly. "You get him out. And if you scratch a hair on his head, I'll call the Anti-Cruelty society."

There, I was, bathed in my own sweat.

When night fell, Joe left the pool, and I emptied it of water.

I tried again, sneaking out of the house early in the morning, just as the sun flooded the sky, a gigantic omelette. The minute I turned my back, Joe was in the pool, splashing away in his cursed dog paddle.

I called upon all his alleged and suspicious antecedents, liberally using every term of slander and exhausting my powers of invention.

JOE MERELY floated on his back, and I swear, the look on his face was the canine version of the horselaugh. I swear it Darkness enveloped me as I emptied the pool.

It was useless. No matter how often I sneaked out of the house, at whatever hour I tiptoed to my pool, the smell of water attracted this rabid animal with an affinity for my pool.

One hot July day, I could take it no longer. In the middle of the scorching afternoon, I ran screaming out in the midday sun, my head a veritable roast, the perspiration swimming down my back —and, I committed murder

With an icepick in my hand, I jabbed and jabbed, and jabbed, running amok, unable to endure the torturing sight of the blasted hound depriving me of my inherent rights as the master race, and done it in.

THE POOL, I mean. When I was through with it, it looked like a giant sponge, wheezing and sighing as the air crept out. I killed in the hot blood of a terrible passion. And its mangled remains coiled about my petunias like bloated toadstools.

Watching me all the time was Joe. He sat on his haunches, his red tongue half out of his mouth, and with I swear by all the gods of the ancients, a sneer upon his lips.

State Revokes Driver Licenses

The office of Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier announced this week that area motorists had received four revocations, nine suspensions, and eight probationary permits.

SUMMER HEAT GOT YOU BEAT?

Some things can't wait... but we can!

If the summer heat wave is cramping your smile, there's no use getting hot under the collar. We've got the perfect solution for you, anyway. Just see Citizens for a convenient, low bank-rate Air Conditioning Loan. Whether you prefer a window-type installation or a permanent cooling system, we'll be happy to finance the cost and establish your good credit rating, besides. And remember, your Citizens loan automatically includes protective life insurance at absolutely no cost to you.

Doesn't it make sense to enjoy the rest of the summer (and many more to come) in air conditioned comfort while you spread your low monthly payments over a convenient period of time? Let Neil Cooney show you how easily it can be done.

Some things can't wait . . . but we can.

"Honey," I put in quickly, "look, maybe sideways, I can stand it up sideways. Say, that's a terrific idea."

MEETING THE incredulous stares of half my neighbors, I discarded my brilliant idea. "Eureka!" I shouted, "I've got it."

I let out the air for a bit, and it began to shrink. Before long, I drew the begrudging admission from Carrie that it would now fit, albeit, it gave the appearance of either ectoplasm or an afterbirth, with the useless, deflated portion hanging to it like an appendage.

"It's not too bad," delightfully assisted my neighbor Tom. "Just looks like you're growin' a lot of toadstools."

I seized my hose, filled the pool with water, then scrambled into my trunks, emerging with a Comanche warwhoop, ready to plunge in, up to my ears.

BUT THERE was Joe.

He loved water. Paddling around in the pool, he exuded the unmistakable assurance of possession, "to the manor born."

As I approached, his lips curled back and he snarled—in hate and defiance.

"Nice doggy," I commented in trepidation. "Good doggy nice old Joe. There's a good pooch. Come on, take your pawsies out of the water and ——"

"Gr-rrr-rrr," he growled, with that baleful gleam, all whites. He wasn't being very helpful, I reflected.

"It's my pool," I said. "Gee whiz, come on, there's a nice doggy."

I WHEEDLED and coaxed, appealed to his master, who almost lost three inches of forearm, trying to drag him out. It was useless. Joe dominated the pool, while I sweltered. Once, I really lost my temper.

"You're a cowardly cur," I screamed, "and if I wasn't afraid of rabies, I'd give you a crack on the head. An you, Marvin, you'd better get your mangy pooch out of my pool or I'll call the Humane society."

"It's your pool," Marvin said blandly. "You get him out. And if you scratch a hair on his head, I'll call the Anti-Cruelty society."

There, I was, bathed in my own sweat.

When night fell, Joe left the pool, and I emptied it of water.

I tried again, sneaking out of the house early in the morning, just as the sun flooded the sky, a gigantic omelette. The minute I turned my back, Joe was in the pool, splashing away in his cursed dog paddle.

I called upon all his alleged and suspicious antecedents, liberally using every term of slander and exhausting my powers of invention.

JOE MERELY floated on his back, and I swear, the look on his face was the canine version of the horselaugh. I swear it Darkness enveloped me as I emptied the pool.

It was useless. No matter how often I sneaked out of the house, at whatever hour I tiptoed to my pool, the smell of water attracted this rabid animal with an affinity for my pool.

One hot July day, I could take it no longer. In the middle of the scorching afternoon, I ran screaming out in the midday sun, my head a veritable roast, the perspiration swimming down my back —and, I committed murder

With an icepick in my hand, I jabbed and jabbed, and jabbed, running amok, unable to endure the torturing sight of the blasted hound depriving me of my inherent rights as the master race, and done it in.

THE POOL, I mean. When I was through with it, it looked like a giant sponge, wheezing and sighing as the air crept out. I killed in the hot blood of a terrible passion. And its mangled remains coiled about my petunias like bloated toadstools.

Watching me all the time was Joe. He sat on his haunches, his red tongue half out of his mouth, and with I swear by all the gods of the ancients, a sneer upon his lips.

Busy Homemakers will Favor Mrs. Peterson's Lemon Cake

by LOIS SEILER

Here is a dessert dazzler! Called simply a Lemon Refrigerator Cake, it is a high, light and handsome dessert, designed to please the most discriminating guests.

The recipe is a favorite of Mrs. Kenneth V. Peterson of Arlington Heights, who says, "This cake is especially nice for serving a group of ladies and it will serve 12." Although rich, it has a tart lemon flavor that is especially refreshing during the summer months."

This dessert looks elegant but is actually relatively easy to prepare. All it takes is an angel food cake and a light and delicate lemon custard. To simplify matters the cake can be purchased at a bakery or prepared with a mix.

CHUNKS of the cake are alternated in layers with the custard in a tube pan. Then the cake is refrigerated.

"This is a good dessert if you feel that you are going to be rushed on the day you are entertaining," commented Myrna Peterson, "for this recipe can be made one or two days ahead of time. In fact, it holds together better if it is made in advance."

And for busy mothers such as Myrna, who has four active youngsters, this is an especially attractive feature. For a pretty effect, she serves the cake slices topped with a dab of whipped cream and uses candied mint leaves for garnish.

BECAUSE of its tangy lemon flavor, men find this dessert equally appealing as do women. "I always reserve a slice for my husband," she said, "for it is one of his favorites, too."

Another of her specialties is a date bread which is simple to prepare, yet delightful to taste.

"This is a wonderful recipe for a freezer," emphasized this good cook, as it makes four or five loaves. It is an old family recipe and my mother always has this bread on hand. If you have unexpected guests, the date bread defrosts in a hurry and is delicious with coffee."

"This recipe can easily be cut in half, but if you wish to make the whole recipe the bread will keep fresh and moist."

For coffee parties Myrna slices the bread fairly thin and serves some plain, some with cream cheese and others with butter.

AND THOUGH Christmas is many months away, you may wish to remember this flavorful bread for Christmas giving. Myrna wraps the loaves in Saran Wrap, ties them with a festive ribbon and they make ideal yuletide gifts.

In addition to her homemaking duties, Mrs. Peterson is active in St. Mark's Lutheran church, where she is treasurer of the Foreign Mission circle. She is also a co-room mother for the PTA.

The Petersons live at 702 S. Highland in Arlington Heights. Their children are Lynn, 10; Jeffrey, 8; Laurie, 6, and Greg, who is 2 years old.

Lemon Refrigerator Cake

1 tablespoon plain gelatine
¼ cup cold water
6 egg yolks
¾ cup sugar
¾ cup lemon juice
1½ teaspoons grated lemon rind
6 egg whites
¾ cup white corn syrup
1 large angel food cake

Soften gelatine in water and set aside. Combine egg yolks, sugar, lemon juice and rind and cook over hot water (not boiling), until mixture coats the spoon. Remove from heat and add gelatine while hot; stir until dissolved.

Beat egg whites until stiff. Gradually add the white corn syrup, while beating constantly. Fold egg whites into yolk mixture. Oil large tube pan. Tear cake into small pieces and arrange layer in the bottom of the pan. Pour custard over and alternate custard and cake.

Chill until firm and serve topped with whipped cream. Serves 12.

Date Bread

4 cups boiling water
1½ pounds dates, chopped
4 teaspoons soda
4 cups sugar
4 tablespoons shortening
4 eggs
1½ cups chopped nutmeats
6 cups sifted flour

Pour boiling water over dates and soda. Set aside. Cream sugar and shortening in a large bowl; add eggs and beat well. Stir in the date mixture and lastly add the nutmeats and flour.

Bake in a slow oven, 200 degrees, for 1½ hours; makes 4 or 5 loaves.

SUCCESSFUL HOMEMAKING

CUTTING SLICES of a luscious lemon refrigerator cake is Mrs. Kenneth V. Peterson of Arlington Heights. This light and refreshing dessert is one of her favorites for summertime entertaining. Eagerly anticipating a sample of this elegant cake are the Petersons four children, Laurie, Jeffrey, Greg and Lynn. SH

Q. What apology should one make after a sudden sneeze in public?

A. "Pardon me" is sufficient.

Q. What do you have to say about leaving your seats at a theater performance during the intermission?

A. This practice, of course, is accepted, but if you do leave your seats, go out by the way which requires disturbing the fewest persons. Try not to trample on any feet and, above all, be sure to return before the curtain rises, particularly if you have seats midway between aisles.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT
by Edward Rentz
Let's take a look today at that famous food essential, protein.
Protein is extremely important in a balanced diet because it is so vital to the health of the body. For children, it is vital to growth; for adults, it is necessary for bodily maintenance and repair.
Don't look at that fancy name "protein" and think of it as a medicine, something distasteful yet necessary. No, the best sources of protein are in our tastiest foods. Eggs, meats, fish, cheese, poultry, milk and its products, and ice cream are our best sources of protein. Also good sources are bread, dried beans and peas, and cereals.

Barbecue Beef Satisfies Crave For Western Foods

Barbecued hamburger has many recommendations. This meat cooks quickly, it tastes so good, and is comparatively reasonable in cost. In flavor harmony with rice and tomatoes, the barbecued meat is simmered only 25 to 30 minutes on top of the range.

The barbecue sauce which seasons the meat and creates a taste medley with the rice and tomatoes is made from three pantry shelf staples: unsulphured molasses, prepared mustard and Worcestershire; it gives a rich brown color to the sauce, and aids in browning the meat.

FOR EASY party service, the Western Hash might be spooned onto plastic coated paper plates. The plastic coated paper plates and cups, shown here in a chuck wagon design, stand up to hot foods and beverages, and there is no dishwashing after the party.

With the Western Hash casserole, have a variety of relishes or a tossed green salad; French bread and a beverage.

Western Hash

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ cup finely chopped onion
¼ cup chopped green pepper
1 pound ground beef
1 teaspoon salt, divided
1 teaspoon chili powder
¼ cup chopped ripe olives, optional
¼ cup unsulphured molasses
¼ cup prepared mustard
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1 can (1 pound) tomatoes
1 cup raw rice

Melt butter in large skillet; add onion and green pepper and cook until onion is tender, but not brown. Add ground beef, ½ teaspoon of the salt and chili powder. Brown beef, breaking up into pieces with a fork.

While beef is browning, combine unsulphured molasses and prepared mustard. Stir in Worcestershire sauce. Add to beef mixture with tomatoes and remaining ½ teaspoon salt. Gradually add rice. Cover; reduce heat and simmer 25 to 30 minutes, or until rice is tender. Yield: 6 servings.

Week's Best food buys

Stores are offering a smorgasbord of "dealer choice" values in meats, poultry and fresh produce against a background of widely ranging-steady to lower prices, slower consumer demand, and more than ample supplies.

Across - the - board bargain opportunities show up clearly on the August 1-6 University of Illinois Consumer service food survey, in selected beef, fresh pork, ham, and lamb classes; chickens, turkey and eggs; fruits and vegetables, and value-rated processed foods. The marked exception is higher priced bacon.

In most of these categories costs are rated steady to slightly lower at the primary levels — retail, wholesale and live markets.

U OF I — measured Chicago-area food bargains include this week:

Meats — Beef roasts (rib, chuck, rump and sirloin tip), steaks (sirloin, round) and ground beef; pork picnics, hams and spareribs; lamb shoulder and leg roasts; turkeys; produce — tomatoes, sweetcorn, celery, carrots, green beans, grapes, blueberries, melons; groceries — citrus juices, tomato products, coffee, peaches.

Livestock receipts were up slightly but lethargic hot-weather, jaded interest at the consumer level filtered all the way down the line, to hold cattle, hog and lamb costs steady to slightly lower. Cattle reached a new low cost level for the year.

At wholesale, beef chucks dropped, setting up the popular hamburger and blade cut roasts as clear-cut market values at retail, while hinds and rounds held steady. Pork loins fell another penny, and butts and ribs were off fractionally. Lamb also was down 1 cent for a cumulative 4 cent decline, legs holding a price position on some increased demand.

Turkeys, fryers and eggs are in a stand-pat position, and stewing hens are stabilized on good demand from canners and processors.

TOTAL SUPPLIES of fresh fruits and vegetables are reaching peaking points for the season.

Fruits: avocados, blackberries, blueberries, figs*, grapes, lemons, limes, nectarines, peaches*, pears*, plum-prunes*, raspberries. Melons: cantaloupe, casabas, crenshaws*, honeydews*, watermelon. Vegetables: lima beans, green beans, beets, cabbage, corn*, cucumbers, eggplant*, garlic*, okra, peppers, tomatoes*. (*indicates the peak supply month.)

Retail pricing situations:

Beef — ground beef 49-59 cents, widely ranging blade chucks showing 37-49 cents, round bone roasts ranging less widely 59-65 cents, rib roasts without promotion 69-79 cents, and sirloin tip and rump roasts based at 89 cents. Round steak shows a top competitive 89 cents, sirloins and porterhouse steady with last week's 89 cents-$1.15 and 98 cents-$1.29 respectively.

Pork — fresh lines slipping on most counts to base rib roasts at 43 cents, loin roasts 53 cents, center chops 85-89 cents, boston butts 49-59 cents, spareribs 59 cents and occasionally 49 cents. Hams, contrarywise to prevailing costs, price 45-55 cents for whole or half cuts; picnics, too, are value-pegged often under the general 39-43 cents. Bacon quotes a firmer 73-75 cents as more stores find difficulty in holding the 69 cent line. Second brands also are a stronger item although continuing to show survey quotes of 49-59 cents.

LAMB — considerable pricing relief noted here, as indicated by leg roasts promotionally at 55-59 cents, but generally 65-69 cents. Shoulder roasts range 45-49 cents. In chop lines, shoulder cuts are tagged 79-85 cents, rib cuts 98 cents-$1.09, and loin cuts $1.19-1.29.

Poultry — fryers unchanged at 39 cents as a combination of promotion and demand maintain a stable market; stewing hens in good demand by canners also stabilize at 39 cents for light weight birds, 45-49 cents for those four pounds and up. Turkeys are a stand-pat line at 45-49 cents, although a 39 cent tag shows more often on the more flexible market base. Eggs, receipts light, are unchanged at the 49 cent base for large grade A whites.

Groceries — processed foods index is now even with year-ago, based partly on outlook for higher vegetable product costs expected from this year's smaller production. Citrus juices rate a plentiful designation, apple products are ample, but prunes and dried apricots are quoting currently higher. Generally, canned fish storage is lower than a year ago and prices are up in fish lines — fresh, frozen or canned. Only tuna, halibut, mackerel and scallops compare favorably with year-ago supplies of the major demand items.

Young Adults Get in the Swim

Young adults of the Northwest Suburban Young Adult Fellowship will "get in the swim" this Sunday, Aug. 7, when the group travels to Cedar lake for its annual beach party. Members and friends attending the party will meet at the north end of Arlington Market shopping plaza, Arlington Heights, at 12:30 p.m. Swimmers may either bring their own lunch or buy refreshments at the lake.

THE YOUNG Adult Fellowship has been organized for single Protestant young adults in the northwest suburban area. Recent graduates and college students home for the summer are invited to join the group in this activity.

Anyone wishing further information or needing transportation may call Edie Helfers, CL 3-1876.

Barbecue Beef Satisfies Crave For Western Foods

WESTERN FOOD FOR A PARTY........Barbecued beef combined with rice and stewed tomatoes makes a satisfying party casserole. This main dish with its southwestern, nippy sauce would be popular and hearty for a teen-age gathering, and a young hostess could easily prepare it.

Barbecued hamburger has many recommendations. This meat cooks quickly, it tastes so good, and is comparatively reasonable in cost. In flavor harmony with rice and tomatoes, the barbecued meat is simmered only 25 to 30 minutes on top of the range.

The barbecue sauce which seasons the meat and creates a taste medley with the rice and tomatoes is made from three pantry shelf staples: unsulphured molasses, prepared mustard and Worcestershire; it gives a rich brown color to the sauce, and aids in browning the meat.

FOR EASY party service, the Western Hash might be spooned onto plastic coated paper plates. The plastic coated paper plates and cups, shown here in a chuck wagon design, stand up to hot foods and beverages, and there is no dishwashing after the party.

With the Western Hash casserole, have a variety of relishes or a tossed green salad; French bread and a beverage.

Western Hash

2 tablespoons butter or margarine

¼ cup finely chopped onion

¼ cup chopped green pepper

1 pound ground beef

1 teaspoon salt, divided

1 teaspoon chili powder

¼ cup chopped ripe olives, optional

¼ cup unsulphured molasses

¼ cup prepared mustard

2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce

1 can (1 pound) tomatoes

1 cup raw rice

Melt butter in large skillet; add onion and green pepper and cook until onion is tender, but not brown. Add ground beef, ½ teaspoon of the salt and chili powder. Brown beef, breaking up into pieces with a fork.

While beef is browning, combine unsulphured molasses and prepared mustard. Stir in Worcestershire sauce. Add to beef mixture with tomatoes and remaining ½ teaspoon salt. Gradually add rice. Cover; reduce heat and simmer 25 to 30 minutes, or until rice is tender. Yield: 6 servings.

Week's Best food buys

Stores are offering a smorgasbord of "dealer choice" values in meats, poultry and fresh produce against a background of widely ranging-steady to lower prices, slower consumer demand, and more than ample supplies.

Across-the-board bargain opportunities show up clearly on the August 1-6 University of Illinois Consumer service food survey, in selected beef, fresh pork, ham, and lamb classes; chickens, turkey and eggs; fruits and vegetables, and value-rated processed foods. The marked exception is higher priced bacon.

In most of these categories costs are rated steady to slightly lower at the primary levels — retail, wholesale and live markets.

U OF I — measured Chicago-area food bargains include this week:

Meats — Beef roasts (rib, chuck, rump and sirloin tip), steaks (sirloin, round) and ground beef; pork picnics, hams and spareribs; lamb shoulder and leg roasts; turkeys; produce — tomatoes, sweetcorn, celery, carrots, green beans, grapes, blueberries, melons; groceries — citrus juices, tomato products, coffee, peaches.

Livestock receipts were up slightly but lethargic hot-weather, jaded interest at the consumer level filtered all the way down the line, to hold cattle, hog and lamb costs steady to slightly lower. Cattle reached a new low cost level for the year.

At wholesale, beef chucks dropped, setting up the popular hamburger and blade cut roasts as clear-cut market values at retail, while hinds and rounds held steady. Pork loins fell another penny, and butts and ribs were off fractionally. Lamb also was down 1 cent for a cumulative 4 cent decline, legs holding a price position on some increased demand.

Turkeys, fryers and eggs are in a stand-pat position, and stewing hens are stabilized on good demand from canners and processors.

TOTAL SUPPLIES of fresh fruits and vegetables are reaching peaking points for the season.

Fruits: avocados, blackberries, blueberries, figs*, grapes, lemons, limes, nectarines, peaches*, pears*, plum-prunes*, raspberries. Melons: cantaloupe, casabas, crenshaws*, honeydews*, watermelon. Vegetables: lima beans, green beans, beets, cabbage, corn*, cucumbers, eggplant*, garlic*, okra, peppers, tomatoes*. (*indicates the peak supply month.)

Retail pricing situations:

Beef — ground beef 49-59 cents, widely ranging blade chucks showing 37-49 cents, round bone roasts ranging less widely 59-65 cents, rib roasts without promotion 69-79 cents, and sirloin tip and rump roasts based at 89 cents. Round steak shows a top competitive 89 cents, sirloins and porterhouse steady with last week's 89 cents-$1.15 and 98 cents-$1.29 respectively.

Pork — fresh lines slipping on most counts to base rib roasts at 43 cents, loin roasts 53 cents, center chops 85-89 cents, boston butts 49-59 cents, spareribs 59 cents and occasionally 49 cents. Hams, contrarywise to prevailing costs, price 45-55 cents for whole or half cuts; picnics, too, are value-pegged often under the general 39-43 cents. Bacon quotes a firmer 73-75 cents as more stores find difficulty in holding the 69 cent line. Second brands also are a stronger item although continuing to show survey quotes of 49-59 cents.

Tuna Salad Is Favorite With American Families

In a survey of over 2,000 families in all sections of the United States, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service found that tuna is the most frequently served type of canned fish in all parts of the country.

About 80 per cent of the families queried had served it at least once, and some up to five times in a four-week period. Furthermore, 82 per cent of the users said they generally served canned tuna in salads

NOTED FOR its superior quality protein, canned tuna is ideal for salads since it can be used direct from the can. The succulent pieces of tuna are liked by many with just a highlight of lemon or lime juice.

Tuna also is a natural with other salad ingredients. Here it is teamed with hard cooked eggs, celery, stuffed olives and salad greens. Such a handsome salad would be a main dish attraction at a summer party buffet.

SALAD'S A MAIN COURSE WITH TUNA Look to main dish salads to encourage and please summer appetites. With canned tuna as an ingredient, there is high quality protein to make the salad hearty. Chilled, right from the can, tuna here is combined with hard-cooked eggs and garden vegetables for luncheon or weekend supper use.

Tuna Salad

2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna-in-vegetable oil
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
1 cup diced celery
¼ cup French dressing
½ teaspoon salt
Salad greens
½ cup mayonnaise
Stuffed olives, sliced

Combine tuna with eggs, celery and French dressing; sprinkle with salt. Arrange on salad greens and garnish with mayonnaise and sliced stuffed olives. Yield: 6 servings.

Rice Is Tempting The Hawaiian Way

Everybody likes fried rice, but we have to credit our 50th state with an inspired version of this popular dish.

This fried rice is so delicious, it walks off with main course honors, for it is served in a mound atop broiled pineapple rings and garnished with rashers of bacon.

You'd never guess such good eating could be prepared so easily. Cooked rice is added to onions and celery, which nave been sauteed in the bacon drippings, along with mushrooms and a generous seasoning of soy sauce. Stir in an egg and you are ready to serve.

THIS RECIPE offers a practical use, too, for any leftover rice you may have on hand. Rice, you know, will keep nicely in the refrigerator for several days.

We suspect that Fried Rice Hawaiian will be such a family favorite, that you will be cooking rice especially for this dish.

Fried Rice Hawaiian

3 tablespoons bacon drippings
½ cup chopped green onions and tops
1 cup diced celery
1 cup sliced mushrooms
2½ cups cooked rice
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 egg, slightly beaten
8 pineapple rings, broiled
16 slices crisp cooked bacon

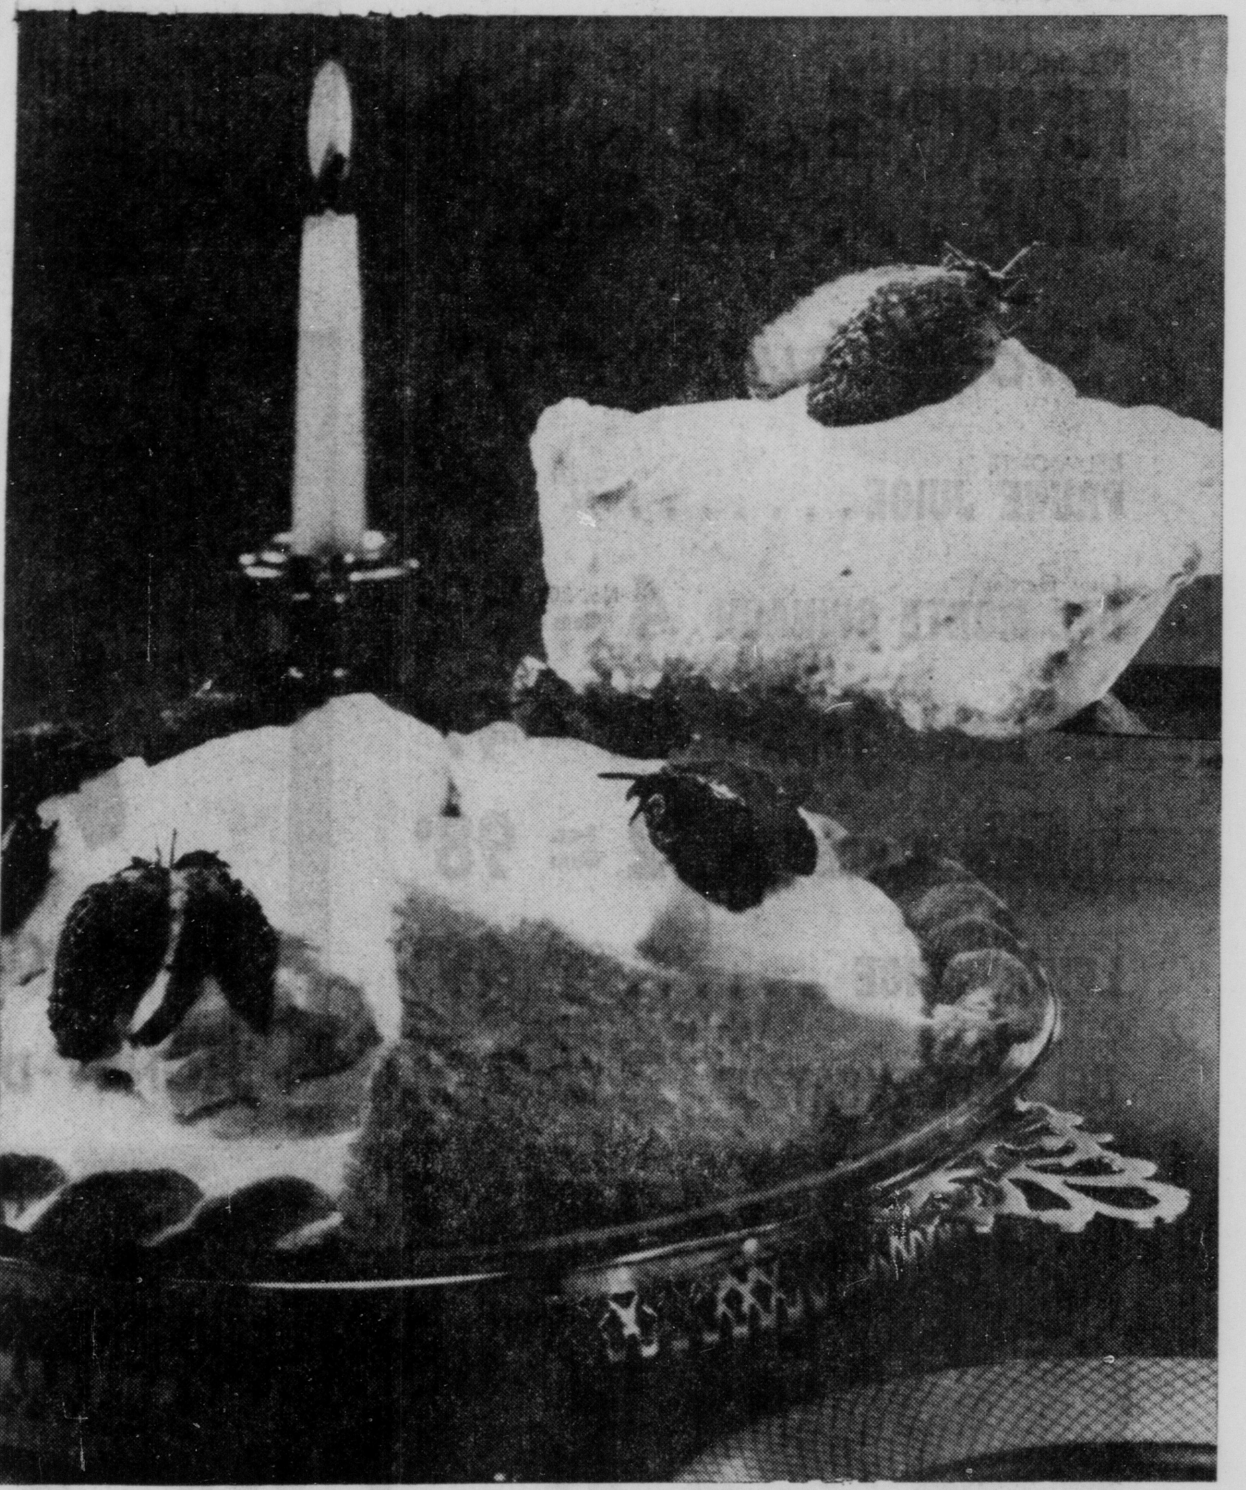
Heat bacon drippings in skillet. Add green onions and celery. Cook until almost tender.

Add mushrooms, rice and soy sauce. Cook 10 minutes on low heat, stirring occasionally.

Stir in beaten egg and cook only until egg is done.

Serve mounds of fried rice on broiled pineapple rings with rashers of bacon. Makes 4 servings.

Unflavored Gelatine Adds Lightness To Luscious Pie



Cheese cake is a specialty of many fine restaurants, and it is becoming the dessert accomplishment of many home cooks by a modern short-cut method. In case a new bride wishes to know the new technique: milk, sugar and unflavored gelatine are cooked a few minutes in the double boiler.

Cottage cheese and lemon juice are added, and this mixture chilled slightly. Finally whipped cream is folded in, and the filling is turned into a baked crust. Gelatine gives the no-bake pie filling its lightness of texture and its creaminess.

HERE THE no-bake cheese pie is topped with strawberries and handsomely "stage set" by the wedding silver of a new bride. This dessert made by the bride will be so appreciated that it may well become the dessert specialty on anniversaries to come.

Strawberry Cottage Cheese Pie

1 envelope unflavored gelatine

* * *

¾ cup sugar
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 cups (16 ounces) creamed cottage cheese
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2/3 cup heavy cream, whipped
1 9-inch baked pie shell
Fresh strawberries

Mix together gelatine and sugar on top of double boiler. Stir in milk. Place over boiling water, stirring occasionally, until gelatine is dissolved, about 8 minutes. Remove from heat; add lemon rind; cool. Sieve cottage cheese into large mixing bowl, or beat with electric mixer until smooth.

Stir in cooled gelatine mixture, salt and lemon juice. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Fold in whipped cream. Turn into prepared shell. Chill until firm. Garnish with additional whipped cream and fresh, or frozen, strawberries, or serve with strawberry sauce. Yield: one 9-inch pie.

Tuna Salad Is Favorite With American Families

In a survey of over 2,000 families in all sections of the United States, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service found that tuna is the most frequently served type of canned fish in all parts of the country.

About 80 per cent of the families queried had served it at least once, and some up to five times in a four-week period. Furthermore, 82 per cent of the users said they generally served canned tuna in salads

NOTED FOR its superior quality protein, canned tuna is ideal for salads since it can be used direct from the can. The succulent pieces of tuna are liked by many with just a highlight of lemon or lime juice.

Tuna also is a natural with other salad ingredients. Here it is teamed with hard cooked eggs, celery, stuffed olives and salad greens. Such a handsome salad would be a main dish attraction at a summer party buffet.

SALAD'S A MAIN COURSE WITH TUNA Look to main dish salads to encourage and please summer appetites. With canned tuna as an ingredient, there is high quality protein to make the salad hearty. Chilled, right from the can, tuna here is combined with hard-cooked eggs and garden vegetables for luncheon or weekend supper use.

Tuna Salad

2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna-in-vegetable oil
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
1 cup diced celery
¼ cup French dressing
½ teaspoon salt
Salad greens
½ cup mayonnaise
Stuffed olives, sliced

Combine tuna with eggs, celery and French dressing; sprinkle with salt. Arrange on salad greens and garnish with mayonnaise and sliced stuffed olives. Yield: 6 servings.

Rice Is Tempting The Hawaiian Way

Everybody likes fried rice, but we have to credit our 50th state with an inspired version of this popular dish.

This fried rice is so delicious, it walks off with main course honors, for it is served in a mound atop broiled pineapple rings and garnished with rashers of bacon.

You'd never guess such good eating could be prepared so easily. Cooked rice is added to onions and celery, which nave been sauteed in the bacon drippings, along with mushrooms and a generous seasoning of soy sauce. Stir in an egg and you are ready to serve.

THIS RECIPE offers a practical use, too, for any leftover rice you may have on hand. Rice, you know, will keep nicely in the refrigerator for several days.

We suspect that Fried Rice Hawaiian will be such a family favorite, that you will be cooking rice especially for this dish.

Fried Rice Hawaiian

3 tablespoons bacon drippings
½ cup chopped green onions and tops
1 cup diced celery
1 cup sliced mushrooms
2½ cups cooked rice
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 egg, slightly beaten
8 pineapple rings, broiled
16 slices crisp cooked bacon

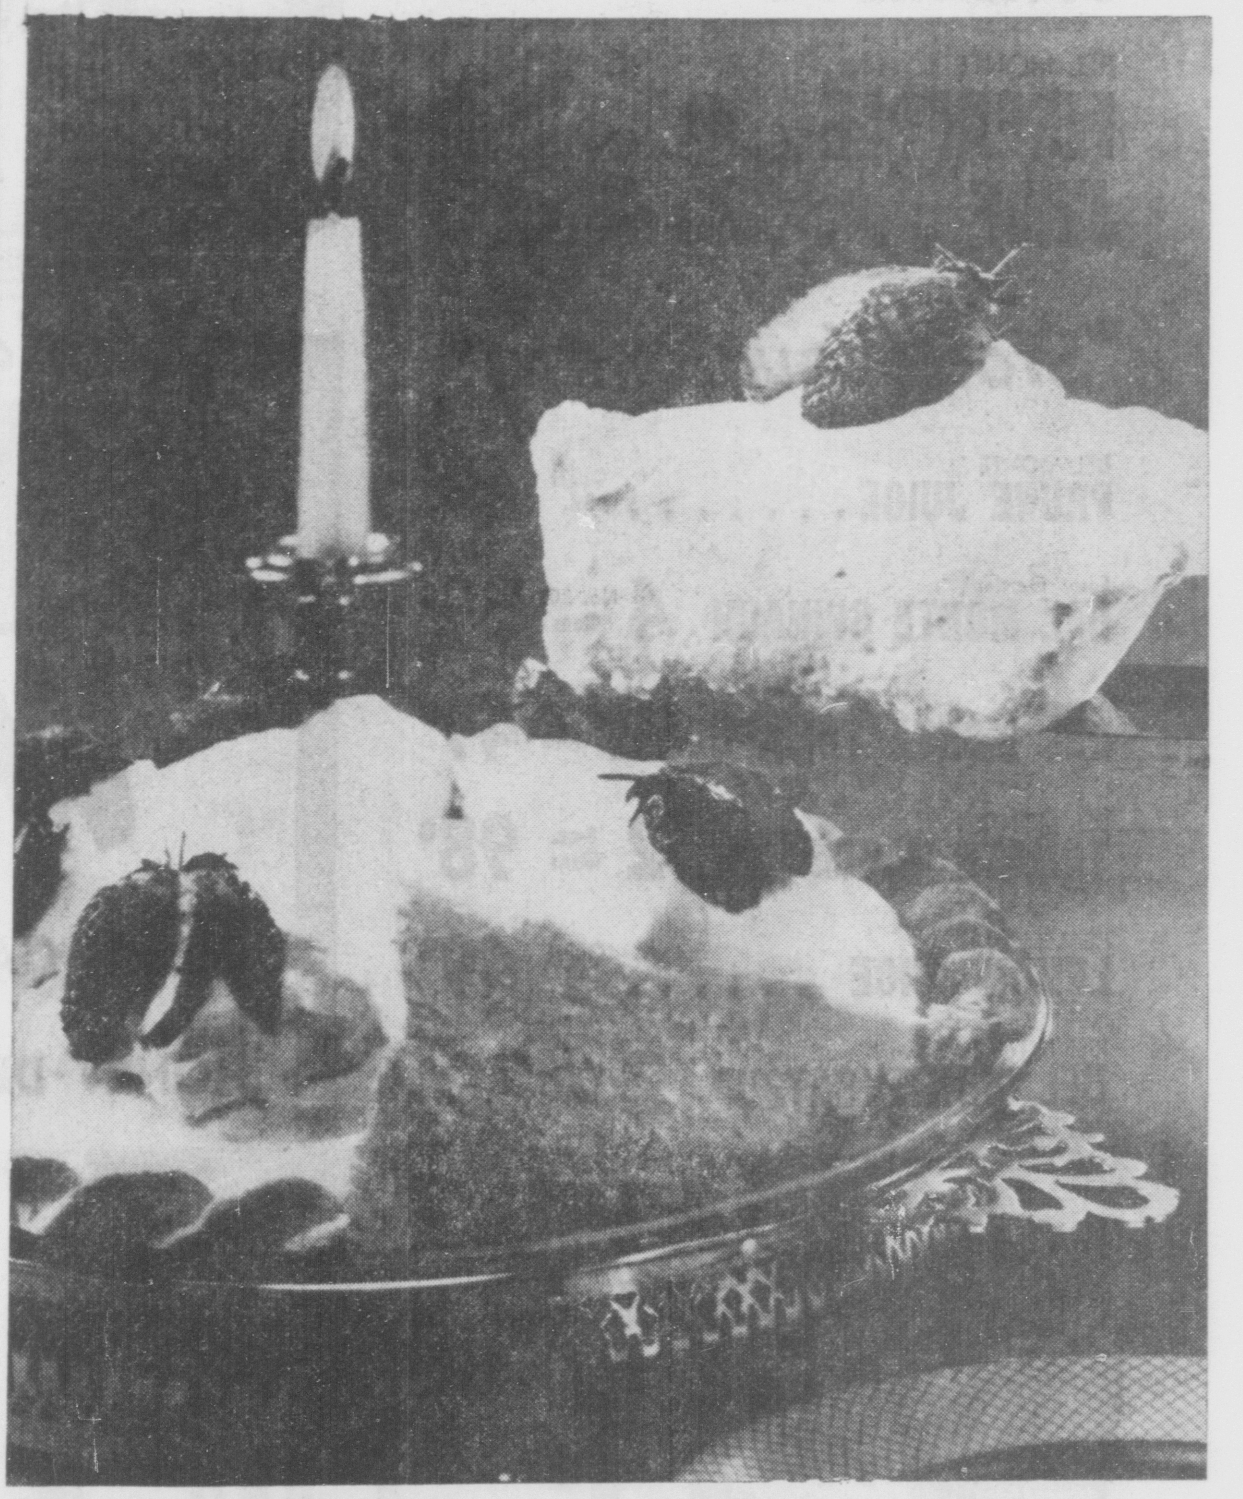
Heat bacon drippings in skillet. Add green onions and celery. Cook until almost tender.

Add mushrooms, rice and soy sauce. Cook 10 minutes on low heat, stirring occasionally.

Stir in beaten egg and cook only until egg is done.

Serve mounds of fried rice on broiled pineapple rings with rashers of bacon. Makes 4 servings.

Unflavored Gelatine Adds Lightness To Luscious Pie



Cheese cake is a specialty of many fine restaurants, and it is becoming the dessert accomplishment of many home cooks by a modern short-cut method. In case a new bride wishes to know the new technique: milk, sugar and unflavored gelatine are cooked a few minutes in the double boiler.

Cottage cheese and lemon juice are added, and this mixture chilled slightly. Finally whipped cream is folded in, and the filling is turned into a baked crust. Gelatine gives the no-bake pie filling its lightness of texture and its creaminess.

HERE THE no-bake cheese pie is topped with strawberries and handsomely "stage set" by the wedding silver of a new bride. This dessert made by the bride will be so appreciated that it may well become the dessert specialty on anniversaries to come.

Strawberry Cottage Cheese Pie

1 envelope unflavored gelatine

* * *

¾ cup sugar
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 cups (16 ounces) creamed cottage cheese
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2/3 cup heavy cream, whipped
1 9-inch baked pie shell
Fresh strawberries

Mix together gelatine and sugar on top of double boiler. Stir in milk. Place over boiling water, stirring occasionally, until gelatine is dissolved, about 8 minutes. Remove from heat; add lemon rind; cool. Sieve cottage cheese into large mixing bowl, or beat with electric mixer until smooth.

Stir in cooled gelatine mixture, salt and lemon juice. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Fold in whipped cream. Turn into prepared shell. Chill until firm. Garnish with additional whipped cream and fresh, or frozen, strawberries, or serve with strawberry sauce. Yield: one 9-inch pie.

Virginia Terrace News

Family of the week . . . is that of Esther and Andy Turner, 1525 Clarendon, and their children, Jill, 7, Steve, who moved here almost six years ago. Both were born in Chicago, raised in Melrose Park and met in high school. Following graduation from same, Andy spent an interim with the air force, while Esther worked as a secretary, and it was during a leave that their courtship culminated in marriage nine years ago. Esther was with Andy at Langley Air Force base, Va., until he left for overseas duty during the Korean war, at which time she returned home to work until his discharge. Andy then established himself as a plumber with a Chicago firm prior to their move here. The family attends St. James Catholic church; where Jill and David will attend second and first grades, respectively.

Membership in organizations having to wait until the children are older, the Turners limit their activities to personal interests. Andy enjoys his role as a handy man, having aided in the construction of their garage and breezeway, while relaxation is obtained from his hobby of scuba diving. Esther's interests include horseback riding, interior decorating, reading and sewing. Both are enthusiastic about their stereo hi-fi and both are interested in flying; although, for the present, they must be content at going on short trips with friends who own a plane.

Their families are closely knit, and much time is spent together with Andy's mother, Mrs. Emily Turner, La Grange, and Esther's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leonrd, Melrose Park, and other close relatives.

BRUCE, SON of Joan and Curtis Wayne, 1237 N. Chicago, 8 July 31, celebrated his birthday in grown-up fashion by requesting his father to take him and his two cousins on a trip to the Field Museum following a picnic lunch along the lake front. A family dinner party was enjoyed later in the day, and present to wish him many happy returns were his sisters, Nancy, Claudia and Constance, paternal grandmother, Mrs. John Wayne, Chicago, as well as an aunt, uncle and cousins.

Sandy and Dave Yates, 1522 W. Oakton, and their children, Leslie, Lisa and David, returned home Friday night after spending three days at the summer home of friends at Michiana Shores, Mich., which included swimming, sun bathing and a trip to the zoo and kiddieland for the benefit of the children.

A cook-out supper party was held last Thursday evening for Patsy, daughter of Grace and George Rogers, 1313 N. Chicago, in honor of her 11th birthday. She and her guests, among whom were her sister, Linda, Jane Hult, Julie Griffith, Nancy Kale, and Lonna Linnewah, Arlington Heights. They then went on to the park for a swim before calling it a night.

It was a dual birthday celebration for Terry, daughter of Pearl and Dick Trummer, 1418 W. Oakton, 5 July 27. On that day her brother, Timmy, Barbara Brown, Ellen Frisbie, Nancy Jo an Barbara Geer, Suzanne Burkhardt, Colleen and Patricia Coleman, Christine and Diane Henneman, Marcia Siebert, Des Plaines, and Kristi Nelson, Arlington Heights, enjoyed a splash party the highlight of which was sliding into the water for pennies. They also played games, ran races, received favors and had birthday cake and ice cream. Saturday the Trummers were joined by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Ella Roedel, Chicago, and other relatives at a barbecue birthday party.

IT WAS AN afternoon theatre party that highlighted the birthday celebration of Mary Lynn, daughter of Bess and Richard Reese, 1301 N. Chicago, last Saturday afternoon. Wishing her a happy eighth birthday after enjoying the matinee at the Arlington theatre were her sister, Susan Lee, Claire Lowell, Leslie Bang, Debbie Zare and Carol Chupich.

Terry, son of Laverne and Bud Reichert, 1208 N. Chicago, celebrated his 14th birthday July 26 by being treated to an afternoon at the races, a dinner topped off with birthday cake and ice cream and, in conclusion, attending the movies with his parents and brothers, Dennis, Michael and Jimmy. The following day, the family and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Witt, Chicago, enjoyed an outing at Lake Geneva.

Mary Lou and Ray Crouch, 128 N. Chicago, the children, Marianne and David, and Mary Lou's mother, Mrs. James Douglas, who lives with them, spent a long weekend recently in Indianapolis at the home of Ray's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Crouch, who were thrilled to see their grandson for the first time. Sunday the Crouches entertained David's great aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Richards, Chicago, at a dinner party, held in celebration of his first birthday.

Gene, son of Margaret and Eugene Dougherty, 1417 N. Wilke, 7 August 1, celebrated his birthday last Saturday when the family, which includes his sisters, Joanne, Kathleen and Mary Ellen, spent the day at Brookfield zoo. Following dinner that evening, Gene invited his sisters, Bruce Harmon, Joanne Whippe and Bob, Dawn and Cathy Amann to share in his birthday cake and ice cream.

A WEEK'S vacation was recently enjoyed at Hotel Ephraim, Ephraim, Wis. by Sandy and Bruce Mullins and their boys, Michael and Kevin. Seven-month-old Marianne was left in the capable hands of Sandy's sister, Mrs. Marilyn Hartmann, Park Ridge. Although Sandy and Bruce took time out to enjoy an evening unto themselves, they devoted the remaining time to swimming, boating and fishing with the youngsters.

The first birthday of Kelly, daughter of Jeanette and Bill Gaffney, 1405 N. Illinois, was celebrated last Friday. In on the festivities were her sisters, Cynthia and Patricia, paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Gaffney, Rockford, and Bill's godfather and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Rom Weber, Batesville, Ind., who was also a birthday celebrant that day. The adults enjoyed an afternoon at the races, cocktails at the Gaffneys and dinner out, with the celebration being completed at home again with the serving of birthday cake and ice cream.

A week of swimming, fishing and boating relaxed Carol and Ron Reed, 1216 N. Race, and their children, Bobby and David, when they stayed at a summer cottage at Burlington, Wis. Highlight of the trip, says Carol, was the night she and Ron went out for a bit of fun themselves.

July 28 was moving day for Helen and Ted Wolszczaks, 1220 N. Race, and their daughter, Cathy, who are now in a new home in Morton Grove.

July 27 marked the first birthday of John, son of Jean and Ed Lussier, 1216 N. Chicago, and present at the dinner party and assisting him in blowing out his candle were his brothers, Bobby, Tommy, Jimmy and Eddy.

A family get together, topped off with a barbecue supper, was enjoyed at the Lussiers' last Sunday when Jean's sister and her family, the T. J. Magraths, Park Forest, came for the day. Bobby and Tommy returned home with their aunt and uncle for a week's visit, much to the delight of the seven children involved.

A FAMILY dinner party was held at the home of Mrs. Mae Mammoser, Chicago, last Sunday in honor of her granddaughter, Mary Jo, 7 August 1. In on the celebration were Mary Jo's parents, Mary Louise and Dieter Burkhardt, 1507 Clarendon, her sister, Suzanne, and brothers, Chris, Peter and Curt. Chris remained at his grandmother's for his first 3-day vacation.

Monday afternoon Mary Louise entertained friends of her daughter at a sewing bee birthday party. In on the fun were Mary Jo's sister, Suzanne, Kathleen Brown, Leslie Yates, Ann Frisbie, Jill Turner, Roxanne Kuhl and Patty Henneman.

A 2-week vacation through the northwestern states has been enjoyed by Pat and Bill Cotsakis, 1232 N. Race, their children, Fritzie and Danny, and Pat's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hering, Browns, Ill. They visited relatives in Washington and Oregon and enjoyed several highlights, such as Mt. Hood, Oregon, Yellowstone park and the Black Hill region.

Laraine and Ron Francis, 1227 N. Wilke, entertained Terrace couples Jeanne and Art Sadowski and Kathy and Don Munk, as well as other friends from Arlington Heights and Des Plaines at a patio party a week ago Saturday night. Game playing and dancing were concluded with a barbecue snack.

A visitor last week at the home of Mary and George Maybee, 1251 N. Wilke, and their children, Debra, Michael, Kathleen and Timothy, was Mary's niece, Janet Kreuscher from Kenosha. The Maybees drove her home again Saturday and shared in a celebration for Janet's ninth birthday.

LUNCHEON at the Milk Pail, Dundee, was enjoyed last Thursday afternoon by friends of Marcia, daughter of Betty and Ed Cech, 1402 N. Chicago, at which time Judy Whipple, Jean Guderley, Kathy Casteel, Joyce Conroy and Joan Oertel wished her a happy 15th birthday.

Friends and neighbors of June and Kilburn Visk, 1334 N. Chicago, and their children, Phyllis, Billy and Larry, wished them much luck in their new home in Northfield. They left the Terrace July 26.

Another couple neighbors were sorry to see leave were Martha and Chuck Dillman, 1256 N. Chicago, and their sons, Craig and Shane. Their departure August 1 for Ft. Dox, N. J., was the result of an army transfer, but the Dillmans aren't too unhappy, as they will only be a short distance from their respective families; for the first time in their army career.

August 1 was also the moving date for Mary Margaret and Jack Francis, 1321 N. Wilke, who, with their children, Linda, Boyd and Claudia, moved only to 604 S. Dunton, Arlington Heights, much to the delight of their friends here.

Mrs. Marie Bender, who is now living at 1119 N. Wilke, happily announces that she became a great grandmother July 27, when her granddaughter, Arline, gave birth to a 7 pound 2 ounce son.

A 10-day vacation, crammed with activities, was recently enjoyed by Joan and Jack McKey, 1421 N. Race, and their daughter, Cheryl, at Phelps, Wis. Not only did they enjoy a flying trip with friends who joined them from Champaign-Urbana, but boating, water skiing, horseback riding, swimming and scuba diving, as well.

Bill, son of Charmaine and Charles Sayre, 1204 N. Race, was host at an out-of-door party last Sunday afternoon to Tom Pniewski, Gregg Shea, Bob Conti, Bob Weber, Patsy O'Brien, Cathy Cunningham, Cherry Wood, Carol Kline and Claudia Jacobs. Bill and his guests enjoyed games, a scavenger hunt and a bit of dancing before sitting down to a barbecue supper.

A CIRCUS carousel cake was the center of attraction at the birthday party held Friday afternoon for Andy, son of Diane and Sheldon Staubitz, 1447 N. Race, and helping him to blow out the five candles were his sisters, Jenny and Laura, brother, David, and playmates Kathy and Linda Gustke, Kenny and Bob Hermann, Frank Precilio and Janet and Skipper Fluhrer. Birthday cake and ice cream were served again Sunday at a family dinner party attended by Andy's grandparents, Mrs. Bertha Staubitz, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Roser, all of Chicago. Highlight of the day for Andy was a serious game of badminton with his grandfather.

A quiet celebration of her 14th birthday was enjoyed by Mary, daughter of Polly and Charles Millhouser, 1702 W. Oakton, when she asked Lauren Sayre, Mary Claugh, Janice Mayer and Roxanne Buckley to join her for lunch July 27.

Barbara Wiederhold, 1322 N. Chicago, enjoyed a brief visit from an old friend last Thursday afternoon, namely, Mrs. Ernest Sachse, and her daughters, Lynne and Jill, Janesville, Wis., who were enroute home after a visit with Mrs. Sachse's mother. It had been more than a year since the girls had seen each other, so Barbara reintroduced her sons, Kim, Kyle, Kevin and Robert, and Mrs. Sachse saw Dwight for the first time.

Rae and Robert Martin, 1614 W. Oakton, and their daughter, Sara Ann, have returned from a 10-day visit to Des Moines, where they not only enjoyed a stay with Robert's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Martin; but, leaving Sara Ann in her grandparents' capable hands, got in a good deal of swimming and golfing.

Last Friday evening birthday celebrant Barbara Bade was properly toasted by her friends, among whom were Adelaide Fairfield, Mary Kale, Barbara Montgomery, Loris Koser, Helen Marineau, Evelyn Schmidt and Shirlee Pircher, at the home of Charlene Bang, 1315 N. Illinois. LaRue Reed and Joe Lampasona missed out on the birthday club festivities, which included presenting Barbara with a gift and enjoying birthday cake and coffee.

Emphasis was on relaxation, but Mary Ann and John Geer, 1515 Clarendon, and their children, Nancy Jo, Barbara Lee and Laura Jean, also enjoyed swimming and fishing during their recent week's stay at the cottage of John's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Geer, Dowagiac, Mich. (A

Study for Well Site

A study for location of a sixth well for Arlington Heights was authorized this week by village trustees.

The board gave the village manager authorization to allow Consoer, Townsend and associates, village engineers, to proceed with a study to determine the best site.

THE BUDGET provides $170,000 for a new well and pump house.

The well will likely be located on the south side of the village.

Arlington Heights has yet to suffer the water shortage experienced by Mt. Prospect and Rolling Meadows, and no limitations are expected on water use this year, according to Village Manager L. A. Hanson. (AF

Bids Opened For Coating Of Streets

Bids were opened this week for the seal coating of the following Arlington Heights streets:

—South st. between Dunton and State rd.

—Dunton between Euclid and Willow.

—Howthorne between State and Chestnut.

—Lincoln between Miner and Euclid.

—Yale between Euclid and Campbell.

Low bid on the project is $6,442.40. Bids were referred to the village manager for study.

Work on the streets should begin within the next two weeks, according to the village engineer. (AF met with Riley and his attorney. Casteel reported to the board this week that Riley "did everything except say 'no, there will be no more payments.' "

Riley told the Herald Wednesday that he has not revoked his pledge to the district 24, but is still studying the matter.

"In our mind there is no question but that if we wanted to build in Arlington Heights, we had to enter into a payment agreement with the school district," said Riley.

"We realize a builder has a greater responsibility than throwing up homes and getting out of town, and we're not turning our back on the school problem. But neither can we afford to be an absolute philathropist," said Riley.

RILEY noted that recent court decisions might allow him, if he so desired, to get back the money he has donated to the school and park district. His attorney is studying the matter.

The school board of district 24 is also studying the matter and how it will affect the district's 482 students, the majority from Hasbrook and Virginia Terrace subdivisions.

Board membres appointed a committee to study the matter and issue a statement next week. (AF

Family of the week . . . is that of Esther and Andy Turner, 1525 Clarendon, and their children, Jill, 7, Steve, who moved here almost six years ago. Both were born in Chicago, raised in Melrose Park and met in high school. Following graduation from same, Andy spent an interim with the air force, while Esther worked as a secretary, and it was during a leave that their courtship culminated in marriage nine years ago. Esther was with Andy at Langley Air Force base, Va., until he left for overseas duty during the Korean war, at which time she returned home to work until his discharge. Andy then established himself as a plumber with a Chicago firm prior to their move here. The family attends St. James Catholic church; where Jill and David will attend second and first grades, respectively.

Membership in organizations having to wait until the children are older, the Turners limit their activities to personal interests. Andy enjoys his role as a handy man, having aided in the construction of their garage and breezeway, while relaxation is obtained from his hobby of scuba diving. Esther's interests include horseback riding, interior decorating, reading and sewing. Both are enthusiastic about their stereo hi-fi and both are interested in flying; although, for the present, they must be content at going on short trips with friends who own a plane.

Their families are closely knit, and much time is spent together with Andy's mother, Mrs. Emily Turner, La Grange, and Esther's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leonrd, Melrose Park, and other close relatives.

BRUCE, SON of Joan and Curtis Wayne, 1237 N. Chicago, 8 July 31, celebrated his birthday in grown-up fashion by requesting his father to take him and his two cousins on a trip to the Field Museum following a picnic lunch along the lake front. A family dinner party was enjoyed later in the day, and present to wish him many happy returns were his sisters, Nancy, Claudia and Constance, paternal grandmother, Mrs. John Wayne, Chicago, as well as an aunt, uncle and cousins.

Sandy and Dave Yates, 1522 W. Oakton, and their children, Leslie, Lisa and David, returned home Friday night after spending three days at the summer home of friends at Michiana Shores, Mich., which included swimming, sun bathing and a trip to the zoo and kiddieland for the benefit of the children.

A cook-out supper party was held last Thursday evening for Patsy, daughter of Grace and George Rogers, 1313 N. Chicago, in honor of her 11th birthday. She and her guests, among whom were her sister, Linda, Jane Hult, Julie Griffith, Nancy Kale, and Lonna Linnewah, Arlington Heights. They then went on to the park for a swim before calling it a night.

It was a dual birthday celebration for Terry, daughter of Pearl and Dick Trummer, 1418 W. Oakton, 5 July 27. On that day her brother, Timmy, Barbara Brown, Ellen Frisbie, Nancy Jo an Barbara Geer, Suzanne Burkhardt, Colleen and Patricia Coleman, Christine and Diane Henneman, Marcia Siebert, Des Plaines, and Kristi Nelson, Arlington Heights, enjoyed a splash party the highlight of which was sliding into the water for pennies. They also played games, ran races, received favors and had birthday cake and ice cream. Saturday the Trummers were joined by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Ella Roedel, Chicago, and other relatives at a barbecue birthday party.

IT WAS AN afternoon theatre party that highlighted the birthday celebration of Mary Lynn, daughter of Bess and Richard Reese, 1301 N. Chicago, last Saturday afternoon. Wishing her a happy eighth birthday after enjoying the matinee at the Arlington theatre were her sister, Susan Lee, Claire Lowell, Leslie Bang, Debbie Zare and Carol Chupich.

Terry, son of Laverne and Bud Reichert, 1208 N. Chicago, celebrated his 14th birthday July 26 by being treated to an afternoon at the races, a dinner topped off with birthday cake and ice cream and, in conclusion, attending the movies with his parents and brothers, Dennis, Michael and Jimmy. The following day, the family and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Witt, Chicago, enjoyed an outing at Lake Geneva.

Mary Lou and Ray Crouch, 128 N. Chicago, the children, Marianne and David, and Mary Lou's mother, Mrs. James Douglas, who lives with them, spent a long weekend recently in Indianapolis at the home of Ray's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Crouch, who were thrilled to see their grandson for the first time. Sunday the Crouches entertained David's great aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Richards, Chicago, at a dinner party, held in celebration of his first birthday.

Gene, son of Margaret and Eugene Dougherty, 1417 N. Wilke, 7 August 1, celebrated his birthday last Saturday when the family, which includes his sisters, Joanne, Kathleen and Mary Ellen, spent the day at Brookfield zoo. Following dinner that evening, Gene invited his sisters, Bruce Harmon, Joanne Whippe and Bob, Dawn and Cathy Amann to share in his birthday cake and ice cream.

A WEEK'S vacation was recently enjoyed at Hotel Ephraim. Ephraim, Wis. by Sandy and Bruce Mullins and their boys, Michael and Kevin. Seven-month-old Marianne was left in the capable hands of Sandy's sister, Mrs. Marilyn Hartmann, Park Ridge. Although Sandy and Bruce took time out to enjoy an evening unto themselves, they devoted the remaining time to swimming, boating and fishing with the youngsters.

The first birthday of Kelly, daughter of Jeanette and Bill Gaffney, 1405 N. Illinois, was celebrated last Friday. In on the festivities were her sisters, Cynthia and Patricia, paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Gaffney, Rockford, and Bill's godfather and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Rom Weber, Batesville, Ind., who was also a birthday celebrant that day. The adults enjoyed an afternoon at the races, cocktails at the Gaffneys and dinner out, with the celebration being completed at home again with the serving of birthday cake and ice cream.

A week of swimming, fishing and boating relaxed Carol and Ron Reed, 1216 N. Race, and their children, Bobby and David, when they stayed at a summer cottage at Burlington, Wis. Highlight of the trip, says Carol, was the night she and Ron went out for a bit of fun themselves.

July 28 was moving day for Helen and Ted Wolszczaks, 1220 N. Race, and their daughter, Cathy, who are now in a new home in Morton Grove.

July 27 marked the first birthday of John, son of Jean and Ed Lussier, 1216 N. Chicago, and present at the dinner party and assisting him in blowing out his candle were his brothers, Bobby, Tommy, Jimmy and Eddy.

A family get together, topped off with a barbecue supper, was enjoyed at the Lussiers' last Sunday when Jean's sister and her family, the T. J. Magraths, Park Forest, came for the day. Bobby and Tommy returned home with their aunt and uncle for a week's visit, much to the delight of the seven children involved.

A FAMILY dinner party was held at the home of Mrs. Mae Mammoser, Chicago, last Sunday in honor of her granddaughter, Mary Jo, 7 August 1. In on the celebration were Mary Jo's parents, Mary Louise and Dieter Burkhardt, 1507 Clarendon, her sister, Suzanne, and brothers, Chris, Peter and Curt. Chris remained at his grandmother's for his first 3-day vacation.

Monday afternoon Mary Louise entertained friends of her daughter at a sewing bee birthday party. In on the fun were Mary Jo's sister, Suzanne, Kathleen Brown, Leslie Yates, Ann Frisbie, Jill Turner, Roxanne Kuhl and Patty Henneman.

A 2-week vacation through the northwestern states has been enjoyed by Pat and Bill Cotsakis, 1232 N. RIDGE PARK

The Martin Saidikowski family of 828 N. Salem, returned last week from a 10-day tour in and around the Smoky mountains. Enroute to the Smokies, they enjoyed a day in the famed "Cumberland Gap," where the states of Kentucky, Virginia and Tennessee meet. Among the sightseeing stops along the return home was one at the Mammoth Cave, Ky.

Bonnie Mensching was 6-years-old yesterday and celebrated Sunday at a family party in her parents' home, 804 N. Kaspar. Eight relatives, including her paternal grandparents, all of Arlington Heights, helped the young lady farewell her fifth year and get ready for her sixth.

Neighbors and other Ridge Park friends extend sympathy to Mrs. William Robertson, 1007 N. Fernandez, on the death of her sister, Miss Patricia Boiskou of Arlington Heights, last Wednesday.

THE GEORGE P. Wojtkiewicz family, 920 N. Ridge, was part of a family get-together a week ago in Kenosha at the new home of Mr. Wojtkiewicz' brother, Ed. Their sister, Marianne of Hazelcrest, joined the reunion.

Bobby Wayman was 3-years-old a week ago, the occasion requiring two celebrations. The first was on his birthday in the Wayman home, 924 N. Ridge, and it included his grandfather and grandmother Wayman of Arlington Heights. Next day the family took the birthday boy and a birthday cake to McHenry for more fun with his other grandparents, the Herbert Simonses.

The James Kellys, 828 N. Fernandez, enjoyed a break, vacation-style in last week's routine with a 3-day stay in Madison.

JOHN SCHMIDT family members, who have been coming and going at 928 N. Ridge for a month, are home to stay, having concluded their vacation travels. Early last month Mrs. Schmidt and Terry left for a 2-week visit with relatives in Fort Worth and Austin. When they returned it was only for a week; then the family left for a vacation in and around Washington, D. C. They did some sightseeing, visited relatives and enjoyed a homeward route via the Skyline drive, the recently completed superhighway through the mountains.

The Ralph Hostler family is again complete as of Saturday, when the children resumed 927 Kennicott as their address. It's been "C/o Grandpa and Grandma in Texas" since the end of June. Mr. and Mrs. Hostler left here mid-July and visited a week in Houston with Mrs. Hostler's brother, Del Small Jr. and his family.

Mr. Small, owner and pilot of a small plane, then flew the Hostlers to Fort Worth, where they were reunited with their not-very-homesick children in the home of Mrs. Hostler's parents. After a week in Fort Worth, everybody who belongs at 927 Kennicott began the return trip, bringing with them Mrs. Hostler's sister, Miss Kathy Small, who will visit here about three weeks.

THE GUY Scalzitti family returned to 836 N. Fernandez Friday after a 2,700-mile, 3-week trip that reunited them with friends in Sylacauga, Ala. and family members in Florida. They spent 10 days in Alabama, then went on to Panama City, Fla., to visit Mrs. Schalzitti's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Williams. At Apalachicola they saw "the shrimp boats a' coming" and during a visit in Port St. Joe with Mrs. Scalitti's brother, John, the children "fished" for oysters with their bare hands.

In a quiet gulf cove it is possible to wade to an oyster bed and pick up all the oysters one wants—and a couple "ones" wanted quite a few. Mr. Scalzitti, who has resisted the temptation to fish all of his life, fished. He started in a big way, deep-sea fishing with his brother-in-law, and disembarked with 30 big fish and one big yen for fishing.

MR. AND MRS. Edmund Mears, David and Carol, 1014 N. Patton, returned Sunday night after a week of sightseeing in the Black Hills and a week on the Black river in Minnesota. Time was spent fishing and the Mears family confirms several reports heard recently that fishing is only "so-so" this year. On the way to the Black Hills, they visited with friends in Gowrie, Iowa, and on their return trip stopped for a visit with friends in Madison.

THE RAYMOND Flanigan family of Lafayette, Ind., were guests three days this week in the home of Mrs. Flanigan's brother and his family, the John Donahues, 831 N. Kennicott. The two families haven't been together for over four years and they made the most of their days. Joan Donahue was 15 years old July 20 and her brother, Jerry, was 11 Thursday, so a family celebration over the weekend with the Flanigans was double good fun. The day at Riverview Park was included in the busy 3-day schedule.

THE WERNER Becker family, 1004 N. Ridge, was not at all disturbed by an after-bed-time phone call a week ago that woke everyone in the house. It was the Beckers' son, Ronald, announcing that he'd landed that day in California, after eight months navy duty in Japan, Hawaii and Korea. Ron's using a leave that's too short to get home on, visiting cousins in California.

He'll be assigned shortly to another base for nine months, after which a 30-day leave will be forthcoming. Ron's eight months overseas duty had one especially bright and honor-strewn segment; he was among the seamen assigned to accompany President Eisenhower on his recent tour.

MRS. EARLE Peterson, 913 N. Patton, recently returned from an extended tour of South America that included a week in Rio de Janeiro, as a delegate to the Baptist World congress, held for the first time in a Latin American country. With Rev. and Mrs. Edwin Stevens of Mt. Prospect, the Miner Junior high school teacher represented the South Church, Community Baptist of Mt. Prospect.

They went on from the conclave in Rio de Janeiro to tour the rest of Brazil, Argentina, Peru, Uruguay and Panama. Mrs. Peterson finds it hard to pin-point any single area or event that was most memorable. There was the 3,000-voice choir which sang at the congress; the new Brazilian capitol, Brasilia, which will have one primary school for each eight square block area; the capitol building in Uruguay, considered the third most beautiful building in the world; the day in Cuzco, capitol of the ancient Inca valley in Peru; the ride via a narrow gauge railroad down the Urubamba valley, on to the headwaters of the Amazon and 50 miles into the jungle.

ALTHOUGH Mrs. Peterson skipped the currently uneasy area of Bolivia-Ecuador-Guatemala, everywhere else she and the other Americans on tour were treated with genuine good will. The unfailing courtesy and graciousness that that party met in every country, in each city and town regardless of size, impressed Mrs. Peterson most.

Having taught teen-agers for many years, she sought out that age group and was rewarded with warm-hearted interest and a notebook full of names and addresses. "Many of the college age children were especially interested in our colleges and several hope to be able to finish their higher education in an American university," the local teacher reported. She estimates that she visited at least 2000 schools of all types and at all levels.

Recent visitors in the Jack Burgess home, 1218 W. Clarendon, were Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Mills, former Arlington Heighters, now of Pittsburgh. During their 5-day stay the Millses saw several local friends and left greetings for those they missed. Their son, best known locally as "Bucky," is spending eight weeks of his summer vacation as a counselor, working with crippled children at an Easter Seal camp in Pennsylvania.

Mrs. G. A. Martin, 1409 N. Yale, left yesterday by plane for Alexandria, Ga., where she will visit for a few days with her sister and family, the Russell Freeburgs, former Virginia Terrace residents.

Recently Mrs. Martin introduced a Yale newcomer to a few of her new neighbors at an informal "coffee and." Guest of honor was Mrs. Gene Lepkowski, now of 1345 N. Yale. Mr. and Mrs. Lepkowski, Tom, Jim and Carol, moved here two weeks ago from Dearborn, Mich. Mr. Lepkowski is with the Square D Co., which has moved to the Chicago area.

SATURDAY the Martins' son, Joel, left for three weeks as a counselor-in-training at Camp Napowan, Wis. Terry Witt, son of the Herman Witts, 819 N. Walnut, is also there in the same capacity. Both boys will return home the latter part of the month.

Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Shuman, 1001 W. Clarendon, entertained friends a week ago with a party and midnight buffet which included 50 co-workers of Mr. Shuman on the Chicago Daily News staff. Party-goers came from Kenosha, Park Forest, and "all the points between," reported the hostess.

Earlier the same week the Shumans hosted a college friend of Mr. Shuman, Al Park and his family, of Kirkwood, Mo. The Parks were here for a 2-day stop enroute to a vacation in Michigan.

A WEEK AGO Sunday Mrs. Shuman's sister and family, the Junior S. W. Jacksons, arrived from Lexington, Ky. for a short stay. Mr. Jackson flew to New York on business the next day and his wife and children left here Tuesday for Frederic, Wis., where they will spend two weeks with Mrs. Jackson's and Mrs. Shuman's mother, Mrs. Paul G. Johnson. (A

"Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Words for this lesson:

Legacy; something left by will; a bequest. "He was surprised to hear of the legacy arranged for him by his uncle."

Bumptious; offensively conceited; self-assertive. "She was avoided because of her bumptious proclivities."

Protracted (adjective);, prolonged or extended in time. "For some reason, there was a protracted delay in the negotiations."

Cursory; characterized by haste; superficial; careless. "He gave the papers only a cursory glance."

Recusant; refusing to submit; unconforming; uncomplying. (Pronounce reh-kyu-sant, accent first syllable). "The recusant soldier had strong resentment of authority."

Euphuistic; affected in speech or writing; elegant in word-choice. (Pronounce yu-foo-iss-tick, principal accent on third syllable). "One would think from the euphuistic nature of his speech that the man is conceited."

The use of groom, for bridegroom, is colloquial, and should be avoided.

He Misses His Old Hometown

J. B. Roberts of Port Chester, N. Y., a former Arlington Heights resident, extended a business trip west to spend a weekend in Arlington Heights.

When he stopped in the Herald office Monday to shake hands with the editor and renew his subscription, he said: "I have read in the Herald about a lot of things happening here, and I have found the reported expansion was no exaggeration. The growth of the industrial area in Elk Grove Village is breath-taking. Friendship-wise, Arlington is my first love, and I regret that business-wise I must live in the East." (A

RIDGE PARK

The Martin Saidikowski family of 828 N. Salem, returned last week from a 10-day tour in and around the Smoky mountains. Enroute to the Smokies, they enjoyed a day in the famed "Cumberland Gap," where the states of Kentucky, Virginia and Tennessee meet. Among the sightseeing stops along the return home was one at the Mammoth Cave, Ky.

Bonnie Mensching was 6-years-old yesterday and celebrated Sunday at a family party in her parents' home, 804 N. Kaspar. Eight relatives, including her paternal grandparents, all of Arlington Heights, helped the young lady farewell her fifth year and get ready for her sixth.

Neighbors and other Ridge Park friends extend sympathy to Mrs. William Robertson, 1007 N. Fernandez, on the death of her sister, Miss Patricia Boiskou of Arlington Heights, last Wednesday.

THE GEORGE P. Wojtkiewicz family, 920 N. Ridge, was part of a family get-together a week ago in Kenosha at the new home of Mr. Wojtkiewicz' brother, Ed. Their sister, Marianne of Hazelcrest, joined the reunion.

Bobby Wayman was 3-years-old a week ago, the occasion requiring two celebrations. The first was on his birthday in the Wayman home, 924 N. Ridge, and it included his grandfather and grandmother Wayman of Arlington Heights. Next day the family took the birthday boy and a birthday cake to McHenry for more fun with his other grandparents, the Herbert Simonses.

The James Kellys, 828 N. Fernandez, enjoyed a break, vacation-style in last week's routine with a 3-day stay in Madison.

JOHN SCHMIDT family members, who have been coming and going at 928 N. Ridge for a month, are home to stay, having concluded their vacation travels. Early last month Mrs. Schmidt and Terry left for a 2-week visit with relatives in Fort Worth and Austin. When they returned it was only for a week; then the family left for a vacation in and around Washington, D. C. They did some sightseeing, visited relatives and enjoyed a homeward route via the Skyline drive, the recently completed superhighway through the mountains.

The Ralph Hostler family is again complete as of Saturday, when the children resumed 927 Kennicott as their address. It's been "C/o Grandpa and Grandma in Texas" since the end of June. Mr. and Mrs. Hostler left here mid-July and visited a week in Houston with Mrs. Hostler's brother, Del Small Jr. and his family.

Mr. Small, owner and pilot of a small plane, then flew the Hostlers to Fort Worth, where they were reunited with their not-very-homesick children in the home of Mrs. Hostler's parents. After a week in Fort Worth, everybody who belongs at 927 Kennicott began the return trip, bringing with them Mrs. Hostler's sister, Miss Kathy Small, who will visit here about three weeks.

THE GUY Scalzitti family returned to 836 N. Fernandez Friday after a 2,700-mile, 3-week trip that reunited them with friends in Sylacauga, Ala. and family members in Florida. They spent 10 days in Alabama, then went on to Panama City, Fla., to visit Mrs. Schalzitti's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Williams. At Apalachicola they saw "the shrimp boats a' coming" and during a visit in Port St. Joe with Mrs. Scalitti's brother, John, the children "fished" for oysters with their bare hands.

In a quiet gulf cove it is possible to wade to an oyster bed and pick up all the oysters one wants—and a couple "ones" wanted quite a few. Mr. Scalzitti, who has resisted the temptation to fish all of his life, fished. He started in a big way, deep-sea fishing with his brother-in-law, and disembarked with 30 big fish and one big yen for fishing.

MR. AND MRS. Edmund Mears, David and Carol, 1014 N. Patton, returned Sunday night after a week of sightseeing in the Black Hills and a week on the Black river in Minnesota. Time was spent fishing and the Mears family confirms several reports heard recently that fishing is only "so-so" this year. On the way to the Black Hills, they visited with friends in Gowrie, Iowa, and on their return trip stopped for a visit with friends in Madison.

THE RAYMOND Flanigan family of Lafayette, Ind., were guests three days this week in the home of Mrs. Flanigan's brother and his family, the John Donahues, 831 N. Kennicott. The two families haven't been together for over four years and they made the most of their days. Joan Donahue was 15 years old July 20 and her brother, Jerry, was 11 Thursday, so a family celebration over the weekend with the Flanigans was double good fun. The day at Riverview Park was included in the busy 3-day schedule.

THE WERNER Becker family, 1004 N. Ridge, was not at all disturbed by an after-bedtime phone call a week ago that woke everyone in the house. It was the Beckers' son, Ronald, announcing that he'd landed that day in California, after eight months navy duty in Japan, Hawaii and Korea. Ron's using a leave that's too short to get home on, visiting cousins in California.

He'll be assigned shortly to another base for nine months, after which a 30-day leave will be forthcoming. Ron's eight months overseas duty had one especially bright and honor-strewn segment; he was among the seamen assigned to accompany President Eisenhower on his recent tour.

MRS. EARLE Peterson, 913 N. Patton, recently returned from an extended tour of South America that included a week in Rio de Janeiro, as a delegate to the Baptist World congress, held for the first time in a Latin American country. With Rev. and Mrs. Edwin Stevens of Mt. Prospect, the Miner Junior high school teacher represented the South Church, Community Baptist of Mt. Prospect.

They went on from the conclave in Rio de Janeiro to tour the rest of Brazil, Argentina, Peru, Uruguay and Panama. Mrs. Peterson finds it hard to pin-point any single area or event that was most memorable. There was the 3,000-voice choir which sang at the congress; the new Brazilian capitol, Brasilia, which will have one primary school for each eight square block area; the capitol building in Uruguay, considered the third most beautiful building in the world; the day in Cuzco, capitol of the ancient Inca valley in Peru; the ride via a narrow gauge railroad down the Urubamba valley, on to the headwaters of the Amazon and 50 miles into the jungle.

ALTHOUGH Mrs. Peterson skipped the currently uneasy area of Bolivia-Ecuador-Guatemala, everywhere else she and the other Americans on tour were treated with genuine good will. The unfailing courtesy and graciousness that that party met in every country, in each city and town regardless of size, impressed Mrs. Peterson most.

Having taught teen-agers for many years, she sought out that age group and was rewarded with warm-hearted interest and a notebook full of names and addresses. Suburban 'Conventions' Take Arlington's Spotlight

The political conventions are over. However, since one of the definitions of convention is "the assembling of persons for some common object" it can truthfully be reported here that there were several local conventions the past week. Common object: getting away from it all, beating the heat and/or just plain relaxing.

The John O'Berry family, 733 S. Mitchell, returned Sunday evening from two weeks at Higgins Lake, Mich., where the fishing was just good enough to get anyone excited. 'Twas all very easy-going.

The Howard Hansens, 730 S. Mitchell, also returned Sunday with a report to match their neighbors, the O'Berrys; two weeks of so-so fishing. The Hansens' vacation was spent at Leech Lake, Minn., where the days were warm and the evenings chilly. Water skiing also intrigues the family and this year 9-year-old Barbara made it up on the skis for the first time, wondering what made it so tough to do last year.

THE WILLIAM Pattersons, 1011 S. Dunton, and the Calvin Hubers, 1021 S. Dunton, were hosts Saturday night to 35 neighbors at an "it's about time we had a party" party in the Huber home. In one way it was exactly like all get-togethers on that sociable block; it was the best party yet.

In another way it was different; some of the guests turned blue. This was only because several games required blowing up many balloons and the malady left when dancing, deep breathing and late refreshments were administered.

The Erhard Reiss family returned to 618 S. Evergreen a week ago Monday after a 10-day vacation in Michigan and Wisconsin. They enjoyed a sight-seeing stay in the Mackinac Island area in Michigan and a similar visit in Door County, Wis. This week, Debbie has as her guest, Mary Ellen Kelly, a cousin from Chicago.

The senior Mrs. Frank Precilio of Southbridge, Mass. arrived here a week ago Sunday for an extended visit with her son, Frank Jr., 739 S. Dunton. She is enjoying a first meeting with her newest great-grandchild, Gabrielle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Precilio III of Virginia Terrace.

THE WATER-skiing family of Howard Jack Jr. came home to 642 S. Evergreen Saturday evening after two weeks in, on and under Pokegama Lake, Wis. Eight-year-old Mary Lee made the grade this year and was up on the tricky slats without too much trouble.

Larry Andres, 1145 N. Belmont, was 9 years old a week ago Tuesday and the off-again, on-again rain of the day washed out plans for an outdoor party. Saturday, Larry hosted six friends at the local matinee instead, returning to the Andres home with them for a couple more hours of fun, games and refreshments.

The L. J. Luber family, 844 S. Dunton, returned over the weekend after a cool week at a cottage on the beach at Eagle River. They fished every day with not good, not bad results. Guests last Thursday and Friday at their cottage were Prospect Heights friends the Ed Nemeth family.

MR. AND MRS. Victor Dale and the children returned to 1020 N. Walnut early last week after two weeks with relatives in Minnesota. They spent about a week in Marshall, the home of Mrs. Dale's parents, the Peter Jubas. At the same time Mr. Dale's brother, Clifford, and his family of Yakima, Wash., were visiting relatives in Marshall and all the Dales were present at a reunion of 150 family members in Wilmer, Minn.

Concluding their stay in the state the local Dale family visited in White Bear Lake with Mrs. Dale's brother, Bernard Juba, and his family.

The Jack Kellers, 308 N. Haddow, returned Friday after a 2-week vacation trip around and across Lake Michigan. They stopped first for a 3-day stay at the Wisconsin Dells, then went on to Woodruff from which point they could visit their daughter, Rosalie, camping in Boulder Junction at Camp Osoha.

Rosalie was in a swimming meet and took part in a water pageant, "Christmas in July." Maneuvering war canoes the young campers formed snowflake and star designs in the water and Rosalie, hidden in the bottom of one of the canoes, popped up as Santa Claus to conclude the pageant.

After a weekend visit with their daughter, the Kellers continued around Lake Michigan to Iron Mountain, Mich., then to St. Ignace and across into Canada. They completed their Michigan tour with a visit to Mackinac Island and a drive down the state to Muskegon where they boarded the Milwaukee Clipper car ferry. A pleasant and relaxing 6-hour lake crossing aboard the Clipper ended the Keller vacation.

THE LeROY Stoehr family came home to 441 S. Prindle early last week after almost a month at a lodge on Ash river trail in Minnesota, about 35 miles from International Falls. They met Kansas City and Indianapolis friends there by pre-arrangement for an annual summer reunion.

The Stoehr boys enjoyed their first seaplane ride, swam and fished a lot. In Minnesota, too, the fishing was not up to par but just good enough to keep anglers angling.

George Jarosch, 206 W. Orchard, his brothers, Oscar of Los Angeles and Arthur of Chicago, are enjoying a reunion with their sister, Mrs. Otto Uhl of Goettingen, Germany. The three brothers arranged their sister's visit to the United States and with her recent arrival in Chicago, Mrs. Uhl was reunited with Arthur after a 33-year separation.

George and Oscar were able to visit Mrs. Uhl in more recent years. After a stay in Chicago with Arthur and other relatives in the area Mrs. Uhl came here and Mr. and Mrs. Jarosch drove her to Los Angeles, immediately returning themselves.

Mrs. Uhl will spend three weeks in California and is expected here next week. She will visit here and in the Chicago area until early October when she must return to Germany.

THE CHARLES Kleinofens, 627 S. Chestnut, and the Len Arnolds and William Hugos of Mt. Prospect weekended at the Hotel Schroeder in Milwaukee. The couples are three-quarters of a group who meet regularly for a social evening together during all but the summer months.

Plans for a lazy summer weekend get-together have been perking for some time and came to a boil during the recent heat wave.

Mrs. Ian Craig, 1316 N. State, was the guest of honor Sunday at a baby shower given by Mrs. Donald Hurst of Chicago. Fifty Chicago, Wood Dale, Buffalo Grove, Palatine and Arlington Heights friends semi-surprised Mrs. Craig who knew friends were awaiting her but didn't know she had so many friends.

THE STUART Wrights returned to 1304 N. Dunton early last week after a visit in Battle Creek with the senior Mrs. Wright and in Flat Rock with former Battle Creek friends. Their daughter, Kay, had been vacationing in Flat Rock and she returned home with the daughter of her hosts, Miss Heidi Himelberger. Heidi will spend two weeks here as Kay's guest.

Mrs. Ernest Poulos, 1225 N. Dunton, was hostess to 18 neighborhood women a week ago Monday night at a "kaffee klatsch" to introduce Tyler Thompson, political rival of Mrs. Marguerite Stitt Church, incumbent representative of the 13th Illinois district in Washington.

Rev. Thompson, a Methodist minister, entertained with a talk about his world travels in general and his camping tour with Mrs. Thompson and their five children throughout Europe last summer.

THE SAM Clarks, 608 S. Walnut, returned early last week from two weeks at a family cottage in Douglas, Mich. Glen Ellyn friends, the Don Davidson family, were their guests the first week. The Clarks also spent a day in Grand Rapids with former neighbors, the Alan B. Cooks who sent back greetings to other friends here.

Last Thursday the Clarks' daughter, Kristin, left for Peoria to spend a month with her grandparents, the C. E. Bobenmyers.

Twenty-four members of the rifle squad of VFW post 981 and their wives attended the annual VFW parade in Woodstock Sunday afternoon.

Following the 3-hour parade in which the local unit marched, the Arlington Heighters returned to the VFW hall here for dinner and dancing that became a triple birthday celebration honoring members Lawrence Engelking, William Luettschwager and Roland Koenig.

MISS BOBBIE Gutzman, 344 S. Windsor, and Miss Ellen Fairweather of Barrington Hills spent the past week in Wayzata, Minn., where they participated in the 3-day Wayzata horse show at the Woodland country club. The girls were house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Wakefield of Wayzata, and were joined Wednesday by Miss Gutzman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Gutzman.

Both girls performed well in the show; Miss Gutzman, riding her horse, Prince Andrew, took two third places and one sixth place in the conformation hunter division, and Miss Fairweather, riding her horse, Devil's Diamond, took two second places and two fifth places in the working hunter division.

At the conclusion of the horse show, all attended the dinner dance at the Woodland country club.

MR. AND MRS. F. E. Daniel, 346 S. Derbyshire, spent two weeks vacationing in the east, stopping off to visit several former Stonegate neighbors and friends. They spent several days with the Harvey Pettits of Cleveland and the Curtis Roneys in Hudson, O. In Armonk, N. Y., they saw the John Vannier family.

Ricky and Danny accompanied their parents and enjoyed seeing their playmates again and visiting point of interest in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Lonergan, 1002 Mayfair, drove to Oceana Beach, Va., for a visit with their son, Tim, who is stationed at the Oceana naval base. They were accompanied by their daughter, Nancy, and her friends, Miss Patricia Schmidt and Miss Donna Brodahl.

THE PAUL BROWN family will always remember the warm and friendly welcome received during their visit to Arlington Heights. Arriving from Dayton Thursday, the former Stonegate residents were the houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle W. Ewing, 110 S. Stratford, and almost immediately attended a round of parties given in their honor. Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. George Hay were co-hosts at a pot-luck supper party Thursday night on the tennis court of the Smiths' home.

About 80 guests attended, all Wilshire, Stratford and Drury lane neighbors, each bringing an item of refreshment and a musical instrument, if available. Guests responded wholeheartedly with a fine array of instruments and talent, and even a piano appeared from two blocks away, so there was dining, music and singing all evening.

Among others who entertained for the Browns were Mr. and Mrs. John Kessner, 202 S. Gibbons, and Mr. and Mrs. John Sullivan, 211 S. Stratford.

WHILE Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Smith remain at home for the summer, two of their children are visiting in far away places. Their eldest daughter, Gail, is currently in Brazil, to stay until the end of August. Miss Smith was one of 12 girls selected by the National Girl Scout organization for the Experiment in International Living Project, and spent a month living with a Brazilian family. She is now traveling through the country visiting the industrial areas, coffee plantations, mining territories to central Brazil and the newly-built capital city, Brazilia.

Young Jim Smith attended the recent Boy Scout Jamboree at Colorado Springs, after which he was joined in Colorado by Carl Bredehoft to go by train to California, where they will visit former Stonegate neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stewart and their son, Bill, of Palo Alto.

MR. AND MRS. William Ball, 454 Banbury, entertained members of the Arlington Heights center of the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago and their husbands at a swimming and supper party Sunday. Between dips in the pool, members completed final plans for their first benefit, a punch brunch set for Sunday, Aug. 28, to be held in the private Anvil club, Dundee.

Mrs. Andrew McMillan and Mrs. Harold King gave a dessert bridge Friday afternoon at the McMillan home, 415 E. Grove, for Mrs. William Utermohlen, who with her family, will soon move to their new home in Brookfield, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dunham, 401 Bristol, spent the past month vacationing in Ocean City, N. J., and enjoyed visiting their eastern friends.

Mrs. Lorne Black and her children, Bruce and Pamela, are back home at 436 S. Belmont, after spending the past month at their summer home at Whitmore Lake, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cherry, 353 S. Belmont, and their four children spent nine days at Medicine Lake lodge and ending their vacation with a weekend visit with Mr. Cherry's brother and family, the Robert Cherry's of Birmingham, Mich.

MR. AND MRS. Lester Schreiber, 123 S. Brighton, and their youngest son, Don, returned Saturday from a 2-week vacation in the west, spending a week at the Sylvan Lake lodge in the Black Hills and at a dude ranch in Beulah, Wyo.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Roe of Manchester, Iowa, spent a week in Arlington Heights visiting their daughter and family, the George Traners, 326 Stratford.

Taking their first train ride alone, Nancy and Mike Martindell left for Deer Lake, Wis., for a visit with their maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. I. Phillips, and their paternal grandparents, the R. M. Martindells of Siren, Wis.

While in Wisconsin, Mike will celebrate his sixth birthday at a family gathering August 6.

Mrs. Raymond Erickson, 601 Burton, and her son, John, left Tuesday for Palos Verdes Estates, Cal. for a 3-week visit with her sister and family, the John McSparrans.

During their stay, John will join his cousin, Tom, and Kim and Todd Husty, sons of former Scarsdale residents, the Victor Hustys, to spend a week at camp at Big Bear Mountain.

Back in Arlington Heights, Mrs. Erickson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Vinger of Argyle, Wis. are staying with their two other grandchildren, Ricky and Robbie.

ALSO visiting former Scarsdale Estate residents is Miss Barbara Langos, 751 S. Belmont, who is in Ormond Beach, Fla., with Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Christians. Miss Langos plans to fly back to Arlington Heights in another week.

Out-of-town guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Davenport, 314 S. Beverly, are Mrs. Davenport's brother, B. G. Mickels, and his daughter, Judy who are here from their home in New York City, to spend a week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Malcomson, 727 S. Belmont, bring news of their son, Ens. Richard Malcomson, who will return to the states in October after duty in the Phillipine Islands, Hong Kong and Japan.

A business transfer will bring Thomas Diehl back from San Bernardino, Cal., and he will go east to manage the Florsheim Shoe Co. in Philadelphia. Mr. Diehl plans to arrive in Arlington Heights about September 1, and will spend a few days with his parents, the Earl E. Diehls, 413 S. Lincoln, before going to Philadelphia.

WITH HER summer school courses at Lake Forest college behind her, Miss Marilyn Colburn, 535 S. Burton, is looking forward to spending several weeks with friends at Cape Cod. Her grandfather, Frank E. Lonergan, who has been visiting in Arlington Heights with the Colburns, will fly east with her and then return to his home in Braintree, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Knorr, 405 Bristol, and two of their children, Janis and Bryce, motored to Stoney Lake, Mich., where they were joined by their son, Marc, who had been at Camp Miniwanca for five weeks, completing a 3-year course in camp counselling.

The Knorrs then took a leisurely trip around the upper Michigan peninsula, stopping at Mackinac Island and visiting the locks at Sault Ste. Marie. Returning home through Wisconsin, they spent several days in Ephraim.

MR. AND MRS. Donald Conley, 417 S. Lincoln, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kroc of Arlington Heights attended a farewell party Saturday for Mr. and Mrs. M. McMahon of Chicago, long-time friends and McDonald unit business associates, held at the Wheaton home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fitzgerald. The McMahons are leaving for Pontiac, Mich., where they will operate their own McDonald unit.

Suburban 'Conventions' Take Arlington's Spotlight

The political conventions are over. However, since one of the definitions of convention is "the assembling of persons for some common object" it can truthfully be reported here that there were several local conventions the past week. Common object: getting away from it all, beating the heat and/or just plain relaxing.

The John O'Berry family, 733 S. Mitchell, returned Sunday evening from two weeks at Higgins Lake, Mich., where the fishing was just good enough to get anyone excited. 'Twas all very easy-going.

The Howard Hansens, 730 S. Mitchell, also returned Sunday with a report to match their neighbors, the O'Berrys; two weeks of so-so fishing. The Hansens' vacation was spent at Leech Lake, Minn., where the days were warm and the evenings chilly. Water skiing also intrigues the family and this year 9-year-old Barbara made it up on the skis for the first time, wondering what made it so tough to do last year.

THE WILLIAM Pattersons, 1011 S. Dunton, and the Calvin Hubers, 1021 S. Dunton, were hosts Saturday night to 35 neighbors at an "it's about time we had a party" party in the Huber home. In one way it was exactly like all get-togethers on that sociable block; it was the best party yet.

In another way it was different; some of the guests turned blue. This was only because several games required blowing up many balloons and the malady left when dancing, deep breathing and late refreshments were administered.

The Erhard Reiss family returned to 618 S. Evergreen a week ago Monday after a 10-day vacation in Michigan and Wisconsin. They enjoyed a sight-seeing stay in the Mackinac Island area in Michigan and a similar visit in Door County, Wis. This week, Debbie has as her guest, Mary Ellen Kelly, a cousin from Chicago.

The senior Mrs. Frank Precilio of Southbridge, Mass. arrived here a week ago Sunday for an extended visit with her son, Frank Jr., 739 S. Dunton. She is enjoying a first meeting with her newest great-grandchild, Gabrielle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Precilio III of Virginia Terrace.

THE WATER-skiing family of Howard Jack Jr. came home to 642 S. Evergreen Saturday evening after two weeks in, on and under Pokegama Lake, Wis. Eight-year-old Mary Lee made the grade this year and was up on the tricky slats without too much trouble.

Larry Andres, 1145 N. Belmont, was 9 years old a week ago Tuesday and the off-again, on-again rain of the day washed out plans for an outdoor party. Saturday, Larry hosted six friends at the local matinee instead, returning to the Andres home with them for a couple more hours of fun, games and refreshments.

The L. J. Luber family, 844 S. Dunton, returned over the weekend after a cool week at a cottage on the beach at Eagle River. They fished every day with not good, not bad results. Guests last Thursday and Friday at their cottage were Prospect Heights friends the Ed Nemeth family.

MR. AND MRS. Victor Dale and the children returned to 1020 N. Walnut early last week after two weeks with relatives in Minnesota. They spent about a week in Marshall, the home of Mrs. Dale's parents, the Peter Jubas. At the same time Mr. Dale's brother, Clifford, and his family of Yakima, Wash., were visiting relatives in Marshall and all the Dales were present at a reunion of 150 family members in Wilmer, Minn.

Concluding their stay in the state the local Dale family visited in White Bear Lake with Mrs. Dale's brother, Bernard Juba, and his family.

The Jack Kellers, 308 N. Haddow, returned Friday after a 2-week vacation trip around and across Lake Michigan. They stopped first for a 3-day stay at the Wisconsin Dells, then went on to Woodruff from which point they could visit their daughter, Rosalie, camping in Boulder Junction at Camp Osoha.

Rosalie was in a swimming meet and took part in a water pageant, "Christmas in July." Maneuvering war canoes the young campers formed snowflake and star designs in the water and Rosalie, hidden in the bottom of one of the canoes, popped up as Santa Claus to conclude the pageant.

After a weekend visit with their daughter, the Kellers continued around Lake Michigan to Iron Mountain, Mich., then to St. Ignace and across into Canada. They completed their Michigan tour with a visit to Mackinac Island and a drive down the state to Muskegon where they boarded the Milwaukee Clipper car ferry. A pleasant and relaxing 6-hour lake crossing aboard the Clipper ended the Keller vacation.

THE LeROY Stoehr family came home to 441 S. Prindle early last week after almost a month at a lodge on Ash river trail in Minnesota, about 35 miles from International Falls. They met Kansas City and Indianapolis friends there by pre-arrangement for an annual summer reunion.

The Stoehr boys enjoyed their first seaplane ride, swam and fished a lot. In Minnesota, too, the fishing was not up to par but just good enough to keep anglers angling.

George Jarosch, 206 W. Orchard, his brothers, Oscar of Los Angeles and Arthur of Chicago, are enjoying a reunion with their sister, Mrs. Otto Uhl of Goettingen, Germany. The three brothers arranged their sister's visit to the United States and with her recent arrival in Chicago, Mrs. Uhl was reunited with Arthur after a 33-year separation.

George and Oscar were able to visit Mrs. Uhl in more recent years. After a stay in Chicago with Arthur and other relatives in the area Mrs. Uhl came here and Mr. and Mrs. Jarosch drove her to Los Angeles, immediately returning themselves.

Mrs. Uhl will spend three weeks in California and is expected here next week. She will visit here and in the Chicago area until early October when she must return to Germany.

THE CHARLES Kleinofens, 627 S. Chestnut, and the Len Arnolds and William Hugos of Mt. Prospect weekended at the Hotel Schroeder in Milwaukee. The couples are three-quarters of a group who meet regularly for a social evening together during all but the summer months.

Plans for a lazy summer weekend get-together have been perking for some time and came to a boil during the recent heat wave.

Mrs. Ian Craig, 1316 N. State, was the guest of honor Sunday at a baby shower given by Mrs. Donald Hurst of Chicago. Fifty Chicago, Wood Dale, Buffalo Grove, Palatine and Arlington Heights friends semi-surprised Mrs. Craig who knew friends were awaiting her but didn't know she had so many friends.

THE STUART Wrights returned to 1304 N. Dunton early last week after a visit in Battle Creek with the senior Mrs. Wright and in Flat Rock with former Battle Creek friends. Their daughter, Kay, had been vacationing in Flat Rock and she returned home with the daughter of her hosts, Miss Heidi Himelberger. Heidi will spend two weeks here as Kay's guest.

Mrs. Ernest Poulos, 1225 N. Dunton, was hostess to 18 neighborhood women a week ago Monday night at a "kaffee klatsch" to introduce Tyler Thompson, political rival of Mrs. Marguerite Stitt Church, incumbent representative of the 13th Illinois district in Washington.

Rev. Thompson, a Methodist minister, entertained with a talk about his world travels in general and his camping tour with Mrs. Thompson and their five children throughout Europe last summer.

THE SAM Clarks, 608 S. Walnut, returned early last week from two weeks at a family cottage in Douglas, Mich. Glen Ellyn friends, the Don Davidson family, were their guests the first week. The Clarks also spent a day in Grand Rapids with former neighbors, the Alan B. Cooks who sent back greetings to other friends here.

Twenty-four members of the rifle squad of VFW post 981 and their wives attended the annual VFW parade in Woodstock Sunday afternoon.

Following the 3-hour parade in which the local unit marched, the Arlington Heighters returned to the VFW hall here for dinner and dancing that became a triple birthday celebration honoring members Lawrence Engelking, William Luettschwager and Roland Koenig.

MISS BOBBIE Gutzman, 344 S. Windsor, and Miss Ellen Fairweather of Barrington Hills spent the past week in Wayzata, Minn., where they participated in the 3-day Wayzata horse show at the Woodland country club. The girls were house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Wakefield of Wayzata, and were joined Wednesday by Miss Gutzman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Gutzman.

Both girls performed well in the show; Miss Gutzman, riding her horse, Prince Andrew, took two third places and one sixth place in the conformation hunter division, and Miss Fairweather, riding her horse, Devil's Diamond, took two second places and two fifth places in the working hunter division.

At the conclusion of the horse show, all attended the dinner dance at the Woodland country club.

Pastor Back From Synod Conference

The Rev. R. A. Bartz, pastor of St. Peter Lutheran church, and Edgar Spletzer, principal of St. Peter Lutheran school, returned last week from the "Parish Administration Workshop" conducted by the Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod at the Concordia Theological seminary, St. Louis, Mo.

The workshop was designed to assist pastors and teachers in more efficient administration procedures in churches and schools.

Courses were conducted by Dr. R. R. Caemmerer, "The Pastor, Feeder, Leader," The Rev. H. A. Etzold, "Administration In The Local Parish," and others dealing with Evangelism, The Urban and Rural Church and Confirmation Instruction.

ST. PETER Lutheran church, under its new constitution, has adopted a parish program emphasizing the utilization of the time and talents of every member incorporating a thorough "soul accounting" program. OFFICIAL PUBLICATION

NOTICE OF PROPOSED PERMANENT IMPROVEMENTS AT MENTAL HEALTH AND OTHER PUBLIC WELFARE INSTITUTIONS OWNED BY THIS STATE ACT AND BOND ISSUE

Voters at the November 8, 1960, general election will be afforded the opportunity to vote on a proposal for a bond issue which is essentially as follows: Shall the State of Illinois borrow $150,000,000 for a building program in order to relieve overcrowded conditions at the State owned mental health and other public welfare institutions?

The detailed provisions are contained in a law which was passed by a two-thirds vote of the General Assembly and approved by the Governor. The text of the act is published below, as required by the State constitution. The following Statement and Suggestions has been prepared to afford a proper understanding of the proposition to be voted on.

STATEMENT AND SUGGESTIONS

Scope of the Building Program. Proceeds of the bond issue are to be used for making permanent improvements at mental health and other public welfare institutions owned by the State of Illinois.

The term "permanent improvements" is defined in Section 3 of the act and includes acquisition of land as well as the construction, enlargement, and rehabilitation of buildings (Future General Assemblies will determine what specific improvements are to be made.)

Term, Interest, and Sale of Bonds. The bonds are to be fully retired within 25 years of issue, and they are to bear 4 per cent annual interest. They are to be sold, after newspaper advertising, to the "highest and best bidder, for not less than their par value, upon sealed bids."

Payments to be Made. Payments on the principal and interest of the bonds are to be made, as they become due, from a Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund in the State treasury, as provided in Section 5 of the act.

In order that this Bond Fund contain sufficient moneys to meet the required payments, the General Assembly is authorized to direct the transfer, from time to time, of State funds from the General Revenue Fund to this Bond Fund. The General Revenue Fund is supported by a major portion of the tax revenues of the State. If the General Assembly should fail to direct such transfers of funds, then Section 6 of the Act, which levies a property tax upon all real and personal property in this State subject to taxation, will be in full force and effect. The proceeds of this tax, if levied, shall be paid into this Bond Fund for the purpose of making payment of the principal of and interest on the bonds. However, if sufficient money has been transferred from the General Revenue Fund to this Bond Fund to meet the required payments, then no tax levy will be necessary and none will be made.

Referendum Requirement. The act providing for this bond issue will go into full force and effect only if it receives a majority of the votes cast for members of the General Assembly at the November 8, 1960, general election. The proposition is to be submitted on a separate ballot, except that where voting machines are in use, such machines may be used to vote upon the proposition.

The form of ballot is given below in the text of the act. (The ballot itself, as well as the act, should be studied now.)

THE ACT OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Act of the General Assembly hereinbefore mentioned is as follows:

An Act to authorize the issuance and sale of bonds of the State of Illinois for the purpose of obtaining funds to be used for making permanent improvements at mental health and other public welfare institutions owned by this State and to provide for the payment of the principal of and interest upon such bonds.

Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly:

Section 1. The State of Illinois is authorized to issue and sell and provide for the retirement of bonds of the State of Illinois to the amount of $150,000,000 for the purpose of providing funds in order to relieve overcrowded conditions by making permanent improvements at mental health and other public welfare institutions owned by this State which are now under the jurisdiction, management and control of the Department of Public Welfare.

Section 2. The Building Bond Board, hereinafter called the Board, is created to consist of the Governor, the State Treasurer and the Attorney General. The issuance, sale and retirement of bonds authorized by this Act shall be under the general supervision and control of the Board.

The bonds shall bear interest, payable annually, from their date, at the rate of not more than 4% per annum. They shall be serial bonds and be dated, issued and sold from time to time in such amounts as may be necessary to provide sufficient money to make improvements provided for in this Act. Each bond shall be in the denomination of $1000.00 or some multiple thereof, and shall be made payable within 25 years from its date. These bonds shall be signed by the Governor and attested by the Secretary of State under the seal of the State and countersigned by the State Treasurer. The signatures of the Governor and the Secretary of State may be lithographed facsimile signatures. Interest coupons with lithographed facsimile signatures of the Governor, Secretary of State and State Treasurer may be attached to the bonds. The fact that an officer whose signature or facsimile thereof appears on a bond or interest coupon no longer holds such office at the time the bond or coupon is delivered shall not invalidate such bond or interest coupon.

Pending the preparation and execution of any such bonds, temporary bonds may be issued with or without interest coupons. The bonds shall be sold to the highest and best bidders, for not less than their par value, upon sealed bids. The Board shall, from time to time as bonds are to be sold, advertise in at least 2 daily newspapers one of which is published in the City of Springfield and one in the City of Chicago for proposals to purchase the bonds. Each of such advertisements for proposals shall be published at least 10 days prior to the date of the opening of the bids. The Board may reserve the right to reject any and all bids. The bonds may, at the request of owners, be registered with the Secretary of State. The bonds shall be deposited with the State Treasurer and when sold the proceeds of the bonds shall be paid into the State treasury and kept in a separate fund which shall be known as the Public Welfare Building Fund, which separate fund is hereby created.

Section 3. The proceeds from the sale of bonds issued pursuant to this Act shall be used for making permanent improvements at State owned mental health and other public welfare institutions.

As used in this Act, the term "permanent improvements" means and includes construction of buildings, enlargement and rehabilitation of existing buildings, with fixed equipment installed; preparation of plans and specifications therefor; land acquisition; landscaping and construction of sidewalks, roads, driveways and parking space; and all other things necessary for completion of construction of buildings and grounds in connection therewith.

Section 4. The State Treasurer may, with the approval of the Governor, invest and reinvest, at the existing market price and in any event not to exceed 102% of par plus accrued interest, any money in the Public Welfare Building Fund in the State treasury which, in the opinion of the Governor communicated in writing to the State Treasurer, is not needed for current expenditures due or about to become due from such fund, in obligations of the United States Government maturing not more than one year after the date of purchase. The cost price of all such obligations shall be considered as cash in the custody of the State Treasurer and such obligations shall be conveyed at cost price as cash by the State Treasurer to his successor. The money in the Public Welfare Building Fund in the form of such obligations shall be set up by the State Treasurer as a separate account of such fund and shown distinctly in every report issued by him regarding fund balances.

All earnings accruing upon such investment shall be paid into the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund in the State treasury, which separate fund in the State treasury is hereby created. All of the moneys received from the sale or redemption of such obligations of the United States Government shall be replaced in the Public Welfare Building Fund.

Section 5. To the extent that funds are available in the General Revenue Fund of the State, the General Assembly is authorized to direct the transfer, from time to time, from the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund of sufficient money to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds provided for by this Act, as the same become due, and to the extent such transfer of funds is authorized by the General Assembly for that purpose, the taxes levied for the payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds as provided by Section 6 of this Act shall be abated.

Section 6. Each year, after this Act becomes fully operative, and until all of the bonds issued as provided in this Act have been retired, there is levied a direct annual tax upon all real and personal property in this State subject to taxation of such amount as shall be necessary and sufficient to pay the interest annually, as it shall accrue, on all bonds issued under the provisions of this Act and also to pay and discharge the principal of such bonds at par value, as such bonds fall due; and the amounts of such direct annual tax shall be appropriated for that specific purpose.

The proceeds of this tax shall be paid into the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund in the State treasury.

The required rate of such direct annual tax shall be fixed each year by the officers charged by law with fixing the rate for State taxes on the valuation of real and personal property in this State subject to taxation in accordance with the provisions of the statutes in such cases: provided, however, that if money has been transferred from the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund for the same purpose for which said direct annual tax is levied and imposed then said officers shall in fixing the rate of said direct annual tax make proper allowance in the amount of money so transferred in reduction of the tax levied under this Section and the tax levied under this Section shall be abated in that amount.

Section 7. The proposition of whether this Act shall take effect, a debt of $150,000,000 be contracted, bonds be issued to that amount and the principal of such bonds be paid within 25 years of their date and the interest thereon be paid as it accrues by levying and imposing a direct annual tax and by authorizing the General Assembly to transfer money in the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund therefor, shall be submitted to the People of the State of Illinois at the general election to be held on Tuesday next after the first Monday of November, A. D. 1960, on a separate ballot to be substantially in the following form:

Shall an Act of the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, entitled "An Act to authorize the issuance and sale of bonds of the State of Illinois for the purpose of obtaining funds to be used for making permanent improvements at mental health and other public welfare institutions owned by this State and to provide for the payment of the principal of and interest upon such bonds", enacted by the Seventy-first General Assembly, become effective and the State of Illinois contract a debt of $150,000,000 and issue serial bonds to that amount bearing not to exceed 4% interest pursuant to said Act to provide funds for permanent improvements for mental health and other public welfare institutions of the State of Illinois, and shall the State of Illinois levy annually a direct tax sufficient to pay the interest on such bonds as it shall accrue and to pay and discharge the principal of such bonds within 25 years from their date, in accordance with said Act, which Act provides that, to the extent that funds are available in the General Revenue Fund of the State, the General Assembly is authorized to direct the transfer of funds from time to time from the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund sufficient to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds provided for by said Act, and to the extent that money is so transferred from the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund for that purpose, then the appropriate officers in fixing the rate of said direct annual tax shall make proper allowance in the amount of money so transferred in reduction of the taxes to be levied and such tax shall be abated in that amount?	YES

Such ballot shall be separate from all others used at such election, except that where voting machines are used under the direction of any county clerk, such voting machines may be used to vote upon such proposition instead of upon the separate ballot.

Notice of the submission of the proposition shall be given by the various county clerks and the ballots shall be canvassed and returned, abstracts of the vote made and submitted, the votes canvassed and a declaration of the result made in the same manner as is provided by Sections 3, 5, 6 and 7 of "An Act to provide the manner of proposing amendments to the constitution, and submitting the same to the electors of this State", approved March 14, 1877, as amended, in case of the submission of a proposed constitutional amendment; provided that ballots for the submission of such proposition shall be printed on paper that is white in color.

Section 8. Before the vote of the people is taken upon such proposition, the Secretary of State is authorized and directed to cause publication of this Act to be made in at least 2 daily newspapers, one of which shall be published in the City of Springfield and the other in the City of Chicago. Such publications shall be made and repeated at such times as is provided for by Section 2 of "An Act to provide the manner of proposing amendments to the constitution, and submitting the same to the electors of this state", approved March 14, 1877, as amended, in the case of publication of a proposed constitutional amendment.

Section 9. If any section, sentence or clause of this Act is for any reason held invalid or to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this Act.

Section 10. This Act shall go into full force and effect upon receiving at the general election at which it is submitted the majority of votes required by Section 18 of Article IV of the Constitution. The provisions of this Act for the payment of the principal of said bonds at maturity and of the interest thereon annually, as it shall accrue, by authorizing the General Assembly to direct the transfer of funds in the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund for that purpose and by the direct annual tax upon real and personal property which has been levied and imposed herein for that purpose, shall be irrepealable until such debt and interest is paid in full, and for the making of such payments the faith of the State of Illinois is hereby pledged. (Approved July 22, 1959.)

OFFICIAL PUBLICATION

NOTICE OF PROPOSED PERMANENT IMPROVEMENTS AT EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS OWNED BY THIS STATE ACT AND BOND ISSUE

Voters at the November 8, 1960, general election will be afforded the opportunity to vote on a proposal for a bond issue which is essentially as follows: Shall the State of Illinois borrow $195,000,000 for a building program in order to relieve overcrowded conditions at the State owned institutions of higher education?

The detailed provisions are contained in a law which was passed by a two-thirds vote of the General Assembly and approved by the Governor. The text of the act is published below, as required by the State constitution. The following Statement and Suggestions has been prepared to afford a proper understanding of the proposition to be voted on.

STATEMENT AND SUGGESTIONS

Scope of the Building Program. Proceeds of the bond issue are to be used for making permanent improvements at the University of Illinois, Southern Illinois University, Eastern Illinois University, Illinois State Normal University, Northern Illinois University, and Western Illinois University.

The term "permanent improvements" is defined in Section 3 of the act and includes the acquisition of land as well as the construction, enlargement, and rehabilitation of buildings. (Future General Assemblies will determine what specific improvements are to be made.)

Term, Interest, and Sale of Bonds. The bonds are to be fully retired within 25 years of issue, and they are to bear 4 per cent annual interest. They are to be sold, after newspaper advertising, to the "highest and best bidder, for not less than their par value, upon sealed bids."

Payments to be Made. Payments on the principal and interest of the bonds are to be made, as they become due, from a Universities Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund in the State treasury, as provided in Section 5 of the act.

In order that this Bond Fund contain sufficient moneys to meet the required payments, the General Assembly is authorized to direct the transfer, from time to time, of State funds from the General Revenue Fund to this Bond Fund. The General Revenue Fund is supported by a major portion of the tax revenues of the State. If the General Assembly should fail to direct such transfers of funds, then Section 6 of the Act, which levies a property tax upon all real and personal property in this State subject to the taxation, will be in full force and effect. The proceeds of this tax, if levied, shall be paid into this Bond Fund for the purpose of making payment of the principal of and interest on the bonds. However, if sufficient money has been transferred from the General Revenue Fund to this Bond Fund to meet the required payments, then no tax levy will be necessary and none will be made.

Referendum Requirement. The act providing for this bond issue will go into full force and effect only if it receives a majority of the votes cast for members of the General Assembly at the November 8, 1960, election. The proposition is to be submitted on a separate ballot, except that where voting machines are in use, such machines may be used to vote upon the proposition.

The form of ballot is given below in the text of the act. (The ballot itself, as well as the act, should be studied now.)

THE ACT OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Act of the General Assembly hereinbefore mentioned is as follows:

An Act to authorize the issuance and sale of bonds of the State of Illinois for the purpose of obtaining funds to be used for making permanent improvements at educational institutions owned by this State and to provide for the payment of the principal of and interest upon such bonds.

Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly:

Section 1. The State of Illinois is authorized to issue and sell and provide for the retirement of bonds of the State of Illinois to the amount of $195,000,000 for the purpose of providing funds in order to relieve over-crowded conditions by making permanent improvements at educational institutions owned by this State which are now under the jurisdiction, management and control of the Board of Trustees of the University of Illinois, the Board of Trustees of Southern Illinois University and the Teachers College Board.

Section 2. The Building Bond Board, hereinafter called the Board, is created to consist of the Governor, the State Treasurer and the Attorney General. The issuance, sale and retirement of bonds authorized by this Act shall be under the general supervision and control of the Board.

The bonds shall bear interest, payable annually, from their date, at the rate of not more than 4% per annum. They shall be serial bonds and be dated, issued and sold from time to time in such amounts as may be necessary to provide sufficient money to make improvements provided for in this Act. Each bond shall be in the denomination of $1000.00 or some multiple thereof, and shall be made payable within 25 years from its date. These bonds shall be signed by the Governor and attested by the Secretary of State under the seal of the State and countersigned by the State Treasurer. The signatures of the Governor and the Secretary of State may be lithographed facsimile signatures. Interest coupons with lithographed facsimile signatures of the Governor, Secretary of State and State Treasurer may be attached to the bonds. The fact that an officer whose signature or facsimile thereof appears on a bond or interest coupon no longer holds such office at the time the bond or coupon is delivered shall not invalidate such bond or interest coupon.

Pending the preparation and execution of any such bonds, temporary bonds may be issued with or without interest coupons. The bonds shall be sold to the highest and best bidders, for not less than their par value, upon sealed bids. The Board shall, from time to time as bonds are to be sold, advertise in at least 2 daily newspapers one of which is published in the City of Springfield and one in the City of Chicago for proposals to purchase the bonds. Each of such advertisements for proposals shall be published at least 10 days prior to the date of the opening of the bids. The Board may reserve the right to reject any and all bids. The bonds may, at the request of owners, be registered with the Secretary of State. The bonds shall be deposited with the State Treasurer and when sold the proceeds of the bonds shall be paid into the State treasury and kept in a separate fund which shall be known as the Universities Building Fund, which separate fund is hereby created.

Section 3. The proceeds from the sale of bonds issued pursuant to this Act shall be used for making permanent improvements at State institutions.

As used in this Act, the term "permanent improvements" means and includes construction of buildings, enlargement and rehabilitation of existing buildings, with fixed equipment installed; preparation of plans and specifications therefor; land acquisition; landscaping and construction of sidewalks, roads, driveways and parking space; and all other things necessary for completion of construction of buildings and grounds in connection therewith.

Section 4. The State Treasurer may, with the approval of the Governor, invest and reinvest, at the existing market price and in any event not to exceed 102% of par plus accrued interest, any money in the Universities Building Fund in the State treasury which, in the opinion of the Governor communicated in writing to the State Treasurer, is not needed for current expenditures due or about to become due from such fund, in obligations of the United States Government maturing not more than one year after the date of purchase. The cost price of all such obligations shall be considered as cash in the custody of the State Treasurer and such obligations shall be conveyed at cost price as cash by the State Treasurer to his successor. The money in the Universities Building Fund in the form of such obligations shall be set up by the State Treasurer as a separate account of such fund and shown distinctly in every report issued by him regarding fund balances.

All earnings accruing upon such investment shall be paid into the Universities Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund in the State treasury, which separate fund in the State treasury is hereby created. All of the moneys received from the sale or redemption of such obligations of the United States Government shall be replaced in the Universities Building Fund.

Section 5. To the extent that funds are available in the General Revenue Fund of the State, the General Assembly is authorized to direct the transfer, from time to time, from the General Revenue Fund to the Universities Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund of sufficient money to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds provided for by this Act, as the same become due, and to the extent such transfer of funds is authorized by the General Assembly for that purpose, the taxes levied for the payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds as provided by Section 6 of this Act shall be abated.

Section 6. Each year, after this Act becomes fully operative, and until all of the bonds issued as herein provided have been retired, there is levied a direct annual tax upon all real and personal property in this State subject to taxation for such amount as shall be necessary and sufficient to pay the interest annually, as it shall accrue, on all bonds issued under the provisions of this Act and also to pay and discharge the principal of such bonds at par value, as such bonds fall due; and the amounts of such direct annual tax shall be appropriated for that specific purpose.

The proceeds of this tax shall be paid into the Universities Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund in the State treasury.

The required rate of such direct annual tax shall be fixed each year by the officers charged by law with fixing the rate for State taxes on the valuation of real and personal property in this State subject to taxation in accordance with the provisions of the statutes in such cases: provided, however, that if money has been transferred from the General Revenue Fund to the Universities Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund for the same purpose for which said direct annual tax is levied and imposed then said officers shall in fixing the rate of said direct annual tax make proper allowance in the amount of money so transferred in reduction of the tax levied under this Section and the tax levied under this Section shall be abated in that amount.

Section 7. The proposition of whether this Act shall take effect, a debt of $195,000,000 be contracted, bonds be issued to that amount and the principal of such bonds be paid within 25 years of their date and the interest thereon be paid as it accrues by levying and imposing a direct annual tax and by authorizing the General Assembly to transfer money in the General Revenue Fund to the Universities Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund therefor, shall be submitted to the People of the State of Illinois at the general election to be held on Tuesday next after the first Monday of November, A. D. 1960, on a ballot to be substantially in the following form:

Shall an Act of the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, entitled "An Act to authorize the issuance and sale of bonds of the State of Illinois for the purpose of obtaining funds to be used for making permanent improvements at educational institutions owned by this State and to provide for the payment of the principal of and interest upon such bonds", enacted by the Seventy-first General Assembly, become effective and the State of Illinois contract a debt of $195,000,000 and issue serial bonds to that amount bearing not to exceed 4% interest pursuant to said Act to provide funds for permanent improvements for educational institutions of the State of Illinois, and shall the State of Illinois levy annually a direct tax sufficient to pay the interest on such bonds as it shall accrue and to pay and discharge the principal of such bonds within 25 years from their date, in accordance with said Act, which Act provides that, to the extent that funds are available in the General Revenue Fund of the State, the General Assembly is authorized to direct the transfer of funds from time to time from the General Revenue Fund to the Universities Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund sufficient to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds provided for by said Act, and to the extent that money is so transferred from the General Revenue Fund to the Universities Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund for that purpose, then the appropriate officers in fixing the rate of said direct annual tax shall make proper allowance in the amount of money so transferred in reduction of the taxes to be levied and such tax shall be abated in that amount?	YES

Such ballot shall be separate from all others used at such election, except that where voting machines are used under the direction of any county clerk, such voting machines may be used to vote upon such proposition instead of upon the separate ballot.

Notice of the submission of the proposition shall be given by the various county clerks and the ballots shall be canvassed and returned, abstracts of the vote made and submitted, the votes canvassed and declaration of the result made in the same manner as is provided by Sections 3, 5, 6 and 7 of "An Act to provide the manner of proposing amendments to the constitution, and submitting the same to the electors of this State", approved March 14, 1877, as amended, in case of the submission of a proposed constitutional amendment; provided that, if separate ballots are used, ballots for the submission of such proposition shall be printed on paper that is white in color.

Section 8. Before the vote of the people is taken upon such proposition, the Secretary of State is authorized and directed to cause publication of this Act to be made in at least two daily newspapers, one of which shall be published in the City of Springfield and the other in the City of Chicago. Such publications shall be made and repeated at such times as is provided for by Section 2 of "An Act to provide the manner of proposing amendments to the constitution, and submitting the same to the electors of this state", approved March 14, 1877, as amended, in the case of publication of a proposed constitutional amendment.

Ushers Party Is Saturday

On Saturday, Aug. 6, the Annual Usher's Party will be held on the grounds of Our Lady of the Wayside church. This affair is sponsored by the men, who are responsible for many of the regular duties of the parish.

"Since it is our earnest hope to have greater social contact among parishoners," said Rusty Tomei, general chairman, "We have booked Harry Ryan, a well-known Square Dance Caller. Those not experienced will be taught so that they too may enjoy the great fun of Square Dancing."

In addition, refreshments and games are planned for those not dancing. The party will begin at 7 p.m. and last until midnight.

A portable TV will be given away. This "Night Under The Stars" is for all parishoners and their friends. Admission is $1.00 per adult. Children will be admitted free. (A

OFFICIAL PUBLICATION

NOTICE OF PROPOSED PERMANENT IMPROVEMENTS AT MENTAL HEALTH AND OTHER PUBLIC WELFARE INSTITUTIONS OWNED BY THIS STATE ACT AND BOND ISSUE

Voters at the November 8, 1960, general election will be afforded the opportunity to vote on a proposal for a bond issue which is essentially as follows: Shall the State of Illinois borrow $150,000,000 for a building program in order to relieve overcrowded conditions at the State owned mental health and other public welfare institutions?

The detailed provisions are contained in a law which was passed by a two-thirds vote of the General Assembly and approved by the Governor. The text of the act is published below, as required by the State constitution. The following Statement and Suggestions has been prepared to afford a proper understanding of the proposition to be voted on.

STATEMENT AND SUGGESTIONS

Scope of the Building Program. Proceeds of the bond issue are to be used for making permanent improvements at mental health and other public welfare institutions owned by the State of Illinois.

The term "permanent improvements" is defined in Section 3 of the act and includes acquisition of land as well as the construction, enlargement, and rehabilitation of buildings (Future General Assemblies will determine what specific improvements are to be made.)

Term, Interest, and Sale of Bonds. The bonds are to be fully retired within 25 years of issue, and they are to bear 4 per cent annual interest. They are to be sold, after newspaper advertising, to the "highest and best bidder, for not less than their par value, upon sealed bids."

Payments to be Made. Payments on the principal and interest of the bonds are to be made, as they become due, from a Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund in the State treasury, as provided in Section 5 of the act.

In order that this Bond Fund contain sufficient moneys to meet the required payments, the General Assembly is authorized to direct the transfer, from time to time, of State funds from the General Revenue Fund to this Bond Fund. The General Revenue Fund is supported by a major portion of the tax revenues of the State. If the General Assembly should fail to direct such transfers of funds, then Section 6 of the Act, which levies a property tax upon all real and personal property in this State subject to taxation, will be in full force and effect. The proceeds of this tax, if levied, shall be paid into this Bond Fund for the purpose of making payment of the principal of and interest on the bonds. However, if sufficient money has been transferred from the General Revenue Fund to this Bond Fund to meet the required payments, then no tax levy will be necessary and none will be made.

Referendum Requirement. The act providing for this bond issue will go into full force and effect only if it receives a majority of the votes cast for members of the General Assembly at the November 8, 1960, general election. The proposition is to be submitted on a separate ballot, except that where voting machines are in use, such machines may be used to vote upon the proposition.

The form of ballot is given below in the text of the act. (The ballot itself, as well as the act, should be studied now.)

THE ACT OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Act of the General Assembly hereinbefore mentioned is as follows:

An Act to authorize the issuance and sale of bonds of the State of Illinois for the purpose of obtaining funds to be used for making permanent improvements at mental health and other public welfare institutions owned by this State and to provide for the payment of the principal of and interest upon such bonds.

Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly:

Section 1. The State of Illinois is authorized to issue and sell and provide for the retirement of bonds of the State of Illinois to the amount of $150,000,000 for the purpose of providing funds in order to relieve overcrowded conditions by making permanent improvements at mental health and other public welfare institutions owned by this State which are now under the jurisdiction, management and control of the Department of Public Welfare.

Section 2. The Building Bond Board, hereinafter called the Board, is created to consist of the Governor, the State Treasurer and the Attorney General. The issuance, sale and retirement of bonds authorized by this Act shall be under the general supervision and control of the Board.

The bonds shall bear interest, payable annually, from their date, at the rate of not more than 4% per annum. They shall be serial bonds and be dated, issued and sold from time to time in such amounts as may be necessary to provide sufficient money to make improvements provided for in this Act. Each bond shall be in the denomination of $1000.00 or some multiple thereof, and shall be made payable within 25 years from its date. These bonds shall be signed by the Governor and attested by the Secretary of State under the seal of the State and countersigned by the State Treasurer. The signatures of the Governor and the Secretary of State may be lithographed facsimile signatures. Interest coupons with lithographed facsimile signatures of the Governor, Secretary of State and State Treasurer may be attached to the bonds. The fact that an officer whose signature or facsimile thereof appears on a bond or interest coupon no longer holds such office at the time the bond or coupon is delivered shall not invalidate such bond or interest coupon.

Pending the preparation and execution of any such bonds, temporary bonds may be issued with or without interest coupons. The bonds shall be sold to the highest and best bidders, for not less than their par value, upon sealed bids. The Board shall, from time to time as bonds are to be sold, advertise in at least 2 daily newspapers one of which is published in the City of Springfield and one in the City of Chicago for proposals to purchase the bonds. Each of such advertisements for proposals shall be published at least 10 days prior to the date of the opening of the bids. The Board may reserve the right to reject any and all bids. The bonds may, at the request of owners, be registered with the Secretary of State. The bonds shall be deposited with the State Treasurer and when sold the proceeds of the bonds shall be paid into the State treasury and kept in a separate fund which shall be known as the Public Welfare Building Fund, which separate fund is hereby created.

Section 3. The proceeds from the sale of bonds issued pursuant to this Act shall be used for making permanent improvements at State owned mental health and other public welfare institutions.

As used in this Act, the term "permanent improvements" means and includes construction of buildings, enlargement and rehabilitation of existing buildings, with fixed equipment installed; preparation of plans and specifications therefor; land acquisition; landscaping and construction of sidewalks, roads, driveways and parking space; and all other things necessary for completion of construction of buildings and grounds in connection therewith.

Section 4. The State Treasurer may, with the approval of the Governor, invest and reinvest, at the existing market price and in any event not to exceed 102% of par plus accrued interest, any money in the Public Welfare Building Fund in the State treasury which, in the opinion of the Governor communicated in writing to the State Treasurer, is not needed for current expenditures due or about to become due from such fund, in obligations of the United States Government maturing not more than one year after the date of purchase. The cost price of all such obligations shall be considered as cash in the custody of the State Treasurer and such obligations shall be conveyed at cost price as cash by the State Treasurer to his successor. The money in the Public Welfare Building Fund in the form of such obligations shall be set up by the State Treasurer as a separate account of such fund and shown distinctly in every report issued by him regarding fund balances.

All earnings accruing upon such investment shall be paid into the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund in the State treasury, which separate fund in the State treasury is hereby created. All of the moneys received from the sale or redemption of such obligations of the United States Government shall be replaced in the Public Welfare Building Fund.

Section 5. To the extent that funds are available in the General Revenue Fund of the State, the General Assembly is authorized to direct the transfer, from time to time, from the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund of sufficient money to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds provided for by this Act, as the same become due, and to the extent such transfer of funds is authorized by the General Assembly for that purpose, the taxes levied for the payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds as provided by Section 6 of this Act shall be abated.

Section 6. Each year, after this Act becomes fully operative, and until all of the bonds issued as provided in this Act have been retired, there is levied a direct annual tax upon all real and personal property in this State subject to taxation of such amount as shall be necessary and sufficient to pay the interest annually, as it shall accrue, on all bonds issued under the provisions of this Act and also to pay and discharge the principal of such bonds at par value, as such bonds fall due; and the amounts of such direct annual tax shall be appropriated for that specific purpose.

The proceeds of this tax shall be paid into the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund in the State treasury.

The required rate of such direct annual tax shall be fixed each year by the officers charged by law with fixing the rate for State taxes on the valuation of real and personal property in this State subject to taxation in accordance with the provisions of the statutes in such cases: provided, however, that if money has been transferred from the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund for the same purpose for which said direct annual tax is levied and imposed then said officers shall in fixing the rate of said direct annual tax make proper allowance in the amount of money so transferred in reduction of the tax levied under this Section and the tax levied under this Section shall be abated in that amount.

Section 7. The proposition of whether this Act shall take effect, a debt of $150,000,000 be contracted, bonds be issued to that amount and the principal of such bonds be paid within 25 years of their date and the interest thereon be paid as it accrues by levying and imposing a direct annual tax and by authorizing the General Assembly to transfer money in the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund therefor, shall be submitted to the People of the State of Illinois at the general election to be held on Tuesday next after the first Monday of November, A. D. 1960, on a separate ballot to be substantially in the following form:

Shall an Act of the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, entitled "An Act to authorize the issuance and sale of bonds of the State of Illinois for the purpose of obtaining funds to be used for making permanent improvements at mental health and other public welfare institutions owned by this State and to provide for the payment of the principal of and interest upon such bonds", enacted by the Seventy-first General Assembly, become effective and the State of Illinois contract a debt of $150,000,000 and issue serial bonds to that amount bearing not to exceed 4% interest pursuant to said Act to provide funds for permanent improvements for mental health and other public welfare institutions of the State of Illinois, and shall the State of Illinois levy annually a direct tax sufficient to pay the interest on such bonds as it shall accrue and to pay and discharge the principal of such bonds within 25 years from their date, in accordance with said Act, which Act provides that, to the extent that funds are available in the General Revenue Fund of the State, the General Assembly is authorized to direct the transfer of funds from time to time from the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund sufficient to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds provided for by said Act, and to the extent that money is so transferred from the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund for that purpose, then the appropriate officers in fixing the rate of said direct annual tax shall make proper allowance in the amount of money so transferred in reduction of the taxes to be levied and such tax shall be abated in that amount?	YES

Such ballot shall be separate from all others used at such election, except that where voting machines are used under the direction of any county clerk, such voting machines may be used to vote upon such proposition instead of upon the separate ballot.

Notice of the submission of the proposition shall be given by the various county clerks and the ballots shall be canvassed and returned, abstracts of the vote made and submitted, the votes canvassed and a declaration of the result made in the same manner as is provided by Sections 3, 5, 6 and 7 of "An Act to provide the manner of proposing amendments to the constitution, and submitting the same to the electors of this State", approved March 14, 1877, as amended, in case of the submission of a proposed constitutional amendment; provided that ballots for the submission of such proposition shall be printed on paper that is white in color.

Section 8. Before the vote of the people is taken upon such proposition, the Secretary of State is authorized and directed to cause publication of this Act to be made in at least 2 daily newspapers, one of which shall be published in the City of Springfield and the other in the City of Chicago. Such publications shall be made and repeated at such times as is provided for by Section 2 of "An Act to provide the manner of proposing amendments to the constitution, and submitting the same to the electors of this state", approved March 14, 1877, as amended, in the case of publication of a proposed constitutional amendment.

Section 9. If any section, sentence or clause of this Act is for any reason held invalid or to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this Act.

Section 10. This Act shall go into full force and effect upon receiving at the general election at which it is submitted the majority of votes required by Section 18 of Article IV of the Constitution. The provisions of this Act for the payment of the principal of said bonds at maturity and of the interest thereon annually, as it shall accrue, by authorizing the General Assembly to direct the transfer of funds in the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund for that purpose and by the direct annual tax upon real and personal property which has been levied and imposed herein for that purpose, shall be irrepealable until such debt and interest is paid in full, and for the making of such payments the faith of the State of Illinois is hereby pledged. (Approved July 22, 1959.)

NOTICE OF PROPOSED PERMANENT IMPROVEMENTS AT EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS OWNED BY THIS STATE ACT AND BOND ISSUE

Voters at the November 8, 1960, general election will be afforded the opportunity to vote on a proposal for a bond issue which is essentially as follows: Shall the State of Illinois borrow $195,000,000 for a building program in order to relieve overcrowded conditions at the State owned institutions of higher education?

The detailed provisions are contained in a law which was passed by a two-thirds vote of the General Assembly and approved by the Governor. The text of the act is published below, as required by the State constitution. The following Statement and Suggestions has been prepared to afford a proper understanding of the proposition to be voted on.

STATEMENT AND SUGGESTIONS

Scope of the Building Program. Proceeds of the bond issue are to be used for making permanent improvements at the University of Illinois, Southern Illinois University, Eastern Illinois University, Illinois State Normal University, Northern Illinois University, and Western Illinois University.

The term "permanent improvements" is defined in Section 3 of the act and includes the acquisition of land as well as the construction, enlargement, and rehabilitation of buildings. (Future General Assemblies will determine what specific improvements are to be made.)

Term, Interest, and Sale of Bonds. The bonds are to be fully retired within 25 years of issue, and they are to bear 4 per cent annual interest. They are to be sold, after newspaper advertising, to the "highest and best bidder, for not less than their par value, upon sealed bids."

Payments to be Made. Payments on the principal and interest of the bonds are to be made, as they become due, from a Universities Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund in the State treasury, as provided in Section 5 of the act.

In order that this Bond Fund contain sufficient moneys to meet the required payments, the General Assembly is authorized to direct the transfer, from time to time, of State funds from the General Revenue Fund to this Bond Fund. The General Revenue Fund is supported by a major portion of the tax revenues of the State. If the General Assembly should fail to direct such transfers of funds, then Section 6 of the Act, which levies a property tax upon all real and personal property in this State subject to the taxation, will be in full force and effect. The proceeds of this tax, if levied, shall be paid into this Bond Fund for the purpose of making payment of the principal of and interest on the bonds. However, if sufficient money has been transferred from the General Revenue Fund to this Bond Fund to meet the required payments, then no tax levy will be necessary and none will be made.

Referendum Requirement. The act providing for this bond issue will go into full force and effect only if it receives a majority of the votes cast for members of the General Assembly at the November 8, 1960, election. The proposition is to be submitted on a separate ballot, except that where voting machines are in use, such machines may be used to vote upon the proposition.

The form of ballot is given below in the text of the act. (The ballot itself, as well as the act, should be studied now.)

THE ACT OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Act of the General Assembly hereinbefore mentioned is as follows:

An Act to authorize the issuance and sale of bonds of the State of Illinois for the purpose of obtaining funds to be used for making permanent improvements at educational institutions owned by this State and to provide for the payment of the principal of and interest upon such bonds.

Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly:

Section 1. The State of Illinois is authorized to issue and sell and provide for the retirement of bonds of the State of Illinois to the amount of $195,000,000 for the purpose of providing funds in order to relieve over-crowded conditions by making permanent improvements at educational institutions owned by this State which are now under the jurisdiction, management and control of the Board of Trustees of the University of Illinois, the Board of Trustees of Southern Illinois University and the Teachers College Board.

Section 2. The Building Bond Board, hereinafter called the Board, is created to consist of the Governor, the State Treasurer and the Attorney General. The issuance, sale and retirement of bonds authorized by this Act shall be under the general supervision and control of the Board.

The bonds shall bear interest, payable annually, from their date, at the rate of not more than 4% per annum. They shall be serial bonds and be dated, issued and sold from time to time in such amounts as may be necessary to provide sufficient money to make improvements provided for in this Act. Each bond shall be in the denomination of $1000.00 or some multiple thereof, and shall be made payable within 25 years from its date. These bonds shall be signed by the Governor and attested by the Secretary of State under the seal of the State and countersigned by the State Treasurer. The signatures of the Governor and the Secretary of State may be lithographed facsimile signatures. Interest coupons with lithographed facsimile signatures of the Governor, Secretary of State and State Treasurer may be attached to the bonds. The fact that an officer whose signature or facsimile thereof appears on a bond or interest coupon no longer holds such office at the time the bond or coupon is delivered shall not invalidate such bond or interest coupon.

Pending the preparation and execution of any such bonds, temporary bonds may be issued with or without interest coupons. The bonds shall be sold to the highest and best bidders, for not less than their par value, upon sealed bids. The Board shall, from time to time as bonds are to be sold, advertise in at least 2 daily newspapers one of which is published in the City of Springfield and one in the City of Chicago for proposals to purchase the bonds. Each of such advertisements for proposals shall be published at least 10 days prior to the date of the opening of the bids. The Board may reserve the right to reject any and all bids. The bonds may, at the request of owners, be registered with the Secretary of State. The bonds shall be deposited with the State Treasurer and when sold the proceeds of the bonds shall be paid into the State treasury and kept in a separate fund which shall be known as the Universities Building Fund, which separate fund is hereby created.

Section 3. The proceeds from the sale of bonds issued pursuant to this Act shall be used for making permanent improvements at State institutions.

As used in this Act, the term "permanent improvements" means and includes construction of buildings, enlargement and rehabilitation of existing buildings, with fixed equipment installed; preparation of plans and specifications therefor; land acquisition; landscaping and construction of sidewalks, roads, driveways and parking space; and all other things necessary for completion of construction of buildings and grounds in connection therewith.

Section 4. The State Treasurer may, with the approval of the Governor, invest and reinvest, at the existing market price and in any event not to exceed 102% of par plus accrued interest, any money in the Universities Building Fund in the State treasury which, in the opinion of the Governor communicated in writing to the State Treasurer, is not needed for current expenditures due or about to become due from such fund, in obligations of the United States Government maturing not more than one year after the date of purchase. The cost price of all such obligations shall be considered as cash in the custody of the State Treasurer and such obligations shall be conveyed at cost price as cash by the State Treasurer to his successor. The money in the Universities Building Fund in the form of such obligations shall be set up by the State Treasurer as a separate account of such fund and shown distinctly in every report issued by him regarding fund balances.

All earnings accruing upon such investment shall be paid into the Universities Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund in the State treasury, which separate fund in the State treasury is hereby created. All of the moneys received from the sale or redemption of such obligations of the United States Government shall be replaced in the Universities Building Fund.

Section 5. To the extent that funds are available in the General Revenue Fund of the State, the General Assembly is authorized to direct the transfer, from time to time, from the General Revenue Fund to the Universities Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund of sufficient money to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds provided for by this Act, as the same become due, and to the extent such transfer of funds is authorized by the General Assembly for that purpose, the taxes levied for the payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds as provided by Section 6 of this Act shall be abated.

Section 6. Each year, after this Act becomes fully operative, and until all of the bonds issued as herein provided have been retired, there is levied a direct annual tax upon all real and personal property in this State subject to taxation for such amount as shall be necessary and sufficient to pay the interest annually, as it shall accrue, on all bonds issued under the provisions of this Act and also to pay and discharge the principal of such bonds at par value, as such bonds fall due; and the amounts of such direct annual tax shall be appropriated for that specific purpose.

The proceeds of this tax shall be paid into the Universities Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund in the State treasury.

The required rate of such direct annual tax shall be fixed each year by the officers charged by law with fixing the rate for State taxes on the valuation of real and personal property in this State subject to taxation in accordance with the provisions of the statutes in such cases: provided, however, that if money has been transferred from the General Revenue Fund to the Universities Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund for the same purpose for which said direct annual tax is levied and imposed then said officers shall in fixing the rate of said direct annual tax make proper allowance in the amount of money so transferred in reduction of the tax levied under this Section and the tax levied under this Section shall be abated in that amount.

Section 7. The proposition of whether this Act shall take effect, a debt of $195,000,000 be contracted, bonds be issued to that amount and the principal of such bonds be paid within 25 years of their date and the interest thereon be paid as it accrues by levying and imposing a direct annual tax and by authorizing the General Assembly to transfer money in the General Revenue Fund to the Universities Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund therefor, shall be submitted to the People of the State of Illinois at the general election to be held on Tuesday next after the first Monday of November, A. D. 1960, on a ballot to be substantially in the following form:

Tennis Clinic in Arlington Saturday

KICKIN' IT AROUND

By BOB FRISK

THOSE TWO TENNIS TOURISTS who will conduct a clinic on the Arlington high courts Saturday morning didn't take a fancy to the net sport just by accident.

It was as natural for Mary Hardwick and Charles Hare to take up tennis as it was for Bronko Nagurski's son to play football. They were placed in situations that dictated their futures.

Ruth Mary Hardwick was born just a few hundred yards from tradition-steeped Wimbledon. Her husband Charles Hare comes from a tennis playing family of Birmingham, England, that had four brothers competing in Wimbledon championships.

CHARLES HARE

Mary watched Helen Wills Moody win at Wimbledon and went away vowing to attain Helen's tennis heights. She practiced regularly with her brothers and in her second official tournament reached the semi-finals of the Junior championships of Great Britain. Dan Maskell, Britain's leading tennis coach, recognized her potential and began giving her lessons.

She then began her meteoric rise to the top, representing Great Britain in her first international matches with Germany and France before coming face-to-face with her tennis idol—Helen Wills Moody, world champion.

Mary, whose suppleness had begun to develop into grace on the court, promptly took command 6-3. It was the first set Mrs. Moody had lost since winning her first championship at Wimbledon. Later Mary achieved match-point and barely failed putting it across.

The second meeting with Mrs. Moody came in 1938 and this time, Mary went over the top, dealing the nine-times world's champ her first defeat in more than a decade. For good measure, she tossed in victories over champions from three other countries and started an undefeated victory chain with her own country-women which extends to the present.

Tours of the West Indies, United States, and Army and Navy installations in the United States and overseas followed for this personable tennis standout in addition to several impressive victories in both amateur and professional ranks. She made her pro debut in 1941 in Madison Square Garden.

Although Mary has spent most of the last 15 years lecturing on tennis and giving clinics and exhibitions in the United States, she still found time to tour England and Scandinavia with Alice Marble, Don Budge, and Bobby Riggs and gain recognition for two major accomplishments. She won the European Singles championship in 1948 in the Slazenger professional tourney and won the World's Mixed Doubles crown with Pancho Gonzales in 1953.

Hare first attracted attention when he won the All-England Junior championship though only 15, and after copping his first major senior victory he represented Great Britain in international matches against Scotland, Wales, France, Germany, Italy and the Scandinavian countries. He was a member of British Davis Cup team from 1937 through '39.

Gaining international fame in the Davis Cup Inter-Zone final between the U.S. and Great Britain when he played a terrific 17-15 set against Don Budge, Hare ranked as the top ranking singles player in Great Britain for three years and ranked in the World's Singles first 10 in 1937.

An outstanding singles player, Hare's forte has always been doubles where his southpaw service and strong net game have been potent weapons for offense.

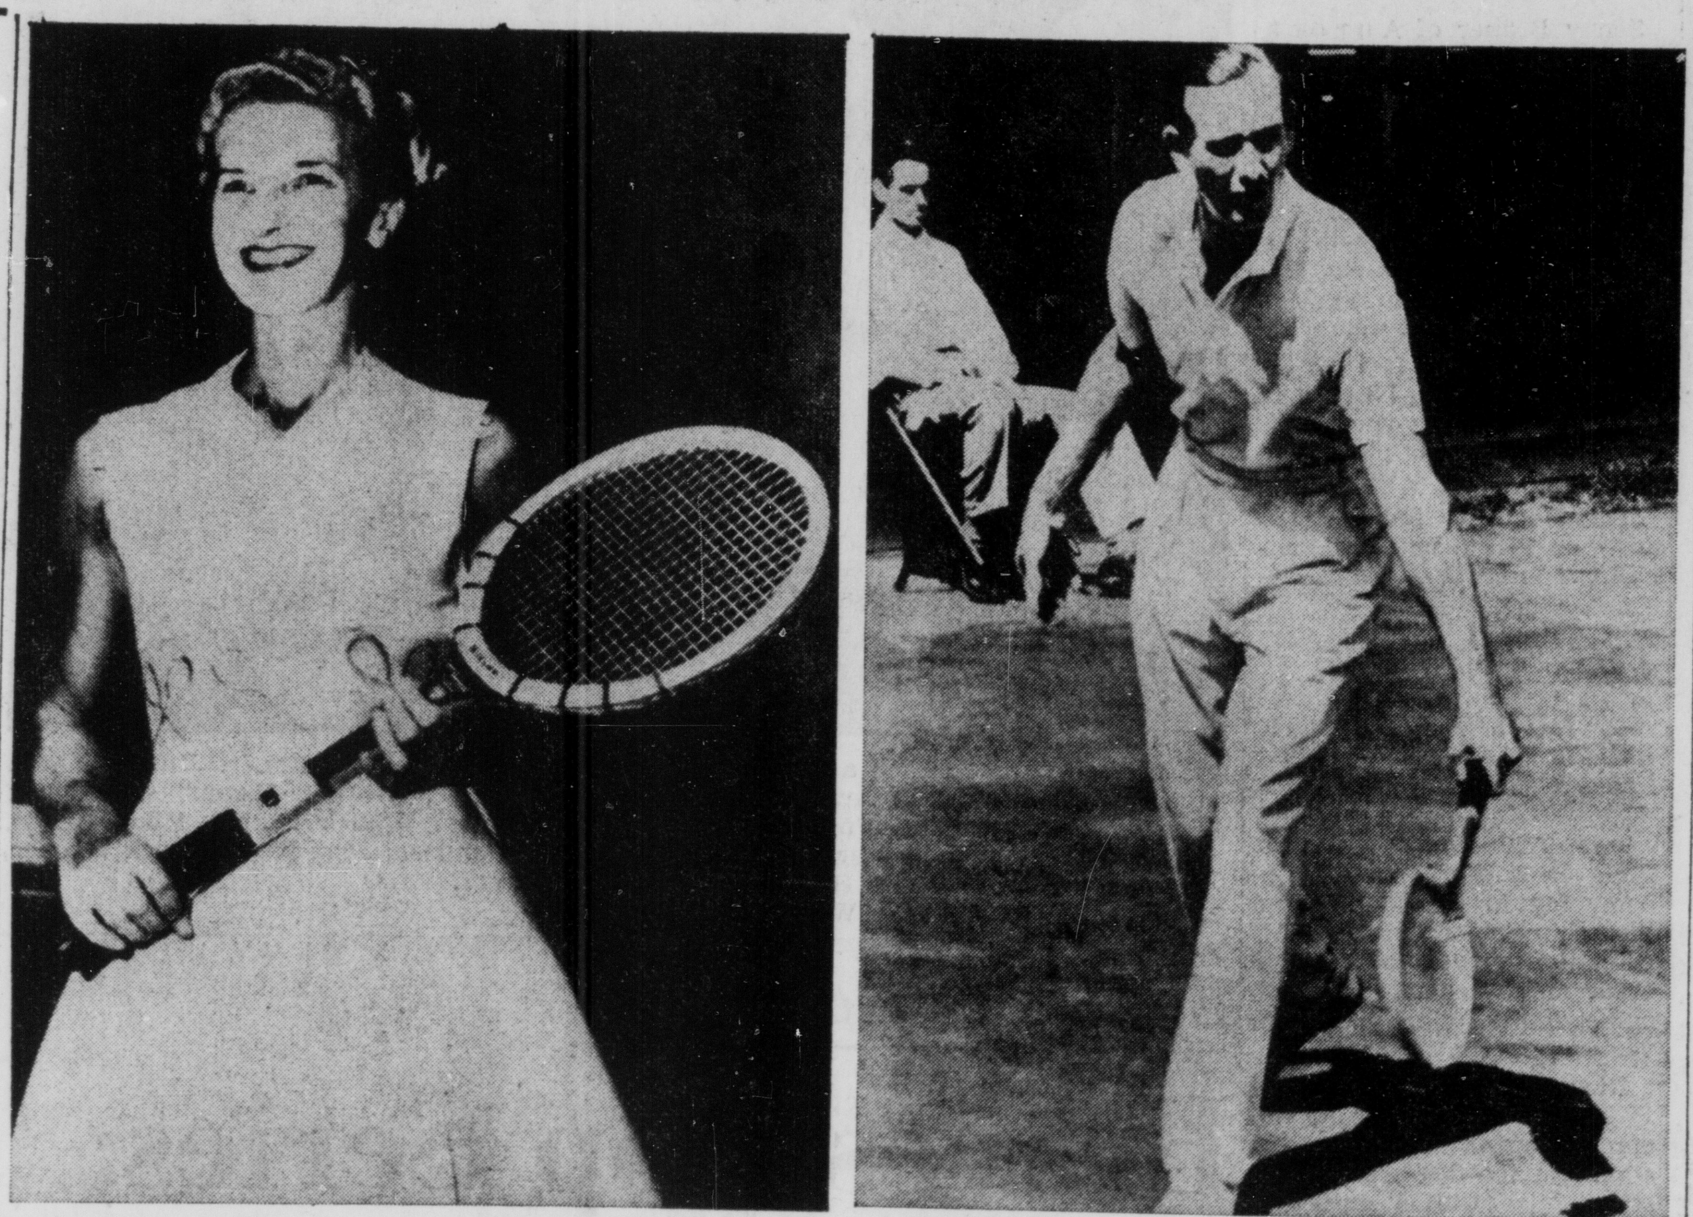
Area tennis fans should take advantage of Saturday's clinic and turn out for the exhibition.

The boom in tennis the past few years, thanks in part to the boost given by Arlington high coach Ken Schaller, has been phenomenal. Saturday's clinic represents another example of this increasing interest in the sport.

THIS 'N THAT:

Talk about promising futures, did you read about that Greensburg, Pa., Little Leaguer who has tossed nine straight no-hitters this summer? . . . The 5-5, 135-pounder has fanned 121 in 52 innings and is batting .644 with 12 homers and 12 doubles included among his 29 safeties . . . The NCAA came out with an impressive TV schedule for the coming collegiate football campaign . . . As an Illinois follower, we're happy to see two of the Illini's games on regional video—the clashes with Michigan and Northwestern . . . Both games are naturals, particularly the battle with the Illini and Michigan this fall as the two Elliott boys from Bloomington, Ill., Pete and Bumps, will match coaching talents for the first time . . . Pete is the new grid coach in Champaign and Bumps guides the Wolverines of Ann Arbor . . . They're voting today (Thursday) on whether the Bloom high school district educational fund tax rate is to be increased 10 cents . . . If the vote fails for the second time, Bloom will be without athletics for the 1960-61 school year.

What they're saying: Fresco Thompson, Los Angeles Dodgers' farm director—"If I had a son 15 years old, I'd either get him a union card or a catcher's mitt!"



STAGING A TENNIS clinic on the Arlington high school courts Saturday morning will be Charles E. Hare (left), former Davis Cup team captain and now Director of Tennis for the Wilson Sporting Goods Co., and his wife, Mary Hardwick, a member of Wilson's Tennis Advisory Staff. The clinic will begin at 10:30 a.m.

AHS Courts Site For Exhibitions

Ruth Mary Hardwick, described as tennis' best dressed and most graceful player, and her husband, Charles E. Hare, former Davis Cup team captain and famous southpaw International star, will stage a tennis clinic Saturday morning on the Arlington high school courts.

Slated to get under way at 10:30 a.m., the clinic is sponsored by Wilson Sporting Goods Co., and is open to the public without charge. Refreshments will be served at the exhibition which is slated to run until noon.

Roger Burke of Arlington Heights, who works for Wilson, was instrumental in getting the two tennis standouts to stage the clinic. Hare is Director of Tennis for the Wilson Sports Goods Co., and Chicago Sales Manager, and Mary Hardwick has been a member of the Wilson Advisory Staff since 1946.

HARE'S sportsmanship and crowd-pleasing personality have made him one of the most popular competitors to appear in the last decade in the various tournaments of the United States and of the world. He was England's Davis Cup Captain and No. 1 ranking player in the late 1930's.

He first attracted attention when he won the All-England Junior championship at 15, and he captured his first major senior victory at Southport, England, defeating Fred Perry in 1935.

Hare gained international fame in the Davis Cup Inter-Zone finale between the United States and Great Britain when he played a terrific 17-15 set against Don Budge.

MARY'S career has been unique because she has played against and with the world's leading champions, from Bill Tilden and the legendary Suzanne Lenglen of France to the more recent champions — Tony Trabert, Maureen Connolly, Althea Gibson, and Ken Rosewall.

She made her professional debut in Madison Square Garden in 1941 and toured the United States. A three-year tour of Army and Navy installations in the United States and Overseas under the auspices of the War Department followed.

Since then she has spent most of her time lecturing on tennis and giving clinics and exhibitions at schools, colleges and in the public parks — to stimulate greater participation in the game both she and her husband love so much.

MARY DID find time to win the European Singles title in the Slazenger Professional tournament in 1948 and the World's Mixed Doubles professional championship with Pancho Gonzales in 1953. She teamed with the famous Gonzales in a victory over Pauline Betz and Frank Kovacs at Cleveland, Ohio.

It is Mary Hardwick's belief that tennis is the best sport for international good will and understanding, and she refers to her racket as an ambassador and interpretor.

Indians Stop Lions, 8-3; Gain Senior Loop Title in Arlington

Jim Murphy twirled five-hit ball and was backed by an eight-hit attack Friday evening at Russ Walters' Indians decisioned Jack Martin's Lions for the Senior league championship in Arlington Heights.

Murphy was in trouble in only one inning as the Indians, first half champion and second half runnerup in the division, jumped off to an early lead and held on for the impressive victory.

The Senior league champions scored a single run in the second frame, then added three in the third and four in the fourth off the Lions' Kephart and Martin.

Dick Carlson collected two hits for Walters' champs and Chuck Close rapped a homer and double. Mac Gow chipped in with a double and Murphy, Jim Ewart, and Rusty Walters registered singles.

Hawley collected a double for the losers with Morici, Basak, Woodruff, and Splitorff banging out singles.

Indians	013 400 0	8-8-1
Lions	000 003 0	3-5-2

IN OTHER Senior league action the Browns and Bears battled to a 3-3 tie with Bill Dabbert's Browns scoring three runs in the sixth inning for the tie.

Hank Haiduke's Bears scored two runs in the first inning on a walk, fielder's choice and single.

The Lions scored seven runs in the first two frames, then held on for a 9-6 win over the Redlegs. Hawley was the winner with Woodruff cracking two homers and a triple for the victors.

BERG PICKED up the victory in the Hawks' effortless 10-5 triumph over the Indians, and O'Berg toiled on the mound as the Redlegs stopped the Bears 5-2. Kirk absorbed the loss in the latter contest.

The Eagles captured the second half championship in the Varsity league and will meet the Vikings for the loop title of 1960. E. Denten's second half champs dumped the Orioles 7-3 with John Ungaro gaining the decision.

Ken Johnson's triple was the key blow in the Vikings' 3-1 win over the Falcons, and Jerry Brown registered a double and triple as the Vikings stopped the Phillies 9-1. Peterson rapped a homer for the losing Phils.

HANNEMAN received the victory as the Rams dumped the Orioles 9-5 with Frank Chambers the individual standout. After rapping a single and two doubles in three trips to the plate, Chambers was intentionally walked by the Orioles in the sixth. He scored, however, by stealing second and third and riding home on a bunt. Chambers ended the campaign with a .508 batting average.

Rigsby got the win and O'Keefe was tagged with the loss as the Falcons edged the Rams 6-5, and in a playoff for the first half championship the Vikings slipped by the Phillies 13-12 with Johnston besting Wagner. Brown drove in Shawhan with the deciding tally.

In the Northside Majors the Pirates edged the Cubs 1-0 for the Arlington Heights championship as Dix gained the pitching triumph and P. Martin took the loss. Both clubs registered three hits with the deciding tally pushed over in the first frame.

Pirates	100 00	1-3
Cubs	000 00	0-3

P. MARTIN, D. Martin, and Sayre shared mound duties in the Cubs' 11-4 conquest of the Braves with Sayre blasting a triple for the winner's long hit of the day. Hedberg collected a 3-base knock for the losing Braves.

Scoring in every inning but the fourth, the Dodgers routed the Pirates 12-3 as Luxion bested Schneberger. The Cardinals scored seven runs in the fifth frame for a come-from-behind 9-8 triumph over the Giants. Ostermick got the win and Donnahue the loss.

In the Southside Majors the Yankees still hold the top rung with a 7½-2½ mark with the Red Sox a half game ahead of the White Sox in the second place battle.

AN EIGHT-RUN second inning enabled the Senators to decision the Athletics 10-8 and pick up their first win since the opening game of the 1960 campaign. The Senators finished as they started — a hard-luck club that was actually better than its record of 2½-17½ indicates.

Mike Mayfield hurled the win for the Senators with Rocca, Pasvogel, and Kabat also seeing action on the mound. Chuck Hennig rapped a double for the winners and Keith Winkler registered a triple for the A's.

LeStarge turned in a masterful pitching effort as the Tigers blanked the White Sox 5-0, and homers by Jim Bressler and Rick Hoppe in the first inning led the Red Sox to a 5-1 win over the champion Yanks in the final scheduled game of the season for both clubs.

Mickey Wadzita held the Yankees to two hits while striking out 11.

IN THE SOUTHSIDE Intermediate division the Huskies won the championship with a 14-11 win over the Seals, first half titlists.

Phee and Wolters slammed homers for the losers but they weren't enough as Brady picked up the decision for R. Pitts' Huskies.

Scoring ten runs in the first three innings, the Seals slapped down the Solons 10-2 with Witey the winner and Galyon the loser. Sieken and Schott slammed doubles and Phee added a triple for the Seals.

The Stars edged the Ravens 7-5 with Landmier topping Fortin.

IN THE Northside Intermediate division the Colonels and Saints tied for the second half title with identical 8-1 marks.

A run in the home half of the fourth gave the Colonels a 10-9 win over the Mohawks as Shawhan yielded 10 hits in going the route for the victory.

Fase tossed a shutout and also rapped a grand slam homer and triple in leading the Saints to an 11-0 decision over the Broncs, and the Bruins collected five homers in a crushing 17-2 rout of the Doves. Harvey, Riedy, Sauter, Smith, and Koss recorded the round-trippers and Brandall fanned 10 in the win.

The Redbirds had no trouble with the Comets, rolling to a 22-7 win, as Daly cracked a single, double, and homer, and the Hornets blasted the Lancers 19-4. Hecht got the win with Doyle absorbing the defeat.

IN SOUTHSIDE Juniors action the Oaks whipped the Padres 15-4 in the playoff for the second half championship. C. Foster's high-flying Oaks won both halves and will play the Sox of the Northside for the grand championship of the Juniors baseball.

Don Hall registered three

Cubs, Sox Still 1-2 in Rolling Meadows LL Play

by ED COREY

The Cubs and Sox each won two games handily last week in the Rolling Meadows Little League to remain 1-2 in the standings and set the stage for their final meeting next Tuesday night.

On Tuesday, July 26, the Cubs beat the Indians 14-3 with a seven run first inning highlighted by John Phillips' two-run homer.

Bob Hickey, the winning hurler, allowed three hits and made three safeties himself. Jim Bejerowski and Jim Tessar toiled for the Indians.

WEDNESDAY'S game found the Sox routing the Cardinals 10-2. Larry Goeske got his eleventh homer, a two-run blow in the fourth, while teammate Mike Lebben made three hits and Don Cooper got the win. Mike Rowbottom and Steve Ross hurled for the Cardinals.

The Cubs won their second game of the week on Friday, blasting the Cards with a 16-hit attack, 16-6. Johnny Phillips picked up his fifth homer of the year in the fourth and added two more singles to take batting honors.

Ed Corey started for the Cubs but was injured in the second and relieved by winner Mark Kramer. John Caltagirone and Rowbottom shared pitching duty for the Cards.

SATURDAY found the Sox taking their second win of the week with an 8-4 decision over the Braves. Goeske picked up a pair of two-run homers in the first and fourth innings, his 12th and 13th of the season, while Lebben with three hits and Wally Zimmer with two aided the winner's attack.

On Sunday the Yankees scored six runs in the first inning and went on to crush the Braves 24-3 for the biggest run total of the campaign.

Ricky Prucha with five hits, Allen Haase with four, and Tom Thornton with three spearheaded the winner's 22-hit attack.

Midget Football Registration Set

Registration for the Mt. Prospect Midget football assn., will take place at Lions Park Saturday, Aug. 13, and Saturday, Aug. 20 between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

The officers, coaches, and parents of the association met recently to formulate plans for the coming season and announced that all grammar school boys between 8 and 13 are again eligible to compete. There will be Junior and Senior divisions again this year.

Because of the increasing popularity of the sport among the younger boys and the general influx of new families in this area, it was tentatively decided to increase the league from eight to 10 teams and play the Sunday games at Lions Park as well as at the smaller parks in Mt. Prospect.

TO MAKE this plan a success, new coaches and assistant coaches and trainers are urgently needed to supplement the existing staffs. Any fathers who are interested in this program and can spend a few hours a week with the boys should contact Pat Breen at CLearbrook 3-5239.

A special invitation is extended to fathers who recently moved into the area. It's a good chance to get acquainted with other parents with similiar interests.

Idle Hours Riders Take Two Firsts

The Idles Hour team of Heather Rodericks, 207 Withorn, Mt. Prospect, and Evelyn Bacigalupo of Oak Park walked off with a blue ribbon and trophy in the Pair Class Sunday in the equestrian show at Idle Hour Stables, Park Ridge.

An Idle Hours entry which included the Mt. Prospect and Oak Park riders took another first place Wednesday at Northwestern in a competition among Chicagoland equestrian teams.

Shooting for the season trophy, the Idle Hours team will compete in Barrington Aug. 11.

Base Blazers Top Sportsmans Softball Loop

The Base Blazers hold a half game lead in the Arlington Heights Park District Sportsmans softball league with the Arlington Acres and Arlington Greens tied for second.

Standings through July 27:

	W	L
Base Blazers	5	0
Arlington Acres	5	1
Arlington Greens	5	1
Able Electric Sparks	3	3
Pure Oilers	3	3
Sailors	3	3

AN EIGHT-RUN second inning enabled the Senators to decision the Athletics 10-8 and pick up their first win since the opening game of the 1960 campaign. The Senators finished as they started — a hard-luck club that was actually better than its record of 2½-17½ indicates.

Mike Mayfield hurled the win for the Senators with Rocca, Pasvogel, and Kabat also seeing action on the mound. Chuck Hennig rapped a double for the winners and Keith Winkler registered a triple for the A's.

LeStarge turned in a masterful pitching effort as the Tigers blanked the White Sox 5-0, and homers by Jim Bressler and Rick Hoppe in the first inning led the Red Sox to a 5-1 win over the champion Yanks in the final scheduled game of the season for both clubs.

Mickey Wadzita held the Yankees to two hits while striking out 11.

IN THE SOUTHSIDE Intermediate division the Huskies won the championship with a 14-11 win over the Seals, first half titlists.

Phee and Wolters slammed homers for the losers but they weren't enough as Brady picked up the decision for R. Pitts' Huskies.

Scoring ten runs in the first three innings, the Seals slapped down the Solons 10-2 with Witey the winner and Galyon the loser. Sieken and Schott slammed doubles and Phee added a triple for the Seals.

The Stars edged the Ravens 7-5 with Landmier topping Fortin.

IN THE Northside Intermediate division the Colonels and Saints tied for the second half title with identical 8-1 marks.

A run in the home half of the fourth gave the Colonels a 10-9 win over the Mohawks as Shawhan yielded 10 hits in going the route for the victory.

Fase tossed a shutout and also rapped a grand slam homer and triple in leading the Saints to an 11-0 decision over the Broncs, and the Bruins collected five homers in a crushing 17-2 rout of the Doves. Harvey, Riedy, Sauter, Smith, and Koss recorded the round-trippers and Brandall fanned 10 in the win.

The Redbirds had no trouble with the Comets, rolling to a 22-7 win, as Daly cracked a single, double, and homer, and the Hornets blasted the Lancers 19-4. Hecht got the win with Doyle absorbing the defeat.

IN SOUTHSIDE Juniors action the Oaks whipped the Padres 15-4 in the playoff for the second half championship. C. Foster's high-flying Oaks won both halves and will play the Sox of the Northside for the grand championship of the Juniors baseball.

Midget Football Registration Set

Registration for the Mt. Prospect Midget football assn., will take place at Lions Park Saturday, Aug. 13, and Saturday, Aug. 20 between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

The officers, coaches, and parents of the association met recently to formulate plans for the coming season and announced that all grammar school boys between 8 and 13 are again eligible to compete. There will be Junior and Senior divisions again this year.

Because of the increasing popularity of the sport among the younger boys and the general influx of new families in this area, it was tentatively decided to increase the league from eight to 10 teams and play the Sunday games at Lions Park as well as at the smaller parks in Mt. Prospect.

TO MAKE this plan a success, new coaches and assistant coaches and trainers are urgently needed to supplement the existing staffs. Any fathers who are interested in this program and can spend a few hours a week with the boys should contact Pat Breen at CLearbrook 3-5239.

A special invitation is extended to fathers who recently moved into the area. It's a good chance to get acquainted with other parents with similiar interests.

Idle Hours Riders Take Two Firsts

The Idles Hour team of Heather Rodericks, 207 Withorn, Mt. Prospect, and Evelyn Bacigalupo of Oak Park walked off with a blue ribbon and trophy in the Pair Class Sunday in the equestrian show at Idle Hour Stables, Park Ridge.

An Idle Hours entry which included the Mt. Prospect and Oak Park riders took another first place Wednesday at Northwestern in a competition among Chicagoland equestrian teams.

Shooting for the season trophy, the Idle Hours team will compete in Barrington Aug. 11.

MAC SAYS

by G. A. McELROY

WE HAVE NOTICED a number of articles in the press and pictures in Sunday supplements and magazines about the new fad which is coming into this area in pit type rebound tumbling gear. This past year California opened over 200 such centers with six to 18 units. The craze extended to Florida last winter and is now gaining headway in this area. It is a popular adaptation of the Trampolines which has become pretty much standard equipment in school and college physical education programs, with the bouncing bed set at ground level to lessen danger of injuries.

The background of George "Trampoline" Nissen, inventor and manufacturer of this tumbling gadget is very interesting. Nissen in the mid-thirties attended the State University of Iowa where he was an active participant in track, swimming, gymnastics, tennis, skating, and hockey. He was one of the best athletes in the nation winning the national championship in tumbling three years in a row and in 1937 was an All-American in diving. All during this time he was considering the possibility of converting the circus "bouncing bed" into a practical portable piece of equipment for physical development and recreation. This sort of thing had been a part of the tent show circus world for over 350 years but was too cumbersome and expensive for common use in physical education.

After graduation from the university Nissen took over the family garage as his factory and developed a new product called the "Trampoline," taken from a Spanish word meaning "springboard." Today, Nissen, at 46, is one of the most traveled executives in the middle west, having introduced his Trampoline in most European countries and in all parts of the western hemisphere. Over 8,000 schools in this country use Trampolines as gym equipment. The AAU and the NCAA have both adopted Trampoline as an intercollegiate sport. Last year the governing body of World Gymnastics approved rebound tumbling as a special event for all member organizations. The establishment of open air recreation centers using pit type Trampolines has really widened the scope of Nissen's business which heretofore was limited to schools, gyms, and backyards.

SEVEN PLAYERS were named this past week to the 1960 U.S. Junior Davis Cup tennis team. Three are from Southern California, one from Florida, one from Arizona, one from Puerto Rico, and only one from the midwest and none from the eastern section of the country. Marty Riessen of Hinsdale is the only mid westerner. Riessen graduated from Hinsdale high school last June after winning the state high schools singles championship in tennis an unprecedented four times in a row. He was also an outstanding basketball player. Riessen's dad, who coached him through high school until his senior year, has finished one year as tennis coach at Northwestern university. These selections emphasize again the statement we made a few weeks ago that the best tennis is played in California and the southwest where year round outdoor practice is possible and where capable coaches are available in greater numbers.

THE BIG build up for the College All-Stars — Baltimore Colts football game August 12 has been going on for some time in the press. Reports indicate that the All-Stars are stronger than a year ago. They could be and still get a shellacking from the Colts. While Unitas can still throw a football the Colts must be considered an odds on favorite to knock off Otto Graham's college boys.

Van Driel's Holds 1st in Golf Loop

Van Driel's Drug team, in the last outing of the Mt. Prospect Twilight golf league, maintained its lead in first place, although winning only 3½ points from the Busse Motor Sales team. The Kruse's Schlitz team moved from third to second place when it won 6½ points from the Busse-Biermann Hardware team.

The George O'Day Realtors had as bad a night as a golf team can have. It lost all ten points to Moler's Barber Shop and dropped from second to third place. This supreme effort from Moler's moved it from seventh to a tie for fourth place with the Busse Motor Sales team.

Low gross of the evening was shot by Jack Mulder, the 'A' player from the Kruse's Schlitz team. This was Mulder's last game of the season on the Kruse team, since he is moving to California. He shot a very fine 35-8-27. He also tied for low gross with Mike Bergo, who shot a 35.

It was a fine night for birdies: Bob Kramer on 13, Fred Erickson on 18, Mike Bergo on 10 and 18, Alex McCormick on 5, and Ken Willert on 4. More birdies: Dick Wistar on 6, George Kratsch on 3 and 4, Wally Leutz on 5 and 6, Charlie Sobol on 5 and Joe Sokal on 5. This adds up to 14 birdies. Looks like the course is playing easier every week.

Sonny Brauer of Aurora copped the Illinois Jaycee Junior golf tourney last week at the Glenview Naval Air Station golf course with a 36-hole total of 144.

Rick Schulz of Wheaton, the first round leader with a blazing four - under par 66, skyrocketed to an 80 in Thursday's second round to finish fourth.

Bob Zender of Niles and Ken Benson of Thornton took second and third places respectively.

The four top winners will advance to the national tournament later this month.

Two Arlington Swimmers Place In AAU Races

Two Arlington swimmers, Doug Rice and Meg Dalton, competed in the Men's and Women's Senior Central AAU championships at Portage Park last weekend and both came home with places in various events.

Rice finished third in the 1500 meters Olympic development event free style and eighth in the 400 meters free style. Miss Dalton gained a sixth in the 100 meters breast stroke, seventh in the 200 meters breast stroke, and eighth in the 100 meters free style. In addition, she swam on the free style and medley relay which finished third.

Elk Grove Action

Braves Cop Series; Hall in No-Hitter!

A dramatic no-hitter by Braves' pitcher Dwayne Hall highlighted the Little League World Series in Elk Grove as the Braves copped two of three contests from the Indians and annexed the coveted championship.

The Braves won the opening encounter 5-0, fell in the second 2-0, then bounced back with a 4-2 victory in the decisive meeting.

Hall struck out 15 in tossing his masterpiece, facing only 22 men and walking two, one intentional.

SHARP fielding by Braves'

second baseman-pitcher Jim Maroni accounted for one out and a spectacular unassisted putout by first baseman Jack Hall nailed another would-be Indian base runner.

The Indians elected to go with pitcher-shortstop Jim Rennhack in the second encounter and he was equal to the occasion, tossing a one-hitter with only Brave hurler Bob Rogowski getting a single.

The third encounter found Jack Nemmers, a former Brave who was drafted early this year by the Indians, almost personally defeating his old teammates.

RENNHACK homered in the second with one on to give the Indians a 2-0 lead but Nemmers, working on the mound, lost his control and the Braves used a single by Dwyane Hall, two stolen bases, two walks, and double by Jim Maroni to tally three runs and move ahead 3-2.

The Braves' fifth started with Steve Eitzenhoefer grounding out. Wayne Dankowski worked the second Indians pitcher, Bill Strey, for a walk, and Rusty Finkler fanned. With two out Dwayne Hall blasted a triple to the fence in right center, scoring Dankowski with another insurance run.

In the fifth the Indians threatened but were cut short thanks to some clutch ball by Gary Rogowski and Dwayne Hall.

PITCHER Maroni struck out Indian catcher George Herbert on four pitches to win the game and the Elk Grove championship for Klehm's Braves.

Special mention should be given to those boys who did not appear in the lineups for every game but who still proved to be invaluable additions to their clubs. Such players are Mark Dankowski, John Moroney, and Dave and Gary Bennett.

Manager John Rogowski of Klehm's Braves also wishes to publicly thank his coaches, John Hari, Frank Haney, and Wayne J. Dankowski.

Clutch Single Gives Arlington Tie With Palatine

Roger Lindstrom's two-out single in the seventh inning gave Arlington a 2-2 deadlock with Palatine last Wednesday in the Junior Legion finale for both clubs. The contest was halted by darkness at the end of the eighth.

Palatine held a 2-0 edge at one point in the game before Arlington noticed single tallies in the sixth and seventh to knot the count.

The two teams divided an earlier pair of engagements this season. Arlington squeezed out a 1-0 victory in the first tilt while Palatine took the second, 4-1.

BOTH Gregg Beckway and Wayne Kehe went the route for the Fernstroms and Palatine respectively. Beckway was touched for six hits, one less than Kehe allowed.

Bill Phillips' double scoring Ken O'Rielly gave Coach Claude Bailey's nine a 1-0 edge in the first.

O'Rielly, who doubled to open Palatine's fifth, carried across his team's second run on Jack Nelson's single.

GREGG BECKWAY

Ross Retterer worked Kehe for a pass to open the seventh. Both Bob Hutchinson and John Lane grounded out but Ken Leyden's solid single moved Retterer to third setting the stage for Lindstrom's clutch hit.

Announce Registration Dates at AHS

Registration for all football and cross country candidates at Arlington high school, including frosh, will be held Monday through Friday, Aug. 22-26, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon in the office of H. W. Grace, athletic director.

Before any athlete registers at Arlington, however, the following three items must be followed:

(1) physical given or mailed to the school nurse.

(2) completed general registration for school with fees paid.

(3) parents' card signed and ready on day of athletic registration.

The amount of the football fees will be announced in Coach "Bus" Ormsbee's letter. Cross country boys will pay their required insurance fee and towel fee.

hits and received credit for the victory in the Oaks' playoff win over the Padres.

Shannon was on the mound when the Oaks rocked the Atoms 16-3, and the Padres rolled past the Spartans 18-2 with McDougall tossing a no-hitter.

Gratzer was the pitcher of record for the Wrens in a 12-9 decision over the Beavers, and the Buckeyes bumped the Colts 9-4 with Guy Anderson fanning 13 in a masterful performance.

IN NORTHSIDE Juniors baseball the Owls won by forfeit over the Blues as the Blues didn't have enough players to make up a team and didn't wish to reschedule the contest.

The Bisons pushed over the deciding run in the final inning in a 5-4 win over the Gulls, and the Larks routed the Millers 17-9 as Leydig rapped a homer for the victor's big blow.

The Robins scored at least two runs in every inning and blasted the Gophers 15-7 with Spindler collecting a homer for the winners.

Cards Sweep Three Game LL Series!

The Cardinals captured the championship playoffs in the Mt. Prospect Little League Majors with a decisive 14 - 5 victory over the Lions, sweeping the best three - of - five series.

The well - balanced Cardinal team used three different hurlers in sweeping the series. Greg Kowal and Tommy Manderscheid picked up the first two wins, easy 3 - 0 and 12 - 0 conquests, and Jarry Werderitch got the third and final decision.

Werderitch tossed a six-hitter, fanning six and walking five in the championship contest. Mike Mueller of the Lions, who also worked the first game for his club, was touched for 14 hits, fanning two and allowing five walks.

Manderschied, Steve Weber and Greg Lauten were the hitting stars for the Cardinals. Lauten had a perfect day at the plate while Manderscheid slammed out a triple.

Nitsh homered for the losers for their only extra base blow.

Kowal made a spectacular catch of a line drive off the bat of Dennis Wilkenson in the third inning and barely missed doubling Neuckranz of the Lions off second.

UI's Poster Tour To Open August 15

Sixty-eight cities in Illinois, and St. Louis, Mo., are included in the itinerary of the 1960 University of Illinois football poster tour. The trips, designed to promote the Illini home schedule begin Monday, Aug. 15.

Capt. Bill Brown, Mendota, senior fullback and a strong All-America candidate, and John Easterbrook, Champaign, 5-8, 156-pound senior varsity quarterback, will make the four week-long treks.

Brown is a football player of the "old" school. He has gained great respect as a corner linebacker on defense, and he is one of the nation's best ball carriers.

Brown's brother, Jim, also plays fullback for Illinois, and the two are considered the finest fullback duo in the middlewest.

EASTERBROOK is a marked contrast to the 5-11, 211-pound Illini captain. Last year, the home-grown Illini quarterback was the smallest regular player in the Big Ten. Despite his lack of size, Easterbrook has been the first-team quarterback at Illinois for two years. As a sophomore, he was the fourth-ranked passer in the conference. Last year, he did not see as much action because of an injury. However, he was ready when he was needed, and he played a major role in late-season victories over Wisconsin and Northwestern.

Easterbrook's father, Jim, was an Illini halfback in 1939-40.

Accompanying the grid stars on the various trips will be three members of the University of Illinois staff: Jim Vermette, former Illini baseball star, now field secretary for the Alumni association; Charles Bellatti, supervisor of athletic publicity, and Brodie Westen, a member of the freshman coaching staff.

The poster tour advertises the five Illinois home games this fall: Sept. 24, Indiana; Oct. 1, West Virginia; Oct. 8, Ohio State (homecoming); Oct. 22, Penn State (Dad's Day); and Nov. 12, Wisconsin ("I" Men's Day).

Seven Big Ten Players Listed On All-Star Unit

Seven players from the Big Ten, representing seven different schools, are on the College All-Star team that will play the world champion Baltimore Colts the night of Aug. 12 in Chicago's Soldier Field.

The Big Ten's contributions to the All-Stars are End Ted Aucreman of Indiana, Quarterback Ross Fichtner of Purdue, Tackle Gene Gossage of Northwestern, End Jim Houston of Ohio State, Center Bill Lapham of Iowa, Tackle Paul Rochester of Michigan State, and Guard Jerry Stalcup of Wisconsin.

Aucreman, a 6 foot 185 pounder, was voted as the Hoosiers' most valuable player last season by his teammates. Commenting on that selection, Indiana Coach Phil Dickens said: "I couldn't agree more with the choice. Aucreman made impossible plays all season. He stood up and bested players outweighing him 50 pounds."

FICHTNER, WHO played quarterback for Purdue, also is a most valuable selection. Though he was a fine offensive player with the Boilermakers, he is slated to play defensive halfback for the All-Stars.

Gossage was an iron man for Northwestern, playing almost every minute of the 1959 season. The 235 pounder at present is a leading contender in the All-Stars' offensive line.

Houston, Ohio State's All-American end, played in every game for the Buckeyes in 1957-58-59. He was unanimously elected captain of the 1959 team, unprecedented in Ohio State football annals.

IOWA'S LAPHAM is the beefiest of the Big Ten representatives on the All-Stars. Lapham weighs 240 pounds and is figured on to play offense with the All-Stars.

Elk Grove Action

Braves Cop Series; Hall in No-Hitter!

A dramatic no-hitter by Braves' pitcher Dwayne Hall highlighted the Little League World Series in Elk Grove as the Braves copped two of three contests from the Indians and annexed the coveted championship.

The Braves won the opening encounter 5-0, fell in the second 2-0, then bounced back with a 4-2 victory in the decisive meeting.

Hall struck out 15 in tossing his masterpiece, facing only 22 men and walking two, one intentional.

SHARP fielding by Braves'

second baseman-pitcher Jim Maroni accounted for one out and a spectacular unassisted putout by first baseman Jack Hall nailed another would-be Indian base runner.

The Indians elected to go with pitcher-shortstop Jim Rennhack in the second encounter and he was equal to the occasion, tossing a one-hitter with only Brave hurler Bob Rogowski getting a single.

The third encounter found Jack Nemmers, a former Brave who was drafted early this year by the Indians, almost personally defeating his old teammates.

RENNHACK homered in the second with one on to give the Indians a 2-0 lead but Nemmers, working on the mound, lost his control and the Braves used a single by Dwyane Hall, two stolen bases, two walks, and double by Jim Maroni to tally three runs and move ahead 3-2.

The Braves' fifth started with Steve Eitzenhoefer grounding out. Wayne Dankowski worked the second Indians pitcher, Bill Strey, for a walk, and Rusty Finkler fanned. With two out Dwayne Hall blasted a triple to the fence in right center, scoring Dankowski with another insurance run.

In the fifth the Indians threatened but were cut short thanks to some clutch ball by Gary Rogowski and Dwayne Hall.

PITCHER Maroni struck out Indian catcher George Herbert on four pitches to win the game and the Elk Grove championship for Klehm's Braves.

Special mention should be given to those boys who did not appear in the lineups for every game but who still proved to be invaluable additions to their clubs. Such players are Mark Dankowski, John Moroney, and Dave and Gary Bennett.

Manager John Rogowski of Klehm's Braves also wishes to publicly thank his coaches, John Hari, Frank Haney, and Wayne J. Dankowski.

Clutch Single Gives Arlington Tie With Palatine

Roger Lindstrom's two-out single in the seventh inning gave Arlington a 2-2 deadlock with Palatine last Wednesday in the Junior Legion finale for both clubs. The contest was halted by darkness at the end of the eighth.

Palatine held a 2-0 edge at one point in the game before Arlington noticed single tallies in the sixth and seventh to knot the count.

The two teams divided an earlier pair of engagements this season. Arlington squeezed out a 1-0 victory in the first tilt while Palatine took the second, 4-1.

BOTH Gregg Beckway and Wayne Kehe went the route for the Fernstroms and Palatine respectively. Beckway was touched for six hits, one less than Kehe allowed.

Bill Phillips' double scoring Ken O'Rielly gave Coach Claude Bailey's nine a 1-0 edge in the first.

O'Rielly, who doubled to open Palatine's fifth, carried across his team's second run on Jack Nelson's single.

GREGG BECKWAY

Ross Retterer worked Kehe for a pass to open the seventh. Both Bob Hutchinson and John Lane grounded out but Ken Leyden's solid single moved Retterer to third setting the stage for Lindstrom's clutch hit.

Announce Registration Dates at AHS

Registration for all football and cross country candidates at Arlington high school, including frosh, will be held Monday through Friday, Aug. 22-26, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon in the office of H. W. Grace, athletic director.

Before any athlete registers at Arlington, however, the following three items must be followed:

(1) physical given or mailed to the school nurse.

(2) completed general registration for school with fees paid.

(3) parents' card signed and ready on day of athletic registration.

The amount of the football fees will be announced in Coach "Bus" Ormsbee's letter. Cross country boys will pay their required insurance fee and towel fee.

hits and received credit for the victory in the Oaks' playoff win over the Padres.

Shannon was on the mound when the Oaks rocked the Atoms 16-3, and the Padres rolled past the Spartans 18-2 with McDougall tossing a no-hitter.

Gratzer was the pitcher of record for the Wrens in a 12-9 decision over the Beavers, and the Buckeyes bumped the Colts 9-4 with Guy Anderson fanning 13 in a masterful performance.

IN NORTHSIDE Juniors baseball the Owls won by forfeit over the Blues as the Blues didn't have enough players to make up a team and didn't wish to reschedule the contest.

The Bisons pushed over the deciding run in the final inning in a 5-4 win over the Gulls, and the Larks routed the Millers 17-9 as Leydig rapped a homer for the victor's big blow.

The Robins scored at least two runs in every inning and blasted the Gophers 15-7 with Spindler collecting a homer for the winners.

Cards Sweep Three Game LL Series!

The Cardinals captured the championship playoffs in the Mt. Prospect Little League Majors with a decisive 14 - 5 victory over the Lions, sweeping the best three - of - five series.

The well - balanced Cardinal team used three different hurlers in sweeping the series. Greg Kowal and Tommy Manderscheid picked up the first two wins, easy 3 - 0 and 12 - 0 conquests, and Jarry Werderitch got the third and final decision.

Werderitch tossed a six-hitter, fanning six and walking five in the championship contest. Mike Mueller of the Lions, who also worked the first game for his club, was touched for 14 hits, fanning two and allowing five walks.

Manderschied, Steve Weber and Greg Lauten were the hitting stars for the Cardinals. Lauten had a perfect day at the plate while Manderscheid slammed out a triple.

Nitsh homered for the losers for their only extra base blow.

Kowal made a spectacular catch of a line drive off the bat of Dennis Wilkenson in the third inning and barely missed doubling Neuckranz of the Lions off second.

UI's Poster Tour To Open August 15

Sixty-eight cities in Illinois, and St. Louis, Mo., are included in the itinerary of the 1960 University of Illinois football poster tour. The trips, designed to promote the Illini home schedule begin Monday, Aug. 15.

Capt. Bill Brown, Mendota, senior fullback and a strong All-America candidate, and John Easterbrook, Champaign, 5-8, 156-pound senior varsity quarterback, will make the four week-long treks.

Brown is a football player of the "old" school. He has gained great respect as a corner linebacker on defense, and he is one of the nation's best ball carriers.

Brown's brother, Jim, also plays fullback for Illinois, and the two are considered the finest fullback duo in the middlewest.

EASTERBROOK is a marked contrast to the 5-11, 211-pound Illini captain. Last year, the home-grown Illini quarterback was the smallest regular player in the Big Ten. Despite his lack of size, Easterbrook has been the first-team quarterback at Illinois for two years. As a sophomore, he was the fourth-ranked passer in the conference. Last year, he did not see as much action because of an injury. However, he was ready when he was needed, and he played a major role in late-season victories over Wisconsin and Northwestern.

Easterbrook's father, Jim, was an Illini halfback in 1939-40.

Accompanying the grid stars on the various trips will be three members of the University of Illinois staff: Jim Vermette, former Illini baseball star, now field secretary for the Alumni association; Charles Bellatti, supervisor of athletic publicity, and Brodie Westen, a member of the freshman coaching staff.

The poster tour advertises the five Illinois home games this fall: Sept. 24, Indiana; Oct. 1, West Virginia; Oct. 8, Ohio State (homecoming); Oct. 22, Penn State (Dad's Day); and Nov. 12, Wisconsin ("I" Men's Day).

Seven Big Ten Players Listed On All-Star Unit

Seven players from the Big Ten, representing seven different schools, are on the College All-Star team that will play the world champion Baltimore Colts the night of Aug. 12 in Chicago's Soldier Field.

The Big Ten's contributions to the All-Stars are End Ted Aucreman of Indiana, Quarterback Ross Fichtner of Purdue, Tackle Gene Gossage of Northwestern, End Jim Houston of Ohio State, Center Bill Lapham of Iowa, Tackle Paul Rochester of Michigan State, and Guard Jerry Stalcup of Wisconsin.

Aucreman, a 6 foot 185 pounder, was voted as the Hoosiers' most valuable player last season by his teammates. Commenting on that selection, Indiana Coach Phil Dickens said: "I couldn't agree more with the choice. Aucreman made impossible plays all season. He stood up and bested players outweighing him 50 pounds."

FICHTNER, WHO played quarterback for Purdue, also is a most valuable selection. Though he was a fine offensive player with the Boilermakers, he is slated to play defensive halfback for the All-Stars.

Gossage was an iron man for Northwestern, playing almost every minute of the 1959 season. The 235 pounder at present is a leading contender in the All-Stars' offensive line.

Houston, Ohio State's All-American end, played in every game for the Buckeyes in 1957-58-59. He was unanimously elected captain of the 1959 team, unprecedented in Ohio State football annals.

IOWA'S LAPHAM is the beefiest of the Big Ten representatives on the All-Stars. Lapham weighs 240 pounds and is figured on to play offense with the All-Stars.

Outdoor Sports Show Impact on Economy

Historians trace fishing back to the ancient Egyptians, and it probably goes back to the Stone Age whether as a sport or a necessity of survival.

But the last word on how to catch a fish is not in yet . . . and probably never will be.

The Associated Fishing Tackle Manufacturers, a 226-member organization accounting for some 80 per cent of all U.S. tackle production, reports a surprisingly large amount spent on research.

A SURVEY made in connection with the annual AFTM trade show at the Hotel Sherman shows that the industry spent an average of $234.39 per employee last year developing new products or refinements of existing equipment.

Research was spurred by competition from foreign imports and an ever growing market, according to an industry spokesman.

The tackle figure is somewhat under the average of $688.77 per employee spent by such giants of the space age as the major electronics, plastics, communications, and aircraft industries on computers, jet engines, and rocket components.

AND DOLLAR volume on research in tackle doesn't mean a great deal directly to the total economy.

But outdoor sports have a significant impact on the economy.

Arlington's Swim Team to Compete In League Meet

The Arlington Heights Park District swimming team, boasting a 6-1 mark for the 1960 season, will travel to Des Plaines for the Northern Illinois conference championships Monday and Tuesday.

Qualifying rounds will begin Monday at 2 p.m. and will continue through Monday evening. Final rounds will open on Tuesday evening at 7 p.m.

Last year Arlington placed first in the Northern test, a meet that pits all nine conference members against each other in the same pool.

THE LOCAL unit swept to victories in its last four meets with wins over Belvidere, Barrington, De Kalb, and Des Plaines.

On July 19 the Arlington swimmers stopped Belvidere 293½ - 138½ as Margo Hauff won three individual firsts and competed on a winning relay.

The Heights swimmers swamped Barrington 274-142 with Bobby Brown gaining three firsts and also anchoring a winning relay. Also in this meet, Todd Behrens set a new pool record when he swam the 25 yard free style for boys eight and under in :16.9.

TUESDAY, JULY 26, Des Plaines came to town and was set back 277 - 170. In this battle Mary Hertzel placed first three times and took home one second place ribbon and Marguerite Dalton placed first four times.

Last Thursday Arlington walloped the defending Northern Illinois champion DeKalb squad 260 - 186. Todd Behrens took three firsts and one second. Dick Leckband was also outstanding for Arlington, copping three individual events in the 17 - and - over division and anchoring the winning relay.

Fleetwing Farm Plans Horse Show

Martha Jayne, owner of Fleetwing Farm, is holding her first horse show of the season August 20 and 21 and it's open to all, novices and experts alike.

The Junior events will be held on Saturday starting at 10 a.m. The events are divided into age groups so as to provide an opportunity for the smaller children to compete and take a ribbon.

The harder - hitting Senior events will be on Sunday. To add interest and more spirited competition, Mrs. Jayne is donating the entry fees from several events as first prizes.

TO CLIMAX the two - day festivities, Mrs. Jayne is holding a Fall Festival barbecue. It will start at 5 p.m. on Sunday evening and is planned as an old fashioned get together.

Fleetwing Farm is located on 28 acres southwest of Palatine on Central road about a mile west of Roselle rd. There are complete parking and picnic facilities for this event.

All entries should be addressed to Martha Jayne, Fleetwing Farm, Route 2, Palatine.

Lumbermen Closing In on Food Shop

With two weeks still to play it is still a toss-up as to what team will represent the Tuesday division at Mt. Prospect in the Paddock tournament.

Wille Lumber and Fuel continued its winning streak and has pulled within two points of the league leaders by defeating Keefer's Pharmacy 8-2. H. Gieseke of the lumbermen came through with a neat net 30 to take low individual team honors.

Golden Food Shop ran into some stiff opposition of Kirchhoff Insurance and was defeated 7½-2½. Vern's Pure Oil is staging a big stretch drive and has climbed into third place by turning back Mt. Prospect Bowling lanes by a big victory of 8 2.

ANNEN & BUSS has kept its team in contention as it also had a nice team victory over Mt. Prospect Elec. Construction 7½-2½.

Morton Pontiac kept its team in the running by defeating Carl's Food Shop 6½-3½.

Licht's Paint Store slowed down Kerstings Garden Center drive and the Gardeners settled with a split 5-5.

NEXT WEEK matches will be interesting. 1st plays 2nd; 3rd plays 5th; 4th plays 6th; 5th plays 12th. Will the league's representative in the Paddock tournament be decided in this scramble?

Birdies were scored by C. Robinson 3; G. Raasch 2; R. Sbarbaro 1; Holman 1; Len Johnson 3 and 5; Ed Lauing 1 and 5; H. Jauch 16, and P. Petersen 18.

Moran Furs Picks Up 10 Loop Points

The Moran Furs team in league 1 of the St. Raymond's Holy Name golf loop has shown once again that they are not going to let anyone push them out of first place without a fight. Jack Moran helped his team pick up 10 points by shooting a terrific two over par 37. Keefer's Pharmacy moved from seventh place to sixth. This contest in league 1 is going to be hard fought for there are only 11 points separating the first place team from the third place team.

Illinois Range has a substantial lead in league 2, and they widened it by picking up nine more points. Meeske's had a bad night and found themselves dropping from third place to fifth. Van Driels Drugs & Faetz State Farm moved up into third & fourth place, respectively.

The outstnding game of the week was played by Jerry Schneider of the Ackerman Insurance Team. Jerry shot an outstanding one over par 36.

Pastorino, Neal Share VFW Honors

The Walls team held on to first place in the Arlington VFW golf league despite the absence of Captain Hank Hajek and still leads the second place Jones by two slim points.

That mighty-mite Frank Pastorino turned in the low gross score of 36, and Ralph Neal had low net with a neat 39-8-31.

Costliest round of the evening was the 48 by Wally Aronson. The golfing baker announced that he will once again celebrate the occasion with free coffee-cakes from the Cake-Box. All golfers of the league should get their tickets from Wally on Mon., Aug. 8.

THE LOCAL unit swept to victories in its last four meets with wins over Belvidere, Barrington, De Kalb, and Des Plaines.

On July 19 the Arlington swimmers stopped Belvidere 293½ - 138½ as Margo Hauff won three individual firsts and competed on a winning relay.

The Heights swimmers swamped Barrington 274-142 with Bobby Brown gaining three firsts and also anchoring a winning relay. Also in this meet, Todd Behrens set a new pool record when he swam the 25 yard free style for boys eight and under in :16.9.

TUESDAY, JULY 26, Des Plaines came to town and was set back 277 - 170. In this battle Mary Hertzel placed first three times and took home one second place ribbon and Marguerite Dalton placed first four times.

Last Thursday Arlington walloped the defending Northern Illinois champion DeKalb squad 260 - 186. Todd Behrens took three firsts and one second. Dick Leckband was also outstanding for Arlington, copping three individual events in the 17 - and - over division and anchoring the winning relay.

Fleetwing Farm Plans Horse Show

Martha Jayne, owner of Fleetwing Farm, is holding her first horse show of the season August 20 and 21 and it's open to all, novices and experts alike.

The Junior events will be held on Saturday starting at 10 a.m. The events are divided into age groups so as to provide an opportunity for the smaller children to compete and take a ribbon.

The harder - hitting Senior events will be on Sunday. To add interest and more spirited competition, Mrs. Jayne is donating the entry fees from several events as first prizes.

TO CLIMAX the two - day festivities, Mrs. Jayne is holding a Fall Festival barbecue. It will start at 5 p.m. on Sunday evening and is planned as an old fashioned get together.

Fleetwing Farm is located on 28 acres southwest of Palatine on Central road about a mile west of Roselle rd. There are complete parking and picnic facilities for this event.

All entries should be addressed to Martha Jayne, Fleetwing Farm, Route 2, Palatine.

Lumbermen Closing In on Food Shop

With two weeks still to play it is still a toss-up as to what team will represent the Tuesday division at Mt. Prospect in the Paddock tournament.

Wille Lumber and Fuel continued its winning streak and has pulled within two points of the league leaders by defeating Keefer's Pharmacy 8-2. H. Gieseke of the lumbermen came through with a neat net 30 to take low individual team honors.

Golden Food Shop ran into some stiff opposition of Kirchhoff Insurance and was defeated 7½-2½. Vern's Pure Oil is staging a big stretch drive and has climbed into third place by turning back Mt. Prospect Bowling lanes by a big victory of 8-2.

ANNEN & BUSS has kept its team in contention as it also had a nice team victory over Mt. Prospect Elec. Construction 7½-2½.

Morton Pontiac kept its team in the running by defeating Carl's Food Shop 6½-3½.

Licht's Paint Store slowed down Kerstings Garden Center drive and the Gardeners settled with a split 5-5.

NEXT WEEK matches will be interesting. 1st plays 2nd; 3rd plays 5th; 4th plays 6th; 5th plays 12th. Will the league's representative in the Paddock tournament be decided in this scramble?

Birdies were scored by C. Robinson 3; G. Raasch 2; R. Sbarbaro 1; Holman 1; Len Johnson 3 and 5; Ed Lauing 1 and 5; H. Jauch 16, and P. Petersen 18.

Event of the day in the Old Orchard ladies Tuesday golf league was Blind Holes. Winners were Lorraine Mertens and Fay Bruhnke.

Restaurant Wins Two For Lead

Mell and Paul's won a twin bill Sunday to move into a first place tie with Bender Rieger in the Rolling Meadows Softball League.

Pat McQueenie collected 4 hits and Ron Feiereisel blasted a pair of homers as the restaurahteers knocked off Sigwalt 18-13.

Jack Lauders hurled the new league-leaders to an 18-4 triumph over the People's Choice in the second game.

Moran Furs Picks Up 10 Loop Points

The Moran Furs team in league 1 of the St. Raymond's Holy Name golf loop has shown once again that they are not going to let anyone push them out of first place without a fight. Jack Moran helped his team pick up 10 points by shooting a terrific two over par 37. Keefer's Pharmacy moved from seventh place to sixth. This contest in league 1 is going to be hard fought for there are only 11 points separating the first place team from the third place team.

Illinois Range has a substantial lead in league 2, and they widened it by picking up nine more points. Meeske's had a bad night and found themselves dropping from third place to fifth. Van Driels Drugs & Faetz State Farm moved up into third & fourth place, respectively.

The outstnding game of the week was played by Jerry Schneider of the Ackerman Insurance Team. Jerry shot an outstanding one over par 36.

Pastorino, Neal Share VFW Honors

The Walls team held on to first place in the Arlington VFW golf league despite the absence of Captain Hank Hajek and still leads the second place Jones by two slim points.

That mighty-mite Frank Pastorino turned in the low gross score of 36, and Ralph Neal had low net with a neat 39-8-31.

Costliest round of the evening was the 48 by Wally Aronson. The golfing baker announced that he will once again celebrate the occasion with free coffee-cakes from the Cake-Box. All golfers of the league should get their tickets from Wally on Mon., Aug. 8.

Palabar's Show Set For August 14

The Palabar Horse Assn., will hold its seventh annual show Aug. 14 at Fisher's Lazy "F" Ranch, a half mile east of Barrington rd. on Palatine rd., Barrington.

Starting at 9:30 a.m., the show is expected to draw some of the finest Quarter Horses from all over Illinois and surrounding states. There will be classes for English and Western horses besides the Quarter Horses.

Entry fee for the Trial Class will be $4. All other classes are $3 each. After 1 p.m., Aug. 14, the entry fees will double in all classes.

Dave Blumenfeld and Frank Maher will judge the English and Western classes, and the public is invited to bring the family and attend the show. Refreshments will be available on the grounds.

Mrs. Roy Peavey of Barrington is the show chairman this year.

Golfers Note!

Eligibility Date Nears for Tourney

Not this week, but next — that's the eligibility date for 72 twilight golfers of this area as they are selected to compete in the Paddock tournament Aug. 28 at White Pines golf club.

First place teams of 18 twilight loops within the area served by Paddock Publications as of Aug. 13 will be eligible for the big event, with twelve medals, a dozen golf balls, and the large traveling trophy up for grabs.

WHICH FOURSOME will make the tourney is not known at this writing. Top spots have been shifting rapidly. There are several ties, with league officials having responsibility of naming which squad competes in the Paddock meet. At least three golfers changed dates of their vacations in event they make the meet.

Greens fees of $16.00 per four man team are to be paid at time of making entry to Tournament Manager at Paddock Publications, with deadline for entries Aug. 20. There will be no other costs to golfers.

SPORTS DEPARTMENT of Paddock Publications will compute handicaps for the tournament. Eighty per cent of the difference between a player's average 9-hole score for his five best nights and par for the course on which he plays, including fractions, is to be multiplied by two to obtain the 18-hole handicap. The nearest figure under, at, or over .5 will be used.

There you have it, golfers. Better sharpen up those drives for this final week of play before the axe falls to separate the men from the boys for the tournament. Better have your tee shots in shape, too.

DEFENDING Champ is Tioga Post of Bensenville, with a squad from that VFW organization certain to be back this time. The ex-soldiers are competing at Glendale this year. Other loops expecting to compete, and courses on which they play:

Mt. Prospect country club — Monday Mt. Prospect, Tuesday Mt. Prospect, St. Raymond No. 1, St. Raymond No. 2.

Rob Roy golf club — St. James, St. Alphonsus, Rob Roy Twilight.

Roselle golf club — Arlington Twilight, Roselle, Hoffman Estates, Pure Oil.

Old Orchard golf club — Wayside-Colette, VFW Post 981, Old Orchard Scratch.

Arlington golf club — Friday Night.

White Pines golf club — Flick-Reedy.

Mohawk golf club — Tuesday Men's.

OTHER TWILIGHT leagues have been competing in the area, but are not "local" in character. All loops must have at least 50 per cent of the golfers living within the area served by Paddock Publications in order to be eligible for the tourney. This eliminated at least four leagues from consideration by tourney officials.

League secretaries of the 18 loops involved have entry blanks. More are available from publication office if necessary.

Greg Krieger Sets 50-Lap Track Mark at Waukegan

Not wanting to settle for second best again this week as he did last week, Flyin' Greg Krieger was back showing his usual winning form as he captured the 50 lap summer championship feature race at the Waukegan Speedway Sunday night, July 31 and set a new 50 lap track record in the process.

His speed of 50.39 mph was 1.88 mph faster than the old record of 48.51 mph set on September 9, 1958 by Erik Johnson of Highland Park. His timing of 14 min., 53.09 sec., bested Johnson's time by 34.66 seconds. Johnson's old time being 15 minutes, 27.75 seconds.

Earlier, Krieger had bested John Reimer, a fellow Milwaukeean, in the qualifying runs by 2/10 of a second to set the fast time of the night for the ninth time at 52.38 mph. Reimer had broke Krieger's string of fast times last Sunday, stopping Krieger from getting nine in a row.

THE SEASON'S largest crowd of 3,400 avid fans viewed the fast action and helped contribute to a season record purse of $1,600. The fans were well pleased as Krieger took over the lead position on the 27th lap and went on for the win, managing to lap all but three cars in the fast starting field of the eighteen fastest qualifiers. Krieger took over the lead from Art Reeves, Libertyville, the eventual third place finisher, who lost second spot to Bob Karry, Lake Villa, on the 34th.

Chilean Benefit Races Friday at Waukegan Plant

Seven Consuls from South and Central American countries will attend the big Chilean Benefit races at the Waukegan Speedway, Friday at 8:30 p.m. The consuls, all stationed in Chicago, and the countries they represent are: J. V. Johansen, Chile; Fritz Adler, Paraguay; Adolfo Roman, Nicaragua; Mr. Lew, Panama; Miguel Herrera, Dominican Republic; Marcos Morinigo, Argentina, and Oscar Vasqueaz, Peru.

At the speedway sports spectacular, a thrilling evening of racing is promised with proceeds going to the Lake County Chilean Relief fund. Jalopy races will be featured with four heat events, a semi-feature, and a feature race. Added attractions will be a special race between radio disc jockies of WKRS and other stations. A second added attraction will be a sports car race. Speedway operator, Mike Kaishian, said this is the first time sports cars have raced at the track.

ARSENE J. Denoyer, chair man of the county's Chilean Relief committee, commented: "This past week, the area of Chile hardest hit by the May earthquakes and tidal waves was hit again by new floods. This added more deaths, hardship, and suffering for the already stricken people of Chile. The best way we can help rebuild this devastated country is to send them cash contributions."

Admission for Friday's big sports show is $1.50 for adults and 25 cents for children. The Speedway is located in Waukegan on W. Washington st., between Greenbay rd. and the Skokie hwy. Gates will be open at 6 p.m. with time trials starting at 7:30 p.m. and the races getting underway at 8:30 p.m.

JUST DOGS

by DAVE TERRILL

National Dog Hero

Dogdom's most highly coveted non-show award, the Ken-L-Ration dog hero of heroes gold medal, has been won by a purebred German Shepherd dog named Keg. His owners are Mr. and Mrs. William J. McMannis of Kelly Canyon, a suburb of Bozeman, Mont.

Keg won the gold medal, a $1000 U.S. bond for her owners, a gold-plated leash and collar, a gold plaque, a dog blanket and a year's supply of dog food by saving the life of 17-month-old Karen McMannis when the youngster was just minutes away from death this past May.

The youngster had fallen into an irrigation creek near her home after wandering away from older children with whom she had been playing. Keg, who had been following her, jumped into the creek, clamped on to her shoulder, towed her to shore and dragged her up a steep embankment to safety.

Karen had been left at the home of the older children while her mother was shopping and her father, an associate professor of geology at Montana State college, was with his students on a field trip. The mother of Karen's playmates, missing the child, heard a faint cry and raced out of her home to the creek just in time to see Keg pull the youngster up onto the bank. She rushed Karen to the hospital, where, in the emergency ward, water was removed from her lungs and she was given oxygen. Mrs. McMannis arrived at the hospital later and took the child home unaware that Keg had saved the childs life until she was told what had taken place. Keg in the meantime was patiently waiting for them in the front yard.

Keg and the McMannis family will be brought to Chicago next week as guests of Ken-L-Ration. The gold medal and other awards will be presented at a banquet in the Crystal Room of the Palmer house, Wednesday evening, Aug. 10.

Boxer Match—August 13

Owners of Boxers will have a good chance to compare their dogs with others of the breed when the Mid-West Boxer club holds a match show at the Rutherford Sayre park, 6851 W. Belson, Chicago, Saturday, Aug. 13.

There will be classes for puppies from 2 to 4 months, 4 to 6 months, 6 to 9 months and also classes for adult dogs. Registration will be from 12:30 to 2, with the affair starting at 2 p.m. Judge for the match will be Mrs. Robert Stoddard of Highland Park.

The match will be held in the enclosed tennis court area of the park, so there will be no chance of a dog getting away from his owner. Also, there will be no charge for dogs and a minimum admission charge to adults and children.

Further information can be had from the club president, Mrs. Hugh O'Brien, at FLanders 8-1647.

Barks & Bays

The obedience dogs will take over Prospect high school on Foundry rd., Sunday, Aug. 21. More about this elsewhere in the paper between now and then. It will be the third annual all-breed obedience trial to be held by the Northwest Obedience Club, Inc., from Palatine.

Chilean Benefit Races Friday at Waukegan Plant

Seven Consuls from South and Central American countries will attend the big Chilean Benefit races at the Waukegan Speedway, Friday at 8:30 p.m. The consuls, all stationed in Chicago, and the countries they represent are: J. V. Johansen, Chile; Fritz Adler, Paraguay; Adolfo Roman, Nicaragua; Mr. Lew, Panama; Miguel Herrera, Dominican Republic; Marcos Morinigo, Argentina, and Oscar Vasqueaz, Peru.

At the speedway sports spectacular, a thrilling evening of racing is promised with proceeds going to the Lake County Chilean Relief fund. Jalopy races will be featured with four heat events, a semi-feature, and a feature race. Added attractions will be a special race between radio disc jockies of WKRS and other stations. A second added attraction will be a sports car race. Speedway operator, Mike Kaishian, said this is the first time sports cars have raced at the track.

ARSENE J. Denoyer, chairman of the county's Chilean Relief committee, commented: "This past week, the area of Chile hardest hit by the May earthquakes and tidal waves was hit again by new floods. This added more deaths, hardship, and suffering for the already stricken people of Chile. The best way we can help rebuild this devastated country is to send them cash contributions."

Admission for Friday's big sports show is $1.50 for adults and 25 cents for children. The Speedway is located in Waukegan on W. Washington st., between Greenbay rd. and the Skokie hwy. Gates will be open at 6 p.m. with time trials starting at 7:30 p.m. and the races getting underway at 8:30 p.m.

JUST DOGS

by DAVE TERRILL

National Dog Hero

Dogdom's most highly coveted non-show award, the Ken-L-Ration dog hero of heroes gold medal, has been won by a purebred German Shepherd dog named Keg. His owners are Mr. and Mrs. William J. McMannis of Kelly Canyon, a suburb of Bozeman, Mont.

Keg won the gold medal, a $1000 U.S. bond for her owners, a gold-plated leash and collar, a gold plaque, a dog blanket and a year's supply of dog food by saving the life of 17-month-old Karen McMannis when the youngster was just minutes away from death this past May.

The youngster had fallen into an irrigation creek near her home after wandering away from older children with whom she had been playing. Keg, who had been following her, jumped into the creek, clamped on to her shoulder, towed her to shore and dragged her up a steep embankment to safety.

Karen had been left at the home of the older children while her mother was shopping and her father, an associate professor of geology at Montana State college, was with his students on a field trip. The mother of Karen's playmates, missing the child, heard a faint cry and raced out of her home to the creek just in time to see Keg pull the youngster up onto the bank. She rushed Karen to the hospital, where, in the emergency ward, water was removed from her lungs and she was given oxygen. Mrs. McMannis arrived at the hospital later and took the child home unaware that Keg had saved the childs life until she was told what had taken place. Keg in the meantime was patiently waiting for them in the front yard.

Keg and the McMannis family will be brought to Chicago next week as guests of Ken-L-Ration. The gold medal and other awards will be presented at a banquet in the Crystal Room of the Palmer house, Wednesday evening, Aug. 10.

Boxer Match—August 13

Owners of Boxers will have a good chance to compare their dogs with others of the breed when the Mid-West Boxer club holds a match show at the Rutherford Sayre park, 6851 W. Belson, Chicago, Saturday, Aug. 13.

There will be classes for puppies from 2 to 4 months, 4 to 6 months, 6 to 9 months and also classes for adult dogs. Registration will be from 12:30 to 2, with the affair starting at 2 p.m. Judge for the match will be Mrs. Robert Stoddard of Highland Park.

The match will be held in the enclosed tennis court area of the park, so there will be no chance of a dog getting away from his owner. Also, there will be no charge for dogs and a minimum admission charge to adults and children.

Further information can be had from the club president, Mrs. Hugh O'Brien, at FLanders 8-1647.

Barks & Bays

The obedience dogs will take over Prospect high school on Foundry rd., Sunday, Aug. 21. More about this elsewhere in the paper between now and then. It will be the third annual all-breed obedience trial to be held by the Northwest Obedience Club, Inc., from Palatine.

Czach Takes Over Late Model Point Lead at O'Hare

Two of the nation's top stock car speedsters, Fred Lorenzen of Elmhurst and Tom Pistone of Chicago, will return to action Friday and Saturday night at O'Hare Stadium, Mannheim and Irving Park rds. First race nightly is at 8:30 p.m.

Both were absent as they competed in the big NASCAR 300-mile grind at Atlanta, Ga., last Sunday. Joining with them to form a top quartet of hard-driving veterans will be Roy Czach of Chicago and Erik Johnson of Highland Park, Ill.

While Lorenzen was absent last weekend, Czach took over the NASCAR late model point lead at O'Hare and the steady advance of still another long time competitor, Skippy Michaels of Berwyn, has dropped Fred to third place in the ratings.

MAIN EVENTS over the 25-lap route for both the late model and Cadet divisions will highlight both the Friday and Saturday night shows. Added excitement each night will come via torrid Demolition race action in which anything can and usually does occur. Gates open each night at 6 p.m.

Memorial Handicap On Saturday's Card

The $50,000 Laurance Armour Memorial Handicap, expected to renew an intriguing rivalry between Brookfield Farm's fast-stepping Intentionally and Claiborne Farm's late-running Dunce, headlines Saturday's racing card at beautiful Arlington Park.

Intentionally and Dunce finished heads apart in that order in the recent Equipoise Mile and rank among the favorites for the 1-1/8 mile race for three-year-olds and up.

Intentionally held off Dunce for a pulsating nose triumph in the one mile Equipoise and off that race should find Saturday's distance of the Armour too long. However, it was only the second start this year for the four-year-old son of Intent, who earlier walked off with the Tobaggon Handicap in New York under 128 pounds, and he should benefit greatly from the effort.

DUNCE, on the other hand, already had captured the $50,000 Stars and Stripes here, and probably was best in the Equipoise except for a traffic jam about three furlongs from home. He must have made up some six lengths in the last three-sixteenths of a mile, though, once clear.

Saturday's $50,000 spectacle climaxes an excitedly different week of racing at Arlington Park which was touched off Monday by the first purebred Arabian horse race ever run off in the Midwest. The $25,000 Cleaopatra Handicap for three-year-old fillies was also on the week's card.

A new challenger has arrived for the Armour—C. V. Whitney's remarkable Dotted Swiss, whose successful summer campaign found him winner of the $100,000 Hollywood Golf Cup.

DOTTED SWISS was one of the sensations of the recently concluded Hollywood Park meeting where he captured both the Gold Cup and the Cortez Handicap. His appearance in the Armour will add an extra zest to the midwestern handicap ranks.

Also eligible for the Armour Handicap are Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Johnson's Fleet Nasrullah, who has been a disappointment of late here, and Calumet Farm's unpredictable On-and-On, winner of the Ward Memorial two weeks ago.

This will be the eighth running of a stake inaugurated in 1953 as a memorial to Laurance Armour, one of the first Chicagoans to invest in Arlington Park, a resident of the famous Post and Paddock Club for 21 years and a director for many years before his death in December 1952.

Better Bee with J. Choquette up was the 1959 winner with Terra Firma and Nouraddin rounding out the top three. Better Bee's time of 1:48 2/5 is the best mark registered for the Armour and the largest winning purse—$56,000—went to Round Table in 1958.

Schwerin Tours Old Orchard's Back Nine in 33

Long-hitting Bill Schwerin, with an uncanny knack on recovery shots, found Old Orchard's back nine to his liking and accrued a fine 3-under par round of 33. "Muscles" Schwerin's masterpiece of golf wasn't of the spectacular style but just a steady stolid brand of golf that one expects of a good golfer.

"Long ball Bill" collected four birdies while subduing his opponent with a rash of five 3's, two 4's and two 5's. Schwerin's second shot on the 400 yard 10th ended up on the back fringe of the green and Bill stroked it in for his 1st birdie.

The 430 yard 13th yielded a birdie on a recovery chip shot and the 480 yard 14th was the 3rd birdie. "Muscles Schwerin" then rammed in a three on the difficult 415 yard 17th and poured the 235 yard 18th with its tricky cup placement. The 33 score of the Woodvale team captain carried low ball honors for his team although he was hard pressed by his teammate Dick Burkett who stroked a steady one under par round of 35 but was defeated in match play by Gordon Otto's 2-under round.

THE LEAGUE publicitor had the pleasure of playing with this match and must confess that the recovery shots made by Gordon Otto were of the spectacular type and a pleasure to witness. Burkett's game was sound from tee to green and after losing his match with a one under par round he was heard to comment something about a "rough league." (Could be.)

Other fine scores were turned in by M. Kamps who had three 3's and six 4's for a 33, Bob Reiland who birdied No. 4 and No. 9 for a 35, Shelby Stewart who birdied No. 14 and No. 16 for a fine 36, and Lou Sabo who birdied No. 15 but slipped to a bogey 4 on the tricky No. 18 for his par 36. Sabo still is the league's No. 1 golfer by a few percentage points and follows the name indicator on the standing record sheet.

Twenty golfers of the league pulled a rather unusual stunt last week-end when they played the Roselle golf course. Led by John Andrup's 2-under par round for the 18 it was discovered on matching scores that a best ball of 17 under par had been played. Every hole except No. 17, a 200 yard par 3, had been birdied one or more times by the golfers. Touring a course with a group of 20 players and having a best ball of 17 under par is a feat not often accomplished.

Cards Hold 2-1/2 Game Lead in MP Pony Loop Action

Stopping the Braves and Giants in recent contests, the Cardinals of Mt. Prospect have moved out to a 2½ game lead in Pony League action.

The Cubs and Yankees are tied for the runnerup slot with both units holding 10-4 marks.

The Cards toppled the Braves Sunday 7-6 with Barger, Hope, and Collins working for the winners. Trailing 6-0 in the fifth inning, the Cards erupted for four runs and added three more in the sixth to wrap up the contest.

KOEHLER tripled to drive in the tying and winning markers. Besides Koehler's triple for the Cards, C. Stevens and Hope also tripled. Mike Burke took the loss for the Braves but blasted a double for his offensive efforts.

The Cards dumped the Giants 16-0 on a one-hitter by A. Koehler. Koehler fanned 10 and added a homer, triple, and single for a perfect day at the plate.

Murphy, Barger, and Hope each got two hits for the winners and it was Lynch of the Giants who broke up Koehler's no-hit bid.

SNYDER PITCHED the Tigers to a 13-1 win over the Sox, and the Giants decisioned the Sox 9-8 as Richard Beck pitched the win and also got four straight hits, driving in four runs.

Gorski's throw to the plate from center field cut down the tying run and assured the win for Beck.

The Braves scored three runs in the last half of the seventh to edge the Pirates 6-5. Bob Gewecke got the win and Dave Gobielle led the Braves at the plate with a homer and double.

TOM ROGERS, who started for the Braves, pitched four-hit ball for 5 1/3 innings before relieved by Gewecke.

Gewecke pitched a neat two-hit shutout over the Yankees as the Braves won a 3-0 contest. The Braves played errorless ball as the young pitcher picked up his second win in as many days.

Mike Burke gave up five hits in the Braves' 4-2 win over the Tigers, fanning 13. McClellan and Rogers led the Braves with two hits each, and Tom Snyder hit a home run with no one on for the Tigers.

However, it was only the second start this year for the four-year-old son of Intent, who earlier walked off with the Tobaggon Handicap in New York under 128 pounds, and he should benefit greatly from the effort.

DUNCE, on the other hand, already had captured the $50,000 Stars and Stripes here, and probably was best in the Equipoise except for a traffic jam about three furlongs from home. He must have made up some six lengths in the last three-sixteenths of a mile, though, once clear.

Saturday's $50,000 spectacle climaxes an excitedly different week of racing at Arlington Park which was touched off Monday by the first purebred Arabian horse race ever run off in the Midwest. The $25,000 Cleaopatra Handicap for three-year-old fillies was also on the week's card.

A new challenger has arrived for the Armour—C. V. Whitney's remarkable Dotted Swiss, whose successful summer campaign found him winner of the $100,000 Hollywood Golf Cup.

DOTTED SWISS was one of the sensations of the recently concluded Hollywood Park meeting where he captured both the Gold Cup and the Cortez Handicap. His appearance in the Armour will add an extra zest to the midwestern handicap ranks.

Also eligible for the Armour Handicap are Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Johnson's Fleet Nasrullah, who has been a disappointment of late here, and Calumet Farm's unpredictable On-and-On, winner of the Ward Memorial two weeks ago.

This will be the eighth running of a stake inaugurated in 1953 as a memorial to Laurance Armour, one of the first Chicagoans to invest in Arlington Park, a resident of the famous Post and Paddock Club for 21 years and a director for many years before his death in December 1952.

Better Bee with J. Choquette up was the 1959 winner with Terra Firma and Nouraddin rounding out the top three. Better Bee's time of 1:48 2/5 is the best mark registered for the Armour and the largest winning purse—$56,000—went to Round Table in 1958.

Schwerin Tours Old Orchard's Back Nine in 33

Long-hitting Bill Schwerin, with an uncanny knack on recovery shots, found Old Orchard's back nine to his liking and accrued a fine 3-under par round of 33. "Muscles" Schwerin's masterpiece of golf wasn't of the spectacular style but just a steady stolid brand of golf that one expects of a good golfer.

"Long ball Bill" collected four birdies while subduing his opponent with a rash of five 3's, two 4's and two 5's. Schwerin's second shot on the 400 yard 10th ended up on the back fringe of the green and Bill stroked it in for his 1st birdie.

The 430 yard 13th yielded a birdie on a recovery chip shot and the 480 yard 14th was the 3rd birdie. "Muscles Schwerin" then rammed in a three on the difficult 415 yard 17th and poured the 235 yard 18th with its tricky cup placement. The 33 score of the Woodvale team captain carried low ball honors for his team although he was hard pressed by his teammate Dick Burkett who stroked a steady one under par round of 35 but was defeated in match play by Gordon Otto's 2-under round.

THE LEAGUE publicitor had the pleasure of playing with this match and must confess that the recovery shots made by Gordon Otto were of the spectacular type and a pleasure to witness. Burkett's game was sound from tee to green and after losing his match with a one under par round he was heard to comment something about a "rough league." (Could be.)

Other fine scores were turned in by M. Kamps who had three 3's and six 4's for a 33, Bob Reiland who birdied No. 4 and No. 9 for a 35, Shelby Stewart who birdied No. 14 and No. 16 for a fine 36, and Lou Sabo who birdied No. 15 but slipped to a bogey 4 on the tricky No. 18 for his par 36. Sabo still is the league's No. 1 golfer by a few percentage points and follows the name indicator on the standing record sheet.

Twenty golfers of the league pulled a rather unusual stunt last week-end when they played the Roselle golf course. Led by John Andrup's 2-under par round for the 18 it was discovered on matching scores that a best ball of 17 under par had been played. Every hole except No. 17, a 200 yard par 3, had been birdied one or more times by the golfers. Touring a course with a group of 20 players and having a best ball of 17 under par is a feat not often accomplished.

Cards Hold 2-1/2 Game Lead in MP Pony Loop Action

Stopping the Braves and Giants in recent contests, the Cardinals of Mt. Prospect have moved out to a 2½ game lead in Pony League action.

The Cubs and Yankees are tied for the runnerup slot with both units holding 10-4 marks.

The Cards toppled the Braves Sunday 7-6 with Barger, Hope, and Collins working for the winners. Trailing 6-0 in the fifth inning, the Cards erupted for four runs and added three more in the sixth to wrap up the contest.

KOEHLER tripled to drive in the tying and winning markers. Besides Koehler's triple for the Cards, C. Stevens and Hope also tripled. Mike Burke took the loss for the Braves but blasted a double for his offensive efforts.

The Cards dumped the Giants 16-0 on a one-hitter by A. Koehler. Koehler fanned 10 and added a homer, triple, and single for a perfect day at the plate.

Murphy, Barger, and Hope each got two hits for the winners and it was Lynch of the Giants who broke up Koehler's no-hit bid.

SNYDER PITCHED the Tigers to a 13-1 win over the Sox, and the Giants decisioned the Sox 9-8 as Richard Beck pitched the win and also got four straight hits, driving in four runs.

Gorski's throw to the plate from center field cut down the tying run and assured the win for Beck.

The Braves scored three runs in the last half of the seventh to edge the Pirates 6-5. Bob Gewecke got the win and Dave Gobielle led the Braves at the plate with a homer and double.

TOM ROGERS, who started for the Braves, pitched four-hit ball for 5 1/3 innings before relieved by Gewecke.

Gewecke pitched a neat two-hit shutout over the Yankees as the Braves won a 3-0 contest. The Braves played errorless ball as the young pitcher picked up his second win in as many days.

Mike Burke gave up five hits in the Braves' 4-2 win over the Tigers, fanning 13. McClellan and Rogers led the Braves with two hits each, and Tom Snyder hit a home run with no one on for the Tigers.

Standings:

Cards	13	2
Cubs	10	4
Yankees	10	4
Braves	9	7
Indians	7	7
Tigers	6	8
Pirates	5	10
Giants	3	10

NW Industrial Council Elects Officers For 1961

Officers for 1961 were elected at the Northwest Industrial Council meeting recently held at Gunnell's Restaurant in Mount Prospect.

The officers for 1961 are: William Davis, Hannifin company, president; A. L. Funke, Barco Manufacturing Co., first vice-president; Maurice Cox, Universal Oil company, second vice-president; Richard Bruce, Ekco Alcoa, secretary; Glen Benson, Arlington Seating company, treasurer; and Don Lewan, Universal Oil company, assistant secretary.

The board of directors elected at the meeting include: Barrington, Gus Knaack and A. L. Funke; Palatine, H. A. Kline and George Dickson; Arlington Heights, William Kaucher and Glen Benson; Mount Prospect, L. J. Janett and J. Weber, Sr.; Des Plaines, Maurice Cox and William Davis; Wheeling and Deerfield, R. Peterson and Richard Bruce; Lake Zurich, F. C. Baker and W. H. Stevens; and Elk Grove, Eugene Broussard.

THE 95 MEMBER Council, which meets every month from September through June, is composed of representatives from 50 manufacturing companies in the Northwest area. The group was formed to promote the general welfare of the Northwest suburban area regarding personnel and industrial relations matters and to discuss subjects of mutual interest in the industrial suburban community.

All Industrial firms in the Northwest suburban area, including Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Barrington, Wheeling, Northbrook, Deerfield, Prospect Heights, Crystal Lake and Lake Zurich are eligible for membership.

Some of the last year's outstanding programs included:

T. C. Kammolz of Vedder, Price, Kaufman and Kammolz, who spoke to the group on the Landrum, Griffith, Kennedy Act. He formerly was Counsel for the National Labor Relations Board in Washington.

Robert Price of the National Association of Management gave an excellent presentation on white collar employee relations. Several other excellent speakers were also on hand for the meetings.

New Jersey Corp. Employs Graduates

John A. Walsweer, 26 N. Forest ave., Palatine, was one of a record number of 102 graduate engineers from 58 engineering colleges who were recently employed by the Worthington corporation, Harrison, N. J.

Most of these joined the company's placement program.

"This six-month program," says Thomas J. Burde, placement program director, "each year acquaints selected graduates from colleges across the country with the organization and the operation of Worthington."

THE PROGRAM starts with a one-week period of orientation at the company's Harrison headquarters, during which the new employees meet the executives of Worthington and are familiarized with the markets and policies of the company.

A nine-week rotation period following this sends them to major plant locations in East Orange, Harrison, Newark and Plainfield, all in New Jersey; and in Buffalo, N. Y.; Wellsville, New York; Oil City, Pa.; Holyoke, Mass.; and Norwood, Mass.

This tour, ending early in September, results in each man selecting a job assignment in one of the company's 17 divisions, 25 sales offices, or international operations.

After placement choices are made, the men receive specialized training during a four-month intermediate period, and are soon assigned to a permanent position within the company organization.

Lahman Cited For Sales During 1960

Eugene F. Lahman, 907 Sherwood, Prospect Heights, special agent of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co., was cited July 25 for outstanding life insurance sales among all the company's agents coast-to-coast in the 1960 agents' honor year.

He is associated with the John H. Jamison general agency, Chicago, and is a winner of the Bronze Button award. The Bronze Button is an award granted for exceptional sales achievement during the agent's initial years with the company.

Honor citations were announced at the 80th annual meeting in Milwaukee, Wis., of the Association of Agents of Northwestern Mutual Life. Before an audience of agents from 46 states and the District of Columbia, award winners were cited for outstanding sales in the association's honor year ended May 31.

Northwestern's sales nationally in the 12-month honor period were $873,500,000, the highest ever recorded by the 103-year-old firm in any honor year. (BB

THE 95 MEMBER Council, which meets every month from September through June, is composed of representatives from 50 manufacturing companies in the Northwest area. The group was formed to promote the general welfare of the Northwest suburban area regarding personnel and industrial relations matters and to discuss subjects of mutual interest in the industrial suburban community.

All Industrial firms in the Northwest suburban area, including Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Barrington, Wheeling, Northbrook, Deerfield, Prospect Heights, Crystal Lake and Lake Zurich are eligible for membership.

Some of the last year's outstanding programs included: T. C. Kammolz of Vedder, Price, Kaufman and Kammolz, who spoke to the group on the Landrum, Griffith, Kennedy Act. He formerly was Counsel for the National Labor Relations Board in Washington.

Robert Price of the National Association of Management gave an excellent presentation on white collar employee relations. Several other excellent speakers were also on hand for the meetings.

New Jersey Corp. Employs Graduates

John A. Walsweer, 26 N. Forest ave., Palatine, was one of a record number of 102 graduate engineers from 58 engineering colleges who were recently employed by the Worthington corporation, Harrison, N. J.

Most of these joined the company's placement program.

"This six-month program," says Thomas J. Burde, placement program director, "each year acquaints selected graduates from colleges across the country with the organization and the operation of Worthington."

THE PROGRAM starts with a one-week period of orientation at the company's Harrison headquarters, during which the new employees meet the executives of Worthington and are familiarized with the markets and policies of the company.

A nine-week rotation period following this sends them to major plant locations in East Orange, Harrison, Newark and Plainfield, all in New Jersey; and in Buffalo, N. Y.; Wellsville, New York; Oil City, Pa.; Holyoke, Mass.; and Norwood, Mass. This tour, ending early in September, results in each man selecting a job assignment in one of the company's 17 divisions, 25 sales offices, or international operations.

After placement choices are made, the men receive specialized training during a four-month intermediate period, and are soon assigned to a permanent position within the company organization.

Lahman Cited For Sales During 1960

Eugene F. Lahman, 907 Sherwood, Prospect Heights, special agent of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co., was cited July 25 for outstanding life insurance sales among all the company's agents coast-to-coast in the 1960 agents' honor year.

He is associated with the John H. Jamison general agency, Chicago, and is a winner of the Bronze Button award. The Bronze Button is an award granted for exceptional sales achievement during the agent's initial years with the company.

Honor citations were announced at the 80th annual meeting in Milwaukee, Wis., of the Association of Agents of Northwestern Mutual Life. Before an audience of agents from 46 states and the District of Columbia, award winners were cited for outstanding sales in the association's honor year ended May 31.

Northwestern's sales nationally in the 12-month honor period were $873,500,000, the highest ever recorded by the 103-year-old firm in any honor year. (BB

Safety Council Offers Advice To Water Skiers

Six million Americans going splish - splash, and often flip-flop in the water.

That's the picture as a nation of water skiers nonchalantly skims over miles and miles of waterways, or tries to, at least.

Little information is available on what happens when a water skier is unsuccessful in his attempts to remain upright, since reporting of mishaps on water, America's new-found playground, is far from complete.

WHILE THE facts on water skiing accidents may not be handy, you can find plenty of information on the art of skiing in summer.

From the National Safety Council, for example, come these tips for skiing fun:

1. Don't ski if you can't swim.
2. Don't ski at night, in rough water or in shallow or unknown waters.
3. Don't ski near swimmers, docks or other obstructions.
4. Don't ski with an inexperienced boat operator. Make sure an extra person is in the boat to keep an eye on the skier.
5. Never wrap a tow rope around your body. If you start to fall, throw the tow line clear of yourself.
6. Always approach the shore at an angle, never straight in.

IF YOU FALL, the experts advise:

1. Stay with your skis — they'll help keep you afloat.
2. Raise your hand to signal the boat operator of your plight.
3. In congested waters, raise a ski so other boats will see you.

THE EXPERTS also say that consideration for others and safety consciousness go a long way toward preventing water accidents.

"We're not trying to be wet blankets about water skiing," said Ralph Kuhli, the National Safety Council's director of public safety. "We want you to have fun. We just want you to stay alive and healthy to enjoy it."

Eagle Food Sales Higher This Year

Eagle Food Centers, Inc., Milan, Ill., today announced total sales of $14,496,211 for the 13 week period ending July 2, 1960. This compares to a total of $13,186,814 for the corresponding 13 weeks ending June 27, 1959. This is a sales increase of 9 per cent.

Net income after taxes was $263,851 compared to $249,540 for the corresponding period last year. Net income rose 5 per cent.

Earnings per share for the 13 week period amounted to 40 cents as compared with 38 cents per share earned for the comparable 13 week period last year.

STOCKHOLDERS of record July 1 of Eagle Food Centers, Inc. (and subsidiaries) were mailed their quarterly checks of 17½ cents per share. This is an increase of 25 per cent over the last quarterly dividend.

Total assets in the company (and subsidiaries) amount to $11,499,937 as of July 2, 1960. The total net worth as of the above date was $7,725,205.

Two stores were opened on June 8, 1960, - one in Elmhurst and the other in Rolling Meadows. Another store was opened on June 20 at East Moline. Soon to open are stores in the Duck Creek Plaza Shopping Center in Bettendorf, Iowa, and the Lindale Plaza Shopping Center in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Expansion of the warehouse as previously announced is proceeding on schedule.

Octine Relieves Eye Strain

What with toll-road travel, vacations and the trend towards "living in the sun", an obvious need to avoid the discomforts of eye-strain has arisen.

Octine recognizes this need for an eye - refresher. Produced by a 59-year-old drug firm of Chicago, Octine comes in two formulas, eye drops to carry in vacation kits, car pockets or purses, and eye lotion with handy plastic cup for gentle eye washing.

Octine is available at all Walgreen Drug Stores.

Dundee Nursery Holds 1st Midwest Bonsai Exhibit

Bonsai growers and Garden clubs are invited to enter their rare dwarf trees in the first Midwest Bonsai Show to be held August 19, 20, 21, at Dundee.

Fanciers of this ancient oriental art should contact Mr. Gay, secretary of the show, at D. Hill Nursery company, Dundee, Telephone: Hazel 6-3451.

Bonsai is a century old Japanese art form. The word means to plant in a shallow container. A Bonsai is a dwarf living tree, grown in a handful of soil in a small container, trained and pruned to create a miniature landscape.

MOST BONSAI never grow more than 12 inches high, many Japanese gardens contain Bonsai trees that are 200 years old or older.

Several varieties of evergreens are used, including Pines, Junipers, Spruce, Cedar and Fir. Besides these, some people raise deciduous trees like the Apricot, Quince, Cherry, Maple, Hawthorne, Ginkgo and Bamboo trees. However, the easiest to raise in this area are the evergreens.

Arthur Hill, father of Jack the manager of the Hill Nursery, produced the first trees in this country in 1923, when he called the Yokohama Nursery in Japan and asked them to send over an expert to teach the American nursery experts the oriental art.

MONTHS LATER four Japanese came to Dundee complete with derby hats, native dress and several trunk loads of pots, tools and small dwarf trees.

From these original trees, Hills have propagated the most hardy trees over the years until today they have the largest collection of Bonsai trees in this country.

D. Hill Nursery, the largest evergreen nursery in this country, was started in Dundee in 1855. Jack Hill, manager, is the 4th generation at this world famous nursery.

Most people are not aware that the evergreens we see today were on this earth millions of years ago, long before man or animal life. Economically the evergreen is our most useful tree, since it produces resin, tar, pulp for paper, lumber, as well as its ornamental value.

Celebrates 30th Year Of Service

WILLIAM BASCHLEBEN

Celebrating his 30th year of service recently with The Peoples Gas Light and Coke company was William H. Baschleben of 139 N. Addison st., Bensenville.

A special serviceman in the service department of the company's central shop, 1241 W. Division st., Baschleben started with the utility as a stove repairer. He has also worked as a laborer, fitters helper and guard.

He and his wife, Pearl, have resided at their present address for seven years. The couple has two sons and seven grandchildren.

Baschleben is a four-year member of the Bensenville Lions Club and a ten year member of the International Brotherhood of Magicians. He is also a seven-year member of St. Alexis' church, in the suburb, and its Holy Name. He has been a professional clown for thirty - five years. During his leisure he golfs.

Chicago Agency Rates Highly

The Chicago general agency of Lutheran Brotherhood, headed by W. P. Langhaug, Oak Park, was the third highest leading producer of new business during the first six months of 1960 among all of the fraternal life insurance society's 71 general agencies in the United States and Canada.

Gordon R. Gunderson, 2801 Hawk lane, Rolling Meadows, is a member of the agency.

HAROLD C. HOEL, vice president in charge of agencies, said the Chicago agency's production in the first half of the year totaled more than $3,025,000, a substantial gain over its total in a similar period last year.

Carl F. Granrud, president of Lutheran Brotherhood, which has home offices in Minneapolis, said the society's issued business for the first half of 1960 was nearly 6½ per cent ahead of last year's record pace, totaling $112,335,072 as against $105,544,589 for the first six months of 1959.

Granrud said the society's assets increased to nearly 185 million dollars as of June 30, a gain of nearly 5 million dollars in the second quarter of the year. Total insurance in force is nearing the 1 1/4-billion-dollar mark

Bonsai growers and Garden clubs are invited to enter their rare dwarf trees in the first Midwest Bonsai Show to be held August 19, 20, 21, at Dundee.

Fanciers of this ancient oriental art should contact Mr. Gay, secretary of the show, at D. Hill Nursery company, Dundee, Telephone: Hazel 6-3451.

Bonsai is a century old Japanese art form. The word means to plant in a shallow container. A Bonsai is a dwarf living tree, grown in a handful of soil in a small container, trained and pruned to create a miniature landscape.

MOST BONSAI never grow more than 12 inches high, many Japanese gardens contain Bonsai trees that are 200 years old or older.

Several varieties of evergreens are used, including Pines, Junipers, Spruce, Cedar and Fir. Besides these, some people raise deciduous trees like the Apricot, Quince, Cherry, Maple, Hawthorne, Ginkgo and Bamboo trees. However, the easiest to raise in this area are the evergreens.

Arthur Hill, father of Jack the manager of the Hill Nursery, produced the first trees in this country in 1923, when he called the Yokohama Nursery in Japan and asked them to send over an expert to teach the American nursery experts the oriental art.

MONTHS LATER four Japanese came to Dundee complete with derby hats, native dress and several trunk loads of pots, tools and small dwarf trees.

From these original trees, Hills have propagated the most hardy trees over the years until today they have the largest collection of Bonsai trees in this country.

D. Hill Nursery, the largest evergreen nursery in this country, was started in Dundee in 1855. Jack Hill, manager, is the 4th generation at this world famous nursery.

Most people are not aware that the evergreens we see today were on this earth millions of years ago, long before man or animal life. Economically the evergreen is our most useful tree, since it produces resin, tar, pulp for paper, lumber, as well as its ornamental value.

Celebrates 30th Year Of Service

WILLIAM BASCHLEBEN

Celebrating his 30th year of service recently with The Peoples Gas Light and Coke company was William H. Baschleben of 139 N. Addison st., Bensenville.

A special serviceman in the service department of the company's central shop, 1241 W. Division st., Baschleben started with the utility as a stove repairer. He has also worked as a laborer, fitters helper and guard.

He and his wife, Pearl, have resided at their present address for seven years. The couple has two sons and seven grandchildren.

Baschleben is a four-year member of the Bensenville Lions Club and a ten year member of the International Brotherhood of Magicians. He is also a seven-year member of St. Alexis' church, in the suburb, and its Holy Name. He has been a professional clown for thirty - five years. During his leisure he golfs.

Chicago Agency Rates Highly

The Chicago general agency of Lutheran Brotherhood, headed by W. P. Langhaug, Oak Park, was the third highest leading producer of new business during the first six months of 1960 among all of the fraternal life insurance society's 71 general agencies in the United States and Canada.

Gordon R. Gunderson, 2801 Hawk lane, Rolling Meadows, is a member of the agency.

Descriptive Word 'Motel' Dying Out In Usage

The motel is on its way out, at least as a word describing today's overnight lodgings for travelers.

Gaining increasing usage as the favorite descriptive word for both roadside and downtown facilities for travelers who arrive by car are "inn," "motor hotel," "house," or "lodge."

So reports a veteran executive of the hostelry business, C. B. Hurd, manager of the O'Hare Inn, which will be the world's largest motel when completed adjoining O'Hare International Airport, northwest of Chicago.

"THE BIGGEST reason for the swing to new words," according to Hurd, "is that today's lodgings are so vastly different from the type with which the word 'motel' has come to be associated."

Only about 10 per cent of today's 60,000 "motels" representing a $5 billion investment fit the definition, the O'Hare Inn executive explains. Cabins are a thing of the past, compared with the swank multi-million-dollar lodgings for the estimated 3½ million Americans on the road every day, which are now in evidence an average of about every 90 minutes along the nation's highways and in the cities.

Now they are built several stories high (some up to 13 stories), most of the newer ones with swimming pools (some indoors for year-round use), ice skating rinks, golf courses, exhibition halls, closed circuit television, and many other extras to provide comfort and entertainment for guests.

THE NEW O'Hare Inn, for instance, is larger than most hotels in the nation and will contain 534 guest rooms in eight connecting, two-story wings when completed on a 32-acre site near O'Hare Airport, which will soon open the largest civil jet runway in the U.S. for direct flights from the Midwest to Europe. And the building's foundation was poured in such a way as to make it easy to add 1,000 more rooms when they are needed.

Hurd, who has served as general manager of motels in Pennsylvania and Washington, says the word "motel" was first used to describe a roadside lodging in 1925. A California architect named Hieneman incorporated the words "motor" and "hotel" to form "mo-tel" and liked it so much, he tried to have it registered as a trademark, but went bankrupt in the process.

The early motel business was dominated by family-run facilities, usually a group of rundown cabins built around the owner's home. Guests stopping for the night were given a key, a bar of soap and a towel and that was it in the way of service. In the room you found a bed and some rickety old furniture, but rarely running water. The outhouses were off in a wooded area behind the cabins.

THE MOTEL business began to take hold in the late twenties and early thirties when motor cars were able to travel more than a few hundred miles without an engine breakdown. But the entire motel business was given a bad name, which is still in evidence today, by some unscrupulous operators who catered to questionable guests, who came minus any luggage and minus marital status.

The use of the words, "motor hotel," to describe many of today's highway facilities, is rather ironic, Hurd remarks, because it actually is the basis for the word motel. Only now it has been stretched out to its original form.

The term is now being used primarily for downtown facilities and it is handy because of their nearness to hotels with which they compete for business.

Downtown motels, unlike their roadside brethren, are limited by space and the only way they can go is up. Except for their appearance and parking facilities, they could easily be referred to as hotels. (BB

B-ville Dealer Offers Program For Summer Income

Rudolph Laho, Rudolph Laho & Sons, 5 N. York st., Bensenville, a Lawn - Boy power mower dealer of this city, is presenting a Student Summer Income program which promises to keep acres of local lawns well groomed this season, as well as grooming some future businessmen among ambitious local youths.

The project is called the "Lawn Boss" program. It offers boys of high school age and up a chance to own their own power mower, outlines a sales plan for boys to acquire their own customers for regular mowing chores, guides the lads in good business practices, and will reward one of the industrious participants with a share of valuable corporation stock.

Rudolph Laho of the local dealership launched his "Lawn Boss" program recently for local boys. Each boy, or his parents, purchases a Lawn-Boy power mower, according to the plan. The boy may acquire the mower for cash, or with a down payment to the dealer, or he may accept financing from his parents. In any case, the boy pays for the mower from earnings by mowing lawns.

A KIT OF HIS own "business" materials explains how the boy can solicit customers, contract for an agreement to keep his customers' lawns and yards mowed and attended weekly, provides a bookkeeping system so he can repay the money for purchase of his mower, how to fix fees for lawn mowing and finally, how he may end the summer activities with a fair profit for his endeavors.

"Uniforms" in the form of "Lawn Boss" tee shirts and base-ball type caps are given without charge to each boy who participates in the mowing program.

In addition, an opportunity to compete in an essay contest at the end of the summer, opens the door to the boy for local and national recognition, and for the chance to earn a valuable share of stock in Outboard Marine corporation, Waukegan, manufacturer of the power mower. Lawn-Boy is a division of Outboard Marine corporation.

Local boys may enlist in the "Lawn Boss" program or may acquire additional details, alone or accompanied by a parent, by visiting the local Lawn - Boy dealer's place of business, located at 5 N. York st., Bensenville.

Auto Insurance Cut By State Farm

State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance company is cutting over $2,750,000 from its Illinois Policyholder's annual auto insurance bill through a new driver classification plan.

George P. Tews, local agent for State Farm, said most of the firm's 400,000 policyholders in Illinois will qualify for rate reductions.

He cited increased traffic safety measures in the state as contributing to the reduced accident costs which have made the rate cut possible.

SAVINGS WILL vary, he said, depending upon how individual drivers fit into the new driver classification plan being introduced here by State Farm. Biggest rate cuts will go to motorists whose cars have no single male drivers under 25, who don't use their cars for business and who don't drive far to work.

Although some drivers, particularly single males under 25, will get rate increases under the plan, the net effect will be an estimated $2,750,000 reduction in State Farm's annual premium income from its present policyholders in Illinois. Statewide, the decreases average 6.8 per cent.

George Tews said additional savings for many two-car families may result from pyramiding of second car and compact car discounts. Formerly either of the discounts, but not both, was allowed.

SOME policyholders will pay more for bodily injury and property damage liability coverages, but reductions in comprehensive and collision coverage costs may more than offset this, allowing an overall reduction in their total premium. But even with full coverage policies, some policyholders who drive long distances to work will be faced with a slightly higher total premium.

State Farm Mutual, which estimates it insures nearly one out of eight (12.4 per cent) of the passenger cars registered in Illinois, is the world's largest auto insurer with nearly 6,000,000 policies in force. Home office and the midwest office which serves Illinois policyholders are in Bloomington.

Receives Research Award

PATRICK KANE

Patrick Kane, plant manager of the National Dairy Research center, Glenview, was honored as the recipient of the center's Research Merit Award for his outstanding job performance over a number of years.

This award, a star sapphire ring, was presented at a luncheon at the Villa Venice, Northbrook, by William P. Walsh, manager of administrative services.

ALSO PRESENTED were letters of commendation from E. E. Stewart, chairman of the board and C. W. Kaufman, director of research and development.

Mr. and Mrs. Kane and their children, Patricia, Michael and Mary, reside at 1313 Prairie ave., Arlington Heights. They are active members of Our Lady of the Wayside Church, Arlington Heights. He is a member of the Holy Rosary Council of the Knights of Columbus.

The Research Merit Award was instituted early this year by C. W. Kaufman to inspire greater creativity, ingenuity and initiative among the employees in the National Dairy Research center.

Seating Co. Consummates Large Order

Patrick J. Carroll, of 139 David dr., Palatine, president of Carroll Seating company, Chicago, announced this week the sale of 5,600 auditorium-type seats to the Chicago Metropolitan Fair and Exhibition authority.

Carroll said the sale was handled by salesman Jack C. Michala, of 22 Evergreen Circle, Elk Grove Village.

The seats will be used by the authority for the multimillion dollar McCormick Place exhibition hall now under construction on Chicago's

This is reportedly the largest seating order of this type to be consummated in the Chicagoland area.

Canfield Attends Meeting

Lee B. Canfield, 730 N. Stratford, Arlington Heights, recently attended the 80th annual meeting of the Association of Agents of Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company at Milwaukee, Wis.

Canfield is a member of the 1960 Million Dollar Round Table and has offices at 208 S. La Salle in Chicago.

He is a 1949 graduate of Ohio State university and was previously associated with the Sunbeam corporation before joining the Jamison Agency of Northwestern Mutual in 1956.

Record Interest Payment

A record interest payment of more than a quarter of a million dollars to Guaranteed Savings System account holders this month has been announced by Lyman Sorensen vice chairman of Citizens Bank & Trust Co., Park Ridge.

An all time high in number of G.S.S. accounts, 16,260 participated in the record interest distribution, according to Sorensen.

"The G.S.S. method of computing interest provides unusually worthwhile payments to persons who have active accounts, especially when it is necessary to withdraw sums from savings prior to the June and December interest dates," said Sorensen.

Sorensen explained that a Guaranteed Savings System account of $6364, opened in December, 1959, with almost the entire amount withdrawn during April, 1960, still received interest of almost $50. Under the generally used interest method, this account would not have earned any interest at all.

Management Personnel Reorganized

L. W. Ewing, 110 Stratford, Arlington Heights, and J. F. Hartmann, 329 Brockway, Palatine were included in the reorganization program for management personnel of the American Oil company.

Ewing will report to S. L. Jackson, manager of operations while Hartmann will report to W. E. Jetter, manager of the tax department.

The American Oil company will become the single marketing, refining, distribution and product research subsidiary of Standard Oil company of Indiana, subject to Internal Revenue Service clearance and to stockholder approval. Its headquarters will be in Chicago.

ALSO PRESENTED were letters of commendation from E. E. Stewart, chairman of the board and C. W. Kaufman, director of research and development.

Mr. and Mrs. Kane and their children, Patricia, Michael and Mary, reside at 1313 Prairie ave., Arlington Heights. They are active members of Our Lady of the Wayside Church, Arlington Heights. He is a member of the Holy Rosary Council of the Knights of Columbus.

The Research Merit Award was instituted early this year by C. W. Kaufman to inspire greater creativity, ingenuity and initiative among the employees in the National Dairy Research center.

Record Interest Payment

A record interest payment of more than a quarter of a million dollars to Guaranteed Savings System account holders this month has been announced by Lyman Sorensen vice chairman of Citizens Bank & Trust Co., Park Ridge.

An all time high in number of G.S.S. accounts, 16,260 participated in the record interest distribution, according to Sorensen.

"The G.S.S. method of computing interest provides unusually worthwhile payments to persons who have active accounts, especially when it is necessary to withdraw sums from savings prior to the June and December interest dates," said Sorensen.

Sorensen explained that a Guaranteed Savings System account of $6364, opened in December, 1959, with almost the entire amount withdrawn during April, 1960, still received interest of almost $50. Under the generally used interest method, this account would not have earned any interest at all.

Management Personnel Reorganized

L. W. Ewing, 110 Stratford, Arlington Heights, and J. F. Hartmann, 329 Brockway, Palatine were included in the reorganization program for management personnel of the American Oil company.

Ewing will report to S. L. Jackson, manager of operations while Hartmann will report to W. E. Jetter, manager of the tax department.

The American Oil company will become the single marketing, refining, distribution and product research subsidiary of Standard Oil company of Indiana, subject to Internal Revenue Service clearance and to stockholder approval. Its headquarters will be in Chicago.

Canfield Attends Meeting

Lee B. Canfield, 730 N. Stratford, Arlington Heights, recently attended the 80th annual meeting of the Association of Agents of Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company at Milwaukee, Wis.

Canfield is a member of the 1960 Million Dollar Round Table and has offices at 208 S. La Salle in Chicago.

He is a 1949 graduate of Ohio State university and was previously associated with the Sunbeam corporation before joining the Jamison Agency of Northwestern Mutual in 1956.

Seating Co. Consummates Large Order

Patrick J. Carroll, of 139 David dr., Palatine, president of Carroll Seating company, Chicago, announced this week the sale of 5,600 auditorium-type seats to the Chicago Metropolitan Fair and Exhibition authority.

Carroll said the sale was handled by salesman Jack C. Michala, of 22 Evergreen Circle, Elk Grove Village.

The seats will be used by the authority for the multi-million dollar McCormick Place exhibition hall now under construction on Chicago's

This is reportedly the largest seating order of this type to be consummated in the Chicagoland area.

Upward Trend For Home Sales

Indications that home sales will take an upward trend soon are everywhere, according to Ralph J. Finitzo, president of the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland.

"If you are in the market for a new home now, chances are you will save substantially. Home sales have been relatively slow for some time due to the tight money market. This is now behind us and the FHA has once again lowered the down payment so that a $15,000 home can be purchased with a $600 down payment. Mortgage financing is somewhat lower than earlier this year," Finitzo stated.

"IN ADDITION, President Eisenhower recently signed a bill extending the VA insured mortgage program for World War II veterans for two years which will permit them to exercise their special right to home ownership," he pointed out.

"It is safe to say that the price of a home today is about as low as it will be. One more thing to be considered is the home which is available today was built under the old wage scale. This alone represents a substantial saving.

"Over and above the convenient factors available for home ownership, the summer season is the ideal time to make a change. From the standpoint of weather, it is much more pleasant to move and there is less risk of damage. There also is no interruption or change of school schedule where the children are involved," Finitzo said.

Local Woman Celebrates 10th Year

Mrs. Joseph A. Sester, 106 N. Waterman ave., Arlington Heights, has celebrated her 10th anniversary of service with Merchandise National Bank of Chicago.

Mrs. Sester first joined the bank in the Merchandise Mart in 1946 as a comptometer operator. She left in 1949, returning in July of the following year as a savings teller. She is currently Senior Customer Service Clerk in the bank's Special Checking department.

A native of Chicago, her favorite hobby is fishing.

Industrial Project Planned

One of the outstanding industrial sites remaining vacant between O'Hare field and Des Plaines will be developed by Baird & Warner, Chicago real estate firm, in the near future.

The 24 acre tract, now farmland, fronts 1289 feet on the west side of Wolf rd. and 745 feet on the south side of Touhy ave., in an unincorporated area lying immediately south of the Des Plaines city limits. The property is now zoned industrial by Cook County.

Because the site is accessible to all tollways, via the Lee st. exchange, and to Chicago's northwest highway, it is considered suitable for corporate headquarters, research centers, distribution centers, or manufacturing, according to John W. Baird, executive vice president of the real estate firm.

The developers are prepared to offer purchasers or tenants complete construction programs, including lease sale or mortgage financing on sites of five acres or more Baird said. P. R. Costin of Baird & Warner's main office was broker on acquisition of the property, and is exclusive agent.

Local Women Honored For Service

Miss Shirley J. Busse, 2400 Busse rd., Arlington Heights, and Miss Patricia Loy, 1665 S. State rd., Arlington Heights were recently honored for long service in the Home Office of Washington National Insurance company, Evanston.

Both women received pins in recognition of their records. (BB

'Pinch'

Gardeners often ask, "Why do my annual flowers grow so tall and stringy instead of full and bushy as they should be?"

G. M. Fosler, University of Illinois floriculturist, replies that the plants probably were not "pinched" or topped during their early growth.

He recommends removing the tips of shoots when the young plants are only a few inches tall. This practice induces growth of the side branches and makes a well-formed plant, even though the first flower or two is seemingly sacrificed.

EXPERIENCE has shown that about the only garden annuals that should not be topped are Celosia (cockscomb) and perhaps the large flowering zinnias.

Most annuals will give almost continuous bloom from early summer until frost if you pick or shear off the withered flowers or old bloom stalks. On the other hand, petunias continue flowering without this special attention. A little experience in gardening will tell you when you need to take off the old flower heads to get prolonged bloom.

Hints To Home Owners

by

James Fizzell

Assistant Farm Advisor

August's flower is the gladiolus. Few plants are as easily grown or produce such a magnificent display of color as the popular "glad."

All that is required for growing these plants is fairly well drained soil and ample water.

Present day glads are derived from species native to South America. Hybridizing by amateur gardeners as well as nurserymen and plant breeders continues to produce new and better varieties each year.

Glads belong to the iris family and the flowers and leaves arise from a modified stem called a corm.

IT IS BY the production of corms that glads are propagated. Each year as the glad grows and flowers the old corm is used up. After blooming the plant produces a new corm in which is stored food for the next year. Around the base of this new corm are many small corms called cormels. The cormels are sown in spring and develop into flowering corms in one year.

There are three major types of glads recognized by the American Gladiolus society. The Grandiflorus, the Primulinus and the Primulinus Grandiflorus. There has been a great deal of breeding among the various types so that they are no longer defined. The flowers appear in various forms and shapes, and may be either ruffled or plain petaled.

Glads may be planted in borders or grown for cut flowers in beds.

Planting may be started in the spring as soon as the ground is dry enough to work safely. To produce a succession of flowers, plantings are made at intervals of about two weeks until July in climatic zones similar to that of Washington, D. C. These will provide flowers during July, August, and September. Where the growing season is longer, a longer succession of bloom may be obtained.

THE BEST depth to plant is determined by the kind of soil and the size of the corms. Large corms should be planted 6 to 7 inches deep in sandy loam and about 4 inches deep in heavy soil. Smaller sizes may be planted more shallow. Small cormels should be planted in beds or rows in early spring at a depth of about 2 to 3 inches. The soil around these small cormels should not be allowed to dry out until they have germinated.

While the plants are growing, all weeds should be kept down. Very shallow cultivation is required, as deep cultivation is likely to injure the roots. In case of drouth, irrigation is necessary to develop the best quality of flowers. Gladioli do best when grown in a well drained soil and supplied with lots of water.

The flower spikes of most varieties should be cut after the first flower begins to open. Then, when placed in water, the flowers will continue to open for several days. Four or five leaves should be left on the plant to permit proper development of the corms for the next season. All bloomed-out spikes should be removed, and any plants showing yellow foliage should be dug and discarded. The corms usually mature about six weeks after flowering. They should be dug at that time, before the foliage becomes yellow or brown, as they are more susceptible to corm rots if left in the ground longer. It is desirable to dig when the soil is dry if possible.

EXPERIENCE has shown that about the only garden annuals that should not be topped are Celosia (cockscomb) and perhaps the large flowering zinnias.

Most annuals will give almost continuous bloom from early summer until frost if you pick or shear off the withered flowers or old bloom stalks. On the other hand, petunias continue flowering without this special attention. A little experience in gardening will tell you when you need to take off the old flower heads to get prolonged bloom.

Hints To Home Owners

by

James Fizzell

Assistant Farm Advisor

August's flower is the gladiolus. Few plants are as easily grown or produce such a magnificent display of color as the popular "glad."

All that is required for growing these plants is fairly well drained soil and ample water.

Present day glads are derived from species native to South America. Hybridizing by amateur gardeners as well as nurserymen and plant breeders continues to produce new and better varieties each year.

Glads belong to the iris family and the flowers and leaves arise from a modified stem called a corm.

IT IS BY the production of corms that glads are propagated. Each year as the glad grows and flowers the old corm is used up. After blooming the plant produces a new corm in which is stored food for the next year. Around the base of this new corm are many small corms called cormels. The cormels are sown in spring and develop into flowering corms in one year.

There are three major types of glads recognized by the American Gladiolus society. The Grandiflorus, the Primulinus and the Primulinus Grandiflorus. There has been a great deal of breeding among the various types so that they are no longer defined. The flowers appear in various forms and shapes, and may be either ruffled or plain petaled.

Glads may be planted in borders or grown for cut flowers in beds.

Planting may be started in the spring as soon as the ground is dry enough to work safely. To produce a succession of flowers, plantings are made at intervals of about two weeks until July in climatic zones similar to that of Washington, D. C. These will provide flowers during July, August, and September. Where the growing season is longer, a longer succession of bloom may be obtained.

THE BEST depth to plant is determined by the kind of soil and the size of the corms. Large corms should be planted 6 to 7 inches deep in sandy loam and about 4 inches deep in heavy soil. Smaller sizes may be planted more shallow. Small cormels should be planted in beds or rows in early spring at a depth of about 2 to 3 inches. The soil around these small cormels should not be allowed to dry out until they have germinated.

While the plants are growing, all weeds should be kept down. Very shallow cultivation is required, as deep cultivation is likely to injure the roots. In case of drouth, irrigation is necessary to develop the best quality of flowers. Gladioli do best when grown in a well drained soil and supplied with lots of water.

The flower spikes of most varieties should be cut after the first flower begins to open. Then, when placed in water, the flowers will continue to open for several days. Four or five leaves should be left on the plant to permit proper development of the corms for the next season. All bloomed-out spikes should be removed, and any plants showing yellow foliage should be dug and discarded. The corms usually mature about six weeks after flowering. They should be dug at that time, before the foliage becomes yellow or brown, as they are more susceptible to corm rots if left in the ground longer. It is desirable to dig when the soil is dry if possible.

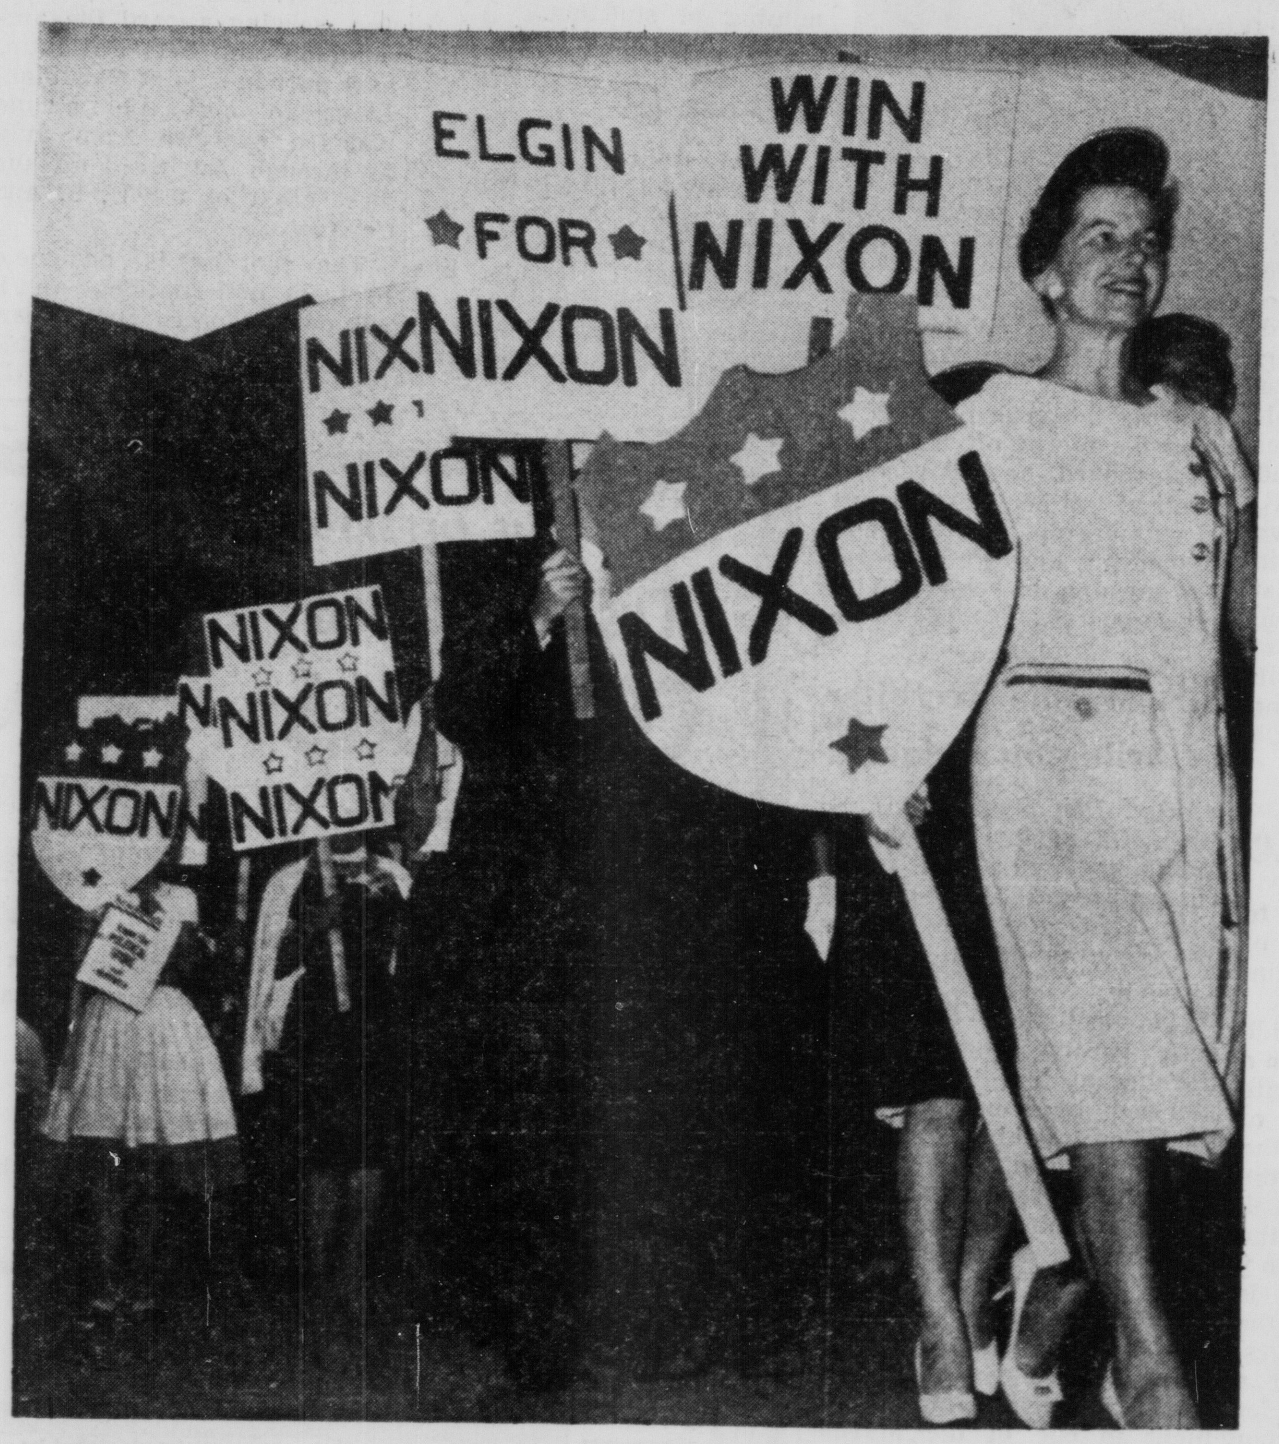
Republicans Admit Concern

GOP Plans Major Drive in Suburbs



DEMONSTRATORS for Vice President Nixon begin the march into the International Amphitheater just before their candidate was nominated for the country's highest office last Wednesday night. This demonstration, purported to be spontaneous, had been in the making for three hours under the able guidance of Young Republican leaders.

THE 1960 REPUBLICAN National convention in Chicago's International Amphitheatre nominates Richard M. Nixon of Whittier, Calif., as their candidate for President of the United States. Will 50 million suburbanites be won to his banner? This is the big question which concerns Republican leaders from suburban precinct to national committee.

Leaders To 'Woo' Suburbia

by TOM McSHANE

The suburb, a long-neglected battleground, will be astride the middle of a political seesaw this fall.

For the first time in history, the suburbanite is about to assume enormous political stature. He will be wooed, cajoled, promised, and possibly bought before November's big show ends.

All this because he holds the balance of power.

Straddling one end of the 3,000-mile national teeter-totter will be the major cities, with their faithfully Democratic voters. At the other end will be the small town and rural Republican areas. Between them will be a great melange which the past decade has christened as "Suburbia."

Latest census figures indicate that almost one-third of the nation's population lives in a suburban setting.

For the politician this represents an untapped resource.

And this fall it probably will represent the deciding factor in who will be the next President of the United States.

REPUBLICANS, assembled in Chicago last week for their national convention, were openly concerned about their party's suburban strength. They have lost considerable yardage in territory they formerly considered exclusively theirs. In many suburban communities time has left them standing still while it quickly swept away the vestiges of an old guard social order and supplanted it with the fast-moving, progressive, and young culture that has marked our entry into the '60s.

GOP leaders, with proof positive in the 1958 failures of their time-honored vote-getting procedures, are busily preparing new approaches to the suburban vote for this fall.

The party's national committee, responsible for most of the broad policies followed by the faithful, devoted a 10-room hallway in the Conrad Hilton's eighth floor for use by its campaign committee.

COMMITTEE members, under the leadership of Director Albert B. Hermann, were completely reworking approaches. Former procedures are strictly old-hat this year, according to Hermann.

"There is no question about it; the balance of power has shifted from the cities and farms to the suburbs," he said. "We used to have a two or three to one edge in the suburbs, but this has diminished to about a three to two margin today.

"The Republican party must dive in and work very hard to turn out its suburban vote if we are to win this fall."

And to do it the party is going to have to return to a grass-roots approach, Hermann said. Intensified individual contact will be basic. To this end the national committee is looking for two million additional workers for the fall.

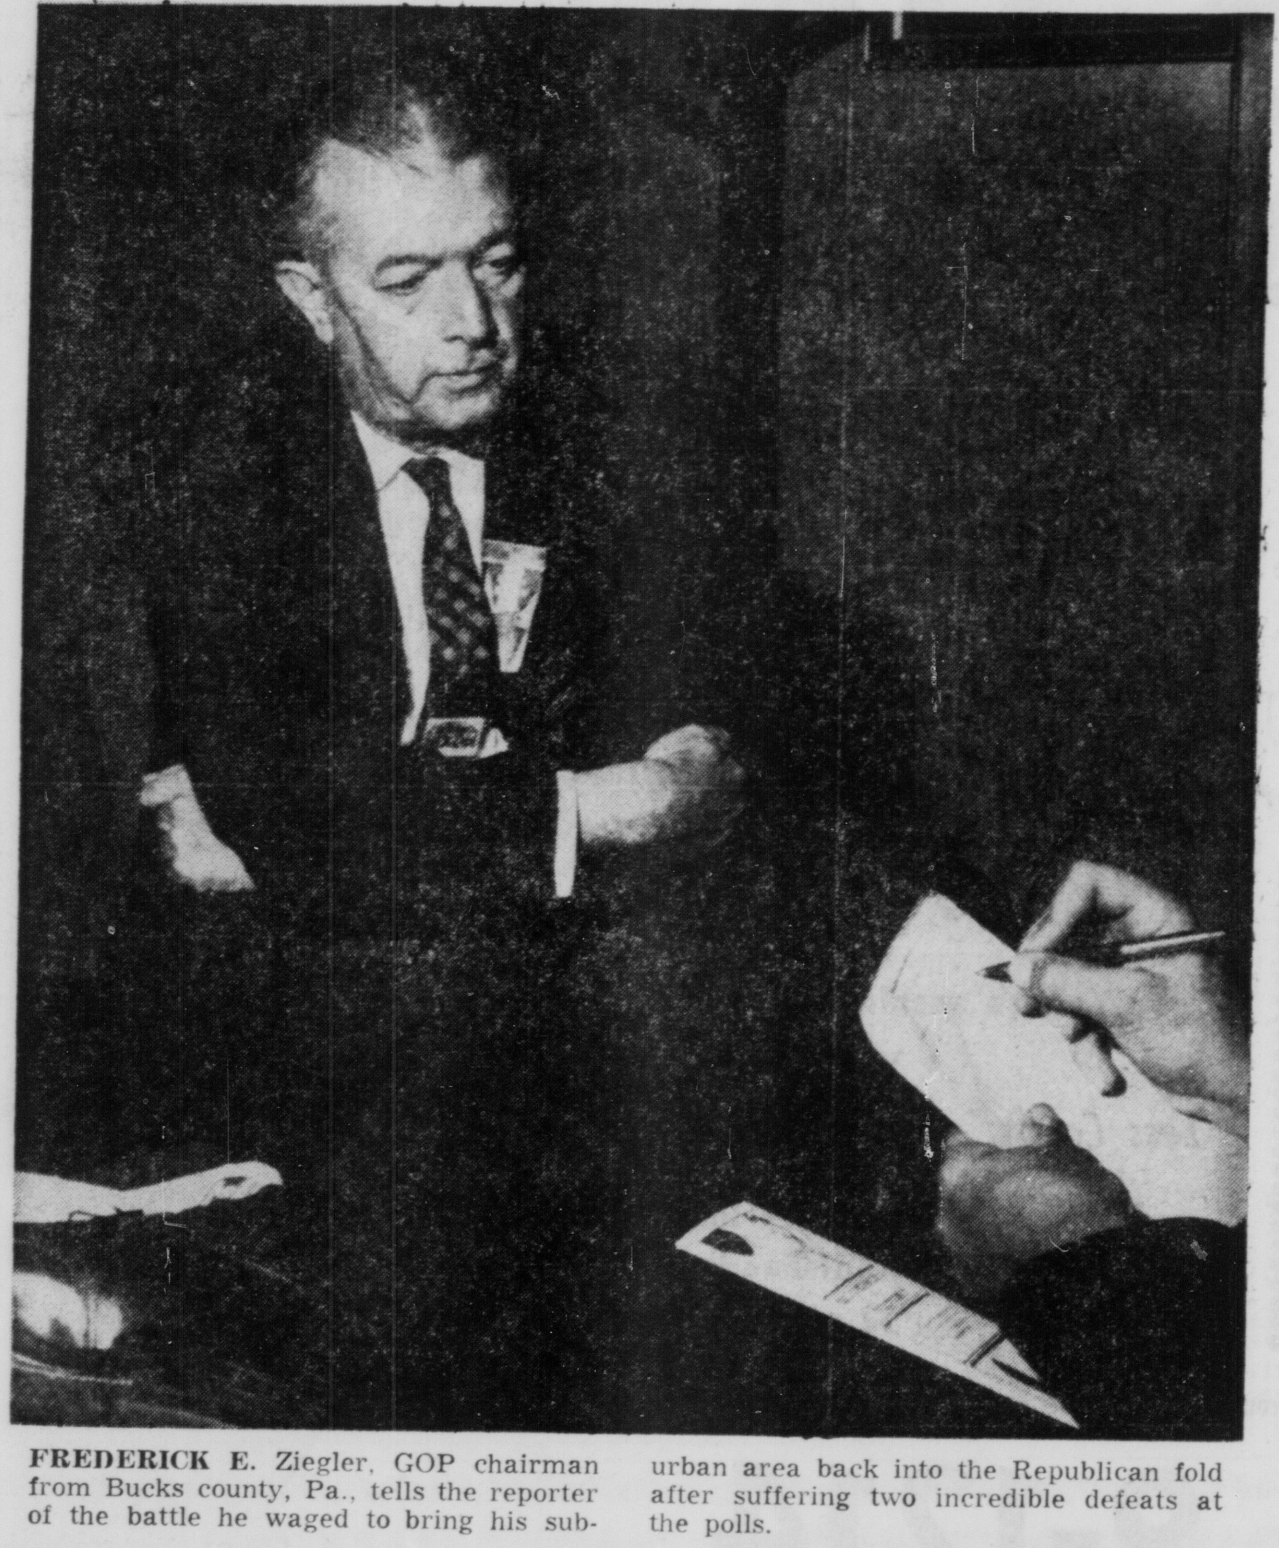
IT ALSO IS establishing a machine with a thoroughly professional, calculated breakdown of our society into its various groups. The workers that come forward will be assigned to turn out Republican votes among their own "class" of people.

Along the Hilton corridor were subcommittee rooms marked off for labor action, minorities, and ethnics. Other classifications the party will use include farm, businessmen, arts and sciences, and healing arts.



FREDERICK E. Ziegler, GOP chairman from Bucks county, Pa., tells the reporter of the battle he waged to bring his suburban area back into the Republican fold after suffering two incredible defeats at the polls.

ROBERT HOWLETT, chairman of Michigan's Kent county Republican committee, explains his organizational setup, rated one of the finest in the state, to Tom McShane of Paddock Publications. Howlett said the Kent county group, centered in Grand Rapids, relies heavily on its suburban voters to carry the area.

The campaign will be organized nationally, statewide, and locally along the military chain of command lines. It will be most intensive in the 23 states that have large urban-suburban populations.

"This will be a rough, tough, hard-hitting campaign," Hermann predicted. "We are going to have to work very hard."

OTHER PARTY bigwigs agreed, and many of them had the scars to prove it.

Frederick E. Ziegler is the GOP county chairman of Bucks county, Pa., Philadelphia's famous suburban haven for playwrights, authors, and artists, an area steeped in the traditions of the Quaker colonies.

Seven years ago Bucks county was peacefully Republican. Then came the boom.

In four years 60,000 homes were built in the county. In 1955 it went Democratic for the first time in its history. The margin was 21,000 votes, even though the Republicans held a 26,000 vote majority in registrations.

In 1958 it went Democratic again when a scandal broke in the office of a Republican official. Ziegler, a former Probate court judge, took over the faltering elephant after the election.

An analysis showed that the Old Guard had made no attempt to bring the new people into the party. Ziegler immediately started reorganizing. He broke the county into geographical districts, set up an executive committee representing each district, and broke each district down to the block level.

A TRIPLICATE card system on every eligible voter was set up. Workers at the block level were named assistant committeemen or women, rather than "block captains," a strong Young Republican group was established, youthful candidates (average age: 39) have been offered to the voters, and party funds are spent to keep up a constant pre-election barrage of spot radio commercials bemoaning the Democratic administration and to publish booklets and pamphlets extolling the GOP.

Today Ziegler counts 67,000 registered Republicans in the county with more on the way, as against 52,000 Democrats. The rebirth has cost him about six hours a day over a two-year span. He estimates that his volunteer workers put in about 10 hours a week "to do a good job."

Most suburban Republican leaders have not experienced a power-wresting defeat like those in Bucks county. The suburbs still are Republican, but the degree of the party's strength has changed.

And it is not enough these days for Republicans to carry the suburbs. They must be carried by substantial majorities.

According to Delegate Caspar W. Weinberger of Hillsborough, Cal., a suburb of San Francisco, the Republicans will have to overcome voter apathy to carry his state this fall.

CALIFORNIA'S registration figures show the Democrats with a three to two edge.

"The biggest problem we have is getting the Republicans to register and vote," Weinberger said.

He predicted that the Republican's favorite son candidate, Richard Nixon, would pull many California Democratic votes, both from the cities and suburbs, but he said an intensive block level telephone campaign would have to be conducted to get enough Republicans to the polls.

Another Californian, Mrs. Cecil C. Kenyon, of suburban San Marino outside Los Angeles, the chairman of the Republican Womens club of California, backed Weinberger's stand with a call for some "hard driving" to get out the vote.

"Vote-getting is a continuing process," she said. "The most important thing is to get good workers and to give them the educational materials so that they can wage year 'round campaigns.

"This is something the Democrats have done very successfully in California," she said. "With the strong backing of the well-managed and well-financed labor unions they have poured thousands of dollars into a continuing educational campaign that has paid large dividends at the polls."

IN THE labor-heavy Detroit area, Michigan's Republicans also are fighting a dual battle, first against the Democrats, and then against the unions.

Delegate Norman O. Stockmeyer, who lives in an unincorporated township on Detroit's northwest side, has watched his area go Democratic. He blamed it on the number of working and middle class people who have moved to suburban areas.

He also blamed it on his party's inability to attract voters in the 21-30 age bracket. Now that the problem has been defined, he said, Republicans are moving fast to make up ground by forming discussion groups and workshops in the area high schools and among young couples.

Arnold J. Levin, public relations director for Michigan's GOP central committee, said personal contact was the key to political success in the suburbs. Besides the block level organization, he suggested radio and TV spots to get to "the guy who drives 15 or 20 miles to work everyday and doesn't feel like attending political meetings when he gets home."

In Grand Rapids, Michigan's second largest city with a metropolitan area approaching 400,000 population, GOP leaders admitted they have to carry certain suburbs overwhelmingly to win.

ROBERT HOWLETT, the Republican county chairman, has one of the finest political machines in the state. He breaks the county into 14 districts, and has an IBM card for every registered voter that is used to check and encourage the turnout on election day.

Howlett also has the county broken into three types of precincts: mass production, the heavily Republican areas where he tries to turn out every voter; closely divided, the 50-50 areas where he works only on Republican voters; and the remainder, the Democratic city wards where he feels lucky to find workers and then works only on known Republicans.

Howlett's mass production area is concentrated in the suburb of East Grand Rapids, and it is necessary for him to swamp the Demos in this area to win any election.

In New York state, with the largest suburban population in the country, the political division is clearly defined. Forty per cent of the vote comes from the big city and the upstate area around Albany, according to the state GOP public relations director, Harry O'Donnell. This vote usually is Democratic. The rest of the state has 41 per cent of the vote, and is predominantly Republican. The remaining 19 per cent comes from the suburbs, and as they go, so goes the state.

"There is no question that our two largest suburban counties swung the 1958 election for Gov. Rockefeller," O'Donnell said. "And we are working very hard, with plenty of Democratic opposition, to hold these areas."

To hold them the GOP has set up a tight organization and has given the people incentive by picking several state office candidates from the suburban area.

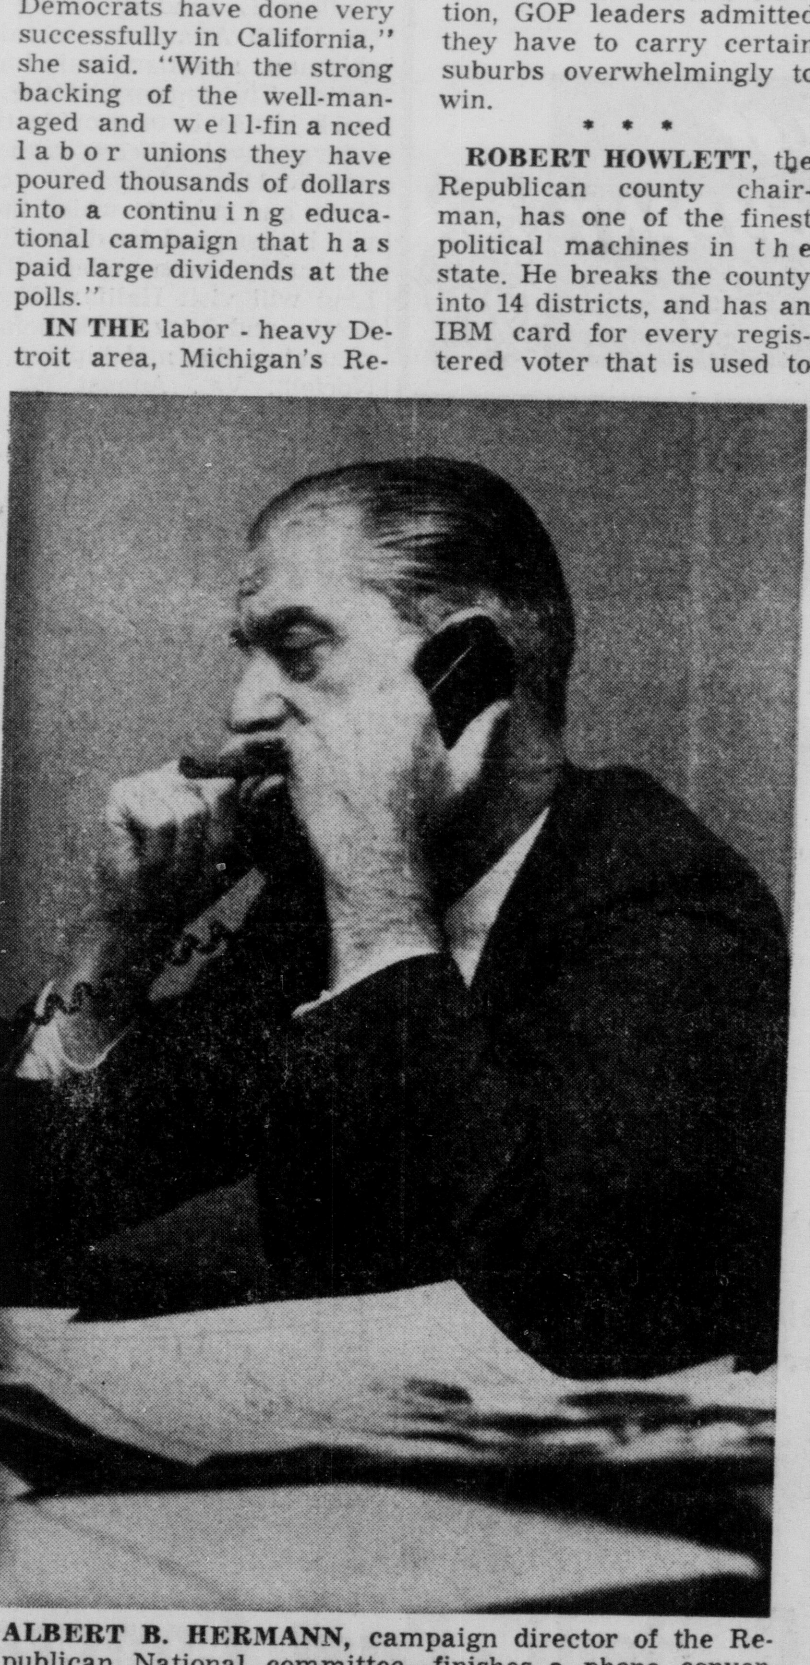
IN ILLINOIS, Chicago's Democrats and the downstate Republicans are girding for a battle royal in November. Republican leaders are pushing heavily in the suburban communities for a record vote. In the northwest suburbs, one Young Republican said last week that this area already has been touted as the spot that will decide the election.

Here again the Republicans are not worried about carrying the suburbs. It is the margin of victory that concerns them. They feel this margin will have to be very large to offset Chicago's Democratic vote.

As Michigan Delegate Stockmeyer put it:

"There was a time when it was hardly respectable and socially unacceptable for a suburbanite to be a Democrat. Times sure have changed."



ALBERT B. HERMANN, campaign director of the Republican National committee, finishes a phone conversation before explaining the party's campaign plans for this fall. The national committee hopes to recruit 2 million new workers within the next few months to bring the Republican message to the voters, with concentration heavy in the suburbs.

At Indiana

Three area students won mention on the dean's honors lists at Indiana university for the past semester.

They are Ralph Anthony Carlino, 1410 Dorothy, Palatine, sophomore; Joan Elizabeth Stofft, 308 W. Golf, Mt. Prospect, freshman; and Judith Ann Clabaugh, 510 S.Beverly lane, Arlington Heights, junior.

Students in the junior (freshman) division are named to the deans' lists by earning an average grade of "B". Sophomores and upperclassmen must earn an average of nearly "B plus," or 2.3 out of a possible 3.

On Dean's List

Miss Judith Stegmeier, 130 Harvey st., Wood Dale, was one of 54 students at North Central college, Naperville, named on the President's list for the second semester of her freshman year, with a grade index of 2.733. An index of 3.000 indicates grades of A in all subjects. (CC

Area Midshipman Trains in Texas

Midshipman William H. O'Donnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. O'Donnell of 119 N. Emmerson lane, Mt. Prospect, and a student at the University of Washington, Seattle, Wash., is one of 1500 NROTC midshipmen from 52 colleges and universities who completed three weeks of aviation indoctrination July 26 at the Naval Air Advanced Training station, Corpus Christi, Texas.

WHILE AT Corpus Christi the midshipmen learned how naval aviators earn their "Wings of Gold" and were given the opportunity to fly in a jet.

The midshipmen traveled to the Naval Amphibious Training base at Coronado, Cal., for the second phase of their 6-week training period in amphibious warfare.

Capt. Robert W. Haugh, 7 S. Edward st., Mt. Prospect, is currently performing duty as battalion adjutant of the 327th Military Police battalion at Ft. Carson, Colo. The battalion is actively engaged in direct support of the fifth annual Boy Scout jamboree at Colorado Springs, Colo.

With over 58,000 scouts and leaders attending the jamboree, the men of the battalion must handle all traffic, safety and security problems which would be found in a city of that size.

Capt. Haugh served during World War II in Texas, and in France and Germany with the 328 Combat Engineer battalion of the 103rd Infantry division. He has been with the 327th Military Police battalion since 1951. (WUS

MELVIN C. BRENT

While participating in a summer training cruise aboard the support aircraft carrier USS Randolph in the North Atlantic, Midshipman 2/C Melvin C. Brent, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin A. Brent of 486 Clearmont, Elk Grove Village, worked with the signal light.

He is a member of the class of 1963 at the University of Illinois, Urbana.

The midshipmen boarded the Randolph June 21 at Norfolk, Va., and received practical "at sea" experience in seamanship, navigation, gunnery, flight procedures and anti-submarine warfare prior to their debarkation August 2 in Norfolk.

During the cruise they have made ports-of-call in the historic port city of Quebec, Canada, and New York City.

In Germany

S/4 Marvin E. Mensching, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mensching, Roselle, recently participated with other personnel from the 4th Armored division in special German-American week activities in Germany.

The activities, part of the Power for Peace program, included a military parade, equipment and weapons demonstration, parachute demonstration and sports competitions.

A tracked-vehicle driver in Company D of the division's 41st Infantry in New Ulm, Spec. Mensching entered the army in December 1958, completed basic training at Fort Hood, Texas, and arrived overseas in May 1959. He attended Palatine high school.

At Coast Guard Training School

Robert S. Swaim, 512 S. Waterman ave., Arlington Heights, is enrolled in the second class of coast guard reserve instructor training school conducted at State University of New York, college of education, at Oswego.

The school, first of its kind to be conducted by the U.S. Coast Guard, trains reserve officers and petty officers in standardized navy-coast guard methods of instruction. Three additional classes, of approximately 25 each, will attend 2-week courses during the summer. (WUS

Modern Etiquette

Q. What is the best rule to follow regarding the order of use of one's utensils at a dinner?

A. Always use the outside utensils first — the ones farthest from the plate on either side. That set of utensils is then left on the plate and removed when the course is changed. Then pick the outside utensils for the next course. If, by any chance, the outside fork is not the correct one, it's the table-setter's fault, not yours. If in doubt about whether a fork or spoon is correct for a certain course, follow your hostess' lead.

Aboard Carrier

DWIGHT W. PATE

Inspecting the 80-pound anchor chain links, while aboard the Atlantic Fleet support aircraft carrier USS Essex on a summer training cruise is Midshipman third class Dwight W. Pate, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert W. Pate, 1112 Harvard, Arlington Heights.

During the cruise, which is being conducted off the eastern seaboard, he will receive practical "at sea" experience in seamanship, navigation, engineering and gunnery. The training is scheduled to end August 5. (WUS

U.S. Marine Recruiter In Arlington Heights

MSgt. Don Nygaard, U. S. Marine recruiter, will be in Arlington Heights every Tuesday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at 5 E. Campbell to interview applicants for enlistment.

Men enlisting from this area receive their recruit training at San Diego, Cal., followed by four weeks of advanced training at Camp Pendleton, Cal. From there they will be sent to school or to one of the many posts or stations for on-the-job training.

Male high school graduates who have a letter of acceptance to a college or university are eligible for enrollment in one of the Marine Corps officer programs.

Army Announces Technic Course

Another opportunity for specialized school training in the United States Army has recently been announced, according to SFC Harold Dir at Des Plaines Post Office.

Men now serving in the regular army enlisted ranks and interested in becoming pharmacy specialists may apply to attend a 32-week pharmacy technic course to be conducted at Portsmouth, Va.

Applicants must be high school graduates and meet established qualifications. The first class, starting October 31, 1960, is limited in number of students.

At Fort Sill

Cadet Robert A. Cagann, University of Illinois student and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar W. Cagann, 312 S. Carlyle, Arlington Heights, has completed his fifth week of intensive artillery training at the 1960 ROTC summer camp at Fort Sill, Okla.

At Ft. Leonard Wood

Pvt. Paul W. McCullough Jr., 23, whose parents live at 20 Winthrop ct., Roselle, completed the engineer equipment maintenance helper course July 2 at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

McCullough was trained to assist in the repair and maintenance of tractors, graders, bulldozers, air compressors and chain saws.

He entered the army last January and received basic training at the fort.

Aboard USS Paricutin

Ens. Charles P. Gibfried, Supply Corps, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Gibfried of 50 W. Comfort st., Palatine, serving aboard the ammunition ship USS Paricutin, took part in a joint Canadian-American anti-submarine warfare exercise from July 21 through August 3 off the west coast of the U. Local Teacher Attends DePauw

RUSSELL LEE

Among 82 pre-high school teachers receiving training under a National Science Foundation grant at DePauw university, Greencastle, Ind., is Russell Lee, 3200 Ellen dr., Arlington Heights.

Chosen from more than 100 applicants, the teachers from 34 states have received full-expenses stipends and are engaged in a curriculum that includes math, physics, chemistry, geology, botany, zoology and astronomy.

The session closes August 5. (CC

At Wheaton

Mrs. Marie Bergstraesser, 25 E. Memorial rd. Bensenville, and Clayton Roger Baughman, 21 N. Dryden, Arlington Heights, have enrolled in the 46th annual summer school at Wheaton college for the second session. She is taking special study in the area of education, and he is taking special study in the area of Spanish.

Courses are varied to appeal to a wide range of professional interests as well as particular emphasis on the needs of Christian workers. The second term started July 23. (CC

Itasca Girls Study Music At Northern

DONNA HOOVER

JANICE FORKE

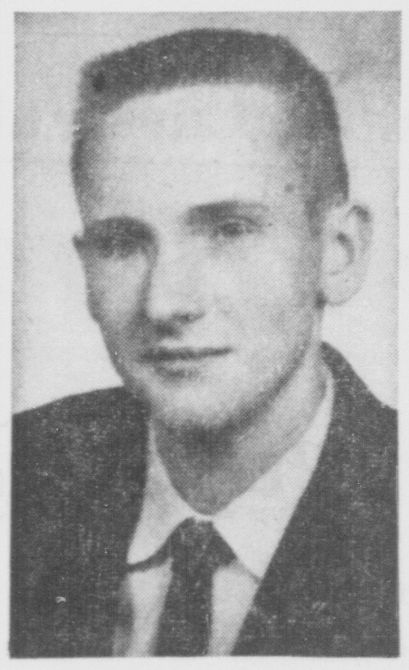
Donna Hoover and Janice Forke, both of Itasca, are spending 15 days at Northern Illinois university summer music school. The girls were chosen for this honor since both received a superior (first place) rating in the state music contest. July 24, at a concert given in the fine arts auditorium on the campus, Donna will play in a flute, trumpet, and oboe number by Bach. This trio number is written to be accompanied only by strings and in it Donna will be featured as flutist. In this concert, Janice will sing second soprano in a sextet.

Both girls will be seniors at Lake Park in the fall and, in addition to their music accomplishments, have excellent scholastic records.

Local Youth Receives Scholarship



DAVID KACZMAREK

David Kaczmarek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene A. Kaczmarek, 600 S. Can-Dota, Mt. Prospect, who will be a senior this fall at Culver-Stockton college, has been named recipient of a class scholarship.

Kaczmarek, whose grade average was 3.900 of a possible 4.000 will receive a $200 scholarship to apply to his tuition this fall. He maintained the highest grade average in last year's junior class at Culver-Stockton.

THREE scholarships are awarded annually within the freshman, sophomore, and junior classes for outstanding scholastic achievement.

Kaczmarek is also active in the International Relations club, is an officer of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity and a member of the Honors society.

At Wisconsin

Among the more than 500 young men and women who visited the University of Wisconsin campus during the past week to register for their University studies for the 1960-61 school year was John Noble, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Noble, 1011 Sherwood dr., Prospect Heights.

John was taking advantage of the UW's summer advance registration - orientation program for new freshmen, now in its fifth week for this summer. The program was established to help young people make their transition into University life easier both for themselves and their parents.

Attends Summer Speech Workshop

Susan Allison, 515 S. Gibbons ave., Arlington Heights, is among the local students who have been attending summer speech workshop at Northern Illinois university, De Kalb.

At the workshop, closed circuit television and tape recorders are among the tools being utilized by 23 outstanding high school students as they practice communications techniques. Students rehearsing dramatic scenes see themselves on a monitor TV set in a studio set up at the auditorium on campus.

The workshop, which closes August 6, is an intensive three-weeks of study designed to give students a chance to investigate all phases of speech, oratory, dramatics, debate, oral interpretation and speech correction and hearing. (CC

DePaul to Award Degrees August 6 To Area Men

ANTHONY V. MOSTARDO

Degrees will be awarded to 246 students at DePaul university's summer convocation Saturday, Aug. 6, at 10 a.m. in Alumni hall, 1036 W. Belden, Chicago.

Among those receiving degrees are the following area residents: Anthony V. Mostardo, 400 Charing Cross rd., Elk Grove, who will receive a master of music; Eugene B. Rybski, 810 N. Pine, Arlington Heights, and James E. Mennell, Pleasant ave., Bensenville, master of arts; and Dana P. Weithers, 1421 master of business administration.

Conferring the degrees will be the Very Rev. Comerford J. O'Malley, C.M., university president. (CC

At Lake Forest

A group of North Shore high school teachers are completing a 5-week summer workshop in American studies on the campus of Lake Forest college.

Participants have been concerned with the way the historical development of the United States and the development of American institutions may be emphasized in high school courses in American history, American literature and civic problems.

Registrants include Norbert L. Siewert, 910 N. Stratford rd., Arlington Heights. (CC

The Way We See It

Thirsty Suburbs Are Awaiting Court Rule

The northwest suburbs are awaiting a Supreme court decision which will determine whether Lake Michigan water can be diverted to serve Illinois communities. An unfavorable decision will jeopardize the future growth of suburban areas alarmed at disappearing water supplies. Unfortunately, a citizen does not write a Supreme court judge as one corresponds with his Congressman.

The northwest suburban villages can, however, make some progress before the decision, which may take as long as two years. They can continue to improve their own water systems which, in event of an unfavorable decision, will have to continue serving the communities, or, if the diversion plan is realized, will serve as emergency stand-bys. And the suburbs can continue to pledge faith and support to DAMP, the Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mt. Prospect, Palatine Water Commission, one of the most worthwhile cooperative projects ever undertaken by area officials.

Failure to do either of these may result in disastrous conditions. While we do not anticipate any dry responses from our water faucets in the next year or two, suburban water supplies continue to disappear at an amazingly fast rate. Mt. Prospect has made its annual appeal for residents to save water by sprinkling their lawns on alternate days; Palatine, due to a cave-in at the village's largest well, issued its first sprinkling ban in five years last week when water pressure dipped from its usual 45 pounds to 19; and Arlington Heights is saving itself from similar circumstances by building a sixth well. Other suburbs, not members of DAMP but certain to benefit by DAMP'S accomplishments, are in just as bad shape water-wise.

Static water level in deep wells is dropping as much as 30 feet per year. Palatine reports that its water level has dropped 120 feet in six years. At this rate the main well can be expected to operate only six or seven more years. Arlington Heights agrees that inevitably the suburbs will be in trouble unless some more permanent solution such as Lake Michigan diversion can be effected. It is the desperateness of their cause which makes DAMP members feel that the Supreme court will rule in favor of the Tree Towns water commission (Elmhurst, Villa Park, and Lombard), which has furnished the precedent for the northwest suburbs.

A favorable decision would mean instant action. DAMP already has working plans which would provide clear, filtered, soft lake water to suburban homes. However, securing land rights and constructing the water system would require at least two years' work after the court decision. When completed the commission's facilities will provide 37 million gallons of water a day, based on projected requirements in the year 1980.

But suburban governments cannot afford to wait until the decision is made. The demands of growing populations increase each year. We may some day be rationing baths instead of lawn sprinkling.

Carpentier Does Suburbs No Favor with New Change

We have learned that the state plans to shut down its suburban driver's license bureaus next month.

While the operations have been far from efficient, we deplore a situation which will require northwest area residents to drive into Chicago's Elston ave. examination center in order to take a driver's test. Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier has certainly done us no favor in making the change.

According to reports—the official announcement has not been made as yet—the bureau which operates at the Arlington Heights village hall, the Evanston bureau, and the Bryn Mawr bureau will all close. Personnel from these stations will be moved to the new Elston ave. bureau. Beginning drivers will be taking their tests on Chicago's traffic-laden streets—a severe test for even an experienced driver.

Undoubtedly, suburbanites will view the move with mixed emotions. The Arlington Heights bureau has won few friends. This newspaper has more than once been approached by outraged citizens who have credited local examiners with everything but courtesy and efficiency. Some complaints were inspired by failure to pass the examinations; most of them, however, were legitimate, in our opinion.

Arlington Heights officials certainly won't be too unhappy to see the license bureau close. Too many people have associated the service with the village. The village manager, in desperation, once threatened to put up a sign reading, "These men are not employees of the village." There have been numerous complaints to the village hall, but few objectors have taken the time to formalize their charges and send them where they should go — to Secretary of State Carpentier.

It seems the examiners will have the last laugh, however. Persons who have previously complained about the service will now be screaming to have it back. Few people will enjoy taking a full day off from work in order to drive into Chicago for a driver's test; and Heaven help the person who, because of some technicality, is unable to take the test once he gets to the Elston ave. station.

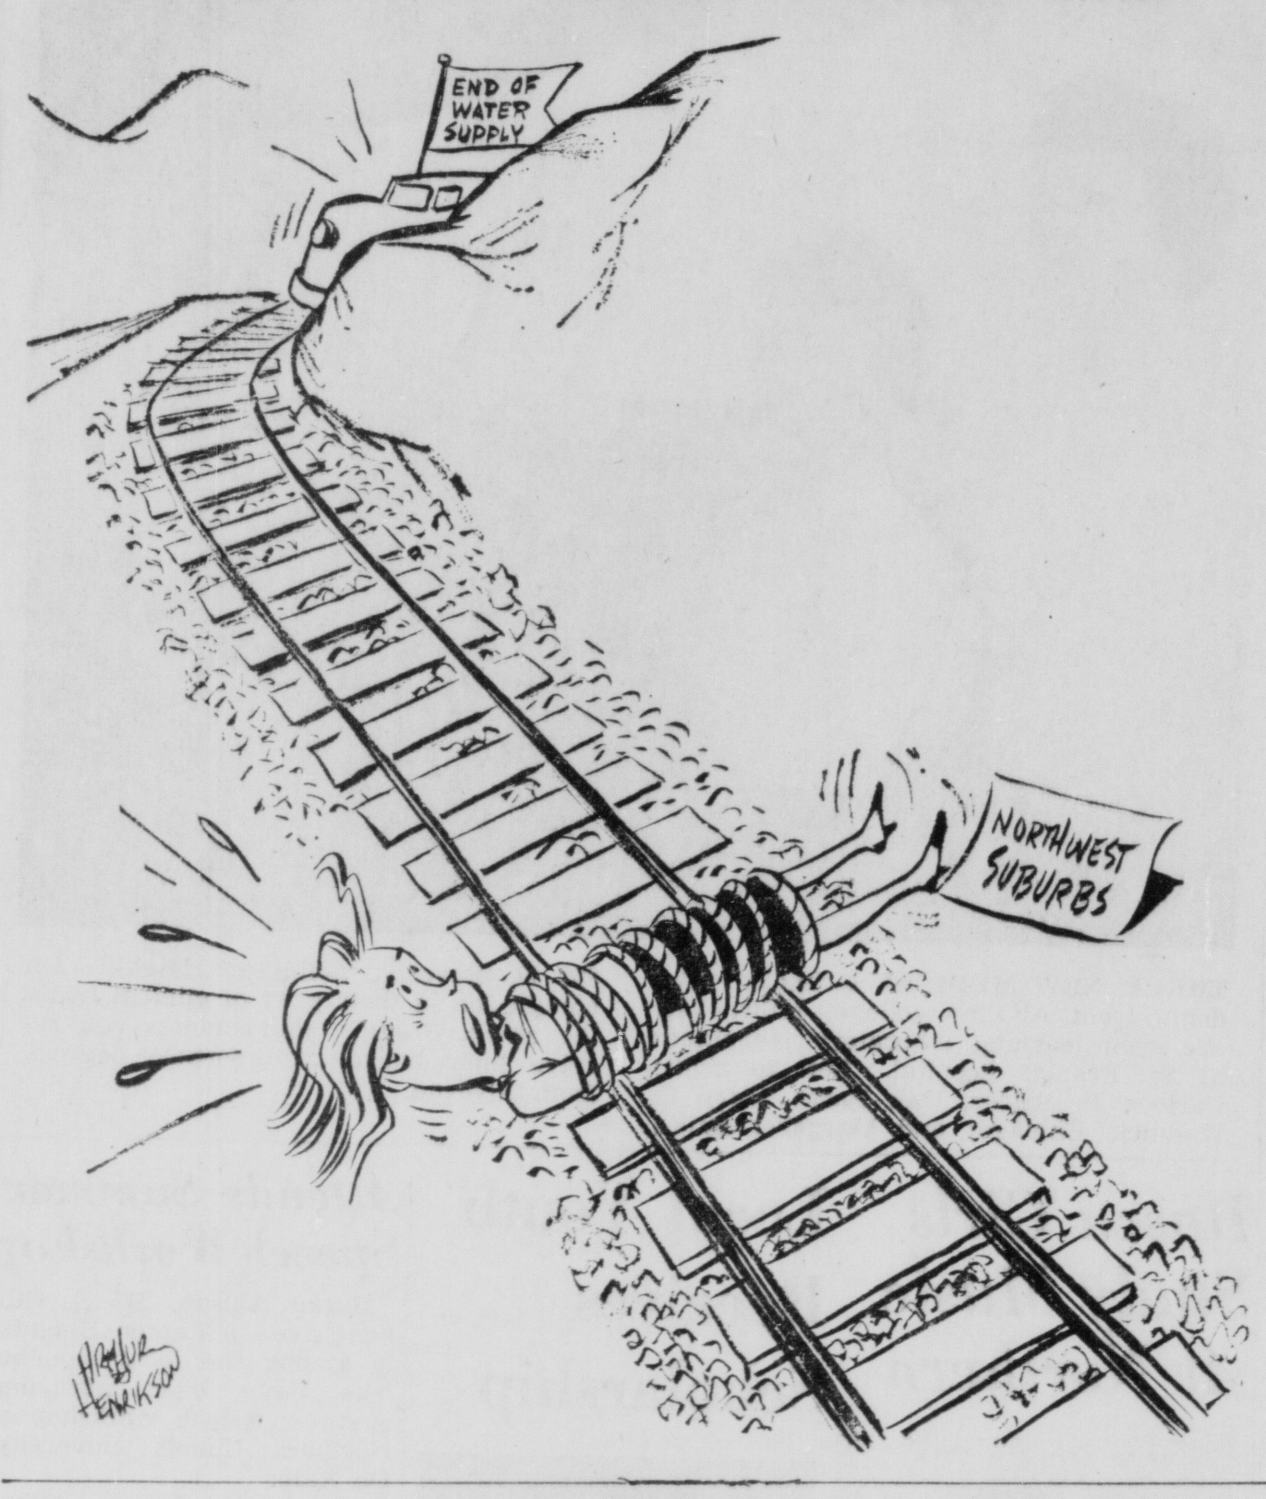
Suburb Teenagers Show Industry and Ambition

We have noted this summer that the area's youth seem more ingenious in their methods of raising money. More important, we have noted that teenagers, often labeled the "beat generation," are more willing to find employment and are using the imaginative resources of their age to come up with fund-raising schemes. This mental energy is due not only to the shortage of summer jobs but, we think, to a thoughtful protest to unproductive idleness.

We have published accounts of a Boy Scout drive to sell charcoal in order to finance a camping trip to Canada, a "corporation" of college-bound youths who are earning their tuitions by painting house numbers on curbing in several northwest suburbs, and a "slave labor" organization in Hoffman Estates, where teenage boys are selling chances for their man-hours of work.

While we have singled out some of the more unique "business operations," we are also aware that hundreds of teenagers are working at less conspicuous jobs for park districts, drug stores, and offices. We salute their ambition, and we salute their employers, who are finding out that teenagers "aren't such bad yeggs after all."

A Real Old Fashioned Melodrama



Illinois Committee Cites Future Needs

Outline Progressive Program For Developing Better Youth

by NATALIE McKENZIE

In an election year, promises and proposals are made covering every phase of life and every level of government. Most are motivated by partisan considerations.

One group, without any axe to grind, has looked at all phases of life to try to show the way to a better tomorrow. It is the Illinois committee for the 1960 White House conference.

More than 3,500 persons working in voluntary county committees took stock of opportunities available for children and young people. They looked at six broad areas highlighting gains and losses in the past 10 years. Their report lists gaps to be filled and goals for the future.

IN THE 95 pages of a small booklet published by this committee are suggestions that are applicable to any town in the northwest area. Any parent, community leader, or private citizen can fit himself into niches of action outlined to make a better life for our young people.

The words may seem remote. But if a reader can inject his school or PTA, his park, his family into the facts and suggestions made by the conference committee, then the words become alive, vital, and meaningful.

The six categories delineated in the Illinois survey are: family living, health, religion and religious institutions, education, vocational counseling, training, placement, leisure time, character building, and recreation.

IT IS THE family's responsibility to lay foundations for children who are well adjusted in the other five areas, the committee feels.

Noting a change in family relations during the past 10 years, the committee lauds the trend away from permissive parents to firm, guiding, more self-confident parents. It is the committee's promise that community services are established to help parents with their responsibilities; not supplant them.

Highlighting outside agencies' work to promote strong family relations, the committee presses for strong local agencies such as Family Service. It recommends broader aid to dependent children programs so that needy children from unbroken homes may be included. It recommends an extension of ADC age limits so children older than 18 who might still be in high school can be helped. It urges more research into the problem of girls who are repeaters as illegitimate mothers.

THERE IS widespread dissatisfaction with the use of courts as an agency for dependent children. It is noted that the number of juvenile delinquency cases has grown disproportionately with the increase in the number of children.

Health, the second area studied by county groups, is defined as a "State of complete physical mental, and social well-being. It is not a state entirely of absence of disease or infirmity."

It is the committee's recommendation that persons regard health as an individual matter. The community's responsibility is to care for the sick who are unable to provide for themselves and to safeguard and promote public health for everyone.

THE COMMITTEE recommends that local health councils be formed. Such councils could explore ways of financing the load carried by middle income families with handicapped children.

Emphasizing public health work, the committee urges the establishment of a state school of public health. It asks that all doctors and dentists be quired to work in public health clinics for a time to get a view of public health problems. Mass examination programs for disease such as tuberculosis are lauded.

Schools' roles in the health picture should be purely educational. Actual work must be done by the family doctor. It is the school's function to orient parents to this thinking, the committee feels.

Behavioral bases of learning are emphasized. The committee points out the urgent need for early recognition and treatment of those with brain damage.

Also recommended are fluoridation programs and ways of teaching the value of good nutrition.

THE COMMITTEE recognized that a gigantic mental health program is needed. This must be preventive as well as diagnostic. State-aided community clinics where psychiatric services for children and parents are available are recommended for heavily populated areas. Acute personnel problems are noted; the only means of alleviation being recruitment of promising young people and improved salaries.

That a religious vacuum exists is the committee's finding in its third category. The finding is documented by the increasing number of marriages involving persons under 20 with a divorce rate three times that of the national average for this group; a terrific crime rate; the rise of delinquency; the mounting tendency to conformity, security, cynicism, and compromise.

The committee feels the basic task of religion is to bind people to God and ultimately to lead them to self-fulfillment.

At the doorstep of church and synagogue is laid the need to teach mankind the importance of living together in peace. It is the duty of religious institutions to enter actively all phases of community life. The need for more interfaith cooperation is noted. It is the job of the family to make religion important. This is designated as more than a Sunday morning affair.

(Natalie Meyer McKenzie has been news editor of Paddock Publications' Palatine Enterprise since July, 1959. She holds B. S. and M. S. degrees in journalism from Northwestern university and worked for the Milwaukee Journal prior to joining the Paddock newspapers.)

EDUCATION — one of the biggest words in our vocabulary today is the fourth realm considered by the Illinois committee. It pleads for broad curriculums, encompassing needs of all from the handicapped to the gifted.

It is the job of education to teach not only the three R's, but to develop skills in methods of inquiry and to foster in students an understanding of himself and his responsibilities as a contributing member of a free society.

Knowledge of languages, art, music, literature, and emphasis on written and oral expression are all urged. Educators are warned against being bound by the old way of doing things; the old methods of grouping students. Teachers are asked to be specially trained to pick out the exceptional child. With this goes better inservice training, improved salary schedules based on teacher tenure and professional performance.

Financially, a more adequate and equitable source of revenue is needed. This necessitates revision of local and state tax structures and revision of the revenue article in the state constitution. The committee recommends that the general property tax continues to be the major source of school support since it preserves and encourages local interest, initiative, and control. The state contribution to schools must be increased at the same time. Illinois contributes 20 per cent to education; other states 40. Federal aid should be provided only where it cannot come from local levels.

COUNSELING should be a community concern, the committee feels. Purpose of a strong counseling program is to help each youth realize his inherent right to achieve his highest potential in life work.

Greatest fault with our counseling system today is that counselors do not have sufficient training. The committee would like minimum educational standards for counselors, established in 1958, made mandatory. It would like the superintendent of education to explore the possibility of using state funds for counselor training.

The committee urges cooperation for counseling between employers, private citizens, and professional guidance groups. It recommends that migratory workers' children be included among those counseled.

The last area explored by committee volunteers is leisure time use. It feels it is the initial responsibility of the home to develop a healthy attitude toward wise use of leisure time. It notes a 10-year increase in the number of state parks, national forest acreage, conservation areas, local parks, and camp sites. But recreation facilities are unequally distributed. More leaders are needed, and all recreation groups and agencies have financial problems.

Highest on its list of recommendations is one that came from youth committee members. "We feel our leisure time is overorganized," they complained. Parents are urged to encourage their children to develop skills and recreation outlets as individuals.

Emphasis through all committee recommendations is on the individual. It is the community responsibility to provide recreation facilities for all age groups, not just the young. The community must look ahead and acquire land now for the future. Community action crossing all lines must assure wholesale entertainment, thereby keeping out undesirable literature and movies.

Is New Nixon Really "New"?

by WILLIAM L. DULANEY

Has he really changed?

Is this short, beetle-browed man with the ski jump nose, and the smile that flashes on and off like a theater marquee, a different man than he was 10 years ago? Has Dick Nixon really changed?

This was the question that kept tugging at my mind last week as I sat hunched before the television, watching the Vice President deliver what must go down in party annals as the most eloquent, far-sighted speech made at either political convention this year.

NO ARM waving, finger pointing, or podium pounding was necessary for this marvelously articulate man to define the challenges that face us in the coming decade.

Here was a statesman talking, telling the people, as he noted the next President must do, ". . . not what they want to hear, but what they need to hear." Such things as why it may be just as important to build a dam in India as in California.

Nixon made no attempt to appease the Goldwater wing of the party. And while he praised the present administration's record as a matter of course, he made it clear he was striking out on his own. It appeared at times that he was rewriting the Republican platform to suit himself.

EVIDENCING ideas and vision, he quoted Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt, and Woodrow Wilson, not as if he knew them only through Bartlett's Familiar Quotations," but with sincerity and belief.

But was he sincere? Did he believe what he said? This question must have crossed the minds of many who have followed Nixon's career. The question could almost be read on Gov. Rockefeller's face as the camera picked him up during the stirring acceptance speech.

Was this the mature Nixon, grown in stature with his job? The new image with which his promoters have answered his detractors? Or was this "Tricky Dick," the political opportunist, the tightrope walker, intuitively saying the right thing at the right time?

Nixon's conduct in his early political years will likely haunt him for the rest of his public career.

While his leadership abilities and intellect have never been questioned, his vicious attacks by innuendo and whispering campaigns against his opponents, and his attempts to smear them with the Red brush have caused some Republicans and many Democrats to question the man's personal integrity.

PERHAPS ALL this has changed. Perhaps as the Vice President told a group of visiting British newsmen a few years ago, he was "very young" then.

Nixon has opened his Presidential campaign on the high road. He has discussed issues rather than personalities. He has concerned himself with the nation's problems instead of the opposition party. If he continues along these lines, and sees that other party members follow suit, it will be further evidence of the man's growth in character and statesmanship.

Marty Column 'On Vacation'

Dr. Martin E. Marty, whose weekly column of comment on religion-in-life normally appears on this page, is currently on assignment in Europe for Christian Century magazine. His column will be resumed after his return August 28.

"Swivel Chair Comments," weekly column by Charles Hayes, has been discontinued as a regular feature of the editorial page.

Cartoons Are Now on Display

Three original cartoons by Arthur A. Henrikson, editorial artist for Paddock Publications' suburban newspapers, are included in an exhibit of 200 political cartoons entitled "Politics 1960" now on display at the Sun-Times building until August 15.

This exhibit, prepared by the Association of American Editorial Cartoonists, has been seen by thousands in New York, Washington, Atlanta, Cincinnati, and Los Angeles. It will be seen in Philadelphia and Albany when it closes here.

At this rate the main well can be expected to operate only six or seven more years. Arlington Heights agrees that inevitably the suburbs will be in trouble unless some more permanent solution such as Lake Michigan diversion can be effected. It is the desperateness of their cause which makes DAMP members feel that the Supreme court will rule in favor of the Tree Towns water commission (Elmhurst, Villa Park, and Lombard), which has furnished the precedent for the northwest suburbs.

A favorable decision would mean instant action. DAMP already has working plans which would provide clear, filtered, soft lake water to suburban homes. However, securing land rights and constructing the water system would require at least two years' work after the court decision. When completed the commission's facilities will provide 37 million gallons of water a day, based on projected requirements in the year 1980.

But suburban governments cannot afford to wait until the decision is made. The demands of growing populations increase each year. We may some day be rationing baths instead of lawn sprinkling.

Carpentier Does Suburbs No Favor with New Change

We have learned that the state plans to shut down its suburban driver's license bureaus next month.

While the operations have been far from efficient, we deplore a situation which will require northwest area residents to drive into Chicago's Elston ave. examination center in order to take a driver's test. Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier has certainly done us no favor in making the change.

According to reports—the official announcement has not been made as yet—the bureau which operates at the Arlington Heights village hall, the Evanston bureau, and the Bryn Mawr bureau will all close. Personnel from these stations will be moved to the new Elston ave. bureau. Beginning drivers will be taking their tests on Chicago's traffic-laden streets—a severe test for even an experienced driver.

Undoubtedly, suburbanites will view the move with mixed emotions. The Arlington Heights bureau has won few friends. This newspaper has more than once been approached by outraged citizens who have credited local examiners with everything but courtesy and efficiency. Some complaints were inspired by failure to pass the examinations; most of them, however, were legitimate, in our opinion.

Arlington Heights officials certainly won't be too unhappy to see the license bureau close. Too many people have associated the service with the village. The village manager, in desperation, once threatened to put up a sign reading, "These men are not employees of the village." There have been numerous complaints to the village hall, but few objectors have taken the time to formalize their charges and send them where they should go — to Secretary of State Carpentier.

It seems the examiners will have the last laugh, however. Persons who have previously complained about the service will now be screaming to have it back. Few people will enjoy taking a full day off from work in order to drive into Chicago for a driver's test; and Heaven help the person who, because of some technicality, is unable to take the test once he gets to the Elston ave. station.

Suburb Teenagers Show Industry and Ambition

We have noted this summer that the area's youth seem more ingenious in their methods of raising money. More important, we have noted that teenagers, often labeled the "beat generation," are more willing to find employment and are using the imaginative resources of their age to come up with fund-raising schemes. This mental energy is due not only to the shortage of summer jobs but, we think, to a thoughtful protest to unproductive idleness.

We have published accounts of a Boy Scout drive to sell charcoal in order to finance a camping trip to Canada, a "corporation" of college-bound youths who are earning their tuitions by painting house numbers on curbing in several northwest suburbs, and a "slave labor" organization in Hoffman Estates, where teenage boys are selling chances for their man-hours of work.

While we have singled out some of the more unique "business operations," we are also aware that hundreds of teenagers are working at less conspicuous jobs for park districts, drug stores, and offices. We salute their ambition, and we salute their employers, who are finding out that teenagers "aren't such bad yeggs after all."

Is New Nixon Really "New"?

by WILLIAM L. DULANEY

Has he really changed?

Is this short, beetle-browed man with the ski jump nose, and the smile that flashes on and off like a theater marquee, a different man than he was 10 years ago? Has Dick Nixon really changed?

This was the question that kept tugging at my mind last week as I sat hunched before the television, watching the Vice President deliver what must go down in party annals as the most eloquent, far-sighted speech made at either political convention this year.

NO ARM waving, finger pointing, or podium pounding was necessary for this marvelously articulate man to define the challenges that face us in the coming decade.

Here was a statesman talking, telling the people, as he noted the next President must do, ". . . not what they want to hear, but what they need to hear." Such things as why it may be just as important to build a dam in India as in California.

Nixon made no attempt to appease the Goldwater wing of the party. And while he praised the present administration's record as a matter of course, he made it clear he was striking out on his own. It appeared at times that he was rewriting the Republican platform to suit himself.

EVIDENCING ideas and vision, he quoted Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt, and Woodrow Wilson, not as if he knew them only through Bartlett's Familiar Quotations," but with sincerity and belief.

But was he sincere? Did he believe what he said? This question must have crossed the minds of many who have followed Nixon's career. The question could almost be read on Gov. Rockefeller's face as the camera picked him up during the stirring acceptance speech.

Was this the mature Nixon, grown in stature with his job? The new image with which his promoters have answered his detractors? Or was this "Tricky Dick," the political opportunist, the tightrope walker, intuitively saying the right thing at the right time?

Nixon's conduct in his early political years will likely haunt him for the rest of his public career.

While his leadership abilities and intellect have never been questioned, his vicious attacks by innuendo and whispering campaigns against his opponents, and his attempts to smear them with the Red brush have caused some Republicans and many Democrats to question the man's personal integrity.

PERHAPS ALL this has changed. Perhaps as the Vice President told a group of visiting British newsmen a few years ago, he was "very young" then.

Nixon has opened his Presidential campaign on the high road. He has discussed issues rather than personalities. He has concerned himself with the nation's problems instead of the opposition party. If he continues along these lines, and sees that other party members follow suit, it will be further evidence of the man's growth in character and statesmanship.

Illinois Committee Cites Future Needs

*Outline Progressive Program For D*ə*veloping Better Youth*

by NATALIE McKENZIE

In an election year, promises and proposals are made covering every phase of life and every level of government. Most are motivated by partisan considerations.

One group, without any axe to grind, has looked at all phases of life to try to show the way to a better tomorrow. It is the Illinois committee for the 1960 White House conference.

More than 3,500 persons working in voluntary county committees took stock of opportunities available for children and young people. They looked at six broad areas highlighting gains and losses in the past 10 years. Their report lists gaps to be filled and goals for the future.

IN THE 95 pages of a small booklet published by this committee are suggestions that are applicable to any town in the northwest area. Any parent, community leader, or private citizen can fit himself into niches of action outlined to make a better life for our young people.

The words may seem remote. But if a reader can inject his school or PTA, his park, his family into the facts and suggestions made by the conference committee, then the words become alive, vital, and meaningful.

The six categories delineated in the Illinois survey are: family living, health, religion and religious institutions, education, vocational counseling, training, placement, leisure time, character building, and recreation.

IT IS THE family's responsibility to lay foundations for children who are well adjusted in the other five areas, the committee feels.

Noting a change in family relations during the past 10 years, the committee lauds the trend away from permissive parents to firm, guiding, more self-confident parents. It is the committee's promise that community services are established to help parents with their responsibilities; not supplant them.

Highlighting outside agencies' work to promote strong family relations, the committee presses for strong local agencies such as Family Service. It recommends broader aid to dependent children programs so that needy children from unbroken homes may be included. It recommends an extension of ADC age limits so children older than 18 who might still be in high school can be helped. It urges more research into the problem of girls who are repeaters as illegitimate mothers.

THERE IS widespread dissatisfaction with the use of courts as an agency for dependent children. It is noted that the number of juvenile delinquency cases has grown disproportionately with the increase in the number of children.

Health, the second area studied by county groups, is defined as a "State of complete physical mental, and social well-being. It is not a state entirely of absence of disease or infirmity."

It is the committee's recommendation that persons regard health as an individual matter. The community's responsibility is to care for the sick who are unable to provide for themselves and to safeguard and promote public health for everyone.

THE COMMITTEE recommends that local health councils be formed. Such councils could explore ways of financing the load carried by middle income families with handicapped children.

Emphasizing public health work, the committee urges the establishment of a state school of public health. It asks that all doctors and dentists be quired to work in public health clinics for a time to get a view of public health problems. Mass examination programs for disease such as tuberculosis are lauded.

Schools' roles in the health picture should be purely educational. Actual work must be done by the family doctor. It is the school's function to orient parents to this thinking, the committee feels.

Behavioral bases of learning are emphasized. The committee points out the urgent need for early recognition and treatment of those with brain damage.

Also recommended are fluoridation programs and ways of teaching the value of good nutrition.

THE COMMITTEE recognized that a gigantic mental health program is needed. This must be preventive as well as diagnostic. State-aided community clinics where psychiatric services for children and parents are available are recommended for heavily populated areas. Acute personnel problems are noted; the only means of alleviation being recruitment of promising young people and improved salaries.

That a religious vacuum exists is the committee's finding in its third category. The finding is documented by the increasing number of marriages involving persons under 20 with a divorce rate three times that of the national average for this group; a terrific crime rate; the rise of delinquency; the mounting tendency to conformity, security, cynicism, and compromise.

The committee feels the basic task of religion is to bind people to God and ultimately to lead them to self-fulfillment.

At the doorstep of church and synagogue is laid the need to teach mankind the importance of living together in peace. It is the duty of religious institutions to enter actively all phases of community life. The need for more interfaith cooperation is noted. It is the job of the family to make religion important. This is designated as more than a Sunday morning affair.

(Natalie Meyer McKenzie has been news editor of Paddock Publications' Palatine Enterprise since July, 1959. She holds B. S. and M. S. degrees in journalism from Northwestern university and worked for the Milwaukee Journal prior to joining the Paddock newspapers.)

EDUCATION — one of the biggest words in our vocabulary today is the fourth realm considered by the Illinois committee. It pleads for broad curriculums, encompassing needs of all from the handicapped to the gifted.

It is the job of education to teach not only the three R's, but to develop skills in methods of inquiry and to foster in students an understanding of himself and his responsibilities as a contributing member of a free society.

Knowledge of languages, art, music, literature, and emphasis on written and oral expression are all urged. Educators are warned against being bound by the old way of doing things; the old methods of grouping students. Teachers are asked to be specially trained to pick out the exceptional child. With this goes better inservice training, improved salary schedules based on teacher tenure and professional performance.

Financially, a more adequate and equitable source of revenue is needed. This necessitates revision of local and state tax structures and revision of the revenue article in the state constitution. The committee recommends that the general property tax continues to be the major source of school support since it preserves and encourages local interest, initiative, and control. The state contribution to schools must be increased at the same time. Illinois contributes 20 per cent to education; other states 40. Federal aid should be provided only where it cannot come from local levels.

COUNSELING should be a community concern, the committee feels. Purpose of a strong counseling program is to help each youth realize his inherent right to achieve his highest potential in life work.

Greatest fault with our counseling system today is that counselors do not have sufficient training. The committee would like minimum educational standards for counselors, established in 1958, made mandatory. It would like the superintendent of education to explore the possibility of using state funds for counselor training.

The committee urges cooperation for counseling between employers, private citizens, and professional guidance groups. It recommends that migratory workers' children be included among those counseled.

The last area explored by committee volunteers is leisure time use. It feels it is the initial responsibility of the home to develop a healthy attitude toward wise use of leisure time. It notes a 10-year increase in the number of state parks, national forest acreage, conservation areas, local parks, and camp sites. But recreation facilities are unequally distributed. More leaders are needed, and all recreation groups and agencies have financial problems.

Highest on its list of recommendations is one that came from youth committee members. "We feel our leisure time is overorganized," they complained. Parents are urged to encourage their children to develop skills and recreation outlets as individuals.

Emphasis through all committee recommendations is on the individual. It is the community responsibility to provide recreation facilities for all age groups, not just the young. The community must look ahead and acquire land now for the future. Community action crossing all lines must assure wholesale entertainment, thereby keeping out undesirable literature and movies.

Marty Column 'On Vacation'

Dr. Martin E. Marty, whose weekly column of comment on religion-in-life normally appears on this page, is currently on assignment in Europe for Christian Century magazine. His column will be resumed after his return August 28.

"Swivel Chair Comments," weekly column by Charles Hayes, has been discontinued as a regular feature of the editorial page.

Cartoons Are Now on Display

Three original cartoons by Arthur A. Henrikson, editorial artist for Paddock Publications' suburban newspapers, are included in an exhibit of 200 political cartoons entitled "Politics 1960" now on display at the Sun-Times building until August 15.

This exhibit, prepared by the Association of American Editorial Cartoonists, has been seen by thousands in New York, Washington, Atlanta, Cincinnati, and Los Angeles. It will be seen in Philadelphia and Albany when it closes here.

Our Suburbanites Use Fence Post as Forum for Views

Mechanic Talks Back to Critic

In reply to your letter in the Fence Post of July 28, Mrs. J. W. Holder, you have chosen to compare today's serviceman, with the "Gangsters of Chicago; the hold-up men; pick-pockets, and thieves of lesser or greater degree."

"Them's fightin' words," Mrs. Holder, and in behalf of myself and all other men engaged in servicing mechanical equipment, I don't aim to take them sitting down!

I have been a Warm Air Heating Contractor and repairman for the past 25 years. I have serviced equipment for thousands of home owners, I am enjoying the repeat business annually of hundreds of my old customers. I don't expect to please each and every person for whom I have ever done work, it just can't be done, nature is that way.

YOU SEE, there are people who know good work and realize that they themselves are incapable of doing that which others have been trained to do, in other words, "Each to his own trade." Then there are those people who are never pleased with anything that they have done, either according to the quality of the work completed or the price charged for it.

It is true that many people have been gypped in the past by "Fly-by-night operators" who in turn cast nasty reflections upon the contractor who is desirous of delivering the workmanship and goods for which he has contracted.

It is to cope with just this sort of thing that the contractors of good character have made known their membership in their respective associations who have been waging a steady and gaining fight in every community of this state for many years, even to the level of the Illinois State Legislature, to create such codes which would place teeth in the law to protect the home owners from unjust treatment.

As far as price is concerned, that the mechanic charges for his work today, this is one of the end results of our advancement.

The mechanic travels farther and faster today to give you better service than ever before, because, you want fully automatic equipment for your convenience.

FOR THIS he needs better mobile equipment to serve you and it is expensive.

When he accepts your call, he can't just be satisfied to "hope" that he can "Fix it" when he gets to your home, he's got to know what he is doing, and in order to keep abreast of constant changes, he has to keep taking refresher courses in the equipment he serves. For this he has to pay his own way.

Then there is community business licenes for each community he serves, State License, Operating expenses, and innumerable other items of cost that he has to foot.

It is his skill, plus all of these other items that you are paying for. It's certainly not all profit. Don't ever kid yourself about that.

I BELIEVE, without seeing the facts, but comparing notes with others I've heard of, that if you have been gypped, its more likely than not, that it's your own fault.

You are more than likely a shopper who seeks the cheapest price. Look out! That's dangerous. Because, after a good mechanic has taken years to build up his business, and hours upon hours of pains taking work to study to learn the finer points of the equipment that he is required to service, he's not going to sell himself and his family short financially any more than your husband should be expected to do likewise.

Be smart, Mrs. Holder, do your trading with your community serviceman. He is your neighbor. His business is established, and more than likely, this is because he treats his customers right.

If you have been treated unjustly or think you have, see your better business bureau, or your local judge, they will be glad to advise you properly.

Where to Take Unwanted Cats

With regard to the recent complaints - one letter was from Wood Dale and the other (both anonymous as to signature) from Palatine - regarding stray cats. Will you please take these poor unwanted animals to Dr. Brundage, DuPage county poundmaster and rabies inspector? His place is on Medinah rd., about a mile south of Lake st.

There is no charge for leaving these poor things - cats or dogs - as we in the Humane society give rummage sales, bake sales, etc. to make the Animal Welfare pick-up possible. For a little animal ambulance comes three times a week to Dr. Brundage and gets these sad pathetic creatures. It is not their fault that they are so prolific. If only people with female animals would have them spayed!

AS TO cats getting birds - alas, that is a law of nature, God's way of keeping the balance of population in the animal kingdom. Cats also kill mice and rats; dogs kill cats, big fish eat little fish. We ourselves, all enjoying steaks, chops, fowl, get somebody else to do our killing for us.

If cats were licensed, as the Wood Dale reader suggested, it would put a hardship on some poor child whose family cannot afford to take care of a dog, which does have to be licensed, and whose love of a pet is satisfied with a playful appealing kitten. Also, it would penalize the helpless cats most of all. In the end, humans would suffer because the mice and rate population would grow out of all bounds.

Last, may I say that we of the Humane Society and Animal Welfare are people with children and grandchildren - not crackpots putting animals first. Indeed not. I'm sure, too, that both you ladies from Wood Dale and Palatine are a couple of very fine people, kindly, tolerant, wanting to be liked by your neighbors and liking them in turn. But you just didn't know that there is a place that takes care of surplus animals - the bulletin of the National Humane society recently announced that 10,000 unwanted puppies and kittens are born every hour, over the entire country - and now you can tactfully hint to your neighbors with too many cats or dogs that all they have to do is take them to Dr. Brundage. If a stray is running wild, starving, in an unincorporated area, he will take them.

OUR ANIMAL Welfare truck also calls on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at the Elmhurst Police station; the humane - minded officers there will take the strays in at any time and hold them for the pick-up.

I repeat: there is no charge when you leave even a whole litter, although, of course, if you care to donate a dollar we are glad. We try to find homes for the animals, and often do.

Family Thanks Local Firemen

My family and I wish to publicly thank the members of the Mt. Prospect fire department emergency squad for their recent action that saved the life of our two-year old daughter, Mary Dawn.

Severe convulsions made emergency action imperative. The arrival of their skilled squad within two minutes of our call provided the necessary oxygen and the ability to administer it.

OUR THANKS also go to a neighbor, Dr. Ruane, who was summoned and was prompt with aid prior to the arrival of the squad.

We are new to this area and are delighted and reassured to be a part of a community with such fine people.

13th District Needs Split?

The census which was recently taken has shown that the suburban area of Cook county is greatly under-represented in the state as well as in the national governments. For example in the 13th Congressional district the indicated population is 917,000 whereas the average for Congressional Districts is about 414,000.

Inasmuch as there are indications that Illinois will lose one Congressional seat for the 1962 elections this will mean that the coming state legislature will need to re-apportion the Congressional districts of our state.

THE 13TH Congressional district should be divided into two Congressional districts when reapportionment occurs. A logical division of the 13th Congressional district would be to make one district out of Lake county and New Trier and Evanston townships and another Congressional district out of the remaining 10½ townships.

This can and will be accomplished only if the people of the suburban areas inform their state legislators of this need for re-apportionment.

Cemetery Elms Are Defended

An article appearing in the Arlington Heights Herald Fence Post, for July 28, 1960, serves as a warning as well as an appeal for action to save our trees.

We are particularly interested in that portion of the article which refers to E. Euclid street, viz:

"—but we now have the problem of dead elms standing alongside the old cemetery just outside the village limits."

This portion needs clarification as to the facts, of which the author of the article is not apparently aware.

There are two trees which are entirely dead or are partially dead. They are outside the property lines of the Arlington Heights Wheeling township cemetery and the adjacent cemetery controlled by the St. John United Church of Christ.

THE TRUSTEES of the Arlington Heights Wheeling township cemetery have asked the state of Illinois, highway department months ago to remove the dead trees adjacent to that cemetery and so far some have been removed. The two extremely tall and large trees still standing are of a dangerous character not only as a Dutch Elm disease threat but also to passing vehicles which may be struck by falling branches.

We appreciate the help of the state department of highways and no doubt the remaining dead trees will be removed at a time when the traffic can be rerouted while the trees are being taken down.

As a matter of information, the Arlington Heights Wheeling township cemetery is the present name for the cemetery which was the original burial location for the founders of Dunton, now Arlington Heights, Illinois.

COMPETENT landscape gardeners have been engaged to maintain the aforesaid cemetery and they are competent to advise the presence of Dutch Elm disease and submit samples of suspected trees to the state of Illinois for testing, before any trees are to be removed.

We thank Mr. Johnson for his cooperation in this instance and trust that his article will have the desired effect throughout this community as a preventative measure to stop the spread of the Dutch Elm disease.

Regina Council Appeciative

Dear Mr. Ladd:

As Deputy Grand Knight of Regina Council No. 4837, and Publicity Chairman, I would like to thank you and the Wheeling Herald for the splendid cooperation you have shown us during the past year.

I thank you for our Grand Knight Edwin Majkowski, myself, and for the members of Regina Council who are all aware of the fine job you have done in helping us to promote the existence of our Council to the people in our area.

We are also aware of the fact that the media you represent is the only available source of information, on the local level, to the area residents. Without your help, organizations such as ours would be virtually unknown.

Rodeo Leader Says Thanks

Gentlemen:

Any show the size of the recent Rodeo sponsored jointly by the Rolling Meadows American Legion Post No. 1251 and Police Athletic League requires the assistance of many individuals and groups.

The success of our recent Rodeo is due to the efforts of many. Paddock Publications did an outstanding job with advance publicity as did their ad department with the layout and color work on our full page ad.

Arlington Park Jockey Club, Inc., with their fine cooperation and assistance made the entire program possible. Without them there could have been no show.

THE MANY merchants who handled advance ticket sales have earned our deepest gratitude. They contributed very heavily of their time and effort in helping us to have a success.

Chairmen of the various committees, committee members and members of the American Legion and Police Athletic League, as well as other individuals who contributed so much time and labor, deserve our sincerest appreciation.

And last, hoping I have not slighted anyone, the contestants and the patrons have our heartfelt thanks. We hope everyone enjoyed the show.

Press Thanked For Coverage

At the completion of our 1959-60 school year, we stop for a moment to recall the many articles carried in Paddock Publications concerning our school district. We want to personally express our appreciation for the interest shown by you and your newspaper in the welfare of our school district.

We readily recognize that an informed public is of the utmost importance in building a sound educational system for any community. The cooperation of your newspaper in helping us to inform the citizens of this school district concerning our many endeavors has been of the utmost value to us.

As a new school year begins, we look forward to a continuing pleasant association with you.

Reader Praises Emergency Help

Earlier this morning a painter working on our office building was stricken down and lying on the sidewalk, apparently dead. A quick call to the Arlington Heights police brought within seconds, Oscar Johnson, another policeman and two young men with the fire department rescue squad truck.

The firemen immediately set up their inhalator unit while Oscar kept calling on the police radio for a doctor. Dr. Ruthenberg quickly responded — then a quick call for the ambulance with artificial respiration not interrupted and the victim was off to the hospital — truly a remarkable exhibition of efficiency and devotion to duty.

This should serve as a comforting thought to those within the village that we can and do have this kind of human service which goes beyond the call of duty.

His Personal View Stressed

I have no yen to get into an interminable debate with anyone through your column which does no good and only bores the public. But, since Barbara Laurin (I do not know whether Miss or Mrs.) disagreed with me last week, may I just have a few more lines and then, as far as I am concerned, I will sign off.

Barbara Laurin is absolutely correct in her dissent. LEGALLY SPEAKING, it makes no difference whatsoever what an individual's religion may or may not be in running for President of the United States. However, I was being interviewed as to my own PERSONAL OPINION and, as far as I am concerned, it would have to be an extreme situation indeed in which I, a Christian minister, would vote for a non-Christian over against an avowed Christian. I am not so sure that 'must' was the word I used, but, PERSONALLY SPEAKING, it would be an 'almost must.'

Thank you for the space, and sincere best wishes to Barbara Laurin and yourself.

Taxpayers Are Alerted

We moved away from the city to enjoy the open air and pleasures of suburban living. Now comes the referendum for a park district which which would add "about" $8. to every $10,000 of assessed valuation to real estate owners.

If the homeowners who gripe the loudest about the increased taxes every year would take the time to get out and vote "No" on some of these bills, then perhaps the tax assessors would realize we have reached the limit of our TAXABILITY.

WE ARE paying a share of our real estate taxes for keeping up the forest preserves. Why not make use of them?

The Bensenville swimming pool cost $100,000 and for that kind of money I am sure there could have been a bigger pool and some recreational facilities built around it.

Wake up, neighbors; or do you have unlimited resources?

High School News Stressed

It appears that the taxpayers in high school district 214, other than Arlington Heights, are "ophans" as far as Paddock Publications and the high school board are concerned.

I would like to know why the excellent front page article on the high school district 214 budget did not appear in the area issues other than the Arlington Heights Herald on July 28, 1960?

IT SEEMS to me that these areas should be equally informed on such an important matter, as well as the publicity seeking head-lines that appear on so called "local problems."

High school district 214 is one of the largest districts in the state and all the area editions of the Paddock, in the district, should carry the news releases from the high school board president and the business manager, to keep all of the taxpayers in district 214 well informed.

(The article mentioned above appeared on the front pages of the Arlington Heights Herald, Rolling Meadows Herald, Elk Grove Herald, Prospect Heights Herald, and Mt. Prospect Herald. Because of technical problems, it was omitted from the Wheeling Herald last week but is published in full this week. The editors agree that such news is vitally important and regret the omission).

Kind Words For Dulaney

May I write a few words in praise of your opinion page writers? I'm sure you get so many complaints that I want you to know how much I enjoy your writers. I never miss reading Martin Marty, Charles Hayes, and William Dulaney.

I particularly like reading Mr. Dulaney, whose comments on world affairs are always enlightening and stimulating. I find him far more interesting than any of the writers in the daily papers, who always seem to have an axe-to-grind. It is good to have such a writer in our own hometown paper.

Cannon Electric Announces Opening Of New Office

Cannon Electric company announces the opening of its new district sales, engineering and central service stores at 107 Gateway rd., Bensenville.

The new building, now in the final phase of construction, comprises 7200 square feet with air conditioned offices.

Ed Logan, formerly of Cannon Electric company's Minneapolis Field Engineering office, is manager of the facility. Arnold Searale and Don Wilds are Sales Engineers.

THIS SALES OFFICE will service customers of Cannon plugs in Wisconsin, northern Illinois, northern Michigan and bordering counties of Iowa and Indiana.

Housed in the same building with the sales engineering office is the company's central stores where products may be obtained within a 48 hours' delivery. This should result in considerable freight and time savings for customers.

This central service store is linked with the other service stores of the company in Anaheim, Cal., and Salem, Mass., by Cannon Electric Company's nation-wide teletype service. Thus, customers can obtain prompt delivery from other locations as well as those stores at the central service location.

PERSONNEL IS being sought in the Bensenville area to staff the new facility. Cannon Electric company is one of the world's leading manufacturers of electrical connectors for industries and defense.

There are manufacturing divisions in Los Angeles and Santa Ana., Calif.; Phoenix, Ariz., Salem, Mass.; and Toronto, Canada. The company has affiliates and licenses throughout the world. Corporate offices are at Los Angeles. (BB

Blind Program Dates to 1900

The first public day school programs for blind children in the United States were started in Chicago in 1900. According to George T. Wilkins, no other day school programs were started in Illinois until the school year 1954-55. There are now programs in 12 downstate school districts and others are planning such services.

Stress Need For Eye Tests

Often partially seeing children do not have an obvious handicap and they do not know that others see more clearly than they. It is easy to overlook their visual defects and judge them as slow learners, clumsy, inattentive or having behavior problems when the real problem is low vision.

George T. Wilkins, superintendent of public instruction, suggests that it is essential for schools to have careful vision screening programs and good follow-up services for visual correction and educational planning for children with low vision.

TOP-OF-THE-WORLD TYPE HAPPINESS

This kind of happiness you can't buy. But you can do something about his future years.

Providing him with a good education . . . teaching him the thrift habit . . . and, perhaps most important, bringing him up in an atmosphere of security, an environment of confidence . . . that's where parents come in.

And that's why they come in to Oak Park Federal, where a program of savings security; where high, goal-achieving earnings; and where savings conveniences all make Johnnie's future your pleasure as well as your business.

So that this is the only sort of slide he can take in life . . . come in tomorrow, and have a savings conversation about the future . . . at the house that security built.

Mechanic Talks Back to Critic

In reply to your letter in the Fence Post of July 28, Mrs. J. W. Holder, you have chosen to compare today's serviceman, with the "Gangsters of Chicago; the hold-up men: pick-pockets, and thieves of lesser or greater degree."

"Them's fightin' words," Mrs. Holder, and in behalf of myself and all other men engaged in servicing mechanical equipment, I don't aim to take them sitting down!

I have been a Warm Air Heating Contractor and repairman for the past 25 years. I have serviced equipment for thousands of home owners, I am enjoying the repeat business annually of hundreds of my old customers. I don't expect to please each and every person for whom I have ever done work, it just can't be done, nature is that way.

YOU SEE, there are people who know good work and realize that they themselves are incapable of doing that which others have been trained to do, in other words, "Each to his own trade." Then there are those people who are never pleased with anything that they have done, either according to the quality of the work completed or the price charged for it.

It is true that many people have been gypped in the past by "Fly-by-night operators" who in turn cast nasty reflections upon the contractor who is desirous of delivering the workmanship and goods for which he has contracted.

It is to cope with just this sort of thing that the contractors of good character have made known their membership in their respective associations who have been waging a steady and gaining fight in every community of this state for many years, even to the level of the Illinois State Legislature, to create such codes which would place teeth in the law to protect the home owners from unjust treatment.

As far as price is concerned, that the mechanic charges for his work today, this is one of the end results of our advancement.

The mechanic travels farther and faster today to give you better service than ever before, because, you want fully automatic equipment for your convenience.

FOR THIS he needs better mobile equipment to serve you and it is expensive.

When he accepts your call, he can't just be satisfied to "hope" that he can "Fix it" when he gets to your home, he's got to know what he is doing, and in order to keep abreast of constant changes, he has to keep taking refresher courses in the equipment he serves. For this he has to pay his own way.

Then there is community business licenes for each community he serves, State License, Operating expenses, and innumerable other items of cost that he has to foot.

It is his skill, plus all of these other items that you are paying for. It's certainly not all profit. Don't ever kid yourself about that.

I BELIEVE, without seeing the facts, but comparing notes with others I've heard of, that if you have been gypped, its more likely than not, that it's your own fault.

You are more than likely a shopper who seeks the cheapest price. Look out! That's dangerous. Because, after a good mechanic has taken years to build up his business, and hours upon hours of pains taking work to study to learn the finer points of the equipment that he is required to service, he's not going to sell himself and his family short financially any more than your husband should be expected to do likewise.

Be smart, Mrs. Holder, do your trading with your community serviceman. He is your neighbor. His business is established, and more than likely, this is because he treats his customers right.

If you have been treated unjustly or think you have, see your better business bureau, or your local judge, they will be glad to advise you properly.

Fence Post Mail Welcome

Letters to the Fence Post should be brief and concise. All letters must be signed, but names will be withheld from publication on request. No anonymous letters will be considered for publication. Where to Take Unwanted Cats

With regard to the recent complaints - one letter was from Wood Dale and the other (both anonymous as to signature) from Palatine - regarding stray cats. Will you please take these poor unwanted animals to Dr. Brundage, DuPage county poundmaster and rabies inspector? His place is on Medinah rd., about a mile south of Lake st.

There is no charge for leaving these poor things - cats or dogs - as we in the Humane society give rummage sales, bake sales, etc. to make the Animal Welfare pick-up possible. For a little animal ambulance comes three times a week to Dr. Brundage and gets these sad pathetic creatures. It is not their fault that they are so prolific. If only people with female animals would have them spayed!

AS TO cats getting birds - alas, that is a law of nature, God's way of keeping the balance of population in the animal kingdom. Cats also kill mice and rats; dogs kill cats, big fish eat little fish. We ourselves, all enjoying steaks, chops, fowl, get somebody else to do our killing for us.

If cats were licensed, as the Wood Dale reader suggested, it would put a hardship on some poor child whose family cannot afford to take care of a dog, which does have to be licensed, and whose love of a pet is satisfied with a playful appealing kitten. Also, it would penalize the helpless cats most of all. In the end, humans would suffer because the mice and rate population would grow out of all bounds.

Last, may I say that we of the Humane Society and Animal Welfare are people with children and grandchildren - not crackpots putting animals first. Indeed not. I'm sure, too, that both you ladies from Wood Dale and Palatine are a couple of very fine people, kindly, tolerant, wanting to be liked by your neighbors and liking them in turn. But you just didn't know that there is a place that takes care of surplus animals - the bulletin of the National Humane society recently announced that 10,000 unwanted puppies and kittens are born every hour, over the entire country - and now you can tactfully hint to your neighbors with too many cats or dogs that all they have to do is take them to Dr. Brundage. If a stray is running wild, starving, in an unincorporated area, he will take them.

OUR ANIMAL Welfare truck also calls on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at the Elmhurst Police station; the humane - minded officers there will take the strays in at any time and hold them for the pick-up.

I repeat: there is no charge when you leave even a whole litter, although, of course, if you care to donate a dollar we are glad. We try to find homes for the animals, and often do.

Family Thanks Local Firemen

My family and I wish to publicly thank the members of the Mt. Prospect fire department emergency squad for their recent action that saved the life of our two-year old daughter, Mary Dawn.

Severe convulsions made emergency action imperative. The arrival of their skilled squad within two minutes of our call provided the necessary oxygen and the ability to administer it.

OUR THANKS also go to a neighbor, Dr. Ruane, who was summoned and was prompt with aid prior to the arrival of the squad.

We are new to this area and are delighted and reassured to be a part of a community with such fine people.

13th District Needs Split?

The census which was recently taken has shown that the suburban area of Cook county is greatly under-represented in the state as well as in the national governments. For example in the 13th Congressional district the indicated population is 917,000 whereas the average for Congressional Districts is about 414,000.

Inasmuch as there are indications that Illinois will lose one Congressional seat for the 1962 elections this will mean that the coming state legislature will need to re-apportion the Congressional districts of our state.

THE 13TH Congressional district should be divided into two Congressional districts when reapportionment occurs. A logical division of the 13th Congressional district would be to make one district out of Lake county and New Trier and Evanston townships and another Congressional district out of the remaining 10½ townships.

This can and will be accomplished only if the people of the suburban areas inform their state legislators of this need for re-apportionment.

Cemetery Elms Are Defended

An article appearing in the Arlington Heights Herald Fence Post, for July 28, 1960, serves as a warning as well as an appeal for action to save our trees.

We are particularly interested in that portion of the article which refers to E. Euclid street, viz:

"—but we now have the problem of dead elms standing alongside the old cemetery just outside the village limits."

This portion needs clarification as to the facts, of which the author of the article is not apparently aware.

There are two trees which are entirely dead or are partially dead. They are outside the property lines of the Arlington Heights Wheeling township cemetery and the adjacent cemetery controlled by the St. John United Church of Christ.

THE TRUSTEES of the Arlington Heights Wheeling township cemetery have asked the state of Illinois, highway department months ago to remove the dead trees adjacent to that cemetery and so far some have been removed. The two extremely tall and large trees still standing are of a dangerous character not only as a Dutch Elm disease threat but also to passing vehicles which may be struck by falling branches.

We appreciate the help of the state department of highways and no doubt the remaining dead trees will be removed at a time when the traffic can be rerouted while the trees are being taken down.

As a matter of information, the Arlington Heights Wheeling township cemetery is the present name for the cemetery which was the original burial location for the founders of Dunton, now Arlington Heights, Illinois.

COMPETENT landscape gardeners have been engaged to maintain the aforesaid cemetery and they are competent to advise the presence of Dutch Elm disease and submit samples of suspected trees to the state of Illinois for testing, before any trees are to be removed.

We thank Mr. Johnson for his cooperation in this instance and trust that his article will have the desired effect throughout this community as a preventative measure to stop the spread of the Dutch Elm disease.

Cannon Electric Announces Opening Of New Office

Cannon Electric company announces the opening of its new district sales, engineering and central service stores at 107 Gateway rd., Bensenville.

The new building, now in the final phase of construction, comprises 7200 square feet with air conditioned offices.

Ed Logan, formerly of Cannon Electric company's Minneapolis Field Engineering office, is manager of the facility. Arnold Searale and Don Wilds are Sales Engineers.

THIS SALES OFFICE will service customers of Cannon plugs in Wisconsin, northern Illinois, northern Michigan and bordering counties of Iowa and Indiana.

Housed in the same building with the sales engineering office is the company's central stores where products may be obtained within a 48 hours' delivery. This should result in considerable freight and time savings for customers.

This central service store is linked with the other service stores of the company in Anaheim, Cal., and Salem, Mass., by Cannon Electric Company's nation-wide teletype service. Thus, customers can obtain prompt delivery from other locations as well as those stores at the central service location.

PERSONNEL IS being sought in the Bensenville area to staff the new facility. Cannon Electric company is one of the world's leading manufacturers of electrical connectors for industries and defense.

There are manufacturing divisions in Los Angeles and Santa Ana., Calif.; Phoenix, Ariz., Salem, Mass.; and Toronto, Canada. The company has affiliates and licenses throughout the world. Corporate offices are at Los Angeles. (BB

Blind Program Dates to 1900

The first public day school programs for blind children in the United States were started in Chicago in 1900. According to George T. Wilkins, no other day school programs were started in Illinois until the school year 1954-55. There are now programs in 12 downstate school districts and others are planning such services.

Stress Need For Eye Tests

Often partially seeing children do not have an obvious handicap and they do not know that others see more clearly than they. It is easy to overlook their visual defects and judge them as slow learners, clumsy, inattentive or having behavior problems when the real problem is low vision.

George T. Wilkins, superintendent of public instruction, suggests that it is essential for schools to have careful vision screening programs and good follow-up services for visual correction and educational planning for children with low vision.

Regina Council Appeciative

Dear Mr. Ladd:

As Deputy Grand Knight of Regina Council No. 4837, and Publicity Chairman, I would like to thank you and the Wheeling Herald for the splendid cooperation you have shown us during the past year.

I thank you for our Grand Knight Edwin Majkowski, myself, and for the members of Regina Council who are all aware of the fine job you have done in helping us to promote the existence of our Council to the people in our area.

We are also aware of the fact that the media you represent is the only available source of information, on the local level, to the area residents. Without your help, organizations such as ours would be virtually unknown.

Rodeo Leader Says Thanks

Gentlemen:

Any show the size of the recent Rodeo sponsored jointly by the Rolling Meadows American Legion Post No. 1251 and Police Athletic League requires the assistance of many individuals and groups.

The success of our recent Rodeo is due to the efforts of many. Paddock Publications did an outstanding job with advance publicity as did their ad department with the layout and color work on our full page ad.

Arlington Park Jockey Club, Inc., with their fine cooperation and assistance made the entire program possible. Without them there could have been no show.

THE MANY merchants who handled advance ticket sales have earned our deepest gratitude. They contributed very heavily of their time and effort in helping us to have a success.

Chairmen of the various committees, committee members and members of the American Legion and Police Athletic League, as well as other individuals who contributed so much time and labor, deserve our sincerest appreciation.

And last, hoping I have not slighted anyone, the contestants and the patrons have our heartfelt thanks. We hope everyone enjoyed the show.

Wing E. Groves,
Rodeo Chairman

Press Thanked For Coverage

At the completion of our 1959-60 school year, we stop for a moment to recall the many articles carried in Paddock Publications concerning our school district. We want to personally express our appreciation for the interest shown by you and your newspaper in the welfare of our school district.

We readily recognize that an informed public is of the utmost importance in building a sound educational system for any community. The cooperation of your newspaper in helping us to inform the citizens of this school district concerning our many endeavors has been of the utmost value to us.

As a new school year begins, we look forward to a continuing pleasant association with you.

Reader Praises Emergency Help

Earlier this morning a painter working on our office building was stricken down and lying on the sidewalk, apparently dead. A quick call to the Arlington Heights police brought within seconds, Oscar Johnson, another policeman and two young men with the fire department rescue squad truck.

The firemen immediately set up their inhalator unit while Oscar kept calling on the police radio for a doctor. Dr. Ruthenberg quickly responded — then a quick call for the ambulance with artificial respiration not interrupted and the victim was off to the hospital — truly a remarkable exhibition of efficiency and devotion to duty.

This should serve as a comforting thought to those within the village that we can and do have this kind of human service which goes beyond the call of duty.

His Personal View Stressed

I have no yen to get into an interminable debate with anyone through your column which does no good and only bores the public. But, since Barbara Laurin (I do not know whether Miss or Mrs.) disagreed with me last week, may I just have a few more lines and then, as far as I am concerned, I will sign off.

Barbara Laurin is absolutely correct in her dissent. LEGALLY SPEAKING, it makes no difference whatsoever what an individual's religion may or may not be in running for President of the United States. However, I was being interviewed as to my own PERSONAL OPINION and, as far as I am concerned, it would have to be an extreme situation indeed in which I, a Christian minister, would vote for a non-Christian over against an avowed Christian. I am not so sure that 'must' was the word I used, but, PERSONALLY SPEAKING, it would be an 'almost must.'

Thank you for the space, and sincere best wishes to Barbara Laurin and yourself.

Taxpayers Are Alerted

We moved away from the city to enjoy the open air and pleasures of suburban living. Now comes the referendum for a park district which which would add "about" $8. to every $10,000 of assessed valuation to real estate owners.

If the homeowners who gripe the loudest about the increased taxes every year would take the time to get out and vote "No" on some of these bills, then perhaps the tax assessors would realize we have reached the limit of our TAXABILITY.

WE ARE paying a share of our real estate taxes for keeping up the forest preserves. Why not make use of them?

The Bensenville swimming pool cost $100,000 and for that kind of money I am sure there could have been a bigger pool and some recreational facilities built around it.

Wake up, neighbors; or do you have unlimited resources?

Mrs. R. Frieden

High School News Stressed

It appears that the taxpayers in high school district 214, other than Arlington Heights, are "ophans" as far as Paddock Publications and the high school board are concerned.

I would like to know why the excellent front page article on the high school district 214 budget did not appear in the area issues other than the Arlington Heights Herald on July 28, 1960?

IT SEEMS to me that these areas should be equally informed on such an important matter, as well as the publicity seeking head-lines that appear on so called "local problems."

High school district 214 is one of the largest districts in the state and all the area editions of the Paddock, in the district, should carry the news releases from the high school board president and the business manager, to keep all of the taxpayers in district 214 well informed.

Donald B. Paisley
Wheeling

(The article mentioned above appeared on the front pages of the Arlington Heights Herald, Rolling Meadows Herald, Elk Grove Herald, Prospect Heights Herald, and Mt. Prospect Herald. Because of technical problems, it was omitted from the Wheeling Herald last week but is published in full this week. The editors agree that such news is vitally important and regret the omission).

Kind Words For Dulaney

May I write a few words in praise of your opinion page writers? I'm sure you get so many complaints that I want you to know how much I enjoy your writers. I never miss reading Martin Marty, Charles Hayes, and William Dulaney.

I particularly like reading Mr. Dulaney, whose comments on world affairs are always enlightening and stimulating. I find him far more interesting than any of the writers in the daily papers, who always seem to have an axe-to-grind. It is good to have such a writer in our own hometown paper.

Hollywood Revives Those Old Lizards for 'World'

by JIM PHILLIPS

PADDOCK BILLBOARD

Dining ✶ Dancing ✶ Theatres ✶ Entertainment

Twentieth Century Fox Hunt: Great heavens, the lizards are with us again! Once more, thanks to "The Lost World," we are going to get a taste of science fiction — unfortunately, the taste is about as pleasing as too much vinegar in the sauerkraut.

Romping through the forests of the Amazon Jungle h are Claude (scientist) Rains, Jill (I look better in tight pants) St. John, Michael (Hero) Rennie, and Fernando (lover) Lamas. Since someone has already found man-eating plants, man-eating fish, and man-eating men via the Hollywood movie, everyone, including Producer Irwin Allen, thinks it's high time someone latched on to man-eating dinosaurs.

In "The Lost World," not only do we latch on to them, we see them take over the entire picture. And somewhere in this prehistoric "Lizard of Oz" beast-feast is Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's original plot, chewed up a little, but nevertheless recognizable to his fans.

I would say that this "Shriek and Ye Shall Find" ditty has every salamander and garden lizard in the South west in it, including some very effective scenes involving clawing, grappling, chewing, crunching, gnawing, and an occasional belch from one of the larger lizards who didn't get much of a part. However, be that as it may, "Lost World" is a very lively reptilic wrestling match, with little acting by the mainstay humans. Unfortunatly, Twentieth Century has out-monstered itself in this one after a wonderful job with "Journey to the Center of the Earth."

I kept wondering why the plot couldn't have shown up in better light amidst some of the fine special effects. I think you'll enjoy it — I can't be sure — after all, you may not have visited the reptile house at Brookfield for quite awhile. Capsule Comment: "How can you find time to brush between reels?"

"From the Terrace" has no lizards, just humans — but they are so miserable that before the first hour of the picture is past, you'll probably want the reptiles back again. Based on the John O'Hara novel, "Terrace" is the story of a nice guy who comes home from military service to find that father is still an unloving schnook, and mother is a slightly drunken, but loving female — loving to another man, that is! After clobbering mama (Myrna Loy.) and trading nasty euphemisms with papa (Leon Ames), the nice guy (Paul Newman) decides that he's going to take revenge by becoming a Wall Street businessman (a nasty way to get back at your parents, I must say!). In the process of becoming a junior schnook, Paul meets a girl (Joanne Woodward) at a party.

THE KING, Tony Randall, and the Duke, Mickey Shaughnessy, catch up with Huckleberry Finn, Eddie Hodges, when they find him working as a cabin boy aboard a Mississippi river boat. The scene is from MGM's "Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" now playing at the Catlow theatre, Barrington. The Cinemascope-Technicolor film version of the Mark Twain adventure classic also stars Archie Moore, Andy Devine, and Neville Brand.

The punch must have been potent because before you can say "pass the popcorn," they are married. Paul settles down to the business at hand; sweats, strains and goes after that money like Daddy did. Joanne, in the meantime, is becoming unhappy. She starts looking around for a substitute husband, John O'Hara style. Paul is too busy to notice much of anything except a girl he has met on a business trip. This girl is different because she is simple — or simple because she is different — I don't know which!

Well, from this moment on, "From the Terrace" is a view from the sewer. What will Paul do? Will he give up Wall Street and wife for Small Street and strife? You'll have to find out for yourself — I'm no stool-pidgeon!

Mark Robson produced and directed "Terrace" and did an outstanding job with a plot that is as staid as a butler's underwear. The color is wild and so are the sets; Joanne Woodward is outstanding in the acting department. Paul Newman is still driving too hard, and continues to remind me of a finishing school Marlon Brando. You'll find Myrna Loy accomplished in her role of the unfortunate mother. This is a good family picture — leave your family home!

Capsule Comment: Dizzy ride on the "Terracewheel!"

Hollywood Revives Those Old Lizards for 'World'

by JIM PHILLIPS

Twentieth Century Fox Hunt: Great heavens, the lizards are with us again! Once more, thanks to "The Lost World," we are going to get a taste of science fiction — unfortunately, the taste is about as pleasing as too much vinegar in the sauerkraut.

Romping through the forests of the Amazon Jungle h are Claude (scientist) Rains, Jill (I look better in tight pants) St. John, Michael (Hero) Rennie, and Fernando (lover) Lamas. Since someone has already found man-eating plants, man-eating fish, and man-eating men via the Hollywood movie, everyone, including Producer Irwin Allen, thinks it's high time someone latched on to man-eating dinosaurs.

In "The Lost World," not only do we latch on to them, we see them take over the entire picture. And somewhere in this prehistoric "Lizard of Oz" beast-feast is Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's original plot, chewed up a little, but nevertheless recognizable to his fans.

I would say that this "Shriek and Ye Shall Find" ditty has every salamander and garden lizard in the South west in it, including some very effective scenes involving clawing, grappling, chewing, crunching, gnawing, and an occasional belch from one of the larger lizards who didn't get much of a part. However, be that as it may, "Lost World" is a very lively reptilic wrestling match, with little acting by the mainstay humans. Unfortunatly, Twentieth Century has out-monstered itself in this one after a wonderful job with "Journey to the Center of the Earth."

I kept wondering why the plot couldn't have shown up in better light amidst some of the fine special effects. I think you'll enjoy it — I can't be sure — after all, you may not have visited the reptile house at Brookfield for quite a while. Capsule Comment: "How can you find time to brush between reels?"

"From the Terrace" has no lizards, just humans — but they are so miserable that before the first hour of the picture is past, you'll probably want the reptiles back again. Based on the John O'Hara novel, "Terrace" is the story of a nice guy who comes home from military service to find that father is still an unloving schnook, and mother is a slightly drunken, but loving female — loving to another man, that is! After clobbering mama (Myrna Loy.) and trading nasty euphemisms with papa (Leon Ames), the nice guy (Paul Newman) decides that he's going to take revenge by becoming a Wall Street businessman (a nasty way to get back at your parents, I must say!). In the process of becoming a junior schnook, Paul meets a girl (Joanne Woodward) at a party.

THE KING, Tony Randall, and the Duke, Mickey Shaughnessy, catch up with Huckleberry Finn, Eddie Hodges, when they find him working as a cabin boy aboard a Mississippi river boat. The scene is from MGM's "Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" now playing at the Catlow theatre, Barrington. The Cinemascope-Technicolor film version of the Mark Twain adventure classic also stars Archie Moore, Andy Devine, and Neville Brand.

The punch must have been potent because before you can say "pass the popcorn," they are married. Paul settles down to the business at hand; sweats, strains and goes after that money like Daddy did. Joanne, in the meantime, is becoming unhappy. She starts looking around for a substitute husband, John O'Hara style. Paul is too busy to notice much of anything except a girl he has met on a business trip. This girl is different because she is simple — or simple because she is different — I don't know which!

Well, from this moment on, "From the Terrace" is a view from the sewer. What will Paul do? Will he give up Wall Street and wife for Small Street and strife? You'll have to find out for yourself — I'm no stool-pidgeon!

Mark Robson produced and directed "Terrace" and did an outstanding job with a plot that is as staid as a butler's underwear. The color is wild and so are the sets; Joanne Woodward is outstanding in the acting department. Paul Newman is still driving too hard, and continues to remind me of a finishing school Marlon Brando. You'll find Myrna Loy accomplished in her role of the unfortunate mother. This is a good family picture — leave your family home!

Capsule Comment: Dizzy ride on the "Terracewheel!"

Art Has Become Part Of Community Life

by LUCILLE ERNST

I have very sad news for you. Ceil Blackwood has gone back home to Boston. I'm afraid it's always that way with talented and interesting people. Just as you begin to know and enjoy them they take off with a casual wave and you are lucky if you ever hear from them again

Ceil bequeathed her column to me but that isn't all. The night before she left, a stray cat had five kittens in her studio. She left me those too. I can handle the column if you will bear with me, but I really don't know what I'll do with all those cats.

ACTUALLY CEIL did a great deal of good while she was a member of our community. She introduced us to artists who live among us, artists whom otherwise we would not have known. She told us where exhibits were being held and what to look for. She made many of us feel Art was a part of our community and a part of our lives. Even primitive cultures respect their artists, surely civilized cultures should. I sincerely hope I can do half the job that she did.

Many of my friends felt a very real awakening of interest in art and attended exhibits and art fairs as I hope you have. From this new interest springs some questions perhaps some that you would like to ask. I'd like to answer them if I can.

SINCE THE Old Masters are so admired, why don't modern artists paint as they did?

Artists in 1960 don't think or feel as artists did hundreds of years ago and so, of course, they don't paint the same way. Like good writers, artists reflect the period in which they live. The Old Masters are very different in their styles and even with very little training, one may determine when a painting was created.

Why can't artists today at least paint some pretty soothing pictures as they used to do?

Good artists never did. Art never was a sedative. Real art should be as disturbing and exciting as falling in love. The art of a former period sometimes seems soothing because the problems of one era are not so disturbing to the next. Imagine the impact on the highly religious people of 1541, people who lived close to death, of Michelangelo's Last Judgment, a fresco vividly portraying the unworthy being dragged off by the devils.

HOW CAN I tell if a painting is good or not?

The best test is your own response. If you enjoy a picture and feel an emotional reaction, then this is the beginning of appreciating and loving art. Tastes differ in art as they do in clothes or home furnishings and all people will never enjoy the same things. Buy what you like and bear in mind that the experts in art are often as wrong as the layman. The artists most praised by the experts are often those most quickly forgotten. (Bill

Shady Lane Slates Comedy of Critic

Shady Lane Playhouse near Marengo will present "Jason," a comedy with a drama critic as hero, Tuesday, Aug. 9 through Sunday, Aug. 14.

Jason Otis is a cultured, honorable gentleman who finds a brash young playwright not only making love to his wife, but penning a drama which Jason must review. The dilemma is resolved so as to leave all three members of the triangle happy.

SAMSON Raphaelson, author of "Jason," in which Alexander Knox played the title role on Broadway, also wrote such comedy hits as "Skylark," one of Gertrude Lawrence's more celebrated vehicles, and "Accent on Youth," in which Sylvia Sidney and Luther Adler played in Chicago.

Shady Lane, its theatre housed in a handsomely converted barn adjoining the renowned Shady Lane restaurant on Route 20, three miles west of Marengo, is marking its nineteenth season.

Curtain times are at 8:45 Tuesday through Friday, 7 and 10 on Saturday, and 7:45 on Sunday evenings. Reservations for country style dinners are recommended before 8:45, at JOrdan 8-7218. (Bill

Dane Clark Stars Next at Playhouse

The exciting duo, Dane Clark and Anne Jackson, costar in a new and highly-praised production of "Two For The Seesaw," opening August 8 for two weeks at the Edgewater Beach Playhouse. They come to the Edgewater following tremendous critical acclaim and broken box office records.

Tony Randall continues at the Edgewater through August 7 in the farce "Goodbye Again."

"Two For The Seesaw" is a production which critics have hailed as superior. Dane Clark has been seen in a hundred movies, TV dramas and stage plays. Miss Jackson is one of America's finest actresses.

THE two-character comedy which has been given new depth concerns itself with the bedroom antics of a temperamental Brooklyn girl and a quiet lawyer from Nebraska whose paths cross in New York. Written by William Gibson, who has now followed it with the poignant "The Miracle Worker," "Two For The Seesaw" was one of the top comedy hits on Broadway during the past decade.

Those who have not seen it in a previous Chicago run will enjoy this remarkable new presentation. Those who have seen it will enjoy it even more now, in comparison, after seeing the highly praised performances of Dane Clark and Anne Jackson. "Two For The Seesaw" runs at the Edgewater through August 21.

The new brilliant orange and green tent of the Playhouse is now supplied with a new cooling arrangement that reduces the summer temperatures by up to 10 degrees.

The Playhouse curtains are Monday through Friday 8:30, Saturday 7 and 10, Sunday at 7. For information call LOngbeach 1-6308. (Bill

Hercules Stars At 53 Outdoor

"Hercules Unchained," one of the mightiest screen spectacles, opens at the 53 Outdoor theatre Friday, Aug. 5.

The film features Steve Reeves as Hercules and tells the glories, the triumphs and the conquests of the world's mightiest man. Featured with Reeves is Sylva Koscina, one of Europe's most beautiful actresses cast as Hercules bride, Princess Iole.

Co-featured with "Hercules Unchained" will be "The Rise and Fall of 'Legs' Diamond," the most vicious hood in gangland history. The film features Ray Danton, Karen Steele and Elaine Stewart.

Jason Otis is a cultured, honorable gentleman who finds a brash young playwright not only making love to his wife, but penning a drama which Jason must review. The dilemma is resolved so as to leave all three members of the triangle happy.

Dane Clark Stars Next at Playhouse

The exciting duo, Dane Clark and Anne Jackson, co-star in a new and highly-praised production of "Two For The Seesaw," opening August 8 for two weeks at the Edgewater Beach Playhouse. They come to the Edgewater following tremendous critical acclaim and broken box office records.

Tony Randall continues at the Edgewater through August 7 in the farce "Goodbye Again."

"Two For The Seesaw" is a production which critics have hailed as superior. Dane Clark has been seen in a hundred movies, TV dramas and stage plays. Miss Jackson is one of America's finest actresses.

THE two-character comedy which has been given new depth concerns itself with the bedroom antics of a temperamental Brooklyn girl and a quiet lawyer from Nebraska whose paths cross in New York. Written by William Gibson, who has now followed it with the poignant "The Miracle Worker," "Two For The Seesaw" was one of the top comedy hits on Broadway during the past decade.

Those who have not seen it in a previous Chicago run will enjoy this remarkable new presentation. Those who have seen it will enjoy it even more now, in comparison, after seeing the highly praised performances of Dane Clark and Anne Jackson. "Two For The Seesaw" runs at the Edgewater through August 21.

The new brilliant orange and green tent of the Playhouse is now supplied with a new cooling arrangement that reduces the summer temperatures by up to 10 degrees.

The Playhouse curtains are Monday through Friday 8:30, Saturday 7 and 10, Sunday at 7. For information call LOngbeach 1-6308. (Bill

Hercules Stars At 53 Outdoor

"Hercules Unchained," one of the mightiest screen spectacles, opens at the 53 Outdoor theatre Friday, Aug. 5.

The film features Steve Reeves as Hercules and tells the glories, the triumphs and the conquests of the world's mightiest man. Featured with Reeves is Sylva Koscina, one of Europe's most beautiful actresses cast as Hercules bride, Princess Iole.

Co-featured with "Hercules Unchained" will be "The Rise and Fall of 'Legs' Diamond," the most vicious hood in gangland history. The film features Ray Danton, Karen Steele and Elaine Stewart.

Little Leaguers' First Loss Is Heavy Blow

'Major' Sport for Young

The Cubs were playing the Phillies, and, while it was only one of many Little League contests going on in the northwest suburbs, to some 25-30 Palatine youngsters it was a mighty important game.

The Phillies were sending their unbeaten righthander, Jim Meyers, against a rugged bunch of northsiders who defied their National League namesakes. The Phillies were confident.

"His don't curve. He's gonna be easy to hit," remarked one hitter after he had watched the Cubs' Steve Shaling fire some practice throws to his catcher.

"Who's your best hitter," the reporter asked.

"For what," a bench warmer questioned, "singles or homers?"

"We're mostly good fielding. Not so much hitting," a teammate admitted.

The game was off to an exciting start. The Phillies rallied for two runs in the first inning and seemed to have things well in command when they retired the Cubs in order.

"We ain't been beaten this half of the season," offered one of the cocky regulars.

"How many you won?" asked the reporter.

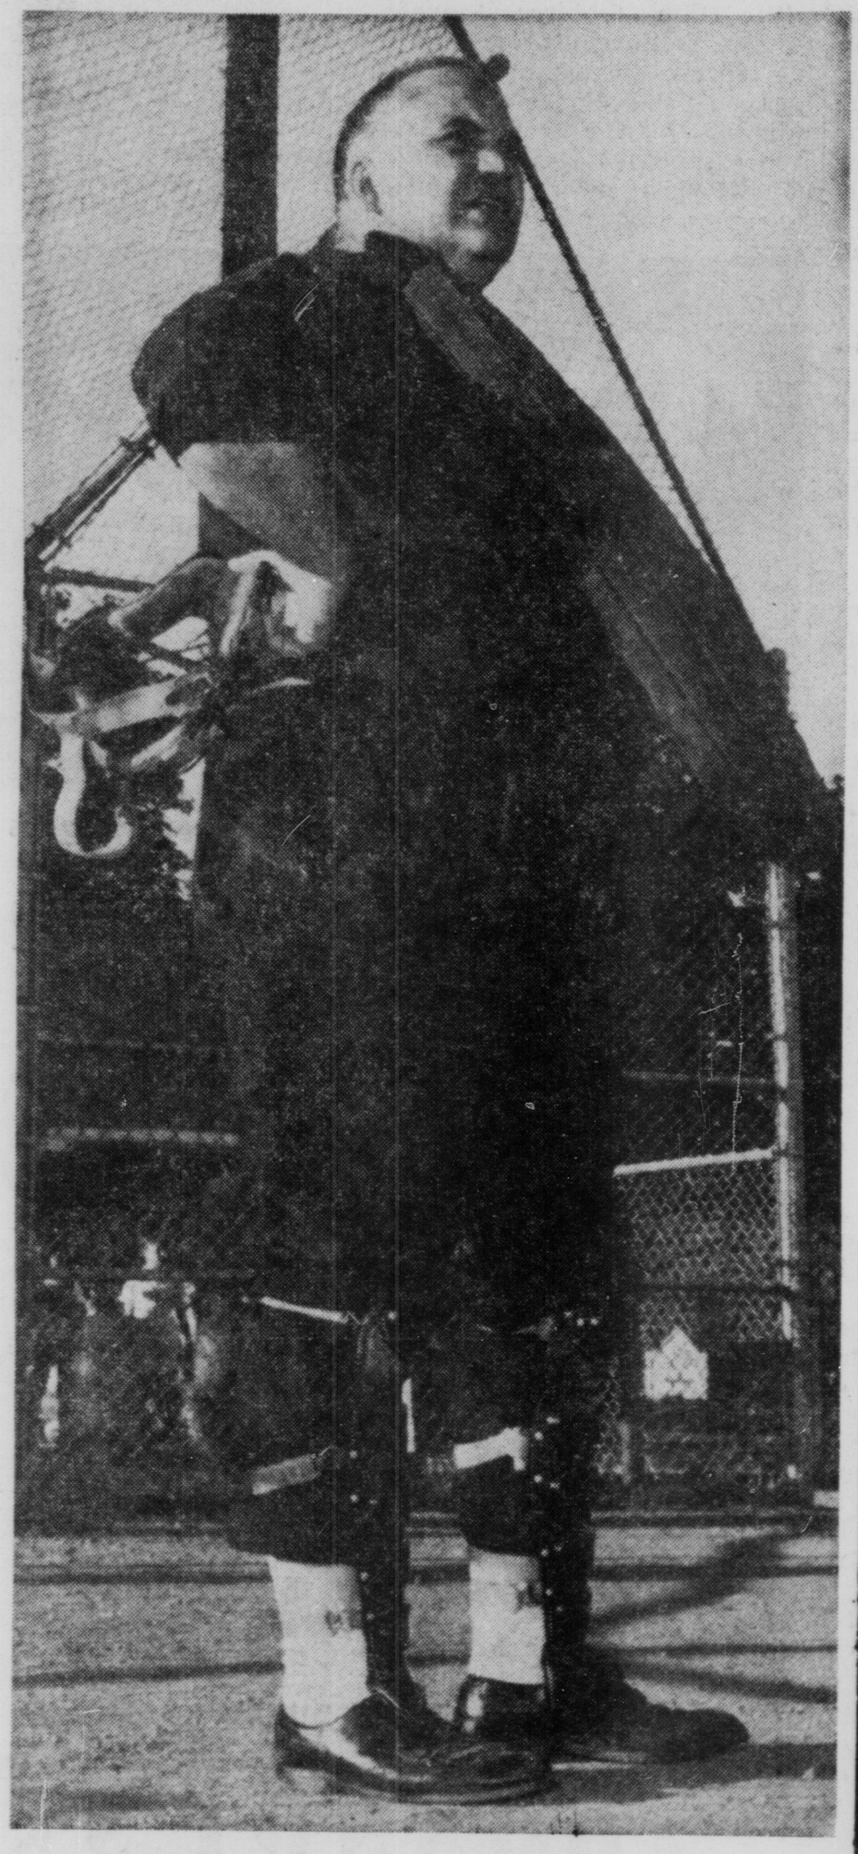
"Two," replied a chorus of Phillies.

In the second inning the winning streak was in jeopardy. The Cubs started a giant size rally, and when a bouncing ball over the pitcher's head went for a three-run homer, there was a meeting at the mound.

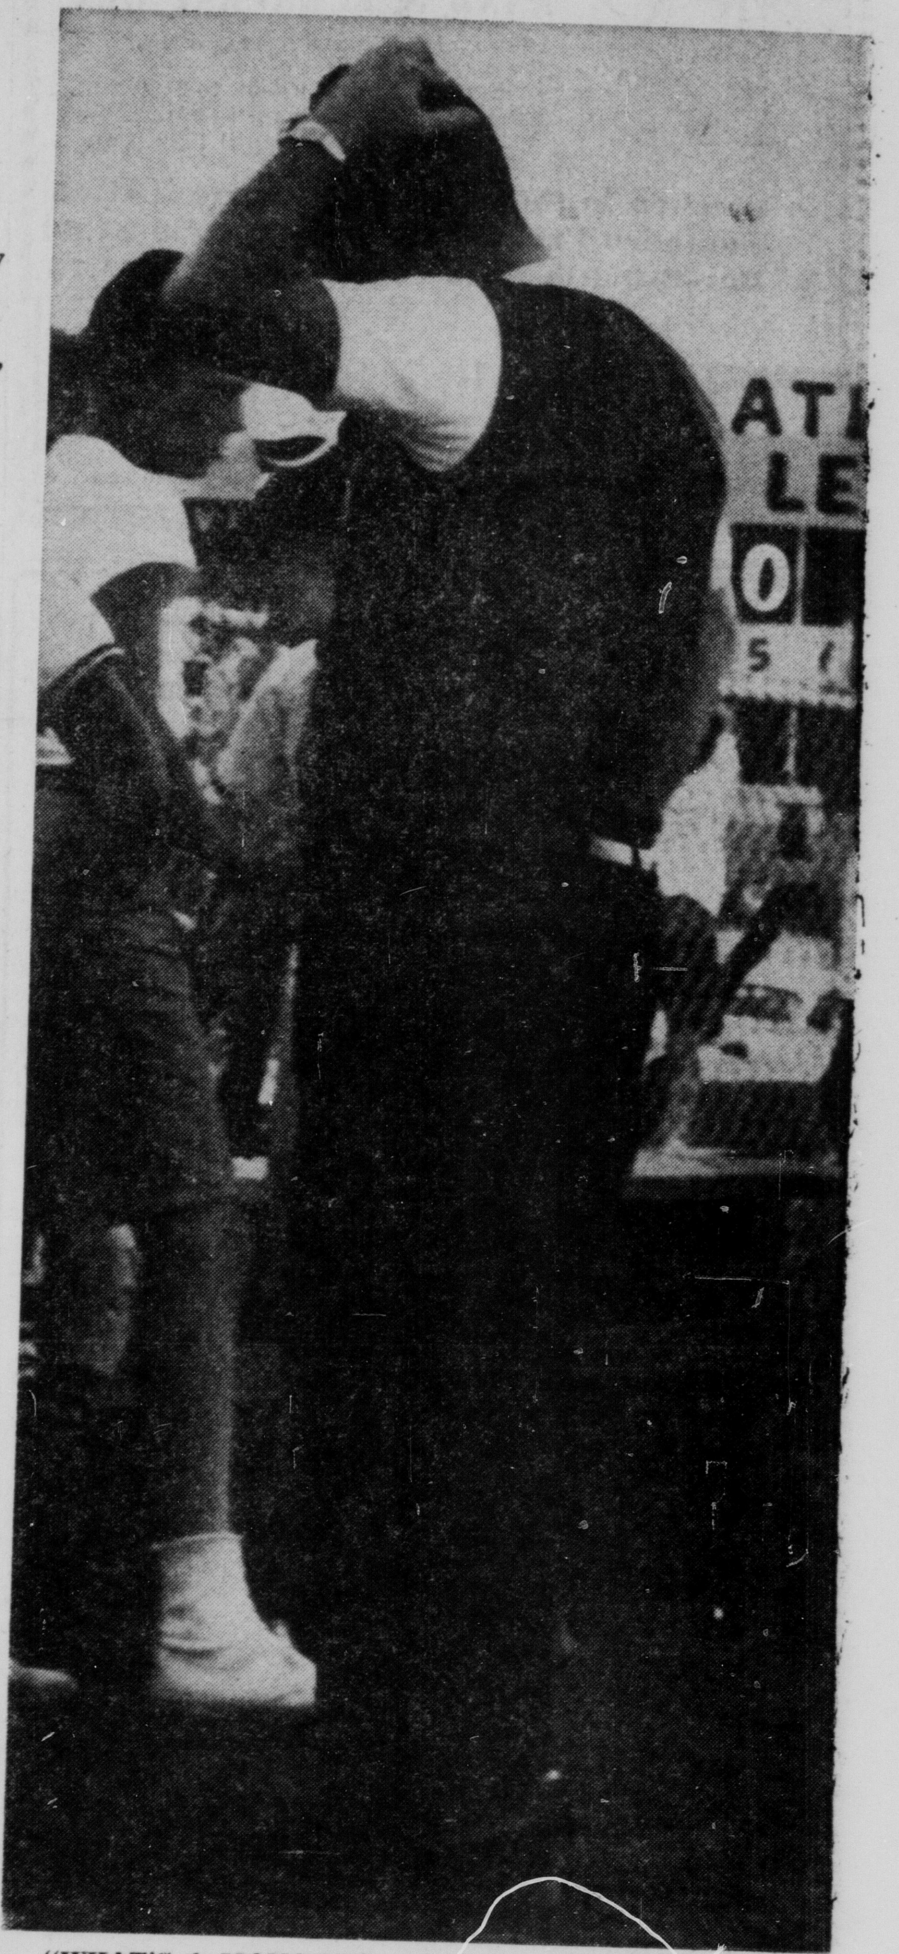
"Come on, you guys," the manager pleaded. "Get together out here."

But it just wasn't the Phillies' night. The Cubs piled up a big lead, staved off a last inning uprising, and took the contest 8-5.

Disillusioned bodies and drooping heads climbed onto bicycles for a long ride home.



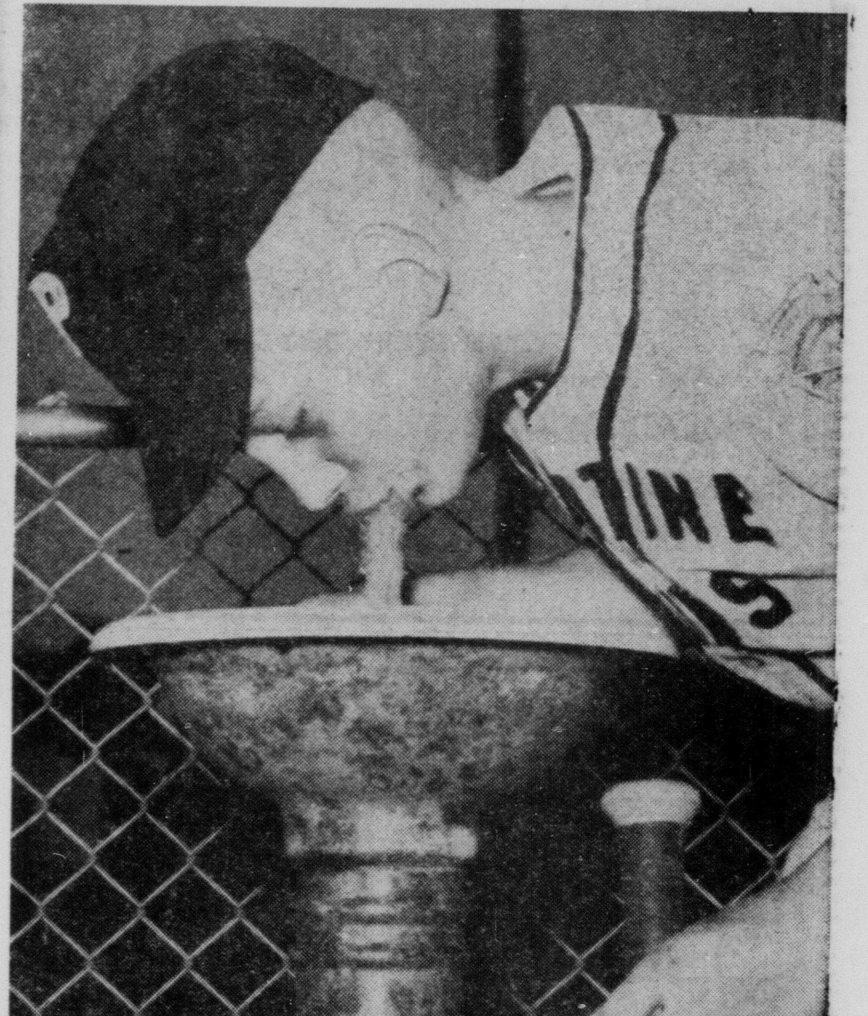
A SYMBOL OF authority to young Palatine baseballers, umpire Moose Foster takes a breather between innings. Little Leaguers rarely question an umpire's decision.



"WHAT'S A MANAGER goin' to do," ponders Les Meyers following his team's 8-5 loss. His son, Jim, who was previously 5-0 for the season, was the losing pitcher.

"STRRRRIKE THREE!" the umpire called, and this Palatine hitter, like Mighty Casey, had struck out. His protective helmut falls from the force of his swing, but he has an embarrassed walk back to a quiet bench of teammates.

A LITTLE young for Nelson Fox's tobacco, this utility infielder prefers bubble gum.



A THIRSTY ballplayer pauses at the water fountain before the bicycle ride home.

"LET'S FACE IT, fellows. We blew it." Losing Phillies gather at the bench for manager's after-game remarks. It's not too pleasant a session, as end player's dejection shows.

"GET IN THERE and fight," encourages the manager—as the team takes the field. Half the battle with Little Leaguers is psychological, reports one coach.

BABY-SITTING is a more pleasant task when one can watch the Little Leaguers' spirited antics on the diamond. Could be a future first baseman in the carriage.

Bob Hope Tickets At Sidewalk Tables

The Woman's auxiliary of Northwest Suburban YMCA will be doing its share to make tickets available for the coming Bob Hope "Laugh - O - Rama" show which benefits the YMCA building fund.

Members of the auxiliary will sell Laugh-O-Rama tickets in prominent locations in Arlington Heights and Mt. Prospect during the next three Saturdays, August 6, 13 and 20.

THE SPECTACULAR benefit show will be held Sunday, August 21, in Maine East high school, Dempster st. and Potter rd., Des Plaines, at 8 p.m. Its star, comedian Bob Hope, will be joined by a star-studded cast including singer Anita Bryant, comic Bobby Winters, Norm Krone and his orchestra from the Boulevard room, and MC "Nip" Nelson

This is the largest stage show ever produced in the northwest suburbs, and proceeds will go toward completing the $1 million YMCA building now under construction on Northwest hwy. between Mt. Prospect and Des Plaines.

LOCATIONS OF the "Y" auxiliary booths in Arlington Heights are in the Arlington Market and at the intersection of Campbell and Dunton sts. In Mt. Prospect the women will sell tickets in front of Meeske's Market, corner of S. Main st. and Busse ave. Tickets will be sold from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. each Saturday. Donations for tickets are $5, $10 and $25 and are tax deductible.

Mrs. Budd Brown, 325 Stratford, is in charge of the Arlington Market booth; Mrs. James Rice, 1551 N. George, heads the downtown Arlington Heights location. In Mt. Prospect Mrs. John Gobeille, 515 S. Edward, is in charge of the booth.

Nurses Plan Rummage Sale

A deluxe rummage sale, of clothing, furniture, household articles, bric - abrac, toys, a specialty shop and home baked goods, will be held Saturday, Aug. 20, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Miner Junior high school, Arlington Heights.

Sponsored by Arlington Heights Nurses club, the group's lending closet and Martha Jackson scholarship fund will benefit from the proceeds. The lending closet was organized in 1950 to function as a public service in loaning sickroom articles to residents free of charge. The closet has grown to include more than 325 articles, including wheel chairs, walkers, vaporizers, crutches, hospital beds and sundry sick room needs. Articles may be obtained by calling Mrs. Melvin Coobs at CLearbrook 3-9457.

THE SCHOLARSHIP fund was established by the club in 1947 in memory of the club's founder, Martha Jackson. Each year the fund offers a $300 scholarship to an outstanding senior of Arlington high school, who has chosen nursing as her career.

The rummage sale will be the club's one money-making project of the year. Anyone having rummage to donate is asked to call Mrs. James Valkernaar at CLearbrook 9-3559, or Mrs. Edward Broderick at CLearbrook 5-3209. Coffee and doughnuts will be sold during the sale.

Grandmother's 50-Year-Old Lavaliere Worn by Bride

White gladioli and mums decorated the altar of Immanuel Lutheran church of Palatine May 28 for the double ring candlelight ceremony in which Miss Barbara Jahnke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Jahnke, 3006 Grouse lane, Rolling Meadows, became the bride of Richard Arlen Hartmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hartmann, 75 W. Algonquin rd., Des Plaines.

For the 7 p.m. ceremony, the bride chose a full-skirted dress of silk organza over taffeta with short close fitting sleeves, and a pattern of hand appliqued pearls adorning the bodice. A silk illusion fingertip veil with a chapel length train accented her pearl crown, borrowed from Mrs. Jamee Grenlund of Capron, Ill. Her only accessory was a 50-year-old diamond and pearl lavaliere of her grandmother, Mrs. Louise Schuettler of Des Plaines. Miss Jahnke carried white stephanotis encircling a large, white orchid. Her dress, veil, and attendants' dresses were made by Mrs. Robert Schwass of Des Plaines.

Mrs. James Grenlund of Capron, Ill., sister of the groom, served as matron of honor dressed in white organdy over mint green taffeta. Misses Janice and Jo-Ann Jahnke, sisters of the bride, and Miss Audrey Engelking, cousin of the bride, served as bridesmaids in dresses of white organdy over yellow taffeta. Five-year-old Leslie Engelking of Lake Zurich served her cousin as flower girl in a mint green dress similar to that of the matron of honor. Flowers carried by the attendants were large yellow California daisies with matching streamers.

A BOYHOOD friend of the groom, Thomas J. Watson of Des Plaines, served as best man, and ushers included James Grenlund, brother-in-law of the groom, Barron J. Daly of Addison and Edward Vince of Des Plaines.

Immediately after the ceremony, a dinner and reception for 275 guests was held in the Palatine American Legion hall.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Jahnke, received guests in a 2-piece yellow dacron sheath with white accessories. Her corsage consisted of two cimbidium orchids. A large purple orchid accented the orchid chiffon over taffeta dress worn by Mrs. Edward Hartmann for her son's wedding.

Myrna Clausing sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because" accompanied by Mr. Stutz at the organ.

Among the guests present were the bride's and groom's grandmothers, Mrs. Louise Schuettler of Des Plaines, Mrs. Henry Jahnke of Arlington Heights, Mrs. Norma Freeman of Harlingen, Texas and Metta Hartmann of Cedar Lake, Ind.

Both Mr. Hartmann and his bride were graduated from Arlington high school, where they first met. They now make their home at 1904 Des Plaines ave., Des Plaines, after a 10-day honeymoon in Ontario, Canada.

Former Palatine Girl Married in Roselle

An heirloom handkerchief made and carried by her grandmother at a wedding service years ago, provided a fitting "old and borrowed" item for Miss Janet Nepermann when she exchanged wedding vows with Frank L. Johnson of Elgin. Miss Nepermann is a granddaughter of the late W. E. Comfort, longtime resident of Palatine, and the daughter of Mrs. Virgil Britt of Roselle and Leo Nepermann of Huntley.

Parents of the groom are the Henry L. Johnsons of Wabash.

Roselle Methodist church was the scene of the double ring ceremony which was performed by Rev. Carl A. Sattelberg.

WEARING THE groom's "something new" gift, pearl earrings and a single strand necklace, the bride came down the aisle on the arm of her step-father, Virgil Britt, gowned in white slipper satin and re - embroidered alencon lace with a chapel - length train.

She wore a silk, imported fingertip veil that was fastened to a Swedish crown of pearls and she carried a white prayer book with a white orchid and lilies of the valley.

FIVE ATTENDANTS, including a little flower girl, preceded Miss Nepermann down the aisle wearing shades of blue, mint, maize and white. The bride's brothers, Lloyd and John Nepermann, were among the ushers.

A reception for 200 guests was held in the church after which Mr. Johnson took his bride on a short trip through southern Illinois and Indiana. They are now making their home in Elgin, where the bridegroom is an employee at Rolling Acres farm.

Anderson-Holbrook Rites, Pastor's First Wedding

The first wedding performed by Pastor Richard Pierson, newly - ordained minister of St. Mark Lutheran church, Mt. Prospect, united in marriage Miss Carol Anderson, daughter of the Nels M. Andersons, 8 E. Berkshire, Mt. Prospect, and Gale Holbrook, son of the E. O. Holbrooks of South Miami, Fla. The service took place at 3 p.m. June 19 and was followed by a garden reception for 100 guests at the home of the bride's parents.

The couple met while studying at Northern Illinois university, De Kalb, where the bridegroom is still a student. The bride, who also attended St. Olaf college, Minn., was graduated from Northern and in the fall will be teaching second grade in De Kalb. She was previously graduated from Taft high school, Chicago, and her bridegroom, a navy veteran, from Dixon, Ill. high school. Alpa Sigma Alpha is the bride's sorority association.

FOR HER marriage, the bride chose a floor - length gown of white organdy fashioned with scooped neckline, short sleeves and lace trimming. Her shoulder - length veil was held in place with a double bow headpiece of white organdy and she carried a colonial bouquet of white daisies. Mr. Anderson gave his daughter in marriage.

Miss Marilyn Fernstrom of Chicago was her cousin's maid of honor and the groom's sister, Miss Gay Holbrook of South Miami, was bridesmaid. Both wore identical gowns of white embroidered aqua fashioned with full skirts, scoop Necklines and short sleeves. They also wore bow headpieces with short veils and they carried daisy bouquets with some of the flowers dyed to match their gown.

THE BRIDE'S mother chose a blue sheath with embroidery; the bridegroom's mother was unable to attend because of illness.

Best man was Colby Jones of Chicago and ushers were the bride's brothers, James and Ronald Anderson of Mt. Prospect.

The newlyweds are residing in Mt. Prospect for the summer.

Bethel 23 To Initiate Area Girls

Two Mt. Prospect girls, Luanne Herod, 218 S. We Go tr., and Bonnie Timba, 804 W. Milburn ave., will be initiated into Bethel 23 Order of Job's daughters of Park Ridge Thursday August 4th in the Park Ridge Masonic temple 115 Northwest hwy.

The Bethel includes girls from Norwood, Edison Park, Park Ridge, Des Plaines, Mt. Prospect, Prospect Heights, Palatine and Glenview.

The girls will have a bake sale at this meeting, with the proceeds going to the charitable funds.

Miss Lillian Born of Arlington Heights, CL 3-4430, is the guardian and Frank Lindgren of Edison Park the associate guardian. Meetings are on the first and third Thursday evenings of each month.

After the initiation, there will be refreshments and a reception for the new members.

Bob Hope Tickets At Sidewalk Tables

The Woman's auxiliary of Northwest Suburban YMCA will be doing its share to make tickets available for the coming Bob Hope "Laugh - O - Rama" show which benefits the YMCA building fund.

Members of the auxiliary will sell Laugh-O-Rama tickets in prominent locations in Arlington Heights and Mt. Prospect during the next three Saturdays, August 6, 13 and 20.

THE SPECTACULAR benefit show will be held Sunday, August 21, in Maine East high school, Dempster st. and Potter rd., Des Plaines, at 8 p.m. Its star, comedian Bob Hope, will be joined by a star-studded cast including singer Anita Bryant, comic Bobby Winters, Norm Krone and his orchestra from the Boulevard room, and MC "Nip" Nelson

This is the largest stage show ever produced in the northwest suburbs, and proceeds will go toward completing the $1 million YMCA building now under construction on Northwest hwy. between Mt. Prospect and Des Plaines.

LOCATIONS OF the "Y" auxiliary booths in Arlington Heights are in the Arlington Market and at the intersection of Campbell and Dunton sts. In Mt. Prospect the women will sell tickets in front of Meeske's Market, corner of S. Main st. and Busse ave. Tickets will be sold from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. each Saturday. Donations for tickets are $5, $10 and $25 and are tax deductible.

Mrs. Budd Brown, 325 Stratford, is in charge of the Arlington Market booth; Mrs. James Rice, 1551 N. George, heads the downtown Arlington Heights location. In Mt. Prospect Mrs. John Gobeille, 515 S. Edward, is in charge of the booth.

Nurses Plan Rummage Sale

A deluxe rummage sale, of clothing, furniture, household articles, bric - abrac, toys, a specialty shop and home baked goods, will be held Saturday, Aug. 20, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Miner Junior high school, Arlington Heights.

Sponsored by Arlington Heights Nurses club, the group's lending closet and Martha Jackson scholarship fund will benefit from the proceeds. The lending closet was organized in 1950 to function as a public service in loaning sickroom articles to residents free of charge. The closet has grown to include more than 325 articles, including wheel chairs, walkers, vaporizers, crutches, hospital beds and sundry sick room needs. Articles may be obtained by calling Mrs. Melvin Coobs at CLearbrook 3-9457.

THE SCHOLARSHIP fund was established by the club in 1947 in memory of the club's founder, Martha Jackson. Each year the fund offers a $300 scholarship to an outstanding senior of Arlington high school, who has chosen nursing as her career.

The rummage sale will be the club's one money-making project of the year. Anyone having rummage to donate is asked to call Mrs. James Valkernaar at CLearbrook 9-3559, or Mrs. Edward Broderick at CLearbrook 5-3209. Coffee and doughnuts will be sold during the sale.

Grandmother's 50-Year-Old Lavaliere Worn by Bride

White gladioli and mums decorated the altar of Immanuel Lutheran church of Palatine May 28 for the double ring candlelight ceremony in which Miss Barbara Jahnke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Jahnke, 3006 Grouse lane, Rolling Meadows, became the bride of Richard Arlen Hartmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hartmann, 75 W. Algonquin rd., Des Plaines.

For the 7 p.m. ceremony, the bride chose a full-skirted dress of silk organza over taffeta with short close fitting sleeves, and a pattern of hand appliqued pearls adorning the bodice. A silk illusion fingertip veil with a chapel length train accented her pearl crown, borrowed from Mrs. Jamee Grenlund of Capron, Ill. Her only accessory was a 50-year-old diamond and pearl lavaliere of her grandmother, Mrs. Louise Schuettler of Des Plaines. Miss Jahnke carried white stephanotis encircling a large, white orchid. Her dress, veil, and attendants' dresses were made by Mrs. Robert Schwass of Des Plaines.

Mrs. James Grenlund of Capron, Ill., sister of the groom, served as matron of honor dressed in white organdy over mint green taffeta. Misses Janice and JoAnn Jahnke, sisters of the bride, and Miss Audrey Engelking, cousin of the bride, served as bridesmaids in dresses of white organdy over yellow taffeta. Five-year-old Leslie Engelking of Lake Zurich served her cousin as flower girl in a mint green dress similar to that of the matron of honor. Flowers carried by the attendants were large yellow California daisies with matching streamers.

A BOYHOOD friend of the groom, Thomas J. Watson of Des Plaines, served as best man, and ushers included James Grenlund, brother-in-law of the groom, Barron J. Daly of Addison and Edward Vince of Des Plaines.

Immediately after the ceremony, a dinner and reception for 275 guests was held in the Palatine American Legion hall.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Jahnke, received guests in a 2-piece yellow dacron sheath with white accessories. Her corsage consisted of two cimbidium orchids. A large purple orchid accented the orchid chiffon over taffeta dress worn by Mrs. Edward Hartmann for her son's wedding.

Myrna Clausing sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because" accompanied by Mr. Stutz at the organ.

Among the guests present were the bride's and groom's grandmothers, Mrs. Louise Schuettler of Des Plaines, Mrs. Henry Jahnke of Arlington Heights, Mrs. Norma Freeman of Harlingen, Texas and Metta Hartmann of Cedar Lake, Ind.

Both Mr. Hartmann and his bride were graduated from Arlington high school, where they first met. They now make their home at 1904 Des Plaines ave., Des Plaines, after a 10-day honeymoon in Ontario, Canada.

Former Palatine Girl Married in Roselle

An heirloom handkerchief made and carried by her grandmother at a wedding service years ago, provided a fitting "old and borrowed" item for Miss Janet Nepermann when she exchanged wedding vows with Frank L. Johnson of Elgin. Miss Nepermann is a granddaughter of the late W. E. Comfort, longtime resident of Palatine, and the daughter of Mrs. Virgil Britt of Roselle and Leo Nepermann of Huntley.

Parents of the groom are the Henry L. Johnsons of Wabash.

Roselle Methodist church was the scene of the double ring ceremony which was performed by Rev. Carl A. Sattelberg.

WEARING THE groom's "something new" gift, pearl earrings and a single strand necklace, the bride came down the aisle on the arm of her step-father, Virgil Britt, gowned in white slipper satin and re - embroidered alencon lace with a chapel - length train.

She wore a silk, imported fingertip veil that was fastened to a Swedish crown of pearls and she carried a white prayer book with a white orchid and lilies of the valley.

FIVE ATTENDANTS, including a little flower girl, preceded Miss Nepermann down the aisle wearing shades of blue, mint, maize and white. The bride's brothers, Lloyd and John Nepermann, were among the ushers.

A reception for 200 guests was held in the church after which Mr. Johnson took his bride on a short trip through southern Illinois and Indiana. They are now making their home in Elgin, where the bridegroom is an employee at Rolling Acres farm.

Anderson-Holbrook Rites, Pastor's First Wedding

The first wedding performed by Pastor Richard Pierson, newly - ordained minister of St. Mark Lutheran church, Mt. Prospect, united in marriage Miss Carol Anderson, daughter of the Nels M. Andersons, 8 E. Berkshire, Mt. Prospect, and Gale Holbrook, son of the E. O. Holbrooks of South Miami, Fla. The service took place at 3 p.m. June 19 and was followed by a garden reception for 100 guests at the home of the bride's parents.

The couple met while studying at Northern Illinois university, De Kalb, where the bridegroom is still a student. The bride, who also attended St. Olaf college, Minn., was graduated from Northern and in the fall will be teaching second grade in De Kalb. She was previously graduated from Taft high school, Chicago, and her bridegroom, a navy veteran, from Dixon, Ill. high school. Alpa Sigma Alpha is the bride's sorority association.

FOR HER marriage, the bride chose a floor - length gown of white organdy fashioned with scooped neckline, short sleeves and lace trimming. Her shoulder - length veil was held in place with a double bow headpiece of white organdy and she carried a colonial bouquet of white daisies. Mr. Anderson gave his daughter in marriage.

Miss Marilyn Fernstrom of Chicago was her cousin's maid of honor and the groom's sister, Miss Gay Holbrook of South Miami, was bridesmaid. Both wore identical gowns of white embroidered aqua fashioned with full skirts, scoop Necklines and short sleeves. They also wore bow headpieces with short veils and they carried daisy bouquets with some of the flowers dyed to match their gown.

THE BRIDE'S mother chose a blue sheath with embroidery; the bridegroom's mother was unable to attend because of illness.

Best man was Colby Jones of Chicago and ushers were the bride's brothers, James and Ronald Anderson of Mt. Prospect.

The newlyweds are residing in Mt. Prospect for the summer.

Bethel 23 To Initiate Area Girls

Two Mt. Prospect girls, Luanne Herod, 218 S. We Go tr., and Bonnie Timba, 804 W. Milburn ave., will be initiated into Bethel 23 Order of Job's daughters of Park Ridge Thursday August 4th in the Park Ridge Masonic temple 115 Northwest hwy.

The Bethel includes girls from Norwood, Edison Park, Park Ridge, Des Plaines, Mt. Prospect, Prospect Heights, Palatine and Glenview.

The girls will have a bake sale at this meeting, with the proceeds going to the charitable funds.

Miss Lillian Born of Arlington Heights, CL 3-4430, is the guardian and Frank Lindgren of Edison Park the associate guardian. Meetings are on the first and third Thursday evenings of each month.

After the initiation, there will be refreshments and a reception for the new members.

In the Hole

Only 180,000 coal miners are presently employed in that industry, down to less than half the 400,000 employed 20 years ago. Mechanization is blamed for the drop.

PLEASANT MEMORIES of their cruise to Nassau aboard the SS Bahama Star sailing from the tropical port of Miami will be enjoyed by Susan Hosang and Shirley Pomeroy, 922 N. Patton, Arlington Heights. The girls are pictured on the sun deck of the ship just before sailing.

Bonnie Fluent, Bill Fremgen, Now Residing in Athens, Ga.

Following their honeymoon at Hamlin lake near Ludington, Mich., Ens. and Mrs. Richard Fremgen are residing in Athens, Ga., where Ens. Fremgen is attending navy supply school.

Mrs. Fremgen is the former Bonnie Fluent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorton M. Fluent, 103 Olive ave., Prospect Heights, and Ens. Fremgen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Froembgen, 823 N. Vail ave., Arlington Heights.

Their wedding took place June 11 at a 10:30 a.m. nuptial mass with papal blessing in St. James church in Arlington Heights. The bride, attended by her sister, Sally Fluent, as maid of honor, and Diane Baseler of Glenview and Phyllis Odell of Palatine as bridesmaids, was attired in a dress of white taffeta with insets of Swiss lace accented with long sleeves and a train. A fingertip veil fell from her crown of seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of stephanotis and cymbidiums.

Just Around the Corner from Patty McArdle

Think What I Save!

Dear Peg:

Every year about this time, Joan calls me and frantically reminds me that there is only one week left for the Christmas card discount. And every year about this time, having definitely decided the year before to wait until fall to select cards, I say, "Oh my goodness! Well, come right over!"

I think it's the word "discount" that unnerves me—it sounds as if maybe I'm getting some of the cards free. So, I decide quickly that it just wouldn't be good business to wait until later when this wonderful bargain wouldn't be in effect. Really, you'd think I'd learn after several years of this that first of all the discount turns out to be a fraction of what I expect and second of all I always get a more expensive card than I would, figuring that since I'm saving so much, we can afford a little more elaborate card.

And so Joan hurries over with her books and samples and we sip iced tea and look at snowmen, bundled up carolers, frosty bells, Christmas trees and Nativity scenes. Her visit also follows somewhat of a pattern. I ask her to show me cards for absolutely no more than $20 a hundred (this includes printing and receiving the cards already in the envelopes). She hands me a sizeable stack and I look through them, pulling out a couple that I especially like. Then I see that she has a whole suitcase full of samples I haven't seen and I ask her if I may look at a few of them. She hands me a sizeable stack and I look through them, pulling out a couple that I especially like. This "couple" turns out to be so much lovelier than the first "couple" that I am unable to resist. However, I make a stab at it and I say, "Maybe I'll take half of these and half of the less expensive cards."

Always agreeable, Joan simply says, "O. K. That's a good idea."

And then I say, "I can't do that—I'll have a terrible time deciding which people to send the cheaper card to and which to send the prettier one to. It'll be just like ending picture post cards—I can never decide which picture should go to each person. No, I'd better get them all alike."

I needn't tell you which card I end up with —but after all, think what I'm saving with the discount!

My love,
Patty

Former Wheeling Resident Married in Galesburg

The marriage of a former Wheeling man, Max E. Zollner, to a Chandlerville girl, Miss Martha McCullough, took place June 6 amid a fragrance of spring flowers in First United Church of Galesburg. The bride is the daughter of the Theodore McCulloughs of Chandlerville and the bridegroom is the son of the Frank Zollners, who now reside in Bensenville.

After the 4 p.m., candlelight service, 100 guests attended a reception in the church parlors. The newlyweds, graduates of Knox college, took an extended trip in Indiana and Michigan, after which they joined the staff at National Music camp, Interlochen, for the remainder of the summer.

THEY PLAN to make their home in Champaign, where Mr. Zollner will enter the school of law at the University of Illinois and his bride will take a position as mathematics teacher at Urbana Junior high school.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a princess gown of white silk organza over taffeta fashioned with chapel train, three-quarter sleeves and sabrina neckline. Venetian lace accented the lines of the bodice and skirt. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a white lace headpiece trimmed in seed pearls and her bouquet was of white roses, smilax and orange blossoms.

SERVING AS THE bride's maid of honor was her sister, Nancy, who wore an ice blue princess gown of silk organza over taffeta, also appliqued with venetian lace. She wore a matching, veiled headpiece and carried white roses and blue carnations.

William C. Ripperger of Bensenville was best man and ushers included the bridegroom's brother, Frank Jr. and the bride's brothers, Robert of Washington, D.C. and David of Chandlerville.

Sorority Activities

Kappa Kappa Gamma

The active members of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority residing in the northwest suburban area, will be honored by the Northwest Suburban Alumnae association at a brunch, August 14, at 11 a.m., in the home of Mrs. Fred D. Empkie, 209 S. Stratford Rd., Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Empkie, hostess and chairman of the occasion, her daughter, Stephanie, a Kappa and senior at Duke university, plus a committee of cohostesses from Arlington Heights and Park Ridge will welcome the guests.

REPRESENTING Arlington Heights will be Mrs. Alan McDonald, newly - elected president of the Alumnae association, Mrs. Robert Hanson, Mrs. Wesley Kasl and Mrs. Allan Kovar. Park Ridge hostesses include Mrs. Robert D. Bjork, Mrs. William G. Catron Jr. and Mrs. Melvin R. Lannert.

Any area actives from Arlington Heights, Park Ridge, Des Plaines Mt. Prospect, Prospect Heights or Palatine who did not receive an invitation to the Sunday brunch, are asked to call Mrs. Empkie, CL 5-0717, immediately. (S

Clyde Hertlein Jr. Takes Bride July 16

A college romance was culminated July 16 when Clyde Hertlein Jr., son of the senior C. D. Hertleins, 823 N. Kaspar, Arlington Heights, claimed as his bride, Miss Patricia Robinson, daughter of the Claude Robinsons of Florance, Colo. The service took place in the Rolling Meadows home of Justice of the Peace Liston Pennington. Only close friends and members of the immediate family were in attendance.

The couple met while studying at Ft. Lewis A and M, a junior college in Durango, Colo. and will be returning there in the fall where the bridegroom will enter his second and final year. He was previously graduated from Arlington high school and his bride from Pagosa Springs, Colo. high school.

THE BRIDE CHOSE a pink semi-formal dress with white accessories and a white orchid corsage for her marriage. The bridegroom's sister, Miss Sandra Hertlein of Rolling Meadows, in a blue dress with white accessories, was the bride's only attendant. The bridegroom was attended by a close friend, Ralph Gould of Rolling Meadows.

The couple spent their Springfield. For the summer, the bridegroom is with the Railway Express agency.

The bride was graduated from St. Patrick academy and St. Francis school of nursing and is presently employed at Resurrection hospital. The bridegroom was graduated from St. Gregory high school and is presently employed at the Maybelline Co.

Just Around the Corner from Patty McArdle

Think What I Save!

Dear Peg:

Every year about this time, Joan calls me and frantically reminds me that there is only one week left for the Christmas card discount. And every year about this time, having definitely decided the year before to wait until fall to select cards, I say, "Oh my goodness! Well, come right over!"

I think it's the word "discount" that unnerves me—it sounds as if maybe I'm getting some of the cards free. So, I decide quickly that it just wouldn't be good business to wait until later when this wonderful bargain wouldn't be in effect. Really, you'd think I'd learn after several years of this that first of all the discount turns out to be a fraction of what I expect and second of all I always get a more expensive card than I would, figuring that since I'm saving so much, we can afford a little more elaborate card.

And so Joan hurries over with her books and samples and we sip iced tea and look at snowmen, bundled up carolers, frosty bells, Christmas trees and Nativity scenes. Her visit also follows somewhat of a pattern. I ask her to show me cards for absolutely no more than $20 a hundred (this includes printing and receiving the cards already in the envelopes). She hands me a sizeable stack and I look through them, pulling out a couple that I especially like. Then I see that she has a whole suitcase full of samples I haven't seen and I ask her if I may look at a few of them. She hands me a sizeable stack and I look through them, pulling out a couple that I especially like. This "couple" turns out to be so much lovelier than the first "couple" that I am unable to resist. However, I make a stab at it and I say, "Maybe I'll take half of these and half of the less expensive cards."

Always agreeable, Joan simply says, "O. K. That's a good idea."

And then I say, "I can't do that—I'll have a terrible time deciding which people to send the cheaper card to and which to send the prettier one to. It'll be just like ending picture post cards—I can never decide which picture should go to each person. No, I'd better get them all alike."

I needn't tell you which card I end up with—but after all, think what I'm saving with the discount!

Beef Cattle Outlook Is Brighter for '61

By L. H. SIMERL

The beef cattle outlook for 1961 has brightened considerably — the 1960 calf crop is reported to be only 1½ per cent larger than that of 1959. This year's calves will provide much of the beef for next year.

The reported increase in the size of the calf crop is less than the growth in population, which is about 1 2/3 per cent a year.

The calf crop figure may be slightly in error, perhaps by ½ per cent or so. But we are probably safe in assuming that the calf crop has not increased significantly more than population.

THE TOTAL 1960 calf crop is officially estimated at 41,646,000 head. Bigger calf crops were recorded in 1954, 1955 and 1956. The calf crop this year is only 6 per cent larger than the 10-year, 1949-1959, average. From the same base, population has increased about 12 per cent, or twice as much as the calf crop.

Not all of the calves born this year will live to make beef. Commercial calf slaughter in the first half of this year appears to have been about 2 per cent over the 4,745,000 head recorded for a year before. This suggests that the proportion of calves kept for feeding will be no greater than it was last year.

In actual numbers, the increase in calves born from last year to this amounts to 600,000 head. About half of this increase was in Texas and Oklahoma. Smaller increases were reported from New Mexico, Arizona and Colorado. No significant increases were reported for any other sections of the country.

WE HAD expected a greater increase in the calf crop than has been reported. According to government reports, farmers and ranchers had 3 per cent more cows at the beginning of this year than they had in 1959. Numbers of heifers were up 6 per cent. But the slaughter of cows has been running 6 to 7 per cent greater this year, and the slaughter of heifers has increased 12 per cent.

Imports of cattle are not so great this year as they were in 1959, when our high prices attracted nearly 700,000 head from Canada and Mexico. During the first five months of this year, imports totaled only 352,000 head, or 6 per cent less than in the comparable period in 1959.

Trends so far this year indicate that cattle numbers, which increased 5 per cent in 1959, may increase only about 3 per cent this year. Such an increase would be only about 1 per cent more than enough to match population growth.

THE REPORT of cattle on feed July 1 was also encouraging. It showed that farmers in 21 leading states were feeding only 4 per cent more cattle this year than the year before. Most of this small increase was in the western states. Farmers in the 13 north-central, or corn - belt, states had only 1 per cent more cattle on feed July 1 than they had one year earlier.

Another point: for the next six months beef will meet relatively little competition from pork in the nation's food stores.

Throwaway Clothes? Maybe, Someday

Research into greater industrial uses for farm products is one key to breaking down giant agricultural surpluses.

But it's wishful thinking to believe that research started now can find economic and new uses for all grain presently stored under government loan, R. T. Milner, head of the University of Illinois department of food technology, explained.

Milner pointed out that in the past highly publicized "myths" about possible industrial farm product uses have stirred the public's imagination, only to fall through when actually tested. Early dreams of soybean plastics and power alcohol are classic examples.

It's mainly a matter of economics, Milner said. At present corn, wheat and soybean prices are too high to offer a strong argument for their use in industry.

UNTIL INDUSTRY can count on at least $1.00 - a - bushel corn and $.50-a-bushel soybeans, it will be difficult for these products to compete favorably with low-cost competitors.

But even in the light of these problems, many new ideas for farm product use in industry are showing promise for the future, Milner explained.

Large acreage of newly developed high-amylose corn, which compares in yield with present good hybrids, may soon be grown especially for industry.

High-amulose starch makes strong, flexible, transparent films similar to cellophane. The films are grease resistant, edible and water resistant.

Ordinary cornstarch and its derivatives show promising industrial uses also. Milner estimated the future may see starch from 100 million bushels of corn a year used economically in ore purification and other metallurgical uses alone.

CORNSTARCH may also be used to make paper. And, combined with cotton fiber, it may someday make clothing so cheap that homemakers will throw it away instead of washing it.

Milner said competition between farm products and synthetic products for present markets is becoming keener each year. New crease-resistant and wrinkle-proof cotton fabrics seem to offer advantages over synthetics. Tire cords made of improved cotton may soon be a reality.

In short, farm products can challenge other products for industrial use, Milner explained. More research into the problem will be the backbone of any progress that is made. But it's not something that's going to happen overnight.

Distinguish between continual (which implies a close succession or recurrence) and continuous (which implies an an uninterrupted continuity). "There was a continual rain." "The work required continuous labor from morning until night."

Do not say, "Each of us had more than we could carry." Say, "Each of us had more than he (or, she) could carry."

Avoid such expressions as, "You'd better figure on twenty guests," and, "When does he figure on making the next payment?" Instead, say, "You'd better plan on (or, arrange for) twenty guests," and, "When does he plan on making the next payment?"

Distinguish between festal (relating to a festival or holiday) and festive (joyous; mirthful). Thus: "We saw the festal procession enter the church," and, "The small square was crowded with a noisy, festive band."

Avoid the expression, "far distance." A distance is long, great, or tiresome, but not far.

Do not say, "She showed me an example where much money was wasted." Say, "She showed me an example in which much money was wasted."

Roselle Girl FHA Delegate

Miss Hazel Marwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Marwood, 34 W. Maple, Roselle, was selected by the Lake Park chapter of Future Homemakers of America as a delegate to the 20th annual state leadership conference held recently at Bloomington, Ill.

Hazel is a senior at Lake Park high school and an active member of her FHA chapter. Hazel's special responsibility at the 1960 conference was planning the Monday evening picnic and assisting with the fashion show.

How To Control Pond Mosquitoes

Whack! Swat! "Drat it, I missed him."

This summertime comment is typical on many mosquito-infested farms, especially those with lovely, cool ponds. Such ponds can harbor thousands of mosquitoes, Steve Moore warned.

Moore, entomologist with the Illinois Natural History survey and the University of Illinois, suggests that farmers can treat their ponds with larvacides if mosquitoes are causing trouble.

For ponds without fish, use a 1 per cent concentration of DDT, chlordane or toxaphane. Or use a ½ per cent concentration of dieldrin, lindane or malathion.

For best results, dilute the chemical with fuel oil, diesel oil or kerosene. Apply 10 quarts of total spray for each acre of water.

Farmers lucky enough to have fish in their ponds should use pyrethrins. Buy a pyrethrin material labeled "for use as a killer of mosquito larvae." Mix according to directions, and apply about 10 quarts of spray per acre.

As added protection, farm families might try "DET". DET, which stands for diethyltoluamide, is one of the best mosquito repellents on the market.

Time Now To Plant Winter Cover Crops

Winter cover crops are worth considering for erosion control and perhaps late fall and early spring pasture.

Crops like field brome, rye and rye grass can be seeded any time now between rows of corn or soybeans. If all goes well, the grasses will be established well enough before fall to keep soil erosion in check.

C. N. Hittle, University of Illinois agronomist, especially mentioned field brome as a cover crop. Field brome seeded last August at the University's south farm has shown that it can produce a "great mass of fibrous roots." Hittle said field brome is also easy to manage in spring plow-down operations, since at that time it usually has not headed out.

Field brome (Bromus arvensis) is a winter annual and is not to be confused with the long - lived perennial smooth brome (Bromus inermis) and the short - lived perennial prairie brome (Bromus catharticus).

Cyclone hand seeders are commonly used for seeding, and rye seeding by airplane has been done in large - scale operations.

Late - season water shortages sometimes prevent a lush entry into the fall. To help establishment, Hittle said that planting dates should not be postponed too long.

Down On The Farm

CARL F. MEES

with Your Farm Adviser

Several people have asked me whether I thought corn would mature and yield satisfactorily this year because it was not near "knee height by the 4th of July."

Many say this is the measuring stick for high yields. A. L. Lang, professor of crop extension, University of Illinois, has researched to find, if, how high corn is by July 4 has any effect on yield.

Corn in experiment plots has been measured July 4 since 1936. The highest corn measured on that date was in 1939, when it averaged 95 inches. During the past 25 years Lang has found that height of corn on July 4 has had no effect on the final yield. This is the best answer I can find on the subject.

This is sweet corn season. Those of you that have not stopped at some of our roadside stands to purchase some fresh homegrown corn should do so at your earliest opportunity. The quality of the corn this year is excellent.

MOST ROADSIDE stands have a fine assortment of other fresh vegetables such as greenbeans, cabbage, kohlrabi, green onions, tomatoes, beets and others. I have found that eating fresh vegetables instead of starchy foods helps in maintaining or reducing one's weight. If a person eats meat, fresh vegetables and fruit he should be able to have a generous helping without gaining weight.

Wheat yields have been reported in Cook county from 25 bushels to 50 bushels per acre. In general, the 1960 wheat yields have been throughout Illinois. The estimated yield of 52.1 million bushels is up one-fourth from 1959. It was grown on the same acreage as in 1959 but yields will be 5.8 bushels per acre higher. Illinois production will be only 4.2 per cent of the U. S. production.

IT WAS estimated that we had the largest carry-over of wheat on record as of July 11, 1960. The wheat carry - over situation appears to be becoming worse. A solution must be found in the near future.

The 1960 corn crop seems likely to fall well short of the record 1959 crop. Production for this year is officially forecast at 4,079 million bushels - 7 per cent below last year. The 1960 corn crop is not yet in the crib. But, as it stands, it about equals the amount of corn being used in this country and exported this year.

COMMERCIAL soybean varieties are due to get tougher against Phytophthora rot—one of the major soybean disease threats in Illinois. Resistance is being bred into several of the more important varieties for Illinois. However, it will probably be several years before farmers can buy the new seed.

A study in the north - central states indicates that from 1945 to 1954, 31 per cent of the farmers retired, died or took nonfarm jobs. But young farmers obtained only 16 per cent of the available farms. The remaining 15 per cent were taken over by operating farmers to enlarge existing units.

According to government reports, farmers and ranchers had 3 per cent more cows at the beginning of this year than they had in 1959. Numbers of heifers were up 6 per cent. But the slaughter of cows has been running 6 to 7 per cent greater this year, and the slaughter of heifers has increased 12 per cent.

Imports of cattle are not so great this year as they were in 1959, when our high prices attracted nearly 700,000 head from Canada and Mexico. During the first five months of this year, imports totaled only 352,000 head, or 6 per cent less than in the comparable period in 1959.

Trends so far this year indicate that cattle numbers, which increased 5 per cent in 1959, may increase only about 3 per cent this year. Such an increase would be only about 1 per cent more than enough to match population growth.

THE REPORT of cattle on feed July 1 was also encouraging. It showed that farmers in 21 leading states were feeding only 4 per cent more cattle this year than the year before. Most of this small increase was in the western states. Farmers in the 13 north-central, or corn - belt, states had only 1 per cent more cattle on feed July 1 than they had one year earlier.

Another point: for the next six months beef will meet relatively little competition from pork in the nation's food stores.

Time Now To Plant Winter Cover Crops

Winter cover crops are worth considering for erosion control and perhaps late fall and early spring pasture.

Crops like field brome, rye and rye grass can be seeded any time now between rows of corn or soybeans. If all goes well, the grasses will be established well enough before fall to keep soil erosion in check.

C. N. Hittle, University of Illinois agronomist, especially mentioned field brome as a cover crop. Field brome seeded last August at the University's south farm has shown that it can produce a "great mass of fibrous roots." Hittle said field brome is also easy to manage in spring plow-down operations, since at that time it usually has not headed out.

Field brome (Bromus arvensis) is a winter annual and is not to be confused with the long - lived perennial smooth brome (Bromus inermis) and the short - lived perennial prairie brome (Bromus catharticus).

Cyclone hand seeders are commonly used for seeding, and rye seeding by airplane has been done in large - scale operations.

Late - season water shortages sometimes prevent a lush entry into the fall. To help establishment, Hittle said that planting dates should not be postponed too long.

Throwaway Clothes? Maybe, Someday

Research into greater industrial uses for farm products is one key to breaking down giant agricultural surpluses.

But it's wishful thinking to believe that research started now can find economic and new uses for all grain presently stored under government loan, R. T. Milner, head of the University of Illinois department of food technology, explained.

Milner pointed out that in the past highly publicized "myths" about possible industrial farm product uses have stirred the public's imagination, only to fall through when actually tested. Early dreams of soybean plastics and power alcohol are classic examples.

It's mainly a matter of economics, Milner said. At present corn, wheat and soybean prices are too high to offer a strong argument for their use in industry.

UNTIL INDUSTRY can count on at least $1.00 - a - bushel corn and $.50-a-bushel soybeans, it will be difficult for these products to compete favorably with low-cost competitors.

But even in the light of these problems, many new ideas for farm product use in industry are showing promise for the future, Milner explained.

Large acreage of newly developed high-amylose corn, which compares in yield with present good hybrids, may soon be grown especially for industry.

High-amulose starch makes strong, flexible, transparent films similar to cellophane. The films are grease resistant, edible and water resistant.

Ordinary cornstarch and its derivatives show promising industrial uses also. Milner estimated the future may see starch from 100 million bushels of corn a year used economically in ore purification and other metallurgical uses alone.

CORNSTARCH may also be used to make paper. And, combined with cotton fiber, it may someday make clothing so cheap that homemakers will throw it away instead of washing it.

Milner said competition between farm products and synthetic products for present markets is becoming keener each year. New crease-resistant and wrinkle-proof cotton fabrics seem to offer advantages over synthetics. Tire cords made of improved cotton may soon be a reality.

In short, farm products can challenge other products for industrial use, Milner explained. More research into the problem will be the backbone of any progress that is made. But it's not something that's going to happen overnight.

Roselle Girl FHA Delegate

Miss Hazel Marwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Marwood, 34 W. Maple, Roselle, was selected by the Lake Park chapter of Future Homemakers of America as a delegate to the 20th annual state leadership conference held recently at Bloomington, Ill.

Hazel is a senior at Lake Park high school and an active member of her FHA chapter. Hazel's special responsibility at the 1960 conference was planning the Monday evening picnic and assisting with the fashion show.

THE FUTURE Homemakers of America is a national organization of students of homemaking in junior and senior high schools. The Illinois association has 28,900 members in 592 chapters.

The 5-day conference, planned and carried out by the teenagers themselves, gives chapter delegates the opportunity to exchange ideas. The conference theme, "Our Platform—FHA," was planned to help these delegates further develop leadership abilities and to find ways of furthering chapter development. (FM

How To Control Pond Mosquitoes

Whack! Swat! "Drat it, I missed him."

This summertime comment is typical on many mosquito-infested farms, especially those with lovely, cool ponds. Such ponds can harbor thousands of mosquitoes, Steve Moore warned.

Moore, entomologist with the Illinois Natural History survey and the University of Illinois, suggests that farmers can treat their ponds with larvacides if mosquitoes are causing trouble.

For ponds without fish, use a 1 per cent concentration of DDT, chlordane or toxaphane. Or use a ½ per cent concentration of dieldrin, lindane or malathion.

For best results, dilute the chemical with fuel oil, diesel oil or kerosene. Apply 10 quarts of total spray for each acre of water.

Farmers lucky enough to have fish in their ponds should use pyrethrins. Buy a pyrethrin material labeled "for use as a killer of mosquito larvae." Mix according to directions, and apply about 10 quarts of spray per acre.

As added protection, farm families might try "DET". DET, which stands for diethyltoluamide, is one of the best mosquito repellents on the market.

Down On The Farm

CARL F. MEES

with Your Farm Adviser

Several people have asked me whether I thought corn would mature and yield satisfactorily this year because it was not near "knee height by the 4th of July."

Many say this is the measuring stick for high yields. A. L. Lang, professor of crop extension, University of Illinois, has researched to find, if, how high corn is by July 4 has any effect on yield.

Corn in experiment plots has been measured July 4 since 1936. The highest corn measured on that date was in 1939, when it averaged 95 inches. During the past 25 years Lang has found that height of corn on July 4 has had no effect on the final yield. This is the best answer I can find on the subject.

This is sweet corn season. Those of you that have not stopped at some of our roadside stands to purchase some fresh homegrown corn should do so at your earliest opportunity. The quality of the corn this year is excellent.

MOST ROADSIDE stands have a fine assortment of other fresh vegetables such as greenbeans, cabbage, kohlrabi, green onions, tomatoes, beets and others. I have found that eating fresh vegetables instead of starchy foods helps in maintaining or reducing one's weight. If a person eats meat, fresh vegetables and fruit he should be able to have a generous helping without gaining weight.

Wheat yields have been reported in Cook county from 25 bushels to 50 bushels per acre. In general, the 1960 wheat yields have been throughout Illinois. The estimated yield of 52.1 million bushels is up one-fourth from 1959. It was grown on the same acreage as in 1959 but yields will be 5.8 bushels per acre higher. Illinois production will be only 4.2 per cent of the U. S. production.

IT WAS estimated that we had the largest carry-over of wheat on record as of July 11, 1960. The wheat carry - over situation appears to be becoming worse. A solution must be found in the near future.

The 1960 corn crop seems likely to fall well short of the record 1959 crop. Production for this year is officially forecast at 4,079 million bushels - 7 per cent below last year. The 1960 corn crop is not yet in the crib. But, as it stands, it about equals the amount of corn being used in this country and exported this year.

COMMERCIAL soybean varieties are due to get tougher against Phytophthora rot—one of the major soybean disease threats in Illinois. Resistance is being bred into several of the more important varieties for Illinois. However, it will probably be several years before farmers can buy the new seed.

A study in the north - central states indicates that from 1945 to 1954, 31 per cent of the farmers retired, died or took nonfarm jobs. But young farmers obtained only 16 per cent of the available farms. The remaining 15 per cent were taken over by operating farmers to enlarge existing units.

Lessons In English

OFTEN MISUSED

Distinguish between continual (which implies a close succession or recurrence) and continuous (which implies an an uninterrupted continuity). "There was a continual rain." "The work required continuous labor from morning until night."

Do not say, "Each of us had more than we could carry." Say, "Each of us had more than he (or, she) could carry."

Avoid such expressions as, "You'd better figure on twenty guests," and, "When does he figure on making the next payment?" Instead, say, "You'd better plan on (or, arrange for) twenty guests," and, "When does he plan on making the next payment?"

Distinguish between festal (relating to a festival or holiday) and festive (joyous; mirthful). Thus: "We saw the festal procession enter the church," and, "The small square was crowded with a noisy, festive band."

Avoid the expression, "far distance." A distance is long, great, or tiresome, but not far.

Do not say, "She showed me an example where much money was wasted." Say, "She showed me an example in which much money was wasted."

Gahlbeck was willing but Harris had the science and was awarded the bout on a technical knockout, when the referee stopped the bout in the second round when it was apparent Gahlbeck was no match for the Arlington lad.

Mr. Henry Reese, born in Wheeling township, July 1, 1863, died at his home on Rand rd., Sunday, aged 67 years, and 27 days.

Palatine

The old P.L.Z. & W. trackage as far as Baldwin road is being taken over by the receiver of the defunct railroad, was in Palatine this week and paid the special assessment taxes that have stood against the property a number of years. He is also paying the back taxes at the county treasurer's office so that a clear title can be given to the North Western. The first usage to which the property will be put is the supplying of material for the paving of Baldwin road.

That strange looking contraption that was once a model T Ford and which has been the pet of Hollis Toynton the past ten years, started bravely out from Palatine one day last week with its owner and four of his fellow adventurers aboard. Destination? Eagle River, Wis., which they reached after a two-day lay on account of engine trouble, 19 punctures, and the purchase of 8 gallons of oil. The fellow passengers were Herbert Shermer, Herman Zinn, Ralph Schroeder, and a son of Dr. Meyer. Word of their safe arrival was brought back by friends, but the boys are writing no letters.

Revised 1940 census figures: Arlington Heights, 5,657; Mt. Prospect, 1,720; Palatine, 2,216; Wheeling, 548.

Creamery Package Co. for the first time in the history of its Arlington Heights plant, is giving a week's vacation with pay to all employees who have been with them over a year. There are 160 of them.

Wheeling

Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Ratieke were the honored guests at a silver wedding celebration, planned for them by their sons and other relatives.

Palatine

Board of trustees of Palatine Rural Fire Protection District has made its first tax levy. The amount is about $3,500, which will be used to include the purchase of the present equipment of the rural fire protection league. The present levy is only one-half of the amount the law allows.

Obituary

Funeral services were held July 13 for Mr. Walter Glander, 67, of Bensenville who was born January 27, 1873 in Chicago where he grew to young manhood. On Sept. 9, 1896 he was united in marriage to Miss Wilhelmina Eg-

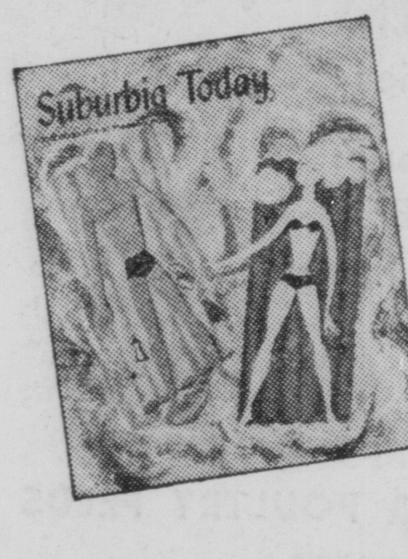
Immanuel church Friday evening regretfully released W. C. Koester as their pastor at the request of the Lutheran church-Missouri Synod—Charities Fund which had recently appointed him executive secretary of the organization. His duties will be similar to a publicity director in the commercial field. During the ten years he has been pastor of the Palatine church the congregation has doubled and the school enrollment has increased to such a point that seven teachers are now required where there were only two in 1940.

Obituaries

Mrs. Christiana T. Ruebner, nee Stopper, born Aug. 16, 1872 at Saukville, Wis. died in Arlington Heights July 31.

Mrs. Emma Tesch, nee Kuhlman, of Arlington Heights; died July 29, born June 4, 1877 in Harmony, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wolf celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary July 24. Until two years ago Mr. and Mrs. Wolf had made their home on a farm outside Arlington Heights, and since then have lived in town.



"What's So Bad about the Sun?"

by
Hyman Goldstein, M. D.

Here's a timely, informative article for all sun-worshippers. Dr. Goldstein proves that a handsome tan can be beneficial only if accumulated slowly, with full regard for the dangers involved in too-sudden baking.

BUTTERED CORN ON THE COB

At Home: Brush each ear with melted real butter; season with salt, pepper; wrap in a damp paper towel. Place on square of Super-Strength Alcoa Wrap. Pull foil close around corn; seal in tight double fold; twist ends securely. Alcoa Wrap's Super-Strength helps prevent rips even when pulled taut around corn . . . holds in juices during cooking.

At Picnic: Grill corn over medium coals 20-25 minutes, turning frequently.

DOUBLE-DECKER HAMBURGERS

Combine 1½ pounds ground round steak, ¾ cup cold water, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper; shape into 8 flat patties. Brown in fry pan. Cut 4 six-inch squares of Super-Strength Alcoa Wrap. Place one browned pattie in center of each square. Spread patties with ketchup, stuffed olive slices. Top with remaining 4 patties. Spread with butter; insert toothpicks through center of each pattie; hang onion rings over toothpicks. Bring edges of Super-Strength Alcoa Wrap up around bottom pattie in cup shape. Place pattie cups on grill. Grill over medium coals 35-40 minutes. Serve Double-Deckers in Super-Strength Alcoa Wrap cups.

ORDER TODAY! Hurry! This offer is limited. Just tear off Alcoa Better Packaging Label from flap of any box Alcoa Wrap (see illustration below). Mail with $2 to the address on the coupon, and this Brownie Bullet camera is yours!

Dog Days Diary . . . page 6

From This Demi-Paradise, Margaret Halsey's suburban diary, come a few words about August, about the weather (what isn't, this month?), and about a formidable nine-year-old named Cora, a patient husband named Harry, and a good-natured wife who takes her family, the weather, and suburban living wittily in stride.

The Volunteer Firemen . . . page 14

Here is the story of the 1,000,000 volunteer firemen organized into 20,000 companies throughout the United States, men who give most of their free time—and often risk their lives—to keep our towns and the people in them safe from fire, flood, and other catastrophic emergencies.

Build Next Year's Lawn Today . . . page 20

Although lawns can be started in spring, the best time to get 1961's lawn built is now, according to garden expert John Brimer. Mr. Brimer points out which grasses are most likely to succeed in various parts of the country, and tells how, just by following "nature's routine" (plus a bit of lawn technology), you can look forward to a thick, flourishing mass of green around your house next May.

Rooms To Grow In . . . page 22

Designed by Frank Lloyd Wright in 1910, this Unusual Suburban Home ten miles outside Chicago is gracious, well-planned and easy to keep. The surprise, here, is that almost every piece of furniture and every yard of fabric was chosen by the owners, Hank and Elen Kluck, to provide a warm background where their three active boys can grow up with a minimum of restraint.

Laura Jean Allen

Our cover artist this month takes us to the beach, where we can lie on smooth, white sand, listen to the ocean lapping at our feet, and store up a gorgeous (but gradual) tan—while we put away all thoughts of Monday morning and the stifling city that now seems at least a million miles away.

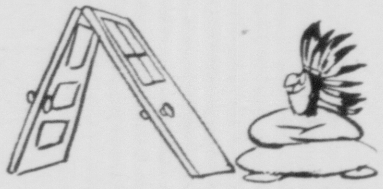
GETTING AROUND

. . . to Our Pleasant Places and People

ONE OF THE most fascinating vacation spots in the world is the Olympic Peninsula, just a ferryboat ride across Puget Sound from Edmonds, Washington. The visitor, at first glance, is impressed with the new and very pleasant houses that have been built for the Indians at Quilcene.



That is, until he finds out that the residents have used everything movable, including the doors and windows, for their traditional campfire, and have pitched their tents, in the manner of their ancestors, in the great out-of-doors.

Most children and teachers may be on vacation, but the P.T.A. is a year-round organization that does some of its finest work during the summer months. For example, a P.T.A. member in Kenosha, Wisconsin, provided the impetus for an elementary-school clinic to give children special reading help during the summer vacations, while Moorhead, Minnesota, had no recreation program until the P.T.A. hired a full-time director, whose busiest season is the summer, when the children might otherwise be getting into street mischief.

Father Kenneth B. Murphy has gone on, since his assignment at St. Jerome's Church in North Weymouth, Massachusetts, to head Rescue, Inc., an organization that is rapidly becoming famous throughout the country for the fine work it does in helping to deter suicides. Father Murphy, working from a specially equipped automobile, is available to anyone who wants to see him in the Greater Boston area—24 hours a day. For those out of his immediate reach, the number to call, in Boston, is HAncock 6-6600. So far in its notable two-year history, Rescue, Inc., has helped to dissuade almost 3,000 would-be suicides.

Near Whitehaven, Tennessee, a road sign warns: "4029 People Died Of Gas In This State Last Year. Two Inhaled It. 27 Put A Lighted Match To It. 4000 Stepped On It."

• •

Meter Memos . . . The note attached to the overtime parking ticket on Ray Anderson's car, in Springfield, Missouri, read, "We cannot afford this—Nadine." Mrs. Anderson, it seems, is a city Meter Maid, who checks parking meters and gives tickets to violators.

Sauce

When it starts to simmer, the flavors really speak up. This is the barbecue sauce that gives you the flavor you cook outdoors to get. The Kraft cooks made it that way—with nineteen herbs and spices. And once it's on the fire, those simmering spice flavors seep right in and keep the meat juicy. Try new Kraft Barbecue Sauce in your kitchen, too; cooks who do say that it brings its real cook-out flavor right indoors—and what could be better than that?

When the milkman found the huge snake coiled on the doorstep of a Pinellas Park, Florida, house, he naturally called the police. Police Sgt. Wilbur Stiegler came quickly but didn't want to damage the house by shooting the snake. Instead, he got a piece of strong lumber, crept up on the reptile, and whammed it one. Some one in that neighborhood is now minus a big, toy plastic snake.

We've spotted them in Brentwood, California, and Steger, Illinois, and Kent County, Rhode Island, among other places, so we'd like to warn everybody, everywhere, to please remove dangling dice, baby shoes, miniature monkeys, and other gadgets from their rearview mirrors. Aside from their doubtful aesthetic appeal, they add to the normal hazards of modern motoring—and besides, don't forget it is illegal to have them hanging there.

Building Inspector A. A. The abashed city authorities have promised to correct this violation of their own building code.

When the time came for breaking ground for the construction of a bank branch in Sandy Springs, Georgia, officers planted silver dollars all over the lot and then invited the boys and girls of the area to come and dig up as many as they could find in five minutes. It worked fine, too, since 500 youngsters turned up an awful lot of dirt. Jimmy Clay, we understand, found the 1924 dollar that entitled him to a brand-new, shiny red bicycle.

Warner Rosenschein, of Oakland, New Jersey, commutes on his own railroad. He laid his own cedarwood ties on a bed of crushed stone and then got himself a small coach with push-button controls. He gets from his hilltop house to the street in four minutes flat. It cost him $1,500, but it sure beats walking.

Carolynn Blake writes to tell us about a patio party in Salina, Kansas, that was attended by an uninvited guest. A baby squirrel, it seems, fell from a tree and landed in the salad. By the time the tiny scamp had got himself out, it was the best-tossed salad anyone around there had ever seen.

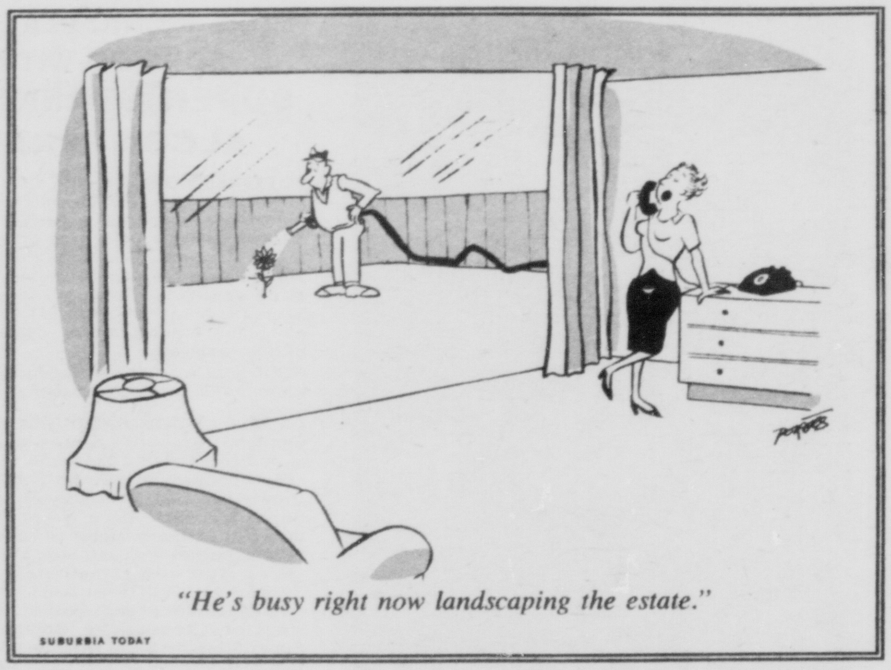
A Salisbury, New York, correspondent tells us not to worry about people being replaced by computers. One of the machines in her office, she said, was asked to translate "The spirit is willing but the flesh is weak." Faster than the speed of sound the robot came up with "The whiskey is good but the meat is spoiled."



"He's busy right now landscaping the estate."

He gets from his hilltop house to the street in four minutes flat. It cost him $1,500, but it sure beats walking.

Carolynn Blake writes to tell us about a patio party in Salina, Kansas, that was attended by an uninvited guest. A baby squirrel, it seems, fell from a tree and landed in the salad. By the time the tiny scamp had got himself out, it was the best-tossed salad anyone around there had ever seen.

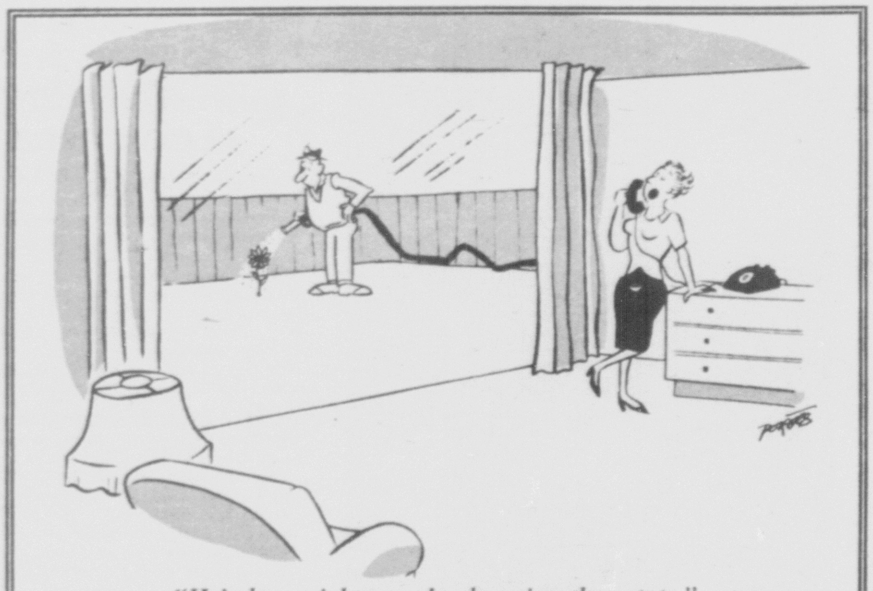
A Salisbury, New York, correspondent tells us not to worry about people being replaced by computers. One of the machines in her office, she said, was asked to translate "The spirit is willing but the flesh is weak." Faster than the speed of sound the robot came up with "The whiskey is good but the meat is spoiled."



"He's busy right now landscaping the estate."

SUBURBIA TODAY

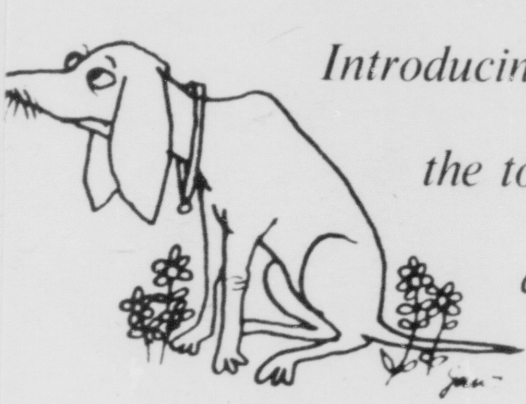

Introducing nine-year-old Cora . . . and Harry, the town planner . . . and their loving, beaming wife and mother who minces no words about them or the weather—or anything else

just taking care of her to accommodate a friend.

On the other hand, I am more than resigned to being her mother when her childishness manifests itself in less socially fracturing ways. As when, for instance, she has just thrown a double in parchesi—or learned that there will be no school on Columbus Day—and she sways from side-to-side in a forty-five-degree arc and exclaims with incredulous joy, "Oi, Kuh-foy, Kuh-fooey! I'm fainting!"

Nor do I feel like disowning her when I sit in Harry's and my bedroom of an evening, taking up hems in the dresses my daughter inherits from the daughter of a man in Harry's office, and hear the sound of voices from Cora's room, where Harry is sitting on the edge of the bed giving ear to Cora's version of My Day.

Cora's voice sounds like a very small but quickly flowing brook, and, like a brook, it races on without pause; but every once in a while there is a far-distant train whistle or fog horn, and that is Harry's heavier tone, interposing briefly with question or reply. I cannot usually distinguish the words of this exchange—they are just alternations of sound—but once in a while a fragment will come in clearly.

CORA: There was this boy and Daddy he had the most wonderful—

HARRY: Not "this" . . . "a." There was a boy . . .

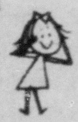
CORA: A boy. There was this boy and Daddy he had the most wonderful . . .

The sound of voices reminds me that just as some noises are so high and thin that only dogs can hear them, so, inversely, there are courteous requests that dogs and adults can hear but which are completely inaudible to children.



When all my good-natured—nay, postively fluting!—attempts to communicate with Cora have drawn a blank, I have to fall back on the coarse techniques of the drill sergeant.

"Cora Fitzgibbons! You get down here this minute and set the table!"

A languid and unhasting footfall echoes on the stair, and then Cora comes into the kitchen with a countenance I can only describe as looking like a swamp. It has that same unpleasant calm.

"You don't have to get so mean," she says. "You never asked me."

August 25th—Another one of those books about the suburbs is being passed from hand to hand and mentioned in every conversation; and I said to Harry at breakfast this morning that I am beginning to get fed up with these volumes. They are always written by a class of people I call Measurers, and whether they come from Madison Avenue or from the loftier purlieus of a university, Measurers always find everybody alike because they want to. They pretend to be shocked at conformity, but it is only a pretense.

DRAWINGS BY JACK WOOLHISER

I am not going to read any more of their books, no matter how well spoken of. Measurers are an evil influence. By directing everyone's attention so steadily and exclusively to what can be measured ("What do you think of Beowulf's Cake Mix?"—"Whom do you like for President?"), they keep people from being sufficiently aware of what cannot be measured.
Who can tabulate the quiet courage of the man who dropped into the ranks of the Permanent Talented Unemployed and had to sell his house? At least to the outside world, he bore his disaster bravely. Who can measure the influence of a good teacher? Who can delineate the sense of loss and longing of a child whose father dies suddenly of a heart attack at the age of thirty-six?

Conformity? To be sure. A great dreary tundra of physical comfort. A vast and cheerless steppe of pinch pleats, dinettes, and political sameness.
But the answer to conformity (I said to Harry at breakfast this morning)—or one of the answers—is not to talk about it so much. The talk, though obviously popular and profitable, just creates more of what it ostensibly deplores.

The other answer to conformity is euthanasia for Measurers. Intending to be "real" and "factual," they inevitably and unavoidably distort; and though they are no doubt kindly people who spend a lot of time with the children, they must go. Their vacant places are needed for playwrights and novelists.

Having thus disburdened myself of a certain amount of hostility for Measurers, I rose from the table and accompanied Harry to the front door. After I had kissed him (my unmeasurable treasure) with perhaps a shade more appreciation and tenderness than usual, I said, "Off you go, Planner. And don't let any graphs grow under your feet."

August 27th—Eureka! The weather has broken at last and the long-range forecast is that the dog days are over and the climate is back to normal again. Heard the first katydid last night sawing heavily, like a drunken snore, against the buoyant chorus of the crickets, and that is supposed to mean frost in six weeks.

DIARY

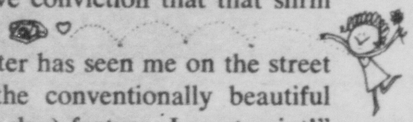
August 3rd—The weather is hot, grey, and muggy. It is rather like, in fact, an unwelcome caress, having that same quality of seeming intolerably prolonged. Everything is damp. Drawers stick. Stamps are pasted to each other like young lovers. Mildew forms on the side of the refrigerator. Tempers flash out.

August 5th—What I have been thinking this morning is that there are breakers ahead for Cora and me if Cora turns out to get—as they tell me the older children do—innumerable phone calls. I am basically so optimistic that whenever the phone rings, my heart leaps up like old Brother Wordsworth's at the sight of a rainbow. It is my invariable and instinctive conviction that that shrill summons is good news.



Perhaps some eminent portrait painter has seen me on the street and said to himself, "Not for me the conventionally beautiful woman! It is those provocative (if irregular) features I must paint!"

Before I even get to the instrument—while I am still racing up from the cellar or streaking in from the yard—my ego is expanded and glowing, and in my mind gracious phrases of acceptance are already formed. ("Paint me? Li'l ole me?")

Then I pick up the receiver and a small chirp of a voice that might be coming out from under a toadstool says—with the usual slovenly pronunciation—"Hullo'sCorathere?"

Since there is no possibility that in either this life or the next I will ever be able to hear a phone ring and say calmly to myself, "That's probably for Cora," I can see the inevitable outcome. Cora will end up as that famous character of song and story, the rejected child. I can even imagine there being a popular ditty about it, a hillbilly canticle, perhaps, or a ballad called Cora Fitzgibbons that would begin——

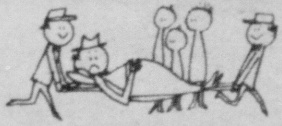
"I got nuthin' but a peer group,
My mammy done left me alone.
She couldn't stand hearing the Brownies,
Whenever she answered the phone."

August 13th—Jan Struther said in Mrs. Miniver that the most gratifying circumstance of marriage is not any of the big, important things, but the fact of there always being an eye to catch. What I think most gratifying about marriage, however, is the conversational shorthand. Though perhaps, come to think of it, they are much the same thing.

We had dinner last night with some of Harry's relatives who live about an hour's drive away. While we were still with our hosts, a torrential downpour temporarily relieved the still-persisting mugginess and heat. On the way home, the air was cool; the tires splashed; we had the happy consciousness of family duty done; and Cora was asleep on the back seat with her eyelashes lending a fabulous, legendary, Helen-of-Troy note to the commonplace interior of our automobile.

Half the journey had been accomplished in silence when Harry said without preamble, "'. . . firm, impassioned stress?'"

"Yup," I said, nodding.

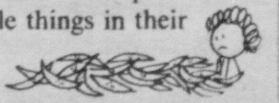


"'Oh, beautiful for pilgrim feet,
Whose firm, impassioned stress,
A thoroughfare for freedom beat
Across the wilderness.'"

After a minute, I added, "Freedombeat always seems to me like one word. A medical term, perhaps. The name of a ductless gland."

"Oh, no!" Harry said authoritatively. "Not a gland, a bone. You often see it in the papers: 'Mr. Smith was taken to the hospital with a gangrenous condition of the freedombeat.'"

August 18th—I need not have worried, when my tooth stopped hurting after I lied to the dentist, that the Puritan system of rewards and punishments had become inoperative. It is still operating about the weather. We are being made to pay—with a miserable, sticky, oppressive August—for our resplendent June and July. Today it is so damp and breathless that one perspires at the slightest movement, and the sky is white and opaque—it is, in fact, as if we were under the lid of one of those covered vegetable dishes. I shall think twice, next winter, before I slam the top on the bowl of string beans and imprison the poor little things in their own steam. I know now what it feels like.



August 23rd—One of the worst vicissitudes of rearing children is the panic the parent feels when it appears that—through the instrumentality of his child, over whom he has a quite insufficient control—he, the parent, is going to be disgraced. I get a good healthy inkling of this feeling when I discover Cora has taken advantage of my being involved in the cellar with the family wash to sneak off to school in a soiled dress and with a great, sluttish snarl clearly visible in her hair. I always have to resist an impulse to call the school office and explain that although Cora may go around ostentatiously using Harry's and my name, we are really

What's So Bad About The Sun?

Be Careful—That Deep Coat of Tan May Cost More Than It's Worth

BY HYMAN GOLDSTEIN, M.D.

GENERALLY, exposure to the sun in reasonable amounts is not likely to do you any harm. But do not be in too much of a hurry to acquire that deep coat of summer tan. Direct sunshine, in big doses, is a dangerous thing to play around with, and the harm it can do you far outweighs any possible good.

"But I can lie for hours in the sun, and it really makes me feel wonderful—bakes out every kink." Haven't you often heard people say that?

The people who live right under the sun in tropical countries have no such illusions. Medically, the sun contributes one important element to good health, namely, vitamin D, which is also contained, of course, in various foods.

"There may be other beneficial effects of sunshine," says Dr. Benjamin Spock, a leading pediatrician, "but if there are, they haven't been discovered."

And ironically, tanning too rapidly has the effect of depriving the body of the one benefit the sun is capable of conferring. The reason the skin becomes tanned is to protect the body from the effects of too much sun. The tan is actually a pigment which prevents the rays from penetrating, and a quick tan thus keeps out the vitamin D.

In "working," as they say, on a quick tan you first of all run the risk of sunburn. A severe sunburn is as dangerous as a first- or second-degree burn caused by fire. In many cases, the blisters resulting become infected and leave permanent scars. Further, a deep tan too swiftly acquired may dry up the skin's natural oils, causing it to toughen and become rough. Medical authorities have long suspected that this skin roughness may be one of the causes of skin cancer. Overexposure to the sun may aggravate certain skin disorders, too. Some medicines are apt to make the skin abnormally sensitive to sunlight. It is dangerous, for example, to be exposed to a hot sun after taking sleeping pills or sedative drugs.

Dr. Herman Goodman, writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association, reports several cases of severe headache and vomiting caused by taking aspirin just before or during sun-bathing. Many of the so-called wonder drugs also cause an unfavorable reaction to sunlight.

ALARMING as the results of overexposure may be, it would be foolish and unnecessary to let them scare you out of sun-bathing altogether. In fact, a few diseases such as acne vulgaris, psoriasis and some varieties of eczema, tuberculosis, and certain skin ulcers are helped by moderate exposure.

But just don't hurry that vacation tan. Don't cook for more than fifteen minutes at a time without a break. Keep alert for pinkness of the skin or any feeling of undue warmth on the exposed part of your body. Those are danger signals warning you that you've had enough sun for the day. Antisunburn lotions and creams are helpful, especially if you take a small dose of sun first and then apply them, and if you remember that they must be reapplied after swimming or being rubbed off.

A tan can be handsome—but take it easy.

"Raised on Puss 'n Boots ...morning and evening...

in perfect health every day of their lives"

"My two lovely cats have known nothing but Puss 'n Boots in the six years they've been with us," writes Mrs. L. R. of Maryville, Mo., "and they've grown to splendid maturity, with gentle, kindly dispositions."

Like countless owners, Mrs. L. R. has proved what perfectly balanced nourishment fed daily does for cats... that whole fish (a natural storehouse of vitamins, minerals, and proteins) combined with choice cereals and extra Vitamins B₁ and E, supplies every nutrient a cat is known to need.

No wonder Puss 'n Boots cats have such glossy coats, jewel-like eyes: they're in beautiful health! Begin today—feed your cat Puss 'n Boots day after day and see the rapid improvement.

TART-CHERRY SALAD MOLD

To Prepare: 25 min. To Chill: 2-3 hrs.

1 9-oz. can crushed pineapple, drained (about ⅔ cup) and sirup reserved
1 1-lb., 4-oz. can water-packed pitted tart red cherries, drained (about 1⅔ cups) and liquid reserved
Water
1 6-oz. pkg. cherry-flavored gelatin
1 12-oz. bottle (1½ cups) carbonated cola beverage
1 cup (about 4 oz.) coarsely chopped nuts

1. Combine the reserved pineapple sirup and cherry liquid; add enough water to make 2 cups. Heat mixture until very hot.

2. Empty gelatin into a bowl and add the hot liquid; stir until gelatin is completely dissolved. Cool gelatin mixture and add cola beverage, stirring until well blended.

3. Chill in refrigerator or over ice and water until mixture is slightly thicker than the consistency of thick, unbeaten egg white. If chilled in refrigerator, stir occasionally; if chilled over ice and water, stir frequently.

4. Meanwhile, lightly oil a 1½-qt. mold or a 9x9x2-in. pan with salad or cooking oil (not olive oil); set aside to drain.

5. When the gelatin mixture is of desired consistency, mix in the pineapple, cherries, and nuts. Turn mixture into the mold and chill until firm, about 3 hrs.

CARROT RELISH

CONVENIENCE FOOD RECIPE

Clean and cut carrots into thin strips; pour liquid drained from dill pickles over them. Cover and marinate at least 2 hrs., turning occasionally. Serve with other crisp and chilled relish-tray favorites.

PAN O' ROLLS

CONVENIENCE FOOD RECIPE

To Prepare: 12 min. To Bake: 15-20 min.

¼ cup butter or margarine
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons finely cut parsley
2 8-oz. containers ready-to-bake biscuits
½ cup shredded Parmesan cheese

1. Heat butter and garlic in a small skillet until butter is melted. Mix in parsley. Remove from heat.

2. Open biscuit containers according to directions on package. Separate biscuits; dip each biscuit into the garlic butter.

3. Overlap 15 of the biscuits around the outer edge of a 9-in. round layer-cake pan; form inner circle by overlapping remaining biscuits. Drizzle any remaining butter over top of biscuits and sprinkle evenly with Parmesan cheese.

4. Bake at 425°F 15 to 20 min., or until golden brown. Serve hot. 20 rolls

CHOCOLATE WHIPPED CREAM CAKE

To Prepare: 20 min. To Bake: 25-30 min.

2 cups sifted cake flour
1½ cups sugar
½ cup cocoa
1 tablespoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup chilled whipping cream
3 egg whites
½ cup cold double-strength coffee beverage
2 teaspoons vanilla extract

1. Grease and flour bottom only of a 13x9½x2-in. pan; set aside.

2. Sift the flour, sugar, cocoa, baking powder, and salt together twice; set aside.

3. Using a chilled bowl and beater, beat cream until it stands in soft peaks when beater is slowly lifted upright.

4. Using a clean beater, beat the egg whites until rounded peaks are formed. Gently but thoroughly fold together the whipped cream and beaten egg whites.

5. Sift the dry ingredients over mixture in fourths, folding in alternately with a mixture of the coffee beverage and vanilla extract. Turn batter into pan and spread evenly to edges.

6. Bake at 350°F 30 min., or until cake tester or wooden pick comes out clean when inserted in center of cake, or cake surface springs back when lightly touched at center. Remove from oven to cooling rack; cool completely. Frost top with chocolate or plain butter frosting (your favorite recipe or a mix). Decorate frosting with Chocolate Swirls. One 13x9-in. cake

For Chocolate Swirls—Melt ½ sq. (½ oz.) unsweetened chocolate over simmering water. Drop spoonfuls of cooled chocolate onto top of frosted cake. Using back of spoon, swirl pools of chocolate.

GRILLED CHICKEN

To Prepare: 5 min. To Grill: About 25 min.

Lemon Basting Sauce
3 broiler chickens, 1½ lbs. each, ready-to-cook weight, cut in halves

1. Clean, rinse, and pat the chicken dry with absorbent paper.

2. Place chicken, cut side down, on greased grill or in a greased steak broiler 6 in. from coals. Grill, turning and brushing frequently with sauce, until tender. 6 servings

For Lemon Basting Sauce (about 2 cups)—Melt ¾ cup butter in a small heavy saucepan. Stir in ⅓ to ½ cup lemon juice, ½ cup hot water, few drops Tabasco, and a mixture of 2 teaspoons paprika, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon black pepper, and ¼ teaspoon dry mustard. Mix until thoroughly blended.

BARBECUE PIT POTATOES

Pare 4 large baking potatoes and cut each lengthwise into 6 or 8 chunks. Place on a large square of heavy aluminum foil. Brush potatoes with melted butter and sprinkle with salt and black pepper. Bring corners of foil together and gently squeeze edges to seal; place on grill. Shift package occasionally on grill to insure even cooking. Cook about 55 min., or until potatoes are tender; open foil the last few minutes to allow steam to escape. Sprinkle with seasoned salt and serve. 8 servings

VEGETABLES ON SKEWERS

To Prepare: 25 min. To Grill: 10 min.
To Marinate: 2 hrs.

1 1-lb. can artichoke hearts, drained
½ lb. medium-sized mushrooms, stems removed
1 1-lb. jar small white onions, drained (not cocktail size)
12 small whole tomatoes
2 medium-sized green peppers, cut in 1-in. squares
¾ cup salad oil
¼ cup cider vinegar
1½ to 2 teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon black pepper
1 clove garlic, split

1. Pour a mixture of oil, vinegar, salt, pepper, and garlic over vegetables in a bowl. Cover and marinate 2 hrs. in refrigerator, turning occasionally. Drain vegetables and reserve marinade.

2. Thread vegetables on each of 12 10-in. skewers in this order: mushroom cap, artichoke, green pepper, tomato, onion, green pepper, and mushroom cap.

3. Turning and brushing frequently with the reserved marinade, grill kabobs about 6 in. from coals about 10 min., or until thoroughly heated. 12 kabobs

HOT POTATO SALAD

For those who prefer a hot potato salad to grilled potatoes, here is a salad that can be heated on the grill before serving.

To Prepare: 35 min.

6 medium-sized potatoes, cooked
1 cup finely chopped onion
3 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
1¼ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
⅔ cup cider vinegar
⅓ cup water
1½ teaspoons sugar
1 egg
⅓ cup salad oil

1. Cut potatoes into ¼-in. slices. Put into a bowl and toss lightly with the onion, parsley, and a mixture of the salt and pepper; set aside.

2. Combine the vinegar, water, and sugar in a small saucepan and heat to boiling. Beat the egg slightly; continue beating while gradually adding the hot mixture, and then the salad oil in small amounts.

3. Pour dressing over potato mixture and toss lightly to coat evenly. Turn salad into a large skillet and set on grill to heat slowly. About 6 servings

SALAD DRESSING MIX
Good Seasons
REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Now! 4 Onion Dressings no one can buy

The very first onion dressings
...make them with this new GOOD SEASONS MIX!

Good Seasons Onion Dressing. So different, so delicious. A light, fresh dressing with an herb-spice base, flecks of sweet, red peppers, and a provocative touch of onion. Flavorful, but never sharp! Takes just seconds to mix. Easy directions are on the Good Seasons envelope. You combine your favorite oil, vinegar and a little water with the Mix. The water, or a substitute liquid, makes the blend smoother. (A continental chef's secret!) You can use many substitutes, vary the dressing to your own special taste. See the recipes below for delicious suggestions.

Creamy Onion Dressing for Cole Slaw. Prepare the Good Seasons Dressing but substitute either sour cream or mayonnaise for the water. This dressing, stirred into shredded cabbage salads, ends all that teary business of chopping onions. And the flavor is evenly distributed, subtle. hooray!

Onion-Orange Dressing. In making the dressing, use orange juice instead of water. New and very good on all fruit salads. Or, on a green salad that has either orange sections or canned mandarin oranges (so easy), and a sprinkle of blue cheese chunks.

Tomato-Onion Dressing with Sweet Pickle. Substitute chili sauce or catsup for the water. Final touch: add 1 tablespoon chopped sweet pickle. A smooth and zesty dressing, to brighten green salads, sea food, cottage cheese.

Get the new Good Seasons cruet, with measurements marked, where you buy the 7 Mixes: Italian, Classic, Garlic, Cheese-Garlic, Onion, Bleu Cheese, Exotic Herbs.

Volunteer Firemen To The Rescue

BY EDWARD R. SAMMIS

Twenty thousand towns depend on them to fight fires—help treed kittens—find lost children—and bring the drowning back to life

When a gasoline truck overturned and burst into flames near the crossroads hamlet of Ceres, California, it was the volunteers who saved the town from destruction. They emptied their last three gallons of foam onto the burning gasoline, holding the fire in check until help arrived from nearby departments.

Almost every day somewhere in the United States, our million or so volunteer firemen, organized into nearly 20,000 companies, perform a similar vital service for their communities. In addition to their fire engines, many volunteers operate rescue trucks, too, with oxygen tanks and respirators, to rush to the side of victims of heart attack, suffocation, choking, electric shock, and other critical emergencies.

On a recent Christmas Eve, volunteers at North Bellmore, Long Island, were called from traffic duty at St. Raphael's Church to give first aid to an elderly woman who had collapsed. Upon arrival, they found she had been given up for dead. Using their new electric inhalator for the first time, they brought her back to consciousness.

Besides these more spectacular activities, they have a lot of mundane duties to perform, such as inspecting schools, homes and industries, and giving public talks on fire prevention. They are usually leaders in all civic affairs and often spearhead the fund drives. Although they are nonpolitical as to party, they exert considerable influence in town matters.

Volunteer Firemen are still living with a reputation which they may have earned in earlier, more happy-go-lucky days of being a crowd of "good-time Charlies," in it mainly for the social side. This is the side most likely to impress their fellow townsmen—the parades, the bazaars, the carnivals, the annual ball—all usually staged to raise badly needed funds.

What many people may not realize is that volunteer fire fighting has become a highly-skilled, highly-technical avocation, demanding many hours of homework and specialized instruction. There are training schools now in 39 states. Courses are going on at the rate of 12 a week. The average course is 60 hours, and the things a fireman has to learn would easily fill a big, fat book.

Our new suburban areas would be dangerously short on fire protection if it weren't for their volunteers. Many new communities are handicapped by blind or incompleted streets; a lot have no water systems yet, or hydrants. The volunteers often meet this situation by adding pumpers which carry their own auxiliary tanks. In some places they have drilled a system of controlled, spaced water-wells, for emergency supply.

Many towns cannot yet afford a paid department. If they'd had to wait for cash in hand before they had a fire department, some of them might have burned down by now.

A Volunteer Department is costly enough. First there's the firehouse—no mean item at today's prices. Then there's the equipment. A pumper may cost $20,000; a hook and ladder $30,000; a rescue truck $15 to $20,000; all in all, the equipment bill may run not far under $50,000. Luckily, the volunteers' credit is brassbound, for they are a membership corporation of responsible citizens.

To get up the needed funds, many a town has depended on the self-starting resourcefulness of its volunteers. Beyond the customary carnivals, socials, door-to-door solicitations and so on, the extent of their ingenuity is boundless.

Almost every day somewhere in the United States, our million or so volunteer firemen, organized into nearly 20,000 companies, perform a similar vital service for their communities. In addition to their fire engines, many volunteers operate rescue trucks, too, with oxygen tanks and respirators, to rush to the side of victims of heart attack, suffocation, choking, electric shock, and other critical emergencies.

On a recent Christmas Eve, volunteers at North Bellmore, Long Island, were called from traffic duty at St. Raphael's Church to give first aid to an elderly woman who had collapsed. Upon arrival, they found she had been given up for dead. Using their new electric inhalator for the first time, they brought her back to consciousness.

Besides these more spectacular activities, they have a lot of mundane duties to perform, such as inspecting schools, homes and industries, and giving public talks on fire prevention. They are usually leaders in all civic affairs and often spearhead the fund drives. Although they are nonpolitical as to party, they exert considerable influence in town matters.

Volunteer Firemen are still living with a reputation which they may have earned in earlier, more happy-go-lucky days of being a crowd of "good-time Charlies," in it mainly for the social side. This is the side most likely to impress their fellow townsmen—the parades, the bazaars, the carnivals, the annual ball—all usually staged to raise badly needed funds.

What many people may not realize is that volunteer fire fighting has become a highly-skilled, highly-technical avocation, demanding many hours of homework and specialized instruction. There are training schools now in 39 states. Courses are going on at the rate of 12 a week. The average course is 60 hours, and the things a fireman has to learn would easily fill a big, fat book.

Our new suburban areas would be dangerously short on fire protection if it weren't for their volunteers. Many new communities are handicapped by blind or incompleted streets; a lot have no water systems yet, or hydrants. The volunteers often meet this situation by adding pumpers which carry their own auxiliary tanks. In some places they have drilled a system of controlled, spaced water-wells, for emergency supply.

Many towns cannot yet afford a paid department. If they'd had to wait for cash in hand before they had a fire department, some of them might have burned down by now.

A Volunteer Department is costly enough. First there's the firehouse—no mean item at today's prices. Then there's the equipment. A pumper may cost $20,000; a hook and ladder $30,000; a rescue truck $15 to $20,000; all in all, the equipment bill may run not far under $50,000. Luckily, the volunteers' credit is brassbound, for they are a membership corporation of responsible citizens.

To get up the needed funds, many a town has depended on the self-starting resourcefulness of its volunteers. Beyond the customary carnivals, socials, door-to-door solicitations and so on, the extent of their ingenuity is boundless.

How long are a Frenchman's legs?

The answer is that Frenchmen's legs come in an assortment of sizes—just like everyone else's. Some Frenchmen have long legs. Some have short. All Frenchmen fit comfortably in a Simca (five at a time) because it's designed that way. With plenty of headroom, hiproom, legroom. Full-size foam rubber seats. Four doors and a big trunk, too. Simca, in fact, skimps only on gasoline — which explains, in part, why Simca is one of France's largest selling five-passenger sedans. And also one of America's favorite economy imports with more, more and more people.

SIMCA
IMPORTED BY CHRYSLER

FACTS AND FIGURES: Safety-engineered UniGard body and frame, oversize brakes, panoramic vision. Front-mounted 50 hp engine (uses regular gas). 4-speed transmission, steering column shift. 12 volt ignition, 8 cubic foot trunk. Acceleration: 0 to 50 mph in 13.9 seconds. (Approx. 4 seconds faster than the other leading imports.) STANDARD EQUIPMENT: Turn signals. Windshield washers, electric wipers. Interior light. Automatic choke. Deluxe interiors, foam rubber seats. PARTS AND SERVICE: Through Chrysler's MoPar network. DEALERS: Throughout the United States and Canada. Find out today how easy Simca is to own, how economical to operate. Low down payment, low monthly terms. Ask about overseas delivery, too.

Towns and volunteers work together to get latest and best equipment.

needed $2,000 for a down payment on a new pumper. He got 20 men to give him $200 apiece on his personal note. Then he took the money to the bank, bought long-term government bonds, gave those to his donors who tore up his notes, and he was in business. Some volunteers, in desperation, have been known to get up high-stake, under-the-counter blackjack games. While such devices are frowned upon, there is a feeling that the end justifies the means.

A volunteer fireman today faces a host of new headaches. When an industry moves to the suburbs, it may bring with it new chemicals or gases. What are the special fire hazards? How do you combat them?

With the building of atomic power plants, another unfamiliar area opens up. The International Fire Chiefs are now at work with the Atomic Energy Commission to develop standards for training, plans, and procedures.

There are new dangers in the home, too. It seldom occurs to anyone that when you load a new electric broiler, dishwasher, power tool, and stereo hi-fi onto a tired wiring system, you're asking for trouble. Then there's the "paint-it-yourself" craze which too often

Married women are sharing this secret

. . . the new, easier, surer protection for those most intimate marriage problems

What a blessing to be able to trust in the wonderful germicidal protection Norforms can give you. Norforms have a highly perfected new formula that releases antiseptic and germicidal ingredients with long-lasting action. The exclusive new base melts at body temperature, forming a powerful protective film that guards (but will not harm) the delicate tissues.

And Norforms' deodorant protection has been tested in a hospital clinic and found to be more effective than anything it had ever used. Norforms eliminate (rather than cover up) embarrassing odors, yet have no "medicine" or "disinfectant" odor themselves.

And what convenience! These small feminine suppositories are so easy and convenient to use. Just insert—no apparatus, mixing or measuring. They're greaseless and they keep in any climate.

Now available in new packages of 6, as well as 12 and 24. Also available in Canada.

Volunteer fire fighting in today's conditions has become a highly skilled, technical operation.

leaves behind a hazardous residue of half-filled paint cans tucked away in an airtight closet.

To combat these and other factors, volunteers are waging an intensified campaign of home inspection. But this is no simple matter. The volunteer has to be trained how to do it. When he comes to your home, he's likely to have 72 items on his check list.

All this adds up to time. Members who work days try to make their house calls and give their lectures at night; the night-shift boys do it in the daytime. Both do their homework nights, or whenever they can squeeze it in.

A minor headache is the urge people have for turning out and clogging the roads when the siren goes. It will still sound, for legal reasons; but more and more departments are devising special systems to alert the firemen. Some are using elaborate multiple telephone hookups. More popular are UHF broadcasting systems, which activate a set in the fireman's home in 30 seconds. He is given explicit information, so he can be prepared when he gets to the scene.

Time was, when the Volunteer Fire Department was an all-male enterprise; but no longer. The women's auxiliaries are becoming increasingly popular and active around the country. Usually they are composed of the wives or girl friends of firemen who back up their men by providing the coffee and the box lunches, doing traffic duty, and helping in fund-raising. There are also a good many of them on the rescue squads now, including quite a number of registered nurses. Several states have legislation pending to admit women as regular volunteers.

In many towns departments are preparing for the future by training boys under 21 as junior auxiliaries who will later join the company as regular volunteers.

Brighton, Michigan, has one outstanding such auxiliary. After a wicked tornado, it was the boys who handled the traffic. They also rescued three children who were trapped, and saved the life of the father by artificial respiration. Recently, they bought a red jeep with their own earnings.

Ben Franklin, who organized his neighbors into the first volunteer company, would no doubt be deeply gratified to see how his idea has caught on.

"It is a grass-roots effort, devoid of pretentiousness, cynicism, and phony welfare-ism," according to Arthur O. Sharron of Duquesne University who has made a study of the volunteer fire company. "It represents the basic honesty of the rank and file."

WHAT GRASSES TO PLANT AND WHERE

These are the grasses "most likely to succeed," but local conditions vary . . . if in doubt, check with your State Agricultural Department.

Zone A: Kentucky bluegrass, Merion bluegrass, Bent, Creeping red fescue, Illahee or Chewings fescue, redtop.
Zone B: Bermuda grass, Zoysia, redtop, ryegrass; use bluegrasses in upland sections.
Zone C: Bermuda grass, St. Augustine grass, Zoysia and ryegrasses.
Zone D: Kentucky and Merion bluegrasses, Bent, Illahee and Creeping red fescues. Water well at start and irrigate thereafter in this region.
Zone E: Bent, Kentucky and Merion bluegrasses, Illahee and Creeping red fescue.
Zone F: Bluegrasses, Bermuda grass, Zoysia, St. Augustine grass, ryegrasses, and redtop.

To Build A Good Lawn

come up green and flourishing in the spring of 1961

Points to bear in mind

The worst is now over, but from here on, bear these points in mind:

1) Good seed makes a good lawn. Lawn grass seeds distributed nationally by reputable companies are cleaned of all weed seeds, are scientifically blended to do the best possible job, and when they are given a good start, will yield a lawn of fine, narrow-bladed grass from the start, with no bare spots (where annual grasses have died out) to be filled in later on.

2) A good lawn requires between 500 and 600 grass plants per square foot, and to get these plants you'll have to sow far more than the 500 or so seeds to the square foot. Seeds may sprout and die because they dried out within a few hours. Or some seed may be accidentally buried and won't germinate until it is uncovered and exposed to light, or other accidents may happen. Usually the manufacturer has a recommendation on the box as to how many square feet the contents will cover. If you are in doubt, consult your seedsman.

3) Seed may be hand-sown, but we suggest that you buy a mechanical spreader.

4) Water, water, and keep on watering. Keep the seedbed always moist. As the grass sprouts, water longer each time so that the moisture penetrates more deeply. After the grass has been up a week, water only once a day (unless it is very hot, dry weather) but soak the soil well. Don't depend on rain; it may only wet the top.

5) When seedlings have reached 2½ inches, it is time to start mowing. Set your mower to cut the grass at 1½ inches, if your lawn is bluegrass or fescue. Set it at 1 inch if you have Bent-grass which thrives better when closely clipped. (Be sure mower blades are sharp, for dull ones tear and injure the grass.) Rake up clippings, and also leaves, or they'll mat and kill grass.

6) Feeding is of the greatest importance. If you buy a food specially formulated for lawns, you can't go wrong. We recommend that the fall feeding be done with a fast-acting formula. For the feeding before planting, use a fast-acting formula, too.

7) In conclusion, let us sound a warning against having too much lawn! The best is one which is small enough to be maintained with ease.

"Now what's the matter?"

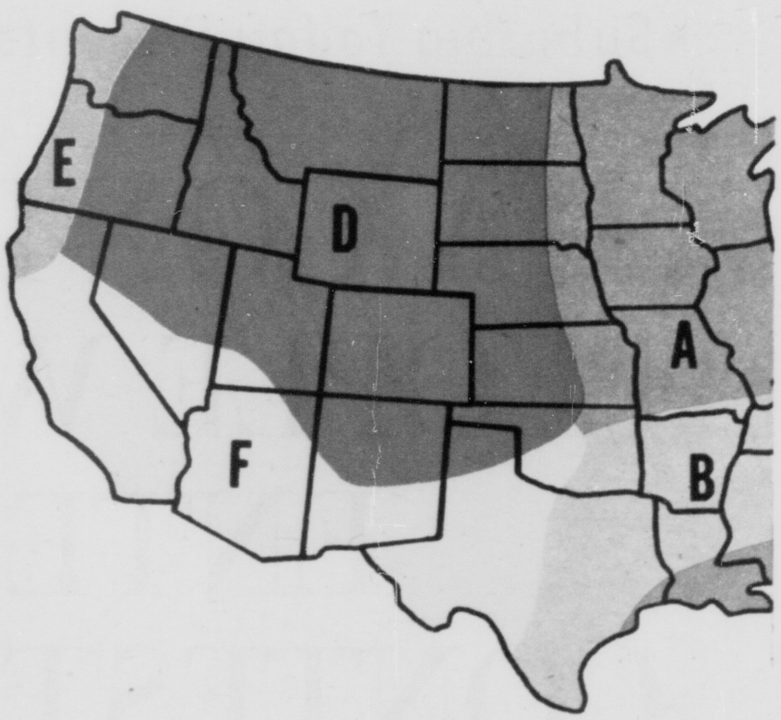
PROTEIN KEEPS A DOG YOUTHFUL AND ALERT

NEW DASH MORE PROTEIN

Dash
ARMOUR
DOG FOOD

Dogs need protein. Dash has protein. Far more than other leading dog foods. Liver, too (the meat dogs like best). Make sure your dog gets both. Feed new Dash. Made by Armour, the meat people.



Now Is The Time

Seed it and feed it now and it will

From now until mid-September is the easiest and most painless time to start building a lawn (mid-October in warmer regions). Just follow Nature's own routine: Seeds ripen in summer and drop to the ground, lying there until favorable sprouting conditions arrive. With grass, this is usually when the soil is good and warm from hot days (up to 95°), while nights are becoming longer and cooler (55° to 60°) and dew is getting heavier. Also, autumn rains will soon come to provide burgeoning roots with plenty of moisture, assuring deep penetration before cold weather slows down growth.

Annual weeds, sprouting from seeds present in the soil, will die with winter's coming; in spring, your already-seeded lawn will start vigorous growth early enough to shade out or choke out most weeds which may come along.

Start with the soil

Turn the soil with a spade or plow it with a garden tractor or rototiller to a depth of about 8 inches. At the same time you can incorporate plant foods. Remove all stones, sticks and other debris so that the grass roots will have no impediment to their growth and also so that normal capillary action (moisture rising from below) can readily take place.

Thoroughly crumble the soil. Then roughly level it and finally, rake it smooth in one direction, then rake it again at right angles to the first raking. (If your soil is acid, add pulverized limestone at the rate of 5 lbs. per 100 sq. ft. before raking, so that it will be mixed with the soil.) After sowing seeds, lightly tamp or roll the area to make sure that they are in contact with the soil. Do not cover seeds, for they will germinate only if they have light. The topsoil must remain open, too, so that water or rain will be admitted and won't wash seeds into low spots.

Don't try to plant lawns on steep banks. Not only will the seeds wash out, but the banks will erode badly; later on, too, you'll find mowing a bank is a terrible chore. Instead, keep lawns to fairly level areas and plant shrubs on the banks, or use a ground cover.

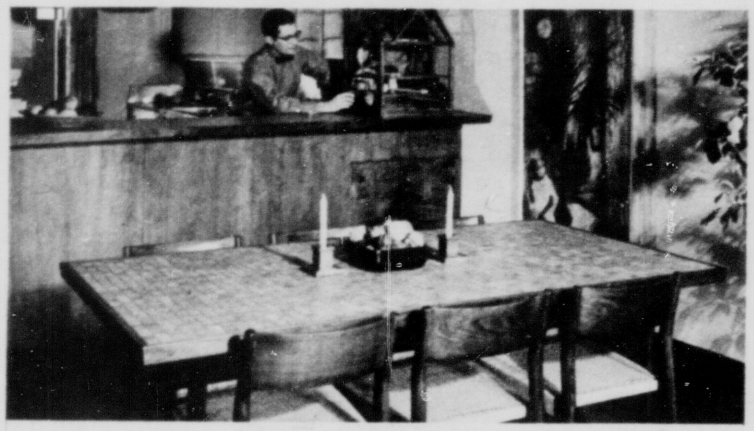
Frank Lloyd Wright was the architect—back in 1910.

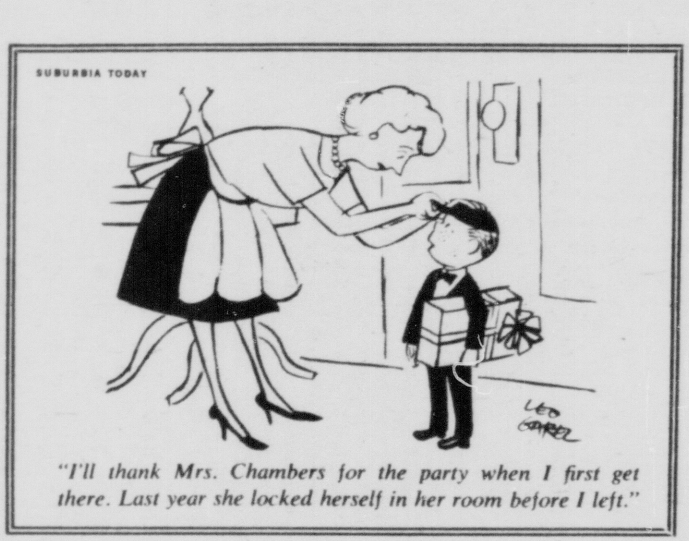
3 Small Boys

interior their boys could enjoy—freely

■ "Style," said Frank Lloyd Wright, who designed the house the Klucks now own in Riverside, Illinois, "is principle put to work." The principle the Klucks put to work was to provide a warm and gratifying background where their three boys could grow up with a minimum of restraint. For decorative effect in their handsome old house they depend largely on such boyproof elements as clear and copious lighting, flourishing green plants, and the beautiful quality and color of the materials they design themselves in the Elenhank workshop at Riverside. (This year, the Chicago Art Institute, in an unusual tribute to living designers, had a two-month exhibit of their work.) Only ten miles from downtown Chicago, the Klucks say they and the three boys now feel much further away.



Ideal surface for small boys' table manners—tile.



"I'll thank Mrs. Chambers for the party when I first get there. Last year she locked herself in her room before I left."

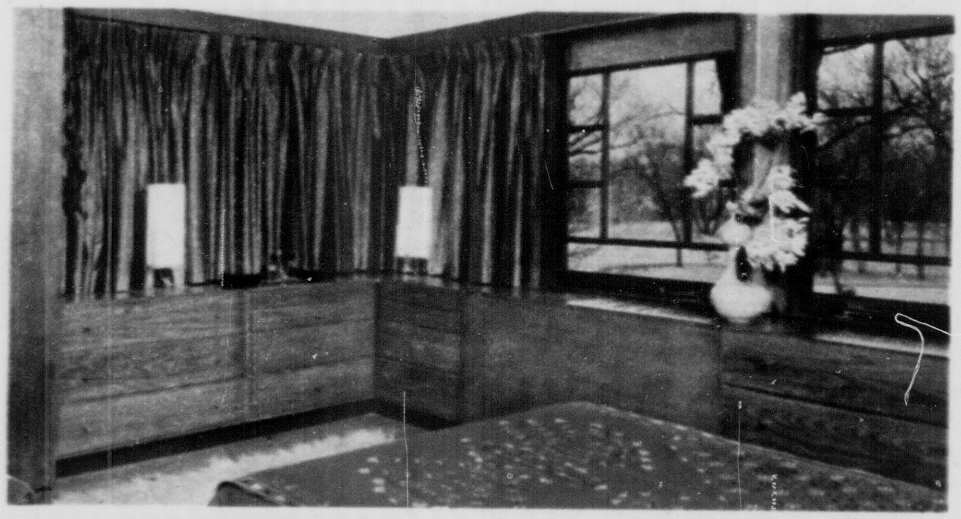
No one has to be too careful what they do in this bright living room—the furniture is solid, the slip covers of hand-woven wool are easy to wash, need no ironing.



Master bedroom has the same simple and rugged quality that suits the house and the family's needs so well. Mirrored spread is Indian, deep-piled rug comes from Greece and is very hardy.
